That is one of the comments in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Farmers of the province have got the bulk of the bumper hay crop in storage and are now busy in the wheat fields. In sections of western Ontario, oats are also being cut. In Brant some plowing has been well advanced for the sowing of fall wheat.

Corn has been reaching for the sky this last week or more, and has been making "excellent progress." James T. Brown, of Newcastle, remarked here Tuesday night he should have been at a Holstein meeting in Picton, or at home cutting barley until dark. Instead, as vice-president of the Central Ontario Spring Show, he came up to Peterborough with Ed Summers for its executive meeting.

A Peterborough farmer said this week he had seen nearly as many wives and daughters helping with the big hay crop as at any time during the critical years of the war.

"They don't want the women folks to be doing that kind of work, but I don't know how some of them would have got along without their help."

Farm labor is scarcer than ever. Deputy Minister John A. Carroll said recently that the drift to the industrial centres was continuing at the rate of about 1,000 a month in this country.

Meanwhile, labor news carries the story of increasing wages in the cities, at a time when farmers are preparing to sell wheat at $1.50 a bushel as compared with the opening price a year ago around $1.75 to $1.80.

Stresses New Varieties

Robert Armstrong's farm west of Scott's Corners is becoming something of an institution along the Durham-Peterborough boundary. That twilight meeting Monday night was both pleasant and profitable. Many of the top flight farmers of both counties turned out with Ed Summers and Frank Paterson, the agricultural representatives who arranged it on only a few days notice.

One of the attractions, albiet secondary, may be the fact that Mr. Armstrong carries on in ordinary circumstances, much the same as those prevailing on average good farms of the district. He has one man helping him.

Visitors know that results and costs, and the general experience in Mr. Armstrong's season, are not much different from their own. Then, there is his specialty of registered seed.

His field of Dawbul wheat made the impression both Mr. Paterson and Mr. Summers expected.

George Jones of OAC advised the company against going overboard for this new variety. He said it might probably be better to try some of it this seeding season. Then get some more the following year. Mr. Jones said Cornell appeared to be a shade better in protein.

He said that in the maritimes you either used fertilizer more generously than did the average Ontario farmer, or you were likely to fail. The Durham farmer probably used about one-quarter of the 100 pounds to the acre average Mr. Jones mentioned. "You can do that because you have better soil."

Another topic he dwelt on was that of new varieties, as a general consideration. Among others he stressed LaSalle red clover as outstanding, and a great deal better than the common red clover. Oron orchard grass was leafier and later. Climax timothy is quite a big improvement on the variety of common use.

In selecting pasture mixtures, farmers should be aware of the new varities and be interested in getting the best because the mixture was for their own land and was going into their own work. In the alfalfas he mentioned Ranger and Buffalo, of which the seed is available; also Narragansett and Ladak. Medon and Climax timothy are more rust resistant, they are leafier and hardier, than the old strains.

THIS RURAL PHOTOGRAPH is deceptive in its suggestion of the effectiveness of the scythe in combatting weeds that are a menace to agriculture. These men were cutting that common enemy, the goat's beard whose color does not stand out in the picture. County Weed Inspector, Melville Johnston says its second blooming has gone to seed in the path of scythes that were swung hopefully earlier in the season when the first growth was about to flower. "What's needed is more spraying with 2, 4D or some other herbicide," Mr. Johnston said yesterday. "One accomplishment this year is that we have stirred up more interest among people, and this weed is now recognized by folks who had never heard of it before this year. We are hoping that between now and next spring we'll see a broader and more active policy of eradication." Mr. Johnson was showing a bull thistle to some of the men at the Robert Armstrong farm Monday evening. He had dug it out of a field that was "a tremendous show" of these giants. It looked like 10 feet in length.

Winter Wheat Seeding On Ontario Farms

Although they are long experienced in the growing of winter wheat, district farmers may be interested in a seeding bulletin by A. G. O. Whiteside of the cereal division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, with reference to Ontario conditions and practice.

"Plans for seeding winter wheat should be made early, especially if it is to follow sod in the rotation. Where this is the case, ploughing should be done four to six weeks before seeding and the field cultivated several times in order to eliminate competition from grasses. Wheat may follow inter-tilled crops or spring cereals. Poorly drained fields should be avoided as winter-killing may occur where ice or surface water may lie for any length of time during winter or early spring.

Many soil types are seeded to winter wheat and a soil analysis should indicate the best fertilizers to use. Winter wheat responds to good fertility practices, and usually winters better under high fertility conditions. On land which has been manured or which has grown legumes, superphosphate (20 per cent) at 150 to 200 lb. per acre applied with the wheat may be beneficial. Otherwise a complete fertilizer such as 4-24-12 at 150 lb. per acre or its equivalent is usually recommended.

Winter wheat is seeded at 6 to 8 peck per acre usually around the first week of September. This date may be advanced to the second week or later in southern Ontario where the longer open fall weather enables the plants to develop adequately before winter freeze-up. It is important that the plants be well established in the fall for the best yields the following year. Winter wheat may be seeded down with grasses and legumes, but it is preferable to delay seeding the mixture until early spring when it may be broadcast on the field just as the snow is leaving the ground.

The seed should be thoroughly cleaned to remove weed seeds and broken and diseased kernels. To control bunt or stinking smut, seedling blights and seed rots, the recommended seed treatments should be used. Cornell 595, Dawbul and Dawson's Golden Chaff are giving the best results in most of the main winter wheat areas and Rideau, which is even more winter hardy is usually favored in eastern counties of Otnario."

New Offspring Of Red Fife Accepted For Tests At University Of Alberta

The University of Alberta has begun tests on a variety of spring wheat developed by E. W. Manchester at his nursery near the town of Jarvie, 80 miles north of Edmonton. It is a cross of Marquis and Red Fife, and its special virtue is maturity 92 days after seeding.

A Canadian Press despatch from Edmonton this week says the average period between seeding and harvest is 100 days plus, depending on climate and weather conditions.

If Mr. Manchester's work is successful, "Early Harvest," the name given to this strain, could be used "in large areas of northern Canada where there is arable land but a short growing season."

"Manchester has been growing it 16 years. He is also engaged on four other strains. He had to brave the red tape of officialdom to get the tests made. It was finally take to the univeristy."

Dr. A. G. McCalla, dean of agriculture at Edmonton, warns against raising hopes too high. Experience shows that the chances of breeding a new wheat to meet export standards are about 25-1.

"Any new strain must be resistant to rust. Three years of testing are necessary before a definite recommendation can be made by the university. Then another three years are required for testing on a national scale before the seed can be registered."

OF OTONABEE ORIGIN

Of interest to farmers of Peterborough county and particularly of Otonabee township, where Red Fife had its origin, is the reappearance of that old variety in Mr. Manchester's development. It may be that Early Harvest may not receive official recognition and acceptance, but the fact remains that there is a great deal of Red Fife in the cereal wealth of the prairie grain fields down to this day.

Its appearance in the Fife community of Otonabee must be nearly a century ago. Enquiry could ascertain the year in which David Fife received the sample of wheat which he sowed as a fall grain. It turned out to be a spring variety. The rest of the story of its gradual emergence on the western plains and on both sides of the international border is fairly well known.

At any rate, if any section of Canada should take some action to mark in a special manner the centenary of Red Fife, it should be Peterborough county. Its county council has never lacked in leadership and enterprise. This anniversary idea might be regarded by them as worth considering before its date is passed.

Red Fife laid the foundation of "the granary of the empire," and its source in Otonabee township is one of the highlights in the drama of development of Canada as a nation. Meanwhile, another generation of that family is passing on, and time tends to deepen the shadow on the historic incidents of that first chapter in this country's expansion in cereal greatness.

Tunnels Under City Hold Tons Of Water For New Queenston Hydro Powerhouse

By HARRY KINGDON

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—There may soon be almost as much water flowing under this city as over Niagara Falls.

The unrelenting demand for electric power will send 40,000 cubic feet of water a second rushing along beneath the city's main business section—without flooding a single cellar.

The water will flow in two monster tunnels as deep as 330 feet below the ground. It will burst to the surface and foam through the whirling blades of a new power plant now being rushed to completion at Queenston.

MIGHTY PROJECT

The operation, one of the biggest in Ontario Hydro's post-war expansion, is expected to produce 400,000 horsepower of electricity in 1954. By 1956, a total of 1,200,000 horsepower will be produced after an estimated expenditure of $304,000,000.

This capacity will be increased by a pumped-storage scheme and the addition of four more generators.

Canada and the United States have agreed by treaty on the use of Niagara water. At times when tourists are viewing the cataract 100,000 cubic feet of water a second will be allowed to flow over the falls. At other times only 50,000 cubic feet a second will be "wasted," the remainder being used to generate power. The tunnels can carry 40,000 cubic feet a second.

More than 300 feet below Niagara Falls streets today, men and machines are working. Five shafts sunk along the route of the twin tunnels carry men and materials to a cross-cut which supplies both tunnels.

Riding down shaft No. 1 in a construction elevator big enough to hold a truck, it is easy to believe that it took 10 months just to sink the shaft. Sunlight from the surface gradually fades to a pale gleam on the concrete-lined walls until it is suddenly replaced by the electric glare of the construction area.

Activity underground looks like any other construction project until you notice the vast arch of rock overhead and the constant roar of air rushing in through great steel pipes. A smell of rock dust, hot oil and sometimes acrid sweet blasting smoke fills the nostrils.

Fifteen-ton trucks snort back and forth dumping rock from the work face, power shovels scoop and grind, helmeted workmen drill, shovel, saw and hammer, and now and then, the roar of blasting thuds against the eardrums.

At the work face, a dozen drillers, lined up on a big semi-circular scaffold, bore powder holes into the rock. Then the scaffold is moved back, blasters move in and set charges. It is a tricky and skilled business to control the charges to produce a hole the required 51 feet wide.

CARRIED TO SHAFT

Power scoops and trucks carry the blasted rock back to the shaft to be hauled to the surface and off to the disposal area. With the debris cleared, the drilling scaffold is moved forward again and the process repeated.

A total of 10,000,000 tons of rock will have been removed when the tunnels are completed. Some 43,330 tons of structural steel will have been used to support the roof.

The upper half of each tunnel is cleared first. Then the lower half is scooped out and the way is open for concrete workers to pour the three-foot-thick walls. This reduces the 51-foot rough diameter to 45 feet—higher than a three-storey building.

Holes are drilled from the surface through the tunnel roofs and concrete pumped down through six-inch pipes to hoppers which distribute it to the jobs. First poured is the lower section of the tunnel—wider than many roads.

Huge circular forms sometimes 80 feet long are used to pour the upper walls. Three pipes send concrete shooting around the form, filling the space between it and the rock walls and enclosing the steel supporting beams.

TUNNEL AND CANAL

When the tunnels are completed, the water will race 5½ miles under the city and surge to the surface with 2¼ miles still to go to the powerhouse. Workmen now are drilling and blasting an open-cut canal in the solid rock with an average depth of 70 feet and a width of 200 feet.

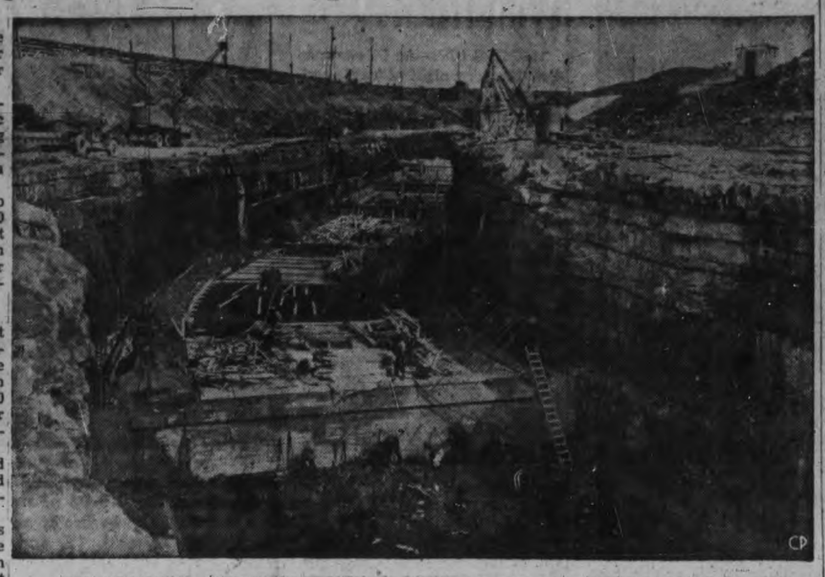
At the same time, others are busy on the new Sir Adam Beck-Niagara generating station No. 2, beside the present No. 1 near Queenston. Twelve units are planned and an additional four may be added later.

Steel tubes, 19 feet in diameter, now are being run to the cliff from the gorge like fat brown worms clinging to the reddish rock.

The tubes—known as penstocks—will carry the water down the 292-foot drop to drive the 12 generators which will be installed by 1956. More than 2,250,000 tons of rock were blasted from the face of the cliff at this site.

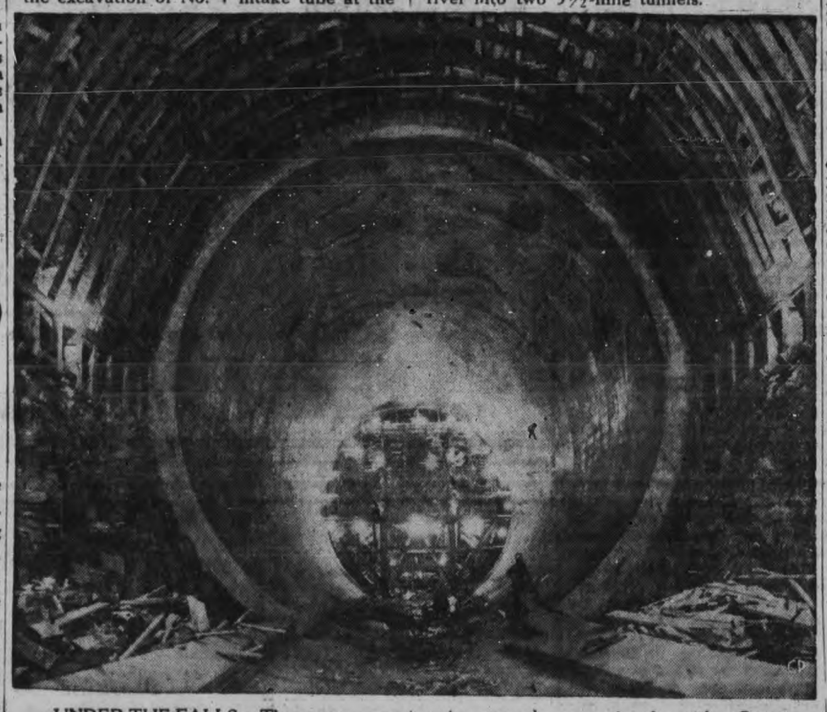
Below the cliff, the steel and concrete power house is nearly completed at one end. At the other, foundation workers are busy 40 feet above the water of the rushing river, protected by a coffer-dam of earth, rock and timber.

Two miles above the falls, a similar dike protects workers on the intricate intake structure.



MONEY-SAVING MODELS

Hydro commission engineers estimate they saved more than $5,000,000 through the use of models to iron out problems before they tackled the job.



The largest model—95 feet long and 35 feet wide—duplicated five miles of the river from the tip of Grand Island to the Rainbow Bridge below the falls. Using this and others, engineers designed the intake structure to draw in 15,000,000 gallons of water a minute with as little turbulence as possible.

They also worked out a system of remedial works that will send an even flow of water over all parts of the Horseshoe Falls crest even in low water. Now, more than half the water drops from a cut-away section near the middle of the falls where [illegible] display.

The projected new storage basin will hold 4,000,000,000 gallons of water. Pumps will fill the basin when demand for power is ight; when power is needed at peak periods, the water will flow out, running the pumps in reverse as generators.

UNDER THE FALLS—There soon may be almost as much water flowing under the city of Niagara Falls as over the famous precipice itself. This is one of the tunnels through which the water will flow. Concrete rings will be poured in each of the twin tunnels, associated with Ontario Hydro's Sir Adam Beck-Niagara generating station No. 2. The operation, one of the biggest in the Hydro Company's post-war expansion, is expected to produce 400,000 horsepower in 1954.

Color Television Fight Finished In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The long fight over color television was formally ended Thursday as Columbia Broadcasting System said it would go along with the proposed new compatible system.

CBS said it would start sending out some color programs to affiliated stations on an experimental basis Sept. 15 under standards proposed to the Federal Communications Commission by an industry-wide group known as the National Television System Committee. Regular color telecasts for the public must await FCC action on the new system.

JOIN RIVALS

In effect CBS joined hands with it arch-rival in color TV, Radio Corporation of America, which petitioned the FCC a month ago to approve the compatible standards developed by the NTSC. With this system, color telecasts can be received in black and white on present-type sets, as well as in color on color sets.

With the old CBS system, color telecasts could not be received in any form on present-type sets without major modification.

Most set manufacturers have either pilot models or complete production plans for color sets, but the first such sets are not expected to appear on even a limited basis until the fall of 1954 and then at prices several times those of present sets.

Tape Recording Books For Use Of Blind

TORONTO (CP)—Tape recording of books for the blind and use of plastic in producing embossed dots for Braille readers are among new methods being developed to produce material for blind persons, Col. E. A. Baker, managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, said Thursday.

The tape recordings will partly replace the disc type of record on which entire books are transcribed. They are expected to be of particular value in small countries where perhaps only four or five recordings of a single book are required.

Col. Baker said the new idea in Braille is to squeeze plastic through a screen and onto the paper.

"It seams to give permanent Braille dots which will last as long as the paper."

Change Color Of Diamonds Jewelry Trade In Tizzy

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. atomic energy commission has proved it can change the color of diamonds—but it isn't changing colors any more.

After bombarding 200 diamonds with radiation and thereby changing their color, the AEC has stopped, temporarily at least.

A fellow at the AEC said Thursday the commission wants to size things up and determine a policy before tampering with diamonds. No, he said, he knew nothing of a report that the AEC had quit lest it throw the whole diamond industry in a tizzy.

But Dr. George Switzer, a gem expert for the Smithsonian Institution, said:

ALREADY IN STEW

"The situation already has the jewelry trade in a stew."

Apparently it only has been recently that diamonds have been changed in wholesale lots. The AEC has taken white or yellowish stones and turned them brown, for instance.

Switzer says if diamonds of a fairly common color could be changed to a rare color the values obviously could be increased, and this is what has upset the jewelry trade.

Benjamin Blanken, who has been in the jewelry business here for 30 years, says he wouldn't want to speculate on what the atom busters might do to the diamond trade. But in his view the perfect diamond is colorless, and so far as he knows no one has figured out a way to make a colored diamond perfectly clear.

"Actually," he says, "a color is a flaw."

Fear Capital Plan Wrecked

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton and C. D. Wight, city planning commissioner, charged Thursday that construction of a new national defence headquarters on the Montreal Road six miles east of the centre of Ottawa would wreck the National Capital plan.

The city wants the defence department to build its new headquarters in the west end of the capital where services can be provided. The city has no plans to extend water and sewage services to the Montreal Road area.

Mr. Wight said should the national defence headquarters be established on the site proposed, it might very well be the first step in breaking down the over-all pattern of the community, for which so much effort now is being directed both by the Federal District commission and by Ottawa.

Mayor Whitton charged that the federal government is "pulling the capital apart." The printing bureau the National Film Board and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation had already been moved to locations outside the capital, she said.

Small Plane Crashes Two Men Killed

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were killed Thursday night when their light, single-engined plane nosedived into a field at St. Francois de Sales, 15 miles northeast of here.

Dead are: Andre Guilbault, 28, the pilot, and Yvon Peloquin, 19, both of neighboring Ville St. Michel.

Salisbury Gives Churchill Meeting Report

LONDON (AP)—The Marquess of Salisbury, acting foreign secretary, gave Prime Minister Churchill Thursday night a first-hand account of the Washington foreign ministers' conference.

The ailing, 78-year-old British leader has been reported "disappointed" at the outcome of the talks.

Salisbury dined with Churchill. It was the first time the two men had met since the acting foreign secretary returned from Washington.

Salisbury came under fire from Labor and some government legislators during a two-day foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons which ended Wednesday. They criticized him because they claimed he did not press Churchill's arguments for an early top-level parley of the Big Four powers with sufficient vigor.

Japan Wants To Obtain Canadian Timber, Grain

VANCOUVER (CP) — A prominent British Columbia business man says "prospects are extremely good for building the greatest trade ever" with Japan in Canadian timber and grain.

J. V. Christensen, assistant to the president of East Asiatic Company (BC) Limited, who recently returned from a three-week market survey trip to the Far East, said:

"Last year approximately 25,000,000 board feet of Pacific Coast lumber were shipped to Japan, but this year the total could reach 100,000,000 board feet."

Mr. Christensen attributes brighter prospects for increased grain exports to a "marked rise in consumption due to Japanese soldiers acquiring a taste for bread during their long terms in China and Southeast Asia."

HOME RECONSTRUCTION

Major Japanese demand for lumber is for home reconstruction and secondary need is for commercial an industrial building, he reported. Adding to the problem is a domestic shortage caused by drastic overcutting of forests since the Second World War.

Two factors put B.C. in an advantageous position to boost lumber exports to Japan, said Mr. Christensen.

"We can ship logs to Yokohama and Tokyo at prices about competitive with Japanese timber, and the importers prefer our product because the quality is more consistent."

PREFER LOGS

"Because they use almost every inch of the log and their dimensions are quite different from those of North America, they prefer logs rather than finished timber."

Mr. Christensen emphasized that to enable B.C. to capitalize on the expanded market, the provincial government would have to renew and widen the authority of the export advisory board to issue log-export permits.

Otherwise, Oregon and Washington would take the business as

Receipts Lower On Livestock During Week

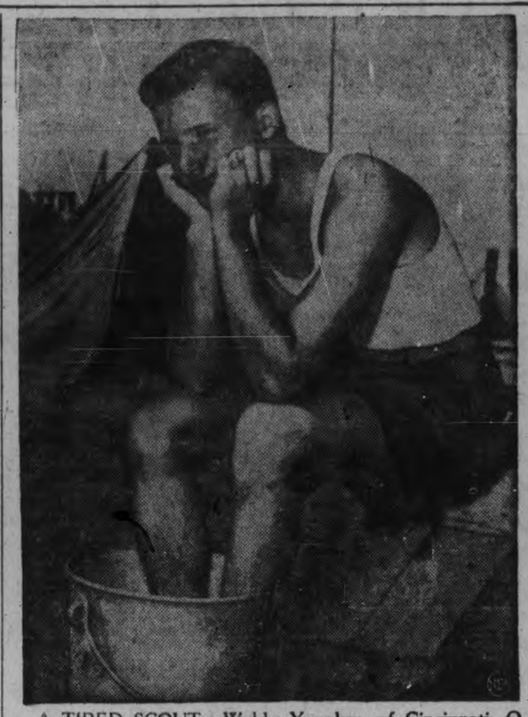
TORONTO (CP)—Receipts were somewhat lower at the Ontario stockyards this week. Prices were steady on early sales but were 50 cents or so lower after Monday with the market at a standstill after Tuesday. Early trading of calves was at steady prices with a good many finding no market after Tuesday. Hogs were steady and lambs were steady to $1 lower. Holdover at the close was 1,200 head.

Cattle receipts totalled 6,597 head added to $300 carried from last movement of beef with almost no demand after Tuesday and resulted in a heavy carryover this week. Choice light and weighty steers $20-21.50; good light $19-20; mediums downward to $18; good heifers opened at $19-19.50; with none over $19 after Monday; plain light steers and heifers $13-16; good cows closed $12-13; mediums downward to $10; canners $8-10; good heavy bulls $13-14; plain light bulls downward to $11; choice fed yearlings $20.50-21.50, a few $22; small lots of common to medium stockers $14-17.50; tops $18; a few good stock calves $20.50.

Calves totalled 2,227 head. Early trade was steady at $22-24 for choice vealers; a few tops $25; medium to good $17-21; plain vealers and grassers $10-14.

Hogs were 3,004 head. The market was unchanged at $33.50 for grade A hogs; dressed sows $23.

Sheep and lamb receipts were 1,064 head. A few good ewes and wethers delivered by rail $30; with the bulk of good lambs $29; bucks were $1 discount; culls $18-25; good light sheep $8-10; culls downward to $5.



Busy Tunnel

SARNIA (CP) — Freight traffic through the St. Clair tunnel between Sarnia and Port Huron, Mich., totalled 37,992 cars during June, an increase of 5,000 cars over the previous June. Officials indicated that a large volume of automobiles from Michigan destined for delivery in New England was responsible for much of the increase.

Ready For Seaway

TORONTO (CP) — Norwegian shipping firms are planning to expand their fleets in anticipation of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. So said Capt. Kristoffer Vadum, master of the Norwegian motor ship Grindefjell, which reached here Tursday on her maiden voyage from Europe. Capt. Vadum said his company, the Fjell line, has already completed three 7,200-ton ships for the Great Lakes.

U.S. logs are not subject to export restrictions. The board's authority, under which permits have been issued in the past, expired June 30, he said.

Moscow's Retreat In Europe Satellites Are In Ferment

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW
(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON.—The forced Sovietisation of Eastern Europe has not only failed but has also now been publicly seen to fail, with consequences quite incalculable for the future.

The Soviet satellites are in a ferment; and the events of the past few weeks in Czechoslovakia, in Bulgaria, in Poland, in Hungary, to say nothing of Eastern Germany, have utterly discredited the claims of Communists and fellow-travellers that all has been well in the so-called People's Democracies. But this does not necessarily mean that the Kremlin's grip has been loosened: so far it has only been changed. For example, in Hungary where the veteran Communist dictator Rakosi has been replaced as Prime Minister, his successor, Nagy, is still very much the Kremlin's puppet and his conciliatory gestures are the gestures ordered by Moscow.

Nevertheless, although in a period of revolutionary ferment, with its inevitable crop of rumors, there is a danger that expectations set too high may be disappointed, with consequent demoralization, there is an equal danger that the discrediting of unfounded rumors may obscure the real importance of what is actually taking place. For example, the fact that the stories of insurrection in Poland were exaggerated does not mean that all is well in Poland, which has also had its riots and disorders.

RECOGNIZE RESISTANCE

All that can safely be said about the present situation is that Moscow has at last been compelled to recognize the stubbornness of the resistance to Stalin's policies in the satellites and the disastrous economic effects of the attempt to apply Russian methods to subject nations. The resistance and the failure, faithfully reported during past years and indignantly denied by Soviet apologists and fellow-travellers, have now been admitted officially behind the Iron Curtain—explicitly in Eastern Germany and Hungary, indirectly in other satellites.

The admissions had been made before the German outbreak of June 17, and well before the downfall of Rakosi in Hungary. In Eastern Germany the workers seem to have sensed a faltering in the Kremlin's ruthless drive and to have struck not because the pressure on them was becoming intolerable but because it showed signs of weakening. In Hungary, the concessions of the new Nagy Government seem to have been made to avert the total breakdown of the economy. In Czechoslovakia, after the recent rioting, in Poland, in Bulgaria and in Rumania, the Communist leaders have been making convulsive efforts to appeal to the people and to reassure them by granting them concessions, or at least making them circumstantial promises of an increase in consumer goods and foods.

NEAR BREAKDOWN

I decribed the famine conditions in Hungary this spring; they reflected the way in which peasant resistance to the policy of Sovietization has brought the country to the edge of breakdown. It was clear that the Hungarian Government was committed either to starting a civil war against the peasant or else to retreating from its impossible position. On Moscow's orders it has chosen the latter course: the course of appeasement. The Hungarians are not alone in their dilemma, although their necessity and their action have been the most urgent so far. The Prague Government, faced with a disastrous situation, first looked round for scapegoats, then made a desperate attempt at ruthless action to bring the malcontents to heel through financial pressure, and now, after the very serious troubles which that action provoked, are forced to embark on a policy of conciliation.

Czechoslovakia, even more than Poland and Bulgaria, seems to be the Kremlin's chief danger spot. There, even before the rioting, the workers were showing a great confidence in their strength. For example, as early as April, the local population of a town in Moravia refused to allow the Communist authorities to remove their statue to Thomas Masaryk, the Czech national hero. Recent broadcasts from Prague Radio show how seriously not only Prague but also Moscow take the hardened mood of the people. A special feature has been made of reports from frontier stations describing the impressive influx of goods from the Soviet Union, from China and from neighboring satellites—goods calculated not only to build up Czech industry but also to remove the immediate shortages of food. For the moment, the Czech population is to be appeased and its confidence regained, cost what it may. The position in Poland is more obscure. It seems likely, however, that the pattern of events in Hungary must sooner or later be repeated in the other satellites. It remains to be seen how much Moscow will be able to restore order and morale by sacrificing the men who have faithfully carried out its harsh instructions for so long.

Chatham Native Dies

CALGARY (CP) — Stanley Duncan Wemp, 59, manager of McGavin's bakery here, died in hospital Thursday. Well-known in Canada's baking industry, Mr. Wemp was born in Chatham, Ont.

Driver Dies After Smashup With Truck

TIMMINS (CP)—An Ottawa man died Thursday night of traffic-accident injuries despite first-aid treatment at the crash scene by a vacationing Toronto nurse and a provincial policeman.

Stanley V. Gray died in hospital after his automobile collided head-on with an ice-cream truck 20 miles east of here.

Mrs. Robert Dawson of Toronto, a nurse who has been visiting here, was one of the first persons to reach the accident scene. She helped Provincial Constable R. D. Fulton give first aid and rode to the hospital in an ambulance with the injured man.

Edmund Ouimet, 27, of New Liskeard, who police said was driving the New Liskeard ice cream truck, was admitted to hospital in a state of shock.

PATENTED IN 1876

The compass at present in general use is that patented by Sir William Thompson, later Lord Kelvin, in 1876.

INVESTIGATES MYSTERY—Dr. Jean-Marie Rousseau, of Montreal, Quebec province's medico-legal expert, studies clues in the Gaspe case of the missing three Pennsylvania bear hunters. The bodies of all three men, Harold Lindsey, 45, his son, Richard, 17, and Fred Claar, 20, have been found. Police say a cold-blooded murder has been committed.

Main Street Topics

WINDOWS BROKEN

One of the large windows of Tip Top Tailors on George St. was broken on Friday night. It was replaced on Monday and broken again on Tuesday morning. The second break was believed a result of faulty installation.

PRACTICE PLOWING

Hastings plowmen are being groomed for the Cobourg competitions in October. Some of them turned out for a coaching day at the farm of George Burkitt, Frankford. Classes were at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

PREACH AT BUCKHORN

The Rev. Gilbert Smith, minister of St. Giles and Keene Presbyterian churches will preach on Sunday evening at the anniversary service of St. Andrew's, Buckhorn. A male quartette and a mixed octette from the choir of St. Giles will supply the music.

CROWE'S LANDING REGATTA

The annual regatta of the Upper Stony Lake area will be held Saturday at Crowe's Landing. Sailing events start at 1 p.m. and small boat watersports at 2 p.m. Prizegiving will take place at 8 p.m. followed by a dance at Sunset Pavilion.

CUTS FOOT

Urban Kubica, 17, 513 Parnell St., cut his foot with an electric saw about noon Thursday while working on construction of a house just outside the city. He was taken to the outpatients' department of Civic Hospital where several stitches closed the wound.

CHECK 770 CARS

The police department have issued stickers for about 770 cars so far in check of vehicles they are making in co-operation with the Junior Chamber of Commerce. In their spot checks, the police inspect 10 items of equipment such as horn, brakes and lights. If the equipment is found in satisfactory condition, a sticker is issued.

CURVE LAKE ACTIVITIES

A recent report in this column about the annual Curve Lake Regatta being held on Aug. 3 instead of Labor Day was not correct. There will be a regatta, sponsored by the Athletic Club (men), on Aug. 3 in addition to the annual affair, sponsored by the ladies on Labor Day. On Aug. 25, 26 and 27 the ninth annual convention of Homemakers Clubs of Eastern Ontario will be held and the new Council Hall officially opened on the 25th by newly-appointed director of Indian Affairs Lt. Col. H. M. Jones.

Boy, 5, Falls 25 Feet Head Injured

Severe Concussion Youngster's Skull May Be Fractured

A five-year-old Peterborough boy is under observation in St. Joseph's Hospital for injuries received 6 p.m. Thursday when he tumbled 25 feet to the ground from the flat roof at the rear of his second-storey apartment house.

The injured boy is Samuel Edgerton, the second youngest of six children of Mr. and Mrs. John Edgerton, who live in an apartment above Miles Auction Rooms, 212 Hunter St. W.

The boy suffered a severe concussion, as expected at first, and his skull may be fractured. His condition is reported to be satisfactory.

When picked up from the cindery ground where he fell he was bleeding from the nose; he was bruised, and he indicated stomach pains.

Sam Edgerton

He was taken to St. Joseph's by ambulance where he was examined by Dr. William Blastorah.

The six Edgerton children are being looked after by the eldest daughter, Marie, aged 15. Mrs. Edgerton is in hospital and Mr. Edgerton was away working on a farm near Ida.

HOME FOR SUPPER

Marie had just called her brothers and sisters from Fleming Park where they had been playing all day so she could get them their supper. Samuel had come home with the others to his apartment home over the auctioneering rooms and was playing about the top step of the fire escape ladder at the north end of the flat roof when he fell to the ground.

One of his playmates said he was being dared to jump from the 25-foot-high roof onto a sofa down below when he tripped on the eavestrough and fell.

WRONG STREET

A heading in Wednesday's issue incorrectly informed readers that Sherbrooke St. had been changed to industrial zoning, but readers who read the story quickly learned that it was a section of Romaine St. bordering the Outboard Marine property at Monaghan Rd. that had been re-zoned.

NORTHEND CHILDREN now have a wading pool to play in during the hot summer days. Thursday the Lions Club opened their third wading pool in the city for the youngsters under 10. The small fry took to the water immediately as the upper photo shows. They also took to the free ice cream cones given out to mark the official opening. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Wallet Lost With $80 Given To Owner

Clifford Mertins, a resident of Weston, Ontario, was fortunate Thursday to recover a wallet he thought he had lost somewhere between Gananoque and Peterborough.

The hand-tooled leather wallet contained between $70 and $80, his automobile owner's permit, driver's licence and other valuable papers.

He reported his loss to the police department at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, Jack Henry, who lives about a quarter-mile from Trent River and works for W. R. Turner Co. in Peterborough, saw the wallet lying in front of McLeod's drug store on Park St. where he stopped to buy a newspaper as he was coming from work about 5 p.m.

Mertins finally picked up his wallet today.

Cool Enough?

Citizens who have been wishing for an end to the heat wave, got their wish today with a bang. The mercury tumbled 27 degrees from Thursday's high point, 80, to the night low of 53. By 9 a.m. the situation had improved only one degree and the 59 degree noon temperature wasn't much better. Slightly chilled natives and tourists are protesting "Take it easy."

Y Camp For Boys Winds Up Program

Camp Pow Wow sponsored by the YMCA ended today, bringing to a close three weeks of camping trips, swimming lessons, hikes and handicraft work for more than 300 boys who attended the camp at the YMCA.

Thirty-two boys in all learned to swim.

Awards will be presented tonight to the boys who learned to swim and the ones who caught the largest fish.

There will also be a display of the handicraft work done by the boys at the Y tonight to give the parents a chance to see what they had accomplished during the three weeks of camp. There will be a swimming meet as well.

Campbellford Firemen Extinguish Bush Fire

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A brush fire in Seymour Township at the farm of Carleton Rowe about eight miles northeast of the town sent Campbellford firemen to the scene shortly after 5 p.m. on Thursday. It was quickly extinguished, after eating its way along about a 100-foot stretch between the road and rail fence.

Early rumors of a drowning in the district, caused probably by the one lengthy wail of the siren atop the town fire hall were quickly dispersed when the fire department returned to town.

Third Lions Pool Opened At Nicholls Oval

Free ice cream was handed out to more than 500 boys and girls under the age of 10 Thursday afternoon at the official opening of the new $3,800 Lions Club wading pool for children in Nicholls Oval.

This is the third wading pool that the Peterborough Lions Club have built for youngsters in the past three years and donated to the city. The other two were at McKellar Park, which was opened last summer and at Riverside Park built in 1951.

60 FEET SQUARE

The new pool is 60 by 60 feet square with a five foot cat-walk around the inside of the pool. It is 18 inches deep in the centre and six inches along the sides, with a gradual slope towards the centre.

Geddes Harper, immediate past president of the Lions Club, made the dedication speech and said he was glad to see so many citizens and children out for the official opening of the pool. The reason for the building of the pool said Mr. Harper was to give the children of the north end of the city a place to play in the water away from the dangerous river and canal.

Mayor Hugh Waddell and Alderman Arthur Burrows, chairman of the parks committee, accepted the pool on behalf of the city.

Liberals Plan 7 Meetings In Rural Areas

Seven meetings throughout Peterborough riding are planned by Liberal candidate Max Swanston during the closing weeks of his campaign for election to the House of Commons.

In addition to platform speeches, the meetings include an old-fashioned picnic in Lakefield Park Wednesday, July 29. A baseball game between Curve Lake and Lakefield will follow a picnic lunch and there will be a dance in the evening.

Prizes will be awarded boys and girls for decorated bicycles. There will also be prizes for the best old-time fiddler and the best old-time step dancer.

Speakers at the various meetings, besides Mr. Swanston, will be drawn from a slate comprising Senator J. J. Buffus, T. J. Carley, QC; G. A. Gillespie, John A. Dewart, Gus Faux, Ed Fanjoy, Norman Crook, W. B. Gordon and Dit Clapper, unsuccessful candidate in the last general election.

RADIO SPEAKERS

Mr. Swanston's party organization have also a heavy schedule of radio broadcasts in the next two weeks. Radio speakers will include Ernest McWilliams, Dr. Ralph Honey, Dr. Ross Matthews, Mrs. D. R. McGregor, Mrs. Wallace Shearer, Vern Campbell, P. J. Anglesey and others.

A public meeting has been scheduled for Monday, July 27, at 8:30 p.m., in the Lakehurst community hall, sponsored by the Harvey township Liberal Association. Chairman will be William Northey.

The Galway-Cavendish Liberal Association will sponsor a meeting in the Galway hall on Friday, July 31, at 8:30 p.m. Peter Pearson will be chairman.

John Harrington will be chairman of a meeting in St. Martin's parish hall, Ennismore, on Monday, August 3, at 8.30 p.m.

On Wednesday evening, August 5, there will be a reception at the home of Mr. F. D. Leahy, Douro, in honor of the candidate and his wife.

Mr. Swanston's final public meeting will be held in the Buckhorn community hall on Thursday, August 6, at 8:30 p.m.

A film featuring Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will be shown at all meetings.

On Friday, August 7, the Liberal candidate will deliver his final radio address from 8:20 to 8:30 p.m.

115 Acres Bought In Cavan To Build $1,500,000 Reformatory

Institution To Hold Hard-Case Prisoners, Tenders To Be Called Soon, Farm Site Bought Near Millbrook

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The province has bought 115 acres on the farm of Marvin Chapman, northwest of Millbrook, for the site of its $1,500,000 reformatory for hard-case prisoners. The announcement was made today by Col. G. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions. Price paid for the land was not disclosed, but Col. Basher said that it was no more than the going rate for farm land in Cavan township.

Col. Basher also said that architects' plans of the new reformatory would be turned over soon to the Department of Public Works for calling of tenders. It would be about a month after calling of tenders that a contractor would be awarded the contract.

WORK IN TWO MONTHS

Within two months of that time, he expected, preliminary work on the property would begin.

First announcement of the reformatory appeared in The Examiner last August 20, not long after riots at Guelph reformatory had made it apparent a special place of detention was necessary for desperate, short-term prisoners.

Before that announcement by the Hon. John Foote, VC, minister of reform institutions, there had been speculation the reformatory was to be built near North Bay.

Marvin Chapman, owner of the property just purchased, is a garage operator in Millbrook and had used the land for raising cattle. The property is on the west half and part of the north half of Lot 10, Concession 5, Cavan township, on the Fallis line about a mile and a half north-west of Millbrook.

ENDS RUMORS

Col. Basher's announcement today scotched rumors that a contract to build the reformatory had already been let to a Peterborough firm.

The reformatory, to be one of the most modern on the continent, will not be the "open" type that Guelph is, where prisoners work on a reformatory farm and large vegetable gardens. Small plots may be contained within the prison walls to produce vegetables for the inmates.

Hit By Truck Youngster Fractures Skull

Two-year-old Randy Padgett suffered a fractured skull when struck by a truck in front of his home at 557 Braidwood Ave. about 5.15 p.m. Thursday.

Randy Padgett

He was taken to Civic Hospital in serious condition. Today, his condition was reported satisfactory by hospital authorities.

The child was standing near the street with his father, Randolph Padgett, when he suddenly ran into the path of the eastbound truck driven by Gerard Fontaine, 34, 146 Aylmer Street.

Mr. Padgett ran after Randy in an attempt to prevent him running on to the street but was unable to catch him in time. The front right fender of the truck struck the child, knocking him to the ground.

Fontaine reported the accident to police and Sgt. Andre Dalton investigated.

Red Generals Taking Over Power In Russia By Degrees

By LEON DENNEN
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

STOCKHOLM (NEA) — It's worth a trip from Paris to Stockholm to talk to a man like Arvo Tuominen.

Arvo Tuominen is a stocky, 60-year-old Finn who was once an intimate friend of Joseph Stalin and close collaborator of Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lavrenti P. Beria.

He is thus perhaps the only man alive outside the Kremlin with intimate, first-hand knowledge of the intrigues and struggles that undermine the Red underworld.

Stalin offered Tuominen the presidency of a Communist Finland in 1939. Subsequently they broke and today this tough-looking Finn is No. 1 on the Russian secret police "wanted" list.

Over steaming cups of black coffee we talked in a language we had in common, Russian.

ANOTHER PURGE

The former chief of Finland's Reds foresees another blood purge in which Premier Malenkov will be removed by one of the shadowy figures who upheld him in his fight with Beria.

One of these figures is Marshal Gregory Zhukov. Tuominen sees much significance to the recent rise of Zhukov.

Zhukov, the Red victor of Berlin and post-war friend of President Eisenhower, was virtually an outcast during the last years of Stalin. Immediately after the death of Stalin he was rescued from obscurity by the frightened oligarchs of the Kremlin.

Now he is again the most popular man in the Red Army and possibly in Russia.

Tuominen said that Leon Trotsky predicted what is happening in Russia. With the Red Army gradually extending its control, the Soviet empire seems headed irresistibly for an army revolution like that by which Napoleon became emperor of France.

Zhukov could be the Russian Napoleon, Tuominen said.

And what about Malenkov?

"Malenkov is a ruthless man," Tuominen replied. "His desire for power is insatiable. But many more heads of his present friends and associates will roll on the ground before he is able to reach for Stalin's pinnacle."

GREAT UPHEAVAL

Information coming out of Russia, Tuominen said, indicated to him the greatest upheaval since the Bolsheviks seized power in 1917. It extends, he said, from East Berlin to the remotest regions of Central Asia.

Thousands of Beria's followers have been shot by Red Army execution squads.

Said Tuominen:

"The known purge in the Ukraine, Georgia, Uzbekistan, East Germany and the Baltic states is a mere surface ripple. The Communist Party and secret police are in a state of convulsion. The Red generals are gradually taking over power."

Fined For Shooting

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — John Derksen, Niagara-on - the - Lake youth, Thursday was fined $128 or 15 days for accidentally shooting a Toronto man in the back Monday while firing at starlings. Gordon Campbell was struck in the back by a .22-calibre bullet.

GREGORY ZHUKOV IN THE LIMELIGHT—As Red victor of Berlin in 1945, the Soviet Marshal (right) drank a toast with America's Dwight D. Eisenhower and Britain's Bernard Montgomery. In the last years of Stalin, he was an outcast, but now he's back on the uprise.

Religious Drama School Of United Church In Paris

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—The United Church of Canada has opened its 10-day school in religious drama at nearby Five Oaks Camp.

Lay members from each of the church's five eastern conferences are attending and the instructions they received before setting out were to bring with them a Bible, a copy of Shakespeare and any biblical costume they happened to have or any striped or plain material suitable for wrapping around an apostle or shepherd.

The aspiring actors and directors attend lectures given by some of the best drama directors in Canada. They include Blanche Hogg of the London Little Theatre, Warren Nelson of the Hamilton Players' Guild, Patricia Frank of Toronto and Donald Harron, well-known actor now playing in the Shakespeare festival at Stratford.

Each day there is a Bible session and emphasis is placed on the "resources, used and evaluation of drama in the church."

The students receive instruction in pageantry, costuming, make-up rehearsals and the setting up of scenery. They will attend a performance of "Richard III" at Stratford and each will give his opinion at a discussion.

Isabel Squires is the director of the workshop. Sports and swimming are included in each day's activities. The students pay $19 each for their room and board, $5 for their registration and $2 for their trip to Stratford.

The workshop's aim is to apply all its efforts to the religious field.

Drew Too Strong

WINDSOR (CP)—Robert Scherer, 34, of Wayne, Mich., complained Thursday that Canadian ale is too potent when he appeared in court on a charge of driving while drunk.

Magistrate F. K. Jasperson sentenced him to seven days, impounded the car for three months and suspended Sherer from driving in Ontario for six months.

Dr. Malan Has Become Convert To Commonwealth Defence Pact

By HUGH LATIMER
(Special to The Examiner)

CAPE TOWN — A new and startling conception of the British Commonwealth is emerging in Southern Africa. The incident which brought it to notice was the public assurance recently given by Dr. Malan, Prime Minister of South Africa, at a public lunch to R. G. Menzies, Prime Minister of Australia, that South Africa would come to Australia's help if she were ever menaced by "a power in the Indian Ocean." Dr. Malan specifically mentioned India, which is, of course, a member of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Menzies, it is generally agreed, rode over the incident with accustomed diplomacy. "In replying," reported the Cape Argus editorially, "he threw weight on the unity of the whole Commonwealth, including Eastern members, and his assurances of undivided friendship for South Africa were set in the context of that wider friendship and unity. He permitted no suggestion of ganging-up against anyone."

The Commonwealth diplomats got busy. A spokesman of the Australian High Commission in Cape Town drew attention to Australia's policy of friendship within the South-East Asian sphere and particularly to the very large sums voted for the Colombo Plan. In Delhi, the Indians suggested that Dr. Malan had had a very good lunch; a spokesman said: "It is hoped Dr. Malan's hallucinations will not cause embarrassment to Australia, with whom India has the friendliest of relations." So, presumably, the matter will be buried.

SURE TO REAPPEAR

But it will certainly reappear. The Nationalists in power here are exaggeratedly conscious of the dangers of isolation. They see two and a half million whites beleaguered at the tip of a black continent. Preferably, South Africa would have looked for support to the United Nations or to the United States, but help not being forthcoming from these quarters, Dr. Malan has become a convert in his old age to the military virtues of the unspoken Commonwealth defence pact, just as his colleague, Mr. N. C. Havenga, the Finance Minister, has become the strongest supporter of the sterling area. Naturally, however, the South African view of what the Commonwealth stands for differs widely from that held in London.

COLOR-BAR CLAUSE

The South African conception of the Commonwealth contains a color-bar. It is not, indeed, a color-bar between man and man, for the Nationalists meet Indians on equal terms on social occasions in London. It is a color-bar between nations. The older Dominions (Britain, South Africa, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand) are in the living-room and the newer ones (India, Pakistan, Ceylon) are in the kitchen—this indeed, was the very simile used by Dr. Malan and Mr J. G. N. Strauss, the leader of the Opposition, in a debate early this week.

Perhaps Dr. Malan is squaring his conscience with the probability of another step toward self-government on the part of the Gold Coast—a purely African State. For it is very likely that at first the Gold Coast will be invited only into the outermost kitchen, among those powers — Southern Rhodesia, Northern Ireland, Malta perhaps—whose sovereign rights are limited. But "I ask myself," he said in the debate, "whether those members of the Commonwealth who are confined to the outer circle will be content to remain in the kitchen?"

THE OLD AND THE NEW—Former President Herbert Hoover bids farewell to President Eisenhower after a White House luncheon. Eisenhower and Hoover discussed plans for a new commission on government reorganization. Close observers believe that Hoover would head the commission if and when it is formed.

ACE RIFLE-SHOT — Calvin Scouten, 13, of New Westminster, B.C., has won a place among Canada's best rifle shots with a perfect 6,000 out of a possible 6,000 to win the Dominion 6,000 to win the Dominion marksmen's coveted gold shield at the South Westminster rod and gun club. He is the youngest person to obtain a perfect score with a .22 rifle shooting at a total of 60 targets, 20 each standing, sitting and prone, at a distance of 60 feet.

Urge Import Limit

HESPELER (CP) — Representatives of textile unions in the Grand Valley district have written the leaders of Canada's four major political parties urging reduction of imports to ensure full employment in the textile industry in Canada. The letters said a large number of employees in the textile industry now are working part-time.

Cost Of Living In Brazil Up 31 Per Cent In 5 Months

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON
(Special to The Examiner)

LONDON — Oswaldo Aranha, Brazil's dynamic and popular Foreign Minister during World War II, has returned to politics with a bang after being appointed Finance Minister by his war-time chief, President Getulio Vargas, who at the last elections returned to politics with something of a bang himself.

At his first press conference last month, Senhor Aranha declared that Brazil had back commercial debts of a billion dollars, and that, owing to inflation, she was losing tweny-five million dollars a month in all currencies except Argentine and Paraguayan (which are even more inflated).

He went on to say that the mixed United States-Brazilian Economic Commission was "a burst balloon"—a tough statement from an avowed friend of the United States. The cost of living in Brazil, he added, had risen by thirty-one per cent in the last five months.

In the fight against inflation he claimed that priority must be given to the repayment of all commercial debts, and said that he hoped that this matter would soon be settled in the case of Great Britain, with whom negotiations are in progress. In a later speech he declared that to find their way out of the wood Brazilians must live under "a regime of real austerity." He suggested among other things that they might well dress in cotton like Asians.

U.S. SHIPS IN PORT

With the Government obviously tackling the people's primary worry, the cost of living, the Brazilian Communist party had to find something different to agitate the people, and organized demonstrations against the presence of United States warships in Brazilian ports. These ships are engaged in joint exercises with the Brazilian Navy, which was in charge of patrols and convoys in the South Atlantic during the last war. The Communists claim that they endanger Brazilian sovereignty.

The population was about as impressed by this diversion as the East Berlin public was by the "spontaneous" Communist demonstrations after the June 17 rising. It has always proved difficult to persuade Brazilians (as both the Argentines and the Communists frequently try to do) that the sovereignty of their enormous country can be seriously imperilled by the presence of a few United States warships off the coast.

PERON EASES UP

President Juan Peron of Argentina, like some other doubtful dictators in Europe, seems to be vacillitating between repression and concession. He has followed up his release of Victoria Ocampo by a release of National Democratic (Conservative) politicians whom he imprisoned for alleged participation in last month's series of bomb-explosions in Buenos Aires

On the Fourth of July, Peron ordered official celebrations in honor of George Washington and the Argentine Liberator, Jose De San Martin, while last year he virtually prevented the North American community in the Argentine from celebrating the Fourth of July themselves. The Press has been soft-pedalling its attacks on the "Yanqui Imperialists," and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the United States President, was kindly received on his goodwill tour of Latin America.

Bouquets for the United States have been accompanied by a brickbat for Britain. On June 29 it was officially announced that Argentina was setting up a new Antarctic base on Dundee Island, off the northern tip of Grahamland. This territory is "administered," in an absentee sort of way, by the United Kingdom, and is also claimed by Chile, either of whom could probably remove the Argentines fairly easily if they felt deeply enough about the matter. In fact a routine protest is all that is likely.

"BANDITS" GO HOME

Colombia's return to its traditional role as one of the most democratic of Latin American republics continues, after the coup which unseated the dictatorial right-wing President, Laureano Gomez. Dr. Urdaneta Arbelaez, who acted for some time as uneasy head of the State during the former President's term, has been presented with the Order of Boyaca, Colombia's only order of chivalry, and has tactfully retired from the scene, with polite expressions of regard for the provisional President, Lieutenant-General Rojas Pinilla.

General Rojas has effectively disproved Laureano Gomez's oft-repeated assertion that his opponents, the Liberal Party and the guerilla "bandits," were imbued with Communism and would plant the Hammer and Sickle on the Capitol if "pressure" on them were relaxed. The "bandits" have been surrendering their arms in ever-growing numbers and going quietly home, the trade unions have pledged their support for the new regime, and the Colombian Electoral Court, which includes Dr. Dario Echandia, a former Liberal President of the Republic, has presented General Rojas with a unanimous resolution in support of his administration.

The Columbians seem to be endorsing the view of a United States magazine in a review of British Foreign Secretary Mr. Anthony Eden's book, "Freedom and Order," said the reviewer (referring to the title), "he does not believe they are mutually exclusive." In Colombia it seems they are essential to each other, which is appropriate enough: the country's motto is—"'Order and Freedom." Under Laureano Gomez, disorder and repression coexisted.

Senate Passes Bill To Buy Niagara Bridge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday night passed and sent to President Eisenhower a resolution designed to make it possible for the Niagara Falls Bridge Commission to acquire the whirlpool Rapids Bridge.

The resolution, which passed the House of Representatives July 7, would permit the commission to issue bonds payable from the revenues of all the bridges it operates rather than just the Rainbow Bridge over the Falls.

The purpose is to enable the commission to finance the purchase of the Whirlpool Rapids Bridge between the cities of Niagara Falls, N.Y. and Ontario, by issuing bonds secured from revenues of both bridges.

BIG PUSH — The sturdy tug Graeme Stewart runs her padded prow against the raised stern of the 1,014-ton Norwegian freighter Spind in a powerful effort to free the stranded cargo vessel from a mud bank in the St. Lawrence River. The Spind, with a general cargo, was bound for Great Lakes ports when she ground to a muddy halt in 10 feet of water. The tugs, after 17 hours of effort, pushed her clear, reportedly undamaged.

Missionary From Africa Speaks At Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS)—A special missionary service was held Wednesday evening in the Fellowship Baptist church with Miss Elsie Lavery, a missionary on furlough from Africa, as guest speaker.

Following a prayer service, the Rev. L. V. Bigelow introduced Miss Lavery, who gave a short talk on why she went to Africa, showing how God can make unattractive places and personalities attractive when one answers God's call and is in the place He wants them to be.

Miss Laverty then showed a set of slides to illustrate the work she has been doing for four years in Nigeria under the Sudan Interior Mission and to which she will return in the near future. Miss Lavery is a graduate of the London Bible College.

Seize Sweep Tickets

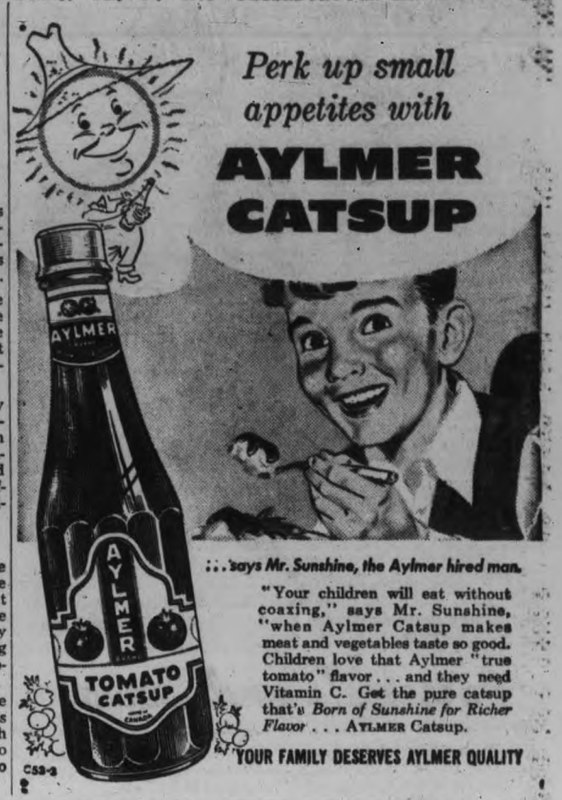
MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police raided a small printing plant in suburban Ville Jacques Cartier Thursday and seized 70,000 alleged bogus sweepstake tickers. No arrests were made.

Sgt. Wilfrid Bessette, in charge of the raiding party, said: "We have reason to believe this was a phoney sweepstake, which fleeced hundreds of persons in the province since last November."

Times Blasts Gossip About Princess

LONDON (Reuters)—The Times says today that gossip about Princess Margaret, based on the flimsiest structure of supposition, has been given the shape of scandal.

"Not only princesses are the scandalmongers' quarry in these days, but when a princess is the victim then the indignation must be, and is, the greater," the independent newspaper says.



The Times does not refer directly to world newspaper reports linking the Princess romantically with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, divorced air ace recently appointed British air attache in Brussels after nine years at Buckingham Palace.

PRIVATE MATTER

Commenting for the first time on the rumored romance, the Times declares it is a pity that the Queen's activities since the Coronation "have been personally saddened. . . by the bandying about of her sister's name in public gossip . . .

"The personal affairs of the Royal Family are private no less than others; the matters which have lately been canvassed so loudly are matters for them to decide."

Ruth Mortlock Becomes Bride Of Frank Millard

At St. Andrew's United Church, Westwood, the marriage took place last Saturday afternoon of Ruth Violet [illegible] of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Mortlock of Birdsall to Frank Campbell Millard, son of Mrs. George Millard of Toronto, the Rev. N. Cole officiating.

Mr. Fred Mortlock, brother of the bride, sang the Twenty-Third Psalm before the ceremony. During the signing of the register he sang "Where'er You Walk." Miss Esther Meiklejohn played the accompaniment, and the wedding march.

Floral setting in the church was of pink and yellow gladioli.

The bride's bouffant gown was of white embroidered Swiss organdy over satin and her veil of tulle was caught with white carnations. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Given in marriage by her father, she was attended by three nieces, Miss Ruth Wood as maid of honor, Miss Ann Blackbourn as bridesmaid and Catherine Mortlock as flower girl. Miss Jean Millard, sister of the groom, was also a bridesmaid.

The attendants were all in bouffant frocks of pink organdy over matching taffeta. Their headdresses were wreaths of pink flowers, and they carried nosegays of white and yellow 'mums. The flower girl was also dressed in pink organdy and she carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. Don Moss was the groomsman, and ushers were Ray Cardwell and Harold Millard.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother was wearing a gown of powder blue lace with a navy hat and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother assisted her to receive, wearing lilac crepe with a white straw hat and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

When leaving afterward on the wedding trip to eastern and northern Ontario the bride was wearing a pink gabardine suit with navy accessories.

They will live in Peterborough on return.

THE WEDDING OF MR. LORNE MORRIS RICHARSON, B.A., B.P.H.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Richardson of Bridgenorth, to Miss Isabel Alexandra Stevenson, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stevenson of Niagara Falls, is to take place on August 8th in St. John's Presbyterian Church, Grimsby. The bride-elect is on the operating staff of the Hamilton General Hospital and the groom is on the teaching staff of the Niagara Falls Collegiate Institute.

Biscuit Recipe For Brides To Be Proud Of

If you've never made biscuits in your life—you can now! And they'll be perfect.

Make 'em plain, or with raisins. Roll 'em out, or drop 'em. Whatever way, if you follow this recipe, you'll be successful! You'll get extra light biscuits for sure. Just watch them fly off the plate!

Young cooks, especially, are apt to be a little timid about biscuits. Maybe because there have been so many jokes about a tearful bride's leaden efforts. Maybe because so many tactless husbands have really talked about the biscuits "mother used to make".

Once any homemaker—beginner or experienced—makes these biscuits, she'll throw humility to the winds, and positively preen herself.

Best part is, when you can turn out such biscuits as part of your regular bag of tricks, you can make an ordinary, run-of-the-mill lunch or dinner taste positively inspired! Which is what we all like to do, these days of high prices, when we serve less glamorous food than usual. And people certainly appreciate it when you include some such little extra, thoughtful touch.

RAISIN BISCUITS
(Makes 16 to 20)

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup raisins
⅓ cup shortening
¾ cup milk.

All measurements level: Mix flour, baking powder, and salt in bowl. Cut in shortening (with two knives or a pastry blender) until the mixture looks like coarse meal. Stir in raisins. Add milk and stir just enough to hold dough together. Place dough on board or pastry cloth which has been dusted with flour. Fold dough over several times. Roll out dough ¼" to ½" thick. Cut in squares. Bake on cookie sheet in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10-12 minutes.

DROP BISCUITS

Follow recipe above but omit raisins and increase milk by 4 tablespoons. Drop from a spoon onto cookie sheet.

Post-War Bargain Sales Thing Of Past In London

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The post-war heyday of London's bargain sales appears to be over. The annual summer sales indicated that easy pickings are a thing of the past.

Bargain "snips" went to overnight queuers, to women with figures outside stock sizes and to those willing to pay £5 and up. Working women with £2 ($5.60) to £3 to spend—and a good sense of style—often found that sore feet and frayed tempers were the sum total of a day's barguin hunting.

No repetition seems probable of the golden post-war days, when stores cleared stocks rather than lose out to the sudden rage for Dior's "new look." Fashions now change more slowly.

HIGHER-PRICE RANGE

Good bargains invariably are found in higher-priced clothes that are outdated by each new fashion range and garments originally sold at £20 to £40 can be bought for half-price and under. Even though these still are the latest thing in fashion for the average office worker, they are buys that few can afford.

In department stores of repute, suits and coats with known labels sold at £9 instead of 16 to 18 guineas. Silk dresses were £9, down from £18 to £22, £8 jersey dresses sold at half-price and model summer dresses were £5 to £7.

Those who wanted something expensive could get a Canadian squirrel coat slashed from the original £396 to £225.

There were good bargains in millinery Many stylish bonnets were priced at 10 shillings and 15 shillings.

POOR STYLE, QUALITY

But many of the so-called lower-priced bargains in suits, summer dresses and coats were poor in style and quality. Shoppers could leave well-known department stores, selling half-price cotton dresses for £2, for nearby municipal stores showing gaily-printed rayon dresses of linen weave at the every-day price of 30 shillings.

Most women shoppers declined to fight through crowded stores for indifferent sales dresses, when the same money will bring denim dresses and two-pieces any day of the week.

Store representatives say women no longer "stampede" the sales. Many come ahead of the opening date, spot an article they like and queue at the door giving them quickest entry to the counter concerned. More and more are leaving stores empty-handed if they can't get what they want at a price they are prepared to pay.

More men have taken to bargain hunting for wives with children, sales girls say. Apparently they are alert at spotting good bargains and are becoming less hesitant about buying women's clothes. Nor are they so prone to buy anything in sight, say storekeepers, just because the price has been sharply reduced.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Orville Johnston, the bride was gowned in satin and nylon net and wore a lace coat. Her veil of nylon net was caught in a coronation crown and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Her attendant was Miss Lillian Ayotte, whose gown was of blue satin with nyoln net overskirt and her matching veil was caught with lily of the valley. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom's attendant was William Downer and the ushers were David Crowder and Johnny Rose.

After a reception at the home of the bride's mother, the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wearing a navy and white ensemble with corsage of red roses

They will live at 214 Dalhousie Street.

FRUIT FREEZE PIE

"Five luscious fruits in sweet cahoots" fill this pie with sweet sun-ripe flavor. It's an easy trick to keep in mind for a glamorous dessert surprise. To make it, bake and cool a 9-inch pastry shell. Just before serving, drain a can of chilled canned fruit cocktail. Arrange a layer of the fruit in the bottom of the shell. Heap on a quart of vanilla ice cream. Top with the rest of the cocktail fruits. This makes 6 ample servings.

DID YOU KNOW?

Although dentists say that a toothbrush in good condition is essential for the proper care of teeth and gums, a survey has revealed that only 19 per cent of the toothbrushes in use are in satisfactory condition. The rest have bent, broken or matted bristles which are practically useless and often unsanitary.

Taylor-Buchanan

HAVELOCK (ENS)—A wedding of local interest was solemnized in St. John's United church, Campbellford, when Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchanan, of Campbellford, formerly of Havelock, became the bride of Alan James Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Taylor of Campbellford.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. George Nicholls and the soloist was Mrs. Thomas Wallace, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" before the ceremony, and "At Dawning" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel length gown of white valencrinnis lace and nylon illusion. The bouffant skirt of lace and net over a crinoline was embossed with seed pearls and sequins. The halter top, featuring a collar, was worn with a matching lace jacket and long sleeves tapering to points at wrist. Her shoulder-length veil of nylon illusion edged in lace was caught to a spray of lily of the valley. She carried a white Bible covered with gardenias and sprays of stephanotis.

Cousin of the bride, Miss Joan Page of Peterborough, was maid of honor. She wore a mauve gown of nylon net over a bouffant skirt of matching taffeta with bolero jacket and net mitts. Her Juliet cap was of net and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Little flower girls, Laureen Taylor and Jane Richardson were gowned alike in mauve taffeta with fitted bodices and wide full, floor-length skirts. Their headdresses were ruffled bands of matching taffeta trimmed with lily-of-the-valley. They wore white mesh gloves, and silver lockets which were the gifts of the bride, and carried bouquets of yellow and mauve snapdragons with yellow roses.

Groomsman was Ross Taylor, brother of the groom. Ushers were Dr. Lloyd Richardson and Lloyd Taylor.

The reception was held at the Legion Hall, where Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Taylor received with the bride and groom. The bride's mother wore a gown of champagne lace over taffeta, with mauve accessories and a corsage of sweet peas. The groom's mother wore a gown of Iris blue falcon crepe, pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. After the reception the bride and groom left on a trip to Northern Ontario. For travelling, the bride wore a navy nylon plisse dress with matching jacket, pink accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Italian Hair-Do Acclaimed Unofficial Heroine of Show

By EUGENIA SHEPARD
(Special to The Examiner)

ROME. — The Roman fashion world moves at a leisurely pace. The city's designers of made-to-order clothes seemed surprised but happy that more than 200 reporters and retail store buyers climb the marble stairs to their salons.

Buyers came from Switzerland, Canada, England and Germany, as well as the United States. The attendance is more than double that of the last showing.

The unofficial heroine of the shows this time is the Italian haircut. All the mannequins are wearing it and so are as many visitors as can make dates with an Italian hairdresser. The hair looks hacked off at the nape of the neck and a little slept-in on top. It is cool, interesting and guaranteed to make you into a face from an old Roman coin.

LOVE TO TOUCH

Giovanelli, Simonetta and Fabiani let the Italian fabrics tell most of their fashion story. Almost every costume is one you love to touch. Wools are shadow striped and ribbed or printed.

Satins are often shiny jacquards. There are lots of party clothes made of orgasca, once a simple, summer fabric, now embroidered with ribbon, dotted with velvet, or even tinted in a water silk pattern.

Though Italian tweeds provide a little color, and there are a few bright coats, the over-all look of the collections is black. Cocktail clothes are apt to be black on black, combining dull faille with velvet or satin.

Italian designers are seeing eye-to-eye with New York about the charms of a natural silhouette. Here, too, dresses follow the line of the body. Lots of them are unbelted and the form fitting, almost corseted look is pointed up with decorated seams.

The Roman couture for the most part likes its coats shorter than dress length and its suits fitted. Coats are still big and swingy with collarless necks.

Shoes, also Italian designs, are wide-open. They call for spider-web weight stockings and an over-all pedicure. Jewelry, equally exciting, launches a new, stiff collar look. Necklaces are immobile and made to stay put right at the base of the throat.

Fabiani's very smooth collection drew a record crowd. Fabiani's coats have modified fullness. He shows lots of slim wool suits. Double lines of stitching on the jacket play "follow-the-arrow" and give them a feminine look.

COCKTAIL-INTO-DINNERS

Specials with this house are dozens of black cocktail-into-dinners. Sure to come back to Canada are some of the light-weight, black wools. Princess dresses are striped with satin or velvet ribbons from boso to hem or embroidered in velvet circles.

One wool sheath has over-all lampshade shirring. Fabiani likes hemline flounces for some of this group. His sleeveless black satin fans out at the bottom. His flouncer cocktail suit is embroidered with braid and velvet and has an amusing little jacket with tucked and scooped front.

Fabiani's ball gowns are long and lavish. Most of them are pale and worn under brilliant, satin evening coats. Fabiani carries the unbelted princess lines into evening clothes, making you notice the curving body seams with glitter embroidery.

Fun from Fabiani's Baottega (budget department to you) are cocktail hats that look like Italian hair cuts. They are head-covering caps made completely of head fringe. New rain coats are bright red or blue velveteen with wrappy head scarves in the same colors.

Married to Fabiani last year, Simonetta is in Switzerland expecting an heir. The impending event totally inspired the new baby dress silhouette in her collection.

Simonetta's coats are small through the top, and start flaring above the bosom. The most striking is black faille with a front panel of black tulle, worn over a black cocktail dress.

Simonetta in general reverses current trends. She likes full skirts—some very full—and front instead of back interest.

She shows two types of cotton play clothes. Middy pull-overs go with skinny pants. Play suits have wrappy off-shoulder tops and bloomer legs.

For evening Simonetta shows a big white teddy bear coat over a mauve sequin sheath dress.

Govanelli showed everything from tweeds to ball gowns. Her town clothes combined wools with knit turtle necks or Jersey sleeves.

Ask St. Laurent To Put More Women In Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Timing their efforts for the late stages of the federal election campaign, the Canadian Federation of University Women Thursday urged political leaders to make known their views on the "far from adequate" number of women in the Senate and the absence of women on the Civil Service Commission.

The federation issued copies of briefs given Prime Minister St. Laurent and leaders of other political parties with a request for comment. The letter to Mr. St. Laurent said "it is not accidental that we are submitting our resolutions before the election for we recall your statement to the effect that the women of Canada could influence policy if they were so inclined."

NOT ADEQUATE

The federation said:

1. The four women in the 102-seat Senate where there now are 12 vacancies is "far from adequate."

2. No woman has yet been appointed deputy minister of a federal department or commissioner of any government agency. This omission is particularly serious in the (three-member) Civil Service Commission whose basic function is concerned with the selection and placement of a large number of women."

The briefs noted that Prime Minister St. Laurent recently doubled the number of women in the upper chamber by appointing Mrs. Marianna Beauchamp Jodoin, 71, of Montreal and Mrs. Muriel McQueen Fergusson, 54, of Fredericton to vacant Quebec and New Brunswick seats.

IN SENATE

The other women in the Senate are Senator Cairine Wilson, a Liberal from Ottawa, and Senator Iva Fallis, a Progressive Conservative from Peterborough.

On the question of women in senior government posts, the Federation said "it is essential to our economic strength and national enrichment that women should cooperate with men on the upper as well as on the middle and lower levels of employment."

WOMEN BETTER DRIVERS

TORONTO (CP)—Reginald Scotland, president of the Association of Toronto Driving Schools, says there would be fewer traffic accidents if men drove as smoothly as women. He said four times as many women as men are taking driving lessons from the more than 100 Toronto-area driving schools.

RESTORES SWEETNESS

Adding a little sugar to the water when you cook old vegetables, restores their sweetness.

[illegible]-Dressing Cuts Down Girls' Smartness

Thousands of girls are kept from being well-dressed by a tendency to over-dress. Yo usee them in taffeta, satin or faille dresses — beautiful and elaborate enough to stand alone — bedecked with jewellery. Dresses made of rich, sumptuous fabrics, or those sewn with pearls, rhinestones or sequins, need at the most only one under-stated jewel.

Simply cut dresses of dull crepe or jersey—especially if black or another dark color—can look well with a great deal more jewellery worn at wrists, throat and ears. A pin is best worn when a necklace is not.

If you are using jewellery in this way, you'll be well-dressed with a simple, unobtrusive and untrimmed hat. The conversation-piece hat only contributes to the well-dressed look when all other parts of the costume are low-keyed.

ATTENTION-GETTING SHOES

Overdressed girls often wear ankle-strap or elaborately cut-out shoes. This is one way to dress up a costume, since these shoes are elaborate and attention-getting. When you wear them, therefore, you consider them an ornament, and you cut down on other ornaments in order not to be over-dressed.

Decorations on stockings are another ornamentation which, if worn, should automatically cut down on your other adornment.

Jewelled or scrolled gloves are another favorite of the over-dressed girl. These may have a place in a very large wardrobe, but they'll probably not be often worn, for they make the hands a conspicuous centre of attraction. Since the well-dressed girl has only one centre of attraction per costume, she doesn't want it to be her hands.

DOROTHY DIX:

City Girl Weds Prospector Finds Adventure Outdoors

DEAR MISS DIX:, I have read L. D.'s letter with interest and wonder if my experience couldn't help him. He says that women don't like the rugged life of the country. He is very much mistaken. It's just that city gals have no opportunity to meet country boys. After all, girls can't just pack up and move to the country and get a job like a man does.

I grew up in a large eastern city and knew all the conveniences and luxuries from earliest childhood, but I always had a yearning for the great outdoors. When I finally met and fell in love with the boy I married, I was indeed lucky that he was a prospector. For the last six years I have enjoyed the great wilderness areas to be found in our United States, and believe me there are still many isolated, rugged places. At times we never saw another human being for six months. Often the only bed I had was a sleeping bag, with the sky and stars for my ceiling. I have learned not to be afraid in the woods, because animals don't attack unless they are molested. I've baked bread in the hot coals of a camp-fire, and learned to find the edible greens of the woods. Of course, it hasn't all been fun, but I wouldn't change my life for that of the city. A LUCKY GIRL

CITY GIRLS MAY BE ENVIOUS

ANSWER: Thanks for giving such a vivid picture of life in the wilderness; I wish I could have printed all your letter. Many young ladies will be interested in your opinion, since I know from my mail that a number face the problem of leaving city streets for the countryside. The prospect is more frightening than alluring to some of them, but your experience will be at least interesting, and at most encouraging. As you say, most girls must seek jobs in the city, but quite a number meet, and fall in love with, men whose jobs will ultimately take them to unfrequented areas. A wife who can face the sudden change with a spirit of adventure is the finest help the outdoor man can have. Girls who must remain in their city jobs will doubtless be envious. Well, maybe fortune will smile and send them a man with a pioneering future.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18 and engaged to a girl of 16. We plan to be married in September. She is writing other boys, and refuses to stop until we are married. I don't think she's right. T. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: She's not right, but at 16 it's often difficult to discriminate between right, and the right to have fun. The whole thing adds up to the fact that the girl is too young to be tied down matrimonially, and it would be much better if you postponed the marriage for a year or two.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm going with a very handsome boy who doesn't seem to want to take me out very often. Should I continue going with him or go with someone else? BONNIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Both. Go with your handsome beau when he invites you, but don't turn down other dates. Keep in circulation and you may become more interesting to the elusive Romeo.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Before my husband and I were married, he had two children by a girl to whom he wasn't married. Lately I have learned that he is paying her bills, and giving her money that should be coming to me. As the children are being supported by welfare, they don't need his money. B. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband has a much finer sense of right and wrong than you have, even though he took a while to acquire it! He is certainly responsible for his children's support, welfare or no welfare. You knew he had the children, and it doesn't seem possible that you expected him to be heartless enough to abandon them. You think you have a lot to put up with! How about the unmarried mother of these two youngsters? Her life certainly isn't a picnic and she's more than entitled to the little money she gets from your husband — who should be hers.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Personality And Confidence Magic Wand To Many Girls

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Most ugly ducklings just need a bit of prompting to get up and give the swans a run for their money.

That's the opinion of a glamorous Chicago model, Suzette Bauder. A few beauty tips, the right clothes and a large dose of encouragement all add up to confidence for any woman, says Suzette.

"And confidence," she adds, "can be the key to a happy and charming personality." Unlike waving a magic wand though, it all takes work.

Dark-eyed Suzette should know, because she recalls leaving a Chicago photographer's studio in tears when he told her bluntly she was anything but photogenic.

The pretty 22-year-old model was a sensitive teen-ager then, overweight by almost 20 pounds and with teeth she thought were a calamity. She was tall, too—five-feet eight inches.

STILL DETERMINED

However, Suzette was still determined to be a model. Her father disapproved, but she took a job as a cashier and put her money and spare time into training. She attended a finishing school and eventually, 20 pounds lighter, Suzette was being sought after by Chicago photographers.

She has worked as a life guard, as a model in a shop on Chicago's swank Michigan Boulevard, and for Elizabeth Arden. She's been a dress buyer and an instructor at the Patricia Stevens Finishing School in Chicago.

Suzette now has other ambitions—she wants to help handicapped girls. She has already done some work of this type in Chicago.

"Naturally," said Suzette, "physiotherapists and psychiatrists do all sorts of wonderful things these days for handicapped persons. But usually advice on what to wear, how to do their hair and hundreds of professional beauty 'know-hows' doesn't come into the field of the physiotherapist or the psychiatrist."

Suzette feels it's a pity such emphasis has been put on glamour through advertising and movies.

"It's been overdone," she said, "and it makes things extra hard for a girl who isn't pretty, or is deformed."

Suzette has just arrived in Toronto to instruct at a finishing school.

OLDSTERS NEED WISE DIET

Many of those in their senior years would feel a great deal better if their diet were more wisely planned. An older person may be poorly nourished, not through lack of food but through dietary deficiency while eating too much of the wrong kind of food. Through dental troubles, he may be unable to eat the proteins he needs, in such sources as meat. By putting harder foods through the meat chopper, the fibres are broken up and less chewing is necessary. Fruit, vegetables, milk and milk products should all be on the older person's menu.

DID YOU KNOW?

When washing nylon tricot shirts and blouses, extra soiled collars and cuffs can be rubbed briskly with a cellulose sponge. Ironing can be skipped altogether by hanging them to drip-dry on a hanger without squeezing out the water.

Readers' Friday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION . . . By the way I wrote to you that my first letter was cut off a column because of lack of space . . it seems inconanswer me unless I send you a answer me unles I send you a recipe, so I'll see what I can do . . . since we have been watching our weight I have not purchased any type of fat—oil, margarine, butter, lard . . . I also skim all fat off soups and gravy drippings. Here is a dish I sometimes make . . . I better mention that I do not roast meat because I find it is more tender and moist (my husband dislikes crispy crusts on meats and poultry) to put some water in the roast and cover it.

REDUCER'S BEEF AND GRAVY
(Contributed by Rose)

Three or four lbs. top sirloin, ¾ cup water, 2 medium onions, 2 cloves garlic, salt and pepper. Wash beef thoroughly and place in roasting pan without wiping. Add water, onions and garlic. Cover. Place in cold oven. Turn on bottom burner only at 300 deg. Fahr. This usually takes about 2 hours, but should be tested for desired tenderness. One-half hour before it is done season with salt and pepper. When done, remove from oven, cool, save drippings and place meat and drippings with onions in refrigerator overnight. Next day skim off all the fat from the drippings. This has jelled. Place this jelly with the onions from the roast in a saucepan or top of double boiler. Heat slowly. Meanwhile dissolve potato flour (2 teaspoons) in ½ cup cold water. Slowly add this to the hot liquid in saucepan, stirring until thick. Potato flour cooks quicker than cornstarch or wheat flour (1 teaspoon potato flour equals 1 tablespoon wheat flour). Cut cold beef in thin slices across the grain, trimming off all fat. These can be cubed or cut in strips and added to the gravy wheih should simmer. Serve hot on mashed potatoes. I do my potatoes in a pressure cooker whole with skins on and mash potato on the plate without removing skins or adding any kind of grease. Other vegetables such as carrots, peas, should be served with this plate. Also fresh vegetable salad and fresh fruit for dessert. We do not eat bread with potatoes. Rose.

P. S. . . . some of the beef can be used hot before cooling overnight of course.

ANSWER: I am answering your letter ahead of some that arrived before it did. The information you helped me to receive from Mr. Adler was passed on to the readers who wanted wheatless bread for their children who have allergies. I mailed it to them at once. It was perfect. I am very grateful to Mr. Adler for his generosity. As for sending me a recipe in order to get an answer. You surely are fooling,—although I think your idea for reducer's beef and gravy is excellent and am glad you did send it along. Please let me know if I can help you at any time and thank you for your part in finding the wheatless loaf. Recipe for it appeared in this column July 3rd.

QUESTION: Thank you very much for the Almond Bar recipe. The one I lost had no topping but I will try this one. I wonder if you have recipes for Cornflake pudding and Cocoanut drop cookies. . . Mrs. Blanche S.

ANSWER: Since you wrote the above letter I have mailed you a recipe from a reader that fits your description perfectly for Almond Bars,—with no topping this time.

CORNFLAKE PUDDING

Four cups cornflakes, 4 cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup light molasses, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter. Stir all together. Turn into buttered baking dish. Dot with butter. Place the dish in a shallow pan containing an inch of water and put in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. and bake ¾ to 1 hour or until set.

COCOANUT DROP COOKIES

Two egg whites, 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2½ cups moist shreddde cocoanut (or 1 cup cocoanut and 2 cups cornflakes), ½ cup chopped nuts. Beat egg whites stiff and gradually add sugar while beating. Fold in remaining ingredients with a spoon. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased or oiled cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until delicately browned.

ORDER 419 YEARS OLD

The Jesuit order was founded in 1534 by Ignatius Loyola.

TRANSITIONAL COTTONS are extremely useful between-season additions to a wardrobe when they look like autumn but feel like summer. They should be dark, of course, and cool always. They should also convey a hint of clear, blue air and slanting golden sunshine. We've picked two that we think fill the bill in every respect. And they've the additional attraction of being cut from a fabric that's a happy wedding of nylon and cotton. This means good shape retention and fast recovery from wrinkles. Empire-waisted dress (left) in toast color has full, stand-away skirt and lifted collar. Self buttons are grouped down the front in series of four. Front seaming creates a long, continuous line from rib cage to hemline. The design (right) in navy and tobacco is the perfect dress for town or business. Here, diagonal stripes are worked into a "V" pattern. Neckline permits use of scarves or jewelry, the choice dependent on the occasion or the wearer's whim.

Sister of Mrs. Francis Craig of Peterborough and Mrs. Herbert Darling (Jenny) of Smith Township. Resting at the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter Street West, for service on Monday. Time of service to be announced later.

6—In Memoriam

COLLINGWOOD—In loving memory of Robert H. Collingwood (Harry), who left us suddenly on July 24th, 1951.
Time passes on but memory in silence clings.
—Remembered by Eleanor and Stan, Flo and Billie, Philip, Ken and Lionel.

WILSON—In loving memory of our grandson, Jerry Wilson.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.
—Sadly missed by Grandma and Grandpa Trennum and Aunt Ruth.

WILSON—In loving memory of our darling wee son, Gerry, who passed away July 24, 1951.
Two little hands are resting,
A loving heart is still,
A little son we loved is waiting
For us just over the hill.
—Mummie and Daddy.

WILLIAMS—In loving memory of J. A. Williams, who passed away six years ago today, July 24, 1947.
Sweet to remember you, Jack,
Who once was here,
And who though absent
Is just as dear.
—Lovingly remembered by his sister and brother, Mrs. Wm. Jobe and Mr. Arthur Williams.

7—Card of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Mary Jane Stewart of Keene wish to express their sincere thanks to kind friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during their recent bereavement in the loss of a loving mother and grandmother.

Doctor's License For Psychoanalyst

PARIS — Reversing an earlier court decision, the Paris court of appeal recently decreed that anyone practising as a psychoanalyst in France must be a licensed doctor.

At present, students of psychoanalysis in France attend liberal-arts schools rather than medical schools. There are about 60 lay psychoanalysts practising in Paris

The reversal concluded a case brought by the Paris Medical Association against Mrs. Clark Williams, an American psychoanalyst, for illegal practice of medicine on the grounds she had no medical degree.

Mrs. Williams, who has lived in France since 1946, brought out that she only accepted patients recommended to her care by licensed doctors and based her defence on the theory that she was a "medical assistant."

Car Plunges 30 Feet Three People Killed

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Three persons were killed and two seriously injured today when an automobile ripped through a bridge railing and plunged 30 feet to the ground.

Names of the dead were not available. Two were women. Injured were Morris Labuk and William Sawchuk, both of Fort William.

OBITUARY

MRS. VALENTYNE TULLY

A lifelong resident of the city and district, Mrs. Valentyne Tully, RR 2, Peterborough, Port Hope highway, died today in hospital at the age of 65.

Born in Peterborough, before her marriage she was Violet Elizabeth King, daughter of the late William Robert King and Sarah Ann Thompson. She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Samuel Melville Tully and Ralph Mackenzie King Tully and one daughter, Mrs. Courtland Lillico (Dorothy), all of Peterborough and two sisters Mrs. Frances Craig, Peterborough, and Mrs. Herbert Darling (Jenny) of Smith township.

The funeral service will be held Monday at the Belleghem funeral home and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery. Other funeral details will be announced later.

Schooner Days Skipper Dies

COBOURG (ENS)—About the last of the old schooner days lake skippers, Captain Dan Rooney of Cobourg, who died yesterday at his home in Cobourg, will be buried Saturday morning in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Cemetery. Mass will be at St. Michael's Church at 9 a.m.

Captain Rooney came from a family with sailing in their blood. The Rooneys owned ships plying out of Cobourg. His uncle, Dan Rooney, was harbormaster and the nephew was often referred to as "Little Dan" to distinguish the names.

Captain Dan was only 15 when he took to sailing and the first ship he was on was the "Hannah Butler" of Cobourg. He was only 21 when he received his master's papers and his first charge was the schooner, "Eliza Fisher."

In the ensuing years he was captain of a number of famous old schooners. In 1914, while captain of the "Charlie Marshall" he sold his sailing interests. However, he couldn't stay away from the water and in 1928 he was placed in command of the power yacht "Silhouette," a luxurious craft owned by J. M. Schoonmaker, American summer visitor to Cobourg. At 76 he finally gave up sailing but in 1944 he accompanied the corvette HMCS "Cobourg" on its trip to Cobourg from Toronto and piloted her into Cobourg harbor.

Captain Rooney was always an active man and although he was unable to get around very well during the past two years, he was very keen and alert mentally.

He is survived by one son, a daughter and one sister.

Condemn Dodging Conference Issue

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's party said Thursday night the Kremlin should "stop dodging and give a clear yes or no answer" to the west's invitation to a four-power conference on Germany and Austria.

West German government leaders condemned as a smoke-screen an editorial in Pravda which dashed some cold water on conference prospects.

The general impression among German leaders was that Pravda's sharpness indicated Moscow will eventually say no. Even the Socialist party—which has been demanding immediate four-power talks on any level—felt pessimistic.

A Moscovite rejection of the west's bid would be a big factor in the West German election campaign. Adenauer has been accused by the Socialists of seeking to tie West Germany into an armed alliance with the west before the possibilities of unity have been explored fully. With Moscow's negative answer, he would be able to say he supported Big Four talks on unification, but the Russians balked.

Accept New Contract With 12-Cent Raise

SARNIA (CP)—Local 1256 of the AFL Carpenters' Union here Thursday night voted to accept a new two-year contract which will give them a 12-cent hourly wage increase.

The increase will set their rate at $2 an hour effective Aug. 1, with an additional 5-cent pay boost effective May 1, 1954.

Millwrights will receive $2.15 hourly with additional 5 cents effective May 1, 1954. Electricians, who are asking a raise of 20 cents hourly which would bring them to $2.05, are still negotiating.

Charges To Follow Collision By Cars

LINDSAY (ENS)—Charges are pending as a result of an investigation being made by local police into a car accident which took place at Kent and Sussex Sts. Thursday night at 7:45.

Peter Burchell, 24, of 54 Durham St., was travelling north on Sussex St. south of Kent and met in collision with a car driven and owned by Vern Truax, driving west on Kent St. The Truax car was turned completely around and was facing due east on the wrong side of Kent Street, when it came to rest. No one was hurt but the Truax car suffered $150 and the Burchell car $100 damages. Burchell may be charged.

Albania Joins Parade Shakes Up Gov't

The lure of the Kawartha Lakes attracted three people from Hawaii this week—they are the only tourists from Hawaii that have visited Peterborough so far this summer. They are Mrs. George Ethell and her son Lloyd, and his wife. They are planning to tour Canada and the United States for the next three months in their new car they ordered in Honolulu and picked up in Detroit.

West German Warehouses Bulging With Food Stocks

By DON COOK

BERLIN—After a flying start with one of the most successful counter weapons against the Soviet Union and East German Communist regime since the Berlin airlift, the West is about to lose the "battle of food" unless some quick action is taken.

Early next week the first American relief shipments of $15,000,000 worth of food for East Germany will arrive in Hamburg, and there is not the faintest indication yet as to what is to be done with it. West Berlin warehouses, meanwhile, are bulging with all sorts of basic food stocks—some enough to last six months—but no effort or suggestion seems to have been made to release these stocks for the East on any kind of an emergency basis.

Meanwhile the Russians and the East German regime are in a desperate drive to fill up the East Berlin shops with food before the West gets around to trying to make good on its early initiative and finding a way to help the East German population.

At best, the "food war" would have been short term, and probably the victory in terms of propaganda would have been only short term. But the fact is that President Eisenhower's initial offer—which many in Berlin opposed for various reasons—turned out to be resoundingly successful and has stirred up more propaganda and difficulties for the Soviet zone than any single action which the West has been able to take here in four years.

DAYS FAST SLIPPING

But the days in which this can be capitalized upon are fast slipping by. And as far as a reporter can determine, asking Germans and Americans alike the same questions, the explanation seems to be the disheartening simple one of bureaucratism.

There has simply not been the drive and the imagination to push through bureaucratic analysis of the problem and get something done. The main burden seems to lie with the Germans, but American initiative has equally been lacking.

This week's East German newspapers are flooded with statistics of what Russia, Poland and even China are doing to help the East German food situation, plus the news that the Soviet Union is granting a new credit of nearly $100,000,000 to the East German regime to buy tons of this, that, and the other thing.

NO SIGN OF FOOD

At the same time, one East Berlin paper has set the editorial line of retort by pointing out that all that has been seen of America's food offer to East Germany is a sign on a cargo net loading a freighter in New York, while Soviet food is already arriving here.

To say that the West might get East Germans into trouble by inviting them over for free relief supplies is to ignore the spirited and even heart-warming results which Mayor Willi Kressmann produced in his two different one-day, one-man relief efforts for East Berlin.

Another argument against Western action is that "we can't feed the people in Kemnitz or Leipzig and we might cause more resentment in East Germany than anything." Another is that the food situation in East Germany isn't really that bad.

But the food offer has clearly thrown the Communists on the defensive. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov implied that the United States was "misinformed" about the true situation in East Germany when he turned the Eisenhower offer down, and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl went even further to deny flatly that there was a food shortage. Now they are both eating their words, so to speak.

Experts Study Textile Production

SHERBROOKE (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said here Thursday night in a political address that Canadian experts are looking into United States textile production costs and their relation to selling prices.

Mr. Chevrier made the statement discussing a speech here Wednesday by Hon George Drew in which the Progressive Conservative leader said his party's election program included strict enforcement of anti-dumping laws to ensure employment to Canadian textile workers.

The transport minister said the present government has enforced the country's anti-dumping laws and a number of important steps to protect the Canadian textile industry have been taken.

MANY JOBLESS

He said by difficulties in the textile manufacturing centre of Manchester, N. H., thousands of workers have been unemployed.

The present government is better qualified than any other to solve problems in the textile industry, he told his audience.

"It is no time to impose tariff barriers against United States exports when we are asking the United States to remove barriers against our beef and other products," he said.

Free Trapped Girl

ATLANTA (AP) — Firemen worked for three hours in the predawn to free a 16-year-old girl wedged between the walls of two buildings. Using sledge hammers, picks and chisels, the firemen dug through a 12-inch wall, brick by brick, to reach Emily Louise Hill.

Britain Has Five Year Lead

United States Lags Behind In Commercial Jet Field

By BLAKE EHRLICH
Special to The Examiner.

ROME—I am starting to write this article eight miles in the air, travelling eight miles a minute, one of 34 passengers in a 36-seat Comet Jet-liner, Great Britain's most spectacular technical and comemrcial achievement in the post-war era.

We whined up from London Airport not 80 minutes ago, and now, below us, the Alps, which I on the ground and in other planes have always found so fearsome, rear up a puny 15,000 feet, an interesting but somewhat flattened pattern from up here. Soon we will break out over Northern Italy, and then, as we cross the first beaches of the Mediterranean the pilot will begin his landing, heading for a spot halfway down the Italian boot. At the end of a half-hour downward glide, we will be in Rome.

VOYAGE UNEVENTFUL

The passengers are as excited as kids at an amusement park, but excited by what they know, not by what they physically experience. In a jet plane of this size, the passenger's voyage is utterly uneventful, with no sensation of motion, no perception of the terrific speed, and little of the enormous height. There are no air pockets, no wing-tremblings, no bumps and lurches, no vibration. Although the senses accept their armchair comfort readily, the mind finds the non-excitement very exciting.

People around me have been playing the pencil game, first thought up—probably by a press agent—as a demonstration of the craft's stability. The game consists of balancing a pencil or a coin on end. That's all, except that in any other kind of transport, including a perambulator, you probably couldn't do it.

This sort of thing has been going on for over a year now, ever since British Overseas Airways Corporation inaugurated regular commecial jet flying. On the first anniversary, May 2, after 104,600,000 miles on its eight Comet planes, came the first crash, in Calcutta. The British attitude was very much "carry on" and "let's go forward," and after a small flurry of cancellations from Far Eastern ports, seat sales were back to their normal "nearly full" level.

The Comet, a small plane as long-distance craft go, has to be 72-per cent. full (as compared with a Constellation's 60 per cent) to break even, but it has proved so attractive to the public that it has consistently made a profit flying first to Johannesburg, then Ceylon, Singapore and Tokyo.

"The jet age in commercial air travel is not 'just around the corner,' it is here right now." This I heard in Britain from designers, manufacturers and airlines officials. This autumn the Comet II, bigger, faster, with longer range, will explore the North Atlantic air routes to learn the special tricks of flying at 40,000 feet between Europe and America. Early next year, it will fly regularly on the South Atlantic crossing.

And sometime in 1955, a Comet III—carrying 78 passengers 2,600 miles non-stop in five hours—will probably go into North Atlantic service.

Our American manufacturers have just this June begun delivery of their super types of piston-engined aircraft, perfection of their kind, but Comet pilots call them "old-fashioned airplanes."

U.E. LOITERED BEHIND

In the roaring commercial jet field, America, which up to now has supplied 80 per cent of the world's commercial aircraft, has loitered behind. France has and Canada soon will have Comet flights on their airlines, and Japan, Venezuela, and Brazil are awaiting deliveries. No American line is apt to have jet runs before Pan-American World Aiawrys receives its purchase of three Comet III's in 1956.

The only United States jetliner known to be in its birth throes is the sub-sonic, 3,000-mile-range, 120-passenger Boeing Jet-X. But it will not be ready for service until 1956 or 1957. This far-off date points up the fact that Britain holds an up-to-five-year lead over the United States in the transport jet race. The question the American public asks is: How did the U.S. get left behind?

The answer is that a big gamble had paid off for Britain. Faced with the prospect of being shut out of the air transport field, the British took the kind of chance that during World War II turned their fantastic scientific schemes into formidable weapons. They took a battlefield risk in peacetime—and won.

ALMOST KNOCKED OUT

As early as 1942—when victory was still uncertain—British Air Ministry planners set out to study postwar air transport needs. By the end of the war, it was apparent that the United States was far ahead in developing piston-engined planes. Britain was about knocked out of the plane building business.

"We felt," says R. E. Bishop, chief designer of the Comet, "that to embark upon the design of an airplane similar to the Constellation or the DC-6 or even an advance on those designs, would inevitably be five years late." So Britain turned to jets.

It was a bold step. At that time no jet transport had ever been designed, let alone built, in any country. At first Bishop's team toyed with the idea of on enlarged version of the Vampire jet fighter to carry six passengers and 1,000 pounds of mail across the Atlantic. But by September, 1946, they had worked up to a full-fledged jetliner.

The first designs were still on the drawing board when the jet scheme became a big-money gamble. BOAC, which is a nationalized corporation with the British government holding all preferred stock ordered 14 of the still nebulous jetliners and the government ordered two—in effect, a government subsidy. Even so, the manufacturer, de Havilland, had to put up $33,000,000. These investments were made with full knowledge that before one plane even took the air, the construction of flight models alone could run into seven figures.

The first plane in the air, two and three-quarters years later, was a far-from perfect model with engines redesigned from a military jet. But by May, 1952, Britain had not a pioneer model but a true jet transport.

The immediate results were a profitable new passenger service and a shot in the arm to British aviation manufacture which again became a major factor in the world market. British civil and military aircraft exports have risen from $45 million in 1946 to $120 million, mainly through the impetus of jets.

Officials Tagged

GODERICH (CP) — Ordered to enforce a 1923 parking by-law, police took their work seriously Thursday.

Cars they tagged included those of Magistrate E. D. Hole, Sheriff N. Hill, Court Clerk A. H. Erskine, Justice of the Peace Mrs. Mabel Gray and Court Crier George James.

Heavy Blood Donor

TORONTO (CP) — Karl Nilsson yesterday gave what he said was his 197th blood donation. The Swedish immigrant, who made the donation at the Red Cross blood-donor clinic, said he has been giving blood at Stockholm hospitals as often as once a month.

$200,000,000 Rehabilitation Fund Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders decided today to seek an initial fund of $200,000,000 for rehabilitation of Korea after an armistice.

The decision was reached at a White House meeting. Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and budget director Joseph M. Dodge sat in with the president and the Republican law makers for the 90-minute session.

Senator William Knowland (Rep. Calif.), acting majority leader of the senate, predicted at a press conference that a request for the initial $200,000,000 fund will be approved by Congress before it adjourns.

ADJOURNMENT JULY 31

He expressed confidence that adjournment will come by July 31 despite a considerable list of bills on which Eisenhower wants action.

Knowland estimated the cost of continuing the fighting in Korea for another year would be about $1,200,000,000.

He said the $200,000,000 for rehabilitation actually would come out of the defence appropriation for continuing the war and that in effect there would be a saving of $1,000,000,000.

Four Cabin Cruisers Dock In At Wharf

Four cabin cruisers docked overnight at the George St. wharf to take on gas and replenish supplies before pushing on ahead through the lift lock and on up through the canal.

They were Mr. and Mrs. P. Bakkie from Toronto in their 39-foot cabin cruiser Valron. They came up through Trenton and are planning to go on to Lake Simcoe for a three week trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller of Wallingford, Connecticut came up through the Erie canal and through the Mohawk river, through to Lake Ontario and then up through the Trent canal in their 32-foot cabin cruiser Moth. They are accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Freeman Pennington of Marriden in their 32-foot cabin cruiser Haresta. They made the same trip last summer.

The fourth boat was skippered by Mort Nusbaum, a Rochester, N.Y. TV announcer and master of ceremonies. He came up through the Rideau canal system and then on through the Trent canal in his 26-foot cabin cruiser Tee Vee. He is planning to go on to Burleigh Falls.

Murray Metcalfe Leaves City Hall

The staff of the City Hall presented Murray Metcalfe, assistant to City Engineer Chalmers, with a silver cigarette case and attached lighter at the close of the office business Thursday. The presentation was made by Mr. Chalmers.

Mr. Metcalfe has accepted an appointment in an engineering capacity with Timber Structures of Canada. He completed his municipal duties today. Appreciation of his services with the city was gratefully expressed by Mr. Chalmers who, on behalf of the staff, wished him a successful future with Timber Structures.

Mr. Metcalfe's resignation is the third from the city hall staff in the last few months. Preceding him in the severing of municipal ties were Sanitary Inspector Ronald MacPherson who went to Kingston's board of health, and Cyril Agnew, who left the assessment department to become Assessment Commissioner at Port Colborne. Mr. Metcalfe is remaining in Peterborough as an engineer with Timber Structures.

Bigger Heart Grant

BELLEVILLE (CP) — An additional federal grant of $60,000 has just been made available to assist research into heart diseases in Ontario, Health Minister Martin announced Thursday night. Previously the federal contribution was $40,000 but contributions from the province made it possible to increase the federal share, he said.

Theft Of Crystals

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The theft of thousands of tiny crystals used in the manufacture of lightweight U.S. army radio transmitters and estimated to be worth $100,000 was disclosed by the RCA Victor Corporation lant. Police reported they had taken a suspect into custody and said $90,000 worth of the crystals had been recovered.

80 Aircraft From U.S. Visiting Canada

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Eighty light aircraft from the United States are expected to converge Saturday on this southern Alberta city, jump-off point for a grasshopper air tour of six Canadian provinces.

Billed as the largest single mass flight to cross Canada, the Trans-Canada Air Tour is designed to provide an aerial holiday and emphasize the usefulness of light aircraft.

In other years, the air-minded business executives have gone to Alaska, Cuba and South America.

This year the trip is expected to be made by about 300 persons, including the occupants of 20 Canadian light aircraft. Larger "mother" planes will accompany the flight, carrying baggage and supplies.

The flight is sponsored by the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association and the Portland, Ore., chamber of Commerce. It will include aircraft from California, Washington and Oregon.

Five groups leave Portland Saturday for Lethbridge where they will be joined by Canadian aircraft. The planes leave here Sunday morning.

Stops will be made Monday in Ontario at Sioux Lookout, Armstrong and Kapuskasing where a few of the slower aircraft will remain overnight. Another 15 will spend the night at North Bay. The remainder will proceed to Malton Airport outside of Toronto.

The flight visits Ottawa Tuesday where a civic reception will be held.

Peterborough Whips Durham County 14-13

Peterborough defeated Durham 14-13 in the final softball game of the intercounty competitions at Belleville Wednesday. With a bye in the first round, Peterborough won their second round game with Hastings by 11-8.

Peterborough juniors also brought home the tug o'war title. Durham won the girls' softball series, and the combined young people of that county ran up the highest score in points for the afternoon competitions. John Edmison of Peterborough won the high jump, and Mary Raddon of Lakefield the girls' dash. Five counties competed: Prince Edward, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings, Peterborough.

R. S. Smith

Funeral for the late Raymond Stanley Smith, age 20 months, who died suddenly in hospital on Wednesday, was held today from the Lane funeral home to St. Martin's Cemetery, Ennismore.

Pallbearers were William Crough, Jack Harirngton, Fergus and Bob Young. Graveside prayers were said by the Rev. P. J. Lynch. Raymond was the son of John R. Smith and the former Teresa McLaren of Ennismore village.

Can't Attend

VIENNA (Reuters) — Rose Russel, president of the New York Teachers Union, has informed the Communist-dominated World Congress of Teachers that she can not attend it because the United States government will not allow her to leave America.

Campbellford's Power Plant Has Served Town Well, Advised To Sign With Hydro

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—An engineer's report recommends that Campbellford sign an agreement with the HEPC to insure against possible shortage of power during low-water periods.

When water is high or normal, the Crow Bay plant which supplies Campbellford can give sufficient power. In low-water periods the flow of power from the generating station is insufficient and power has been purchased from Hydro to make up the lack.

DESIGNED CROW BAY PLANT

The engineer who made the report is Charles U. Peeling, an American who designed the original Crow Bay plant.

Mr. Peeling describes alternate plans for getting more power as either impractical or uneconomical. He feels that the only worthwhile solution is to purchase power from the HEPC.

He remarks that "entering into a contract with the HEPC . . . will give you a reliable source of power, more economically than by any other plan which has been suggested."

Purchases from the HEPC would not be large for some years, Mr. Peeling indicates. He says in the report that the present plant should provide most of the electric power the town will require for "some years in the future."

Describing seven alternate suggestions, he discarded them all. The town could not depend on the present facilities; little would be gained by increasing efficiency of the present plant; reduction of the peak load by various means would not justify the capital outlay necessary; diesel-driven generators would be too costly to operate; gas turbine generators have not been fully tested and gas for them is not available; steam generation is too costly; enlarging the plant's capacity would ease but not solve the problem.

Until this time, the town has been depending on a co-operative interchange arrangement with Hydro. When Campbellford had spare power, it sold that to the HEPC; when the town needed power, it was purchased from Hydro.

NO VALUE TO HYDRO

Mr. Peeling points out that "Campbellford has now reached the position where its power output can be of no material value to the Hydro. If the tie . . . is severed, with no provision for prompt restoration . . . when it is needed, there is little doubt but that the citizens of Campbellford will . . experience serious inconveniences while Hydro will be able to go along merrily without assistance from the Campbellford plant."

He remarks that Campbellford's problem is a parallel to most other centres in Ontario. Most at one time or another had their own generating stations, and in time the needs outgrew the power available.

The Crow Bay station has been a good servant to Campbellford, having returned all the money invested in it and in addition having given the town more than a third of a million dollars which have been used to reduce taxes.

Smith Would Use Veto To Keep Red China Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep.-N.J.) said today that "as things stand now, I am sure we would use the veto" to block the entrance of Communist China into the United Nations.

Smith said in an interview he is greatly pleased at assurances given the Senate foreign relations Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., that the committee by a former member, U.S. can and should use its veto to keep Communist China out of the UN.

Lodge, former Massachusetts senator and now chief U.S. representative to the UN, testified before the committee Thursday in lively support of the world organization. It was his first report to Congress on his stewardship as UN ambassador.

EXPECTS PRESSURE

Smith, who heads the Far East subcommittee of the foreign relations group, said he expects "a lot of heat" from America's friends and enemies to get Red China into the UN after a truce in Korea.

"That's when we're going to have to have a stiff backbone," he said.

Both branches of congress are on record as being against admitting the Chinese Communists to the UN. President Eisenhower has said he is against it under present world conditions. The United States has never recognized the Communist government at Peiping and China's UN seat is occupied by the Chinese Nationalists.

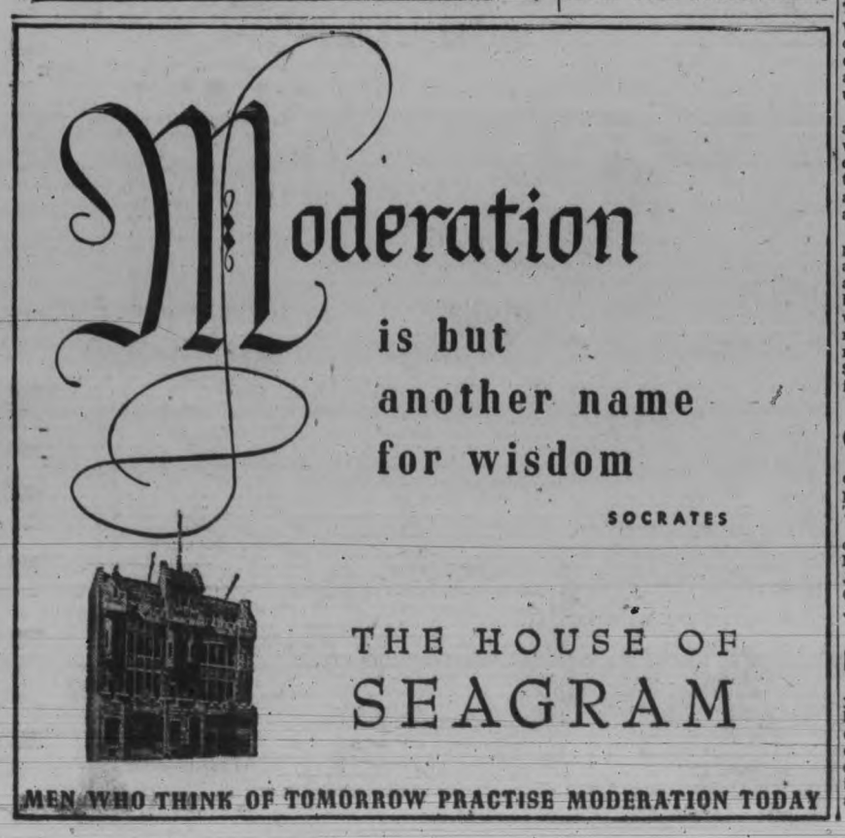
Charge Youth 17 With Seven Stabbings

ISTANBUL (AP)—Police today charged a 17-year-old Turkish boy with the fatal stabbings of his father, stepmother, and five brothers and sisters.

The brothers and sisters ranged from 2 to 8 years.

The family slaughter occurred at Acipayam, a farming village in southwest Turkey. Police said it started with a quarrel between the youth and his father.

Loaded Truck Burns Damage Said $5,000



KITCHENER (CP) — Firemen said a transport truck loaded with building materials was set ablaze today. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

The truck was parked in the yards of the Reliable Transport Company Limited. No one was injured. Most of the vehicle's contents were destroyed.

U.S. Conservative Opinion Beginning To Stiffen Against McCarthy Attacks

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN
(Special to The Examiner)

WASHINGTON. — If the most important event that has occurred in the world during the past few days is the fall of Beria, and the second most important is the meeting of the British, French and United States' foreign ministers, it does not seem an exaggeration here to suggest that only scarcely less important to the world is the stiffening of conservative American opinion to the activities of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

For several months there has been a growing anxiety among officials in Washington and intelligent and sensible Americans generally about the harm that McCarthy's wild accusations against persons suspected of Communism and against foreign governments—coupled with the general impression he has created that the United States is no longer a free country—is doing to American prestige in Britain, Europe and the rest of the free world.

Until last week, both President Eisenhower and Mr. John Foster Dulles, the Secretary of State, refused to take issue with Senator McCarthy. Many of the President's Republican party advisers have held that McCarthy's prestige and help is essential to the return of certain Republican senators with shaky seats in next year's election and that the White House cannot therefore afford a rift with him. But now the President has taken a firm stand on two issues and will probably take an equally firm stand on a third.

The first concerns an attack by one of McCarthy's staff on the protestant clergy. In the middle of June he hired as the chief investigator of his permanent subcommittee on government operations, a Mr. J. B. Matthews, who has been in his time a clergyman, a Marxist fellow-traveller and a minor official.

Two weeks ago Matthews published an article in a right-wing magazine, "The American Mercury" referring to the Protestant clergy as "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the world today." There was an immediate storm in the committee itself. One Republican and three Democratic senators demanded Matthews' resignation, and when McCarthy refused it, the Democrats resigned from his committee.

At the end of last week the National Conference of Christians and Jews sent a telegram deploring Matthews' action, and with a promptitude that confirms the rumor that their protest was arranged by the White House, the President replied that "generalised and irresponsible attacks . . . betray contempt for the principles of freedom and democracy." An hour later Mr. Matthews resigned.

Although the three Republicans on McCarthy's committee have stuck by his side, the Democratic members have so far refused to return to it, which robs it of a great deal of its authority.

In failing to refute an attack on the Protestant clergy, McCarthy has gone a long way to isolate himself, because many of the most conservative Democratic senators, such as Harry Byrd, of Virginia, or John McClellan, of Arkansas, who might not oppose him otherwise, come from strongly—almost militantly—Protestant regions of the south and southwest.

BOOK BURNING

The second issue was that of "Book Burning." For five months confusion has reigned in the State Department and the International Information Administration as a result of McCarthy's allegation that there were thirty thousand volumes by Communist or fellow-travelling authors in American overseas libraries.

Last week, the State Department—at the President's active instigation — issued a sensible policy directive that books should be eliminated only on the basis of their content, not on the political coloring of their authors. This was a direct challenge to McCarthy, for it means a return to a previous policy which he had loudly criticized.

Senator McCarthy, when he finds the opposition getting too hot on a particular issue, never bothers to defend his position, but attacks in a new direction. Consequently it was no surprise that as soon as opinion on the Matthews affair began to run against him, he should launch an attack against the one agency of the U.S. government which has so far been immune, the Central Intelligence Agency.

This highly secret organization is headed by Mr. Allen Dulles, brother of the Secretary of State. When Senator McCarthy subpoenaed one of its members, Mr. William Bundy, who is most respected in Washington, to question him about his gift of four hundred dollars to the defence fund for Alger Hiss (former State Department official convicted for perjury) Mr. Dulles put his foot down and said that the CIA did not permit its employees to appear before congressional committees.

OLD ENEMY

McCarthy had clearly hoped to refurbish his political capital by grilling Mr. Bundy, who, among other things, is the son-in-law of the Senator's old enemy, Mr. Dean Acheson (Secretary of State under the Democratic regime.)

If, as seems probable, the President backs up Mr. Dulles and thwarts McCarthy, the Senator has announced his next bid for the newspaper headlines—an inquiry into an alleged fraud on a South American government by some State Department employees.

It may be that we are witnessing the turning of the tide of McCarthyism. The Senator has aroused the powerful forces of American Protestantism against himself, and if the President is really prepared to join issue with him and to put some backbone into the other members of his administration. it is possible that the forces of American conservatism generally may mobilize themselves against McCarthy. For in the long run it is conservative, not liberal, opinion which alone can reduce McCarthy to his proper size.—(OFNS-Copyright).

EMBARGO WEAPONS GOING TO KOREA

Huge Generators Shipped By CGE To West

The first shipment of almost 500 tons of electrical equipment has been sent by CGE to the Aluminum Company of Canada's vast power development at Kemano, B.C.

The equipment comprises parts for one of three huge water-wheel driven generators to be installed in the first stage of construction at the multi-million-dollar West Coast aluminum processing centre.

The 140,000-horsepower generator, with the highest rating of any yet built in Canada, will be capable of generating enough electricity to light a million 100-watt bulbs.

The initial shipment, weighing more than 200 tons, was loaded on six rail cars, four of which were low-slung flat cars, specially designed for carrying loads of this size. The remainder of the equipment, weighing 250 to 300 tons, will be shipped early in August.

Work has been proceeding on the generator at CGE for about a year. The first shipment contains four sections of the huge stator which, when assembled, will have an outside diameter of 24 feet and a depth of 10 or 12 feet. The second, heavier, shipment will comprise parts for the rotor.

Each shipment is expected to take some three weeks to complete the 3,000-mile journey to Vancouver. There the parts will be transferred to ocean-going scows for their journey up the coast to Kemano.

At Kemano, the shipment will be loaded on trailer trucks for transport 10 miles inland to the generator site. Assembly of the generator is expected to take about three months.

MORE THAN A MILLION HUNDRED-WATT LIGHT BULBS could be illuminated by this mammoth generator (top), largest in capacity of any yet built in Canada. Now on its way to the Kemano power site of the Aluminum Company of Canada, the stator for the vertical, waterwheel driven machine is shown here under construction at the Peterborough works of Canadian General Electric Company. The huge generator dissembled into its four stator sections and subsidiary parts (lower), is seen as it begins its 3,000 mile journey. The shipment will be transferred at Vancouver to ocean-going scows for transport northward to the Alcan power site at Kemano. The four rail cars carrying the stator sections were specially designed for loads of this size.

Heavy Rains Cripple City

WINNIPEG (CP) — A violent electrical storm dumped more than one inch of rain on sodden Winnipeg Friday and lightning struck at three scattered points starting one fire that did $40,000 damage.

It was the 39th day of rain in the last 85 days. Back lanes were flooded, disposal of damp garbage was held up, and low-lying market gardens were drowned out.

One lightning bolt hit the Canadian Johns-Manville Co. building in the north end and damage estimated at $40,000 was done.

Proposes To Girl On Channel Swim

LONDON (Reuters)—When two champion swimmers fall in love there is no better place to pop the question than in the middle of the tempestuous English Channel.

That is just what has happened to Margaret Feather, 20, plump and pretty English swimmer, and Egypt's famed channel swimmer, Abdel Moneim Abdo.

Abdel is training Margaret for her annual attempt to cross the Channel. He proposed as Margaret plowed her way through the water covered with 16 pounds of thick grease.

"Abdel was in the boat shouting words of encouragement," said Margaret. "He bawled the most encouraging words of all—'Will you marry me?'"

Drew Calls On Liberals To Bare Record

CHAMBLY, Que. (CP) — Hon. George Drew said Friday night Prime Minister St. Laurent has not put his government's entire record before the voters, and called on him to tell about "hidden" mistakes. The Progressive Conservative leader said that Health Minister Martin, in a speech Tuesday, had said "We have made mistakes —more than you know about."

"Let the prime minister tell us what those mistakes are," Mr. Drew said. "That is an essential part of the record of his government which he promised to place before the people . . .

"It is time for a change, if for no other reason than to find out what the mistakes have been."

Mr. Drew campaigned on both sides of the St. Lawrence river Friday, speaking at Shawinigan Falls, Sorel and Chambly before arriving at Montreal late Friday night. Today he visits Laprairie, Ormstown and Valleyfield, and will make two appearances at election meetings in Montreal tonight to end a week-long tour of this province.

NEW GRAFT IN ARMY

At Sorel he referred to the arrest this week of one army officer at Camp Shilo, Man., in connection with the theft of $40,000 worth of scrap metal, and the arrest two days earlier of two other officers at Hagersville, Ont., "in connection with irregularities in contracts" at the army depot there.

"The evidence is piling up that the conditions are worse than have been suspected. The breakdown in the administration of the department of national defence is established more definitely every day."

The government had "ridiculed" the Progressive Conservative argument that savings could be made by efficient methods.

The evidence was before the voters that "the same loose method of supervision" described in the Currie report on the army works service continues "and that the tax money of our people is being wasted by the inefficiency of the largest spending department of this government."

Eight Flee To Freedom In Disguised Armored Car

MUNICH (AP)—A home-made armored car, so cleverly built that it fooled Czech border guards, crashed through the Iron Curtain today bringing eight persons to safety in the West.

Bavarian border police said a 31-year-old Czech mechanic, his wife and their two small children, two Czech soldiers and a civilian man and woman roared across to freedom near Wald-Muenchen in southern Bavaria. They asked asylum.

They first reported the vehicle to be a tank, but said later it was a beautifully-built armored car with tank treads, so well done that they had assumed it was a Czech army tank.

SOLDIERS HOLD FIRE

It was decked with foliage as camouflage and as it rammed through the barbed wire barrier near Wald-Muenchen, a Czech army patrol, heavily armed, watched it open-mouthed. They apparently believed it a Czech armored reconnaissance car and held their fire.

The first armored car escape from a country whose citizens have braved bullets and grenades to flee from Communist tyranny was also one of the most bizarre among a series of ingenious flights from Czechoslovakia.

In 1951 Westerners were startled when a Czech engineer stole a train and crashed into the West. And early this year a Czech airliner was commandeered in the air and flown to the West.

There have even been cases of Czechs arming themselves and shooting their way West.

But today's escapade topped them all.

Reds Trying Last-Minute Peace Ruse

Gen. Clark Refuses To Be Tricked On Surrender Plot

TOKYO (AP)— Communist delegates at Panmunjom are trying to pull a last minute ruse which would make the signing of the Korean armistice appear to be an Allied surrender.

But Gen. Mark W. Clark isn't falling for it, a usually reliable source said.

In fact, Associated Press correspondent Robert Tuckman reported from Panmunjom, the whole signing ceremony may be changed.

There is a possibility, Tuckman said, that the 27 copies of the armistice may all be signed in Panmunjom by the chief delegates and then mailed to the headquarters of the field commanders. This would eliminate the long-awaited meeting across the table of Gen. Clark, Generalissimo Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Red Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

DECORATION OF DOVES

The first move in the Red plot to set up the scene for a purported surrender was to have doves of peace plastered all over the signing site.

Clark, whose armies drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy during the Second World War, was never known to be a bird watcher. But he knew the Picasso-designed doves are the Red propaganda symbol of peace.

"Down come the doves," Clark is reported to have snapped, "or I don't go to Panmunjom." They came down.

"It was interesting to note that in the closing hours of the armistice talks, the Reds went right back to their old scheme which Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then United Nations Far East commander, had to whip back in 1951.

When the talks started at Kaesong, the armistice site was plastered with Communists signs and propaganda.

TOOK PICTURES

There were pictures of U.S. officers walking past armed Chinese soldiers and the inference was that the Americans had surrendered.

Picasso's dove was there too.

United Nations reporters were not.

Ridgway told the Reds to take down their signs and get the armed guards away from the door.

He insisted that U. S. military police join the armistice site detail.

And he insisted that United Nations reporters could attend if he wanted them to.

The first truckload which took off for Kaesong was stopped at Panmunjom by Chinese military police and refused permission to pass.

The talks faltered, but Ridgway won his point.

Now, in the last moments of the talks, it appears the Reds are going back to their old plot of trying to trick the United Nations into what would seem to be a surrender.

But Clark is a pretty smart fellow, too.

Four Canadians Die In Crash

MAHWAH, N.J. (CP) — A 47-year-old Levis, Que., woman died in hospital today, bringing to four the number of Canadian deaths resulting from a night-time highway crash between a Canadian car and a truck.

Latest victim of the crash in which three other Canadians were critically hurt was Mrs. Juliette Coulombe. She died in hospital several hours after the accident.

Other dead in the Route 17 crash were listed as Lucian Coulombe, 47, Levis, Que., driver of the car; a woman identified only as Mrs. Fenel of Levis and Diane Grosselin, 7, who died early today in Good Samaritan hospital at Suffern, N.Y., five hours after the accident.

The injured Canadians, all in a critical condition, were listed as Hugette Grossellin, 9, Diane's sister; Paul Grossellin, 41, Diane's father; and Lorenzo Duchesne, 47, of Levis.

The seven Canadians were en route to the Jehovah's Witnesses mass meeting in New York city when their car collided with the big tractor-trailer truck. The truck driver was unhurt.

Mad Muskie Likes Gnawing Toes, Paddles Takes Snap At Six North Bay Swimmers

NORTH BAY (CP)—A four-foot muskie with a taste for toes is lurking along the eastern shore of Trout Lake, two miles west of here.

The muskie has nipped one man's toe, torn a hunk of wood from a paddle and snapped at half-a-dozen swimmers in the last week. The "mad muskie," as he has been dubbed by lakeshore residents, is the "target for today" for fishermen in the area.

But the big fish, which has been seen indolently swimming under a wharf, has spurned the best of plugs, spinners and worms that have been dangled his way.

Monday, Cec Cole, of North Bay, was dangling his feet from the edge of the wharf when he felt a sharp stab of pain. He yanked his gashed toe out of the water and looked down to see the muskie swirl by.

A few hours later a fisherman near the same dock felt a tug on one of his paddles. He spotted the muskie with its teeth gripped on the tip of the paddle.

Since then six swimmers have been nudged by the big fish. And mothers in the area have stopped their children from swimming off the wharf until fishermen hook, net or gaff the muskie.

Suggest Armed Men Ride Trucks For Protection Against Violent Strikers

HAMILTON (CP)—Checking trucks for overloads is the latest tactic adopted by striking southwestern Ontario truckers. A provincial policeman at Sarnia Friday night described the method in this way: "They stood beside the road and signalled trucks to stop. If the driver pulled up, they talked to him and, if he agreed, they examined his load check for possible infraction of overload regulation. So far they have not reported any overload to us. But, if they do so, they are entirely within their rights and we have no recourse but to take the truck to the city weigh scales."

POLICE WARNING

Earlier police warned the strikers not to try to stop the trucking fleets by running into the roadway. The police were enforcing Premier Frost's order to make sure strikers did not molest vehicles.

As the wage strike by about 1,500 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) in the area between Hamilton and Windsor neared the end of its first week, the union called in a top official from Montreal, Frank Tobin, to seek an amicable settlement.

An outbreak Friday of beating of drivers and of damaging equipment and merchandise brought this advice to non-strikers from Crown Attorney Harold Daufman of Kitchener:

"Have a man ride as a shotgun guard with each load to protect it."

Outline Power Plans At Joint Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Plans for the first combined work between the Ontario hydro-electric power commission and the New York state power authority on the St. Lawrence power and seaway project were outlined at a meeting between the two chairmen of the power agncies here Friday night.

Ontario's Robert H. Saunders and John Burton of the New York authority arranged to accompany their engineering experts to a meeting in New York on Aug. 5 and 6.

Mr. Burton said he felt no start will likely be possible on major construction before winter. But he wants the U. S. engineers to bring up to date the plans they drew in 1942.

The U. S. chairman noted that the 30-day period allowed by the U. S. federal power commission for appeals against the scheme runs out on Aug. 14. He believes that if the FPC grants a rehearing the courts will expedite the matter.

Fishermen Get Assurances From St. Laurent

HALIFAX (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent headed for home and a week-end of rest today after talking to farmers and fishermen during his second election campaign swing through Nova Scotia.

Mr. St. Laurent, in a busy day Friday, spoke at Middleton, in the farming belt of the province, and then appeared at Bridgewater, not far from the deep-sea fishing centre of Lunenburg.

At Bridgewater, in the riding of Resources Minister Winters, the prime minister said he hoped the low-cost government insurance on fishing boats and some types of gear will eventually be extended to cover all equipment of the small commercial operators

"But we must be cautious," he told an audience of about 2,000 in the memorial rink.

BETRAYING CANADA

He attacked the trade plank in the Progressive Conservative election manifesto and said the party has been "betraying" Canada if it is holding back an undisclosed means of boosting external trade.

He said that if the Progressive Conservatives have a method to increase trade, it was their duty to have made it public long ago.

Earlier in the day, at Middleton, Mr. St. Laurent mentioned the disclosures of irregularities at Camp Petawawa.

"Probably a few thousand dollars worth of goods were misappropriated," he said.

He also hit at opposition complaints that some income tax officials are too strict.

"It does happen from time to time that some officials are too officious," he said, "and we do bring it to their attention."

Mr. St. Laurent returned to Halifax during the night and was scheduled to fly today to Mont Joli, Que. From there he will travel by train to his summer home at St. Patrick for a weekend of rest.

Then he starts out again, campaigning in his native province of Quebec and in Ontario.

Expect Truce To Be Signed Within Hours

Report Plans Ready For Armistice Signing Ceremonies

PANMUNJOM (AP)— Military personnel heading for Korea from Japan were ordered to give up arms and ammunition at Tokyo's Tachikawa airport tonight amid mounting reports that a Korean truce may be signed within a matter of hours.

An important announcement expected from Gen. Mark Clark's Tokyo headquarters was delayed at the last minute without explanation. There was no hint as to what the announcement would be, but Clark might announce the time for signing an armistice halting more than three years of bloodshed.

Allied and Communist liaison officers who met five times at Panmunjom today were reported to have wrapped up final details of a truce and completed plans for the signing ceremonies.

TOP SECRET

Exact arrangements for the signing were top secret, but informed quarters indicated original plans for the top military commanders of both sides to appear at Panmunjom have been changed and the truce negotiators will sign instead.

There was no explanation for the order banning arms and ammunition aboard Korea-bound planes, but it was an order which would be given if a cease fire had been agreed upon.

The order came from the commander of the U. S. 374th Troop Carrier Wing and presumably came from higher up.

Revised plans for the truce signing are reported to call for the senior armistice negotiators—Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., for the United Nations command and North Korean Gen. Nam Il for the Communists—to sign the truce and put it into force. It would halt the fighting within 12 hours.

The top military commanders—Gen. Mark Clark, North Korean Marsha, Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai—would sign

EXPECT TRUCE

India Charters 2 Truce Ships

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters)—India has chartered two ships to take to Korea the Indian troops who are to guard prisoners of war unwilling to be repatriated, it was learned today.

One of the ships is understood to be British, and the other Indian.

The vessels will leave for Korea after the Indian government has received a report from its seven-man advance team, which is expected to go to Korea within two or three days of the signing of the armistice for a quick on-the-spot study of the situation.

The exact number of troops—they have to be in Korea within two months of the signing of the truce—is to be determined in the recommendations of the advance party. It is understood that about 5,000 men have been kept ready to sail at brief notice.

Continue Search In Bush

Find Last Of Hunters' Missing Rifles

GASPE, Que. (CP)—Discovery in the bush of the last of the missing rifles belonging to three slain American bear hunters was announced early today and Capt. J. Alphonse Matte said pointedly:

"The provincial police now are giving all attention to search in the bush."

At the same time he authorized The Canadian Press to quote him further directly:

"The search will be continued as long as the attorney-general (Premier Duplessis) is not satisfied that everything has been done to find the complete remains of the three victims."

Discovery of two rifles, last of the four known to have been carried by the hunters, topped Friday's find. The all-day search also turned up one of the two missing pairs of binoculars, a hunting cap and more bones of the victims.

WON'T DISCUSS ARRESTS

Capt. Matte, who came from Quebec two days ago to take charge of the police investigation and search, could not be drawn into any discussion about suspects or possible arrests.

He made it clear that the immediate aim of the police is search and more search—for every clue, every scrap of evidence leading to a complete reconstruction of what happened and how it happened, why the Americans were killed and their bodies left to the depredation of bears.

"The rifles and other articles were found in an area extending about 400 feet from an unused logging camp where the scattered bones of 17-year-old Richard Lindsey and 20-year-old Fred Claar were found Thursday.

The remains of Eugene H. Lindsey, 45, the youth's father and head of the hunting party from Hollidaysburg, Pa., were found last week at another camp four miles eastward.

One of the rifles was found in the bush 200 feet east of the camp; the other 75 feet south. Earlier in the search one was found near the remains of the elder Lindsey and one in the hunting party's truck.

NO COMMENT

Capt. Matte offered no comment on reports that the police investigation is widening and that authorities in Montreal and other centres have been given specific instructions.

Informants here said one phase of the extended investigation would be the possible disposition of equipment that disappeared, although recovery of the rifles and pair of binoculars eliminates the more expensive pieces from the theory of theft.

But about $700 known to have been carried by the elder Lindsey has not been accounted for. Neither have cooking and eating utensils and food supplies carried in the truck.

Evidence that the hunters were shot was officially disclosed in Quebec Friday by Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard. He told of a bullet hole through the blood-stained shirt of one of the younger victims and of a bullet-damaged rifle strap belonging to the elder Lindsey.

Mystery Surrounds Ouster Of Zaisser Red Gestapo Boss

BERLIN (AP)—Mystery today surrounded the ouster of Red Gestapo Boss Wilhelm Zaisser. Rumors he is under secret arrest in east Berlin, victim of a "Beria purge" were offset by reports he would come back to head both army and police. Zaisser was suddenly replaced Friday as chief of state security by Ernest Wollweber and his 100,000 police agents were put under control of the interior ministry. It was the biggest Communist shake-up in the East German Republic's four-year history.

Rumors were that Zaisser, who often bragged he possessed a direct pipeline to Lavrenty P. Beria, had now forfeited his liberty because of his generation-long friendship with the purged Soviet police boss.

SEEK SCAPEGOATS

Unconfirmed reports said Willweber, in taking over Zaisser's office, had immediately begun a drastic investigation of all Zaisser's staff, seeking scapegoats who failed to weed out "Fascist provocaters" in Soviet zone industry before the June 17 revolt of workers.

Both Zaisser and his chief aide in the security ministry, Communist Erich Mielke, have vanished at least temporarily from public view in the continuing governmental crisis.

The rumors that Zaisser has been jailed, spread mainly by anti-Communist organizations with headquarters in West Berlin, were discounted, however, by several officers who had deserted from the East German army last week. They said that Zaisser is more likely to make a comeback as minister of the interior controlling both the secret police apparatus and the 125,000 men in the People's Army.

Willi Stoph, present interior minister and member of the Communist central committee has been under fire because many German troops were provine "politically unreliable" in fighting strikers in the June rebellion. As a member of both the politburo and the central committee, Zaisser had outranked him in the party.

Abandon Plan Increase Police

TIMMINS (CP)—The provincial police have called off plans to send scores of officers to a gold mine strike scene here where 10 non-strikers were kidnapped and beaten Friday in a raid on Broulan Reef mine property.

Word came late last night it has been decided to send only 25 "rested" policemen to take over from the 25 district officers who have been working long hours since the wage strike by 750 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) started two weeks ago. The local men will have a chance to rest and then will be assigned to such duties in the district as routine investigations and traffic patrol.

No explanation was given for the change in plans. Earlier it was reported that large numbers of police were heading for this Northern Ontario gold-mining area.

The "rested" men began arriving late last night from the Haileybury, Sudbury and Peterborough districts.

Inspectors D. V. Whitley and Ralph Crozier and Corporals John Fulton and Carl Wildfang questioned the men snatched from the mine property about what happened when men from a picket line invaded the mine workings.

RCMP Checking Ship's Log Book

TORONTO (CP)—The RCMP will investigate whether entries in the log of the freighter Burlington were changed after the ship was in collision with the grain laden Scotiadoc June 20 in Lake Superior.

Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court, presiding at the commission of inquiry into the collision which sank the Scotiadoc with loss of one life; said Friday he felt the matter of the log book should be cleared up.

He made his ruling after Peter Wright, commission counsel, asked his approval of arranging for the RCMP investigation.

Capt. George S. Ward of Burlington, Ont., master of the Burlington, was asked if changes had been made in the ship's log. He said there were no changes.

"Do you think there has been an erasure?" Mr. Wright asked.

Handing Capt. Ward a magnifying glass and requesting him to look at the log book a second time, Mr. Wright asked him:

"You don't perceive a difference on the paper?"

The Burlington's skipper said he could see no difference.

SUFFERS BURNS

Stanley Lott, driver for a Toronto area cartage company, was burned about the hands and face Friday when a "thunderflash" bomb was thrown into the cab of his truck on No. 2 highway just east of Chatham.

In the Brantford area, Ronald Fellows of Woodstock told police five strikers dragged him from his cab and beat him up.

A transport truck was destroyed by fire in the yards of Reliable Transport Company in Kitchener.

Numerous trucking companies reported tires slashed, sulphur put in gasoline tanks and explosives tossed through cab windows.

REFUSED TO INTERFERE

Strikers followed a London truck into Wallaceburg and asked police to compel the driver to open the truck for the strikers' inspection. Police refused to interfere and the truck went on its way.

The union originally asked for a 52-cent-an-hour pay boost. It has since scaled down its demands to an immediate 15-cent-an-hour increase with an additional seven cents by Aug. 1.

Drew Calls

ASKS REPUDIATION

Mr. Drew said the prime minister should repudiate "publicly and within the next few days" statements by Liberal supporters that a Progressive Conservative government would reduce family allowances and other social security payments.

Much of "this dishonest propaganda" was done by word of mouth but one Liberal supporter in Hamilton had published an advertisement saying: "Be sure the baby bonus and mother's allowances are continued. Elect a Liberal government."

"I hope the prime minister will make it clear," Mr. Drew said, "that he is not taking part in any campaign of fear being conducted by many of his followers."

CREATING FEAR

Mr. Drew accused Mr. St. Laurent, however, of "trying to create fear" in voters' minds by a speech at Halifax Thursday night.

The prime minister's speech had said the Progressive Conservative promise to cut taxes by $500,000,000 would mean reductions in expenditures and many recipients of government expenditures would wonder where the reductions would be made.

"There can be no mistaking the intention behind that statement. It is intended to create fear in the minds of those who are on the receiving end of government expenditures."

Yugoslav Visit To Washington Annoys Italians

•By FRANK KELLEY
Special To The Examiner

ROME—Some Italian government officials have worked up a full and angry head of steam over the forthcoming visit of a Yugoslav military mission to the United States.

To a limited circle of Italians who tend to confuse the military problem of dealing with a common menace, Soviet Russia—with that of settling a political and economic issue—the free territory of Trieste—the invitation from Washington to Belgrade is an act of unfriendliness toward Italy.

For reasons best known to themselves, responsible Italians are expressing the belief that Italy is just about to be "sold down the river" on the Trieste issue.

If that were true, of course, the United States government would not have taken the trouble beforehand to have informed the Italian Embassy at Washington that Yugoslavia had been invited to send over a military mission.

The explosion of feeling on Yugoslavia was regarded as another sign of the inevitable mounting Nationalism in Italy. It was a nationalism that was expressed in the results in the June 7-8 parliamentary elections in which the right wingers gained strength and the left maintained its relative numbers. Apart from internal problems of which there are many, Trieste is about the only external issue left for Italians to shout about.

1949 DECLARATION

Western diplomats here agree that the Italians cannot be ignored on their claims to most or to all of Trieste, particularly in view of the 1949 tripartite declaration favoring the return of the free territory to Italy. And they agreed likewise that with each passing month, Trieste is no longer an issue to be settled exclusively between Italy and Yugoslavia, or if it is, it will be settled by force of arms.

The Trieste problem has, in informed opinion, become an issue to be settled either by Washington and London forcing Rome and Belgrade to compromise, or by a "neutral" commission looking into the problem and recommending a settlement that Rome and Belgrade must accept in the face of world opinion.

Italy in general has favored a solution for Trieste along "ethnic" lines, meaning the retention of Italian-held zone A and of the coastal area of zone B, now occupied by the Yugoslavs.

IMPEDED A SOLUTION

The pro-government newspaper "Il Messaggero" said recently, "the facts have by now demonstrated that the policy of equal distance between Rome and Belgrade which has been followed by the three major Western powers has not been fruitful. It has only impeded a just solution of the Trieste problem and has given encouragement to the unreasonable platitudes of Yugoslav Nationalists."

Another prominent morning newspaper, "Il Tempo," says that the invitation to Yugoslavia has caused "many perplexities" in political circles and that Premier de Gasperi will have to dissipate them.

"The new government," Il Tempo added, "must not fail to take a firm and decisive attitude with regard to the allies putting the Trieste problem in just terms as well as relations with Yugoslavia. As a matter of fact the allies cannot forget that the solution of Trieste is a primary condition for whatever collaboration with Yugoslavia and with the Balkan defence system it is now desirable to create."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Price generally held to a narrow range in mixed trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Rye showed the widest losses, reflecting declines in United States rye prices. Flax was steady on industrial purchases and light offerings. Barley attracted further export interest. Oats received a little domestic support. Prices for the top grades of Class 2 and domestic wheat advanced one-quarter cent. IWA prices advanced one-eighth.

Brothers Meet In England After Absence Of 41 Years

After an absence of 41 years, Charlie Clark of 574 Charlotte Street recently greeted his brother Bob at the latter's home in Middlesex, England.

Mr. Clark, 58, Outboard Marine production clerk, was taken ill early in the year, and before he returned to work decided to go to Great Britain to visit his brother.

At a re-union at Twickenham, the two brothers who last saw each other in July, 1912, shook each other wildly by the hand. "Every year for 41 years, I've been promising myself a trip over here to see Bob," Charlie said.

"When I emigrated to Canada he came and saw me off at the docks, and gave me a long lecture on how to look after myself, including a few tips on the ladies. I'm now married and have a grandchild. I've lived in Peterborough since 1915 and am quite well known there as a singer. I would not have got here now but at the last moment two passengers gave up their seats on an air liner and I said to my wife, 'Quick, pack up, we're off to see old Bob.' Bob and I are the only two surviving members of our family. We have been to Westminster, London, to see the old house where we were born and are spending practically all the time visiting our old haunts in London."

Charlie's wife said: "They knew each other as though they had never been apart. They are just like a couple of school kids telling each other all the things they did as boys. I had given up hope of ever seeing Bob. They must have exchanged thousands of letters, and in each one Charlie would tell his big brother he would be coming very soon."

Bob Clark has no children. "I called together all the distant relatives that I could to have this grand re-union party," he told me. "Forty-one years is a devil of a time to be parted. But honestly when we met it was just as though we had always been near to each other. Young Charlie has told me so many times that he was coming over to see me I never really realized we had been parted 41 years when he did turn up. Canada certainly seems to have kept him well. He's so bright and full of life. I've dug up a few of the old songs he used to sing as a kid and he's going to sing them tonight."

Sure Russia Won't Start European War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, head of Western defence forces in Europe, has said he is convinced Russia will not start a European war.

"I do not think war is ever going to come," Gruenther, new supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, told the Senate appropriations committee at a closed-door session July 18.

His heavily-censored testimony, released today, reported Russia and her Communist satellites have superiority in ground, air and submarine forces over those of NATO, but that NATO forces are increasing in strength.

Gruenther's testimony was in behalf of President Eisenhower's request for more than $5,000,000,000 in new foreign aid funds. The House of Representatives has chopped more than a billion from that request and Eisenhower has asked the Senate to restore most of the money cut by the House.

WON'T GET STARTED

Gruenther told the committee: "We are going to stop this war from ever starting. I am absolutely convinced of that. These fellows (Russia and Communist forces) are no supermen. They have no edge on us at all."

He said the Russians have their own troubles like the recent riots in East Berlin and other Communist-controlled areas.

He termed those riots fantastic, and said they call for greater effort by anti-Communist allies.

"My contention and the plea I make is that if there ever was a time for relaxation, this is not it," he said. "This is the same type of situation you can meet in battle.

"If you have the enemy on the run, you keep your fellows up 23 hours a day.

DON'T LET UP

"In a commercial business if you have a sales campaign and you start producing results, you keep pouring on the advertising.

"We haven't got the other fellow on the run, but he is having pains and I certainly do not want to be one of the fellows that will get him out of that pain."

Gruenther said the Communist forces have been about the same for the last four years with 175 divisions, some 20,000 aircraft, and 300 to 350 submarines.

The general said Russian divisions number about 12,000 in strength while those of the British, French and United States number 18,000.

He said this did not mean NATO divisions were 1½ times as strong because the Russians concentrate on firepower and "a very austere program."

Britain's Labor To Demand Independent Foreign Policy

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER BY WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS

LONDON, Resolutions to be submitted to the British labor party's annual conference Sept. 28 show increased demand by the party's member organizations for "an independent" foreign policy, which would provide closer relations with the Soviet Union.

At least 15 statements to be submitted for approval of the 52nd convention criticize Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government for what is called its "subjection" by the State Department of the United States. One statement calls for withdrawal of U.S. Air Bases from Britain.

These formal expressions of local labor opinion are interpreted at party headquarters as a growing conviction among the rank-and file that "the new situation" in Russia offers chances not only for European agreement but of world peace as well.

At last year's convention, Aneurin Bevan, leader of the party's left wing and Labor's outstanding critic of American policies, led a formidable group of local party organizations against former Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee's support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's rearmanent policy. Mr. Bevan failed largely because the big trade unions endorsed NATO'O basic purpose of negotiating with the Soviet Union from strength.

MORE CAUTIOUS THAN BEVAN

This year the major trade unions again are likely to be more cautious than the Bevanite followers when the time comes for them to make foreign policy commitments. But for the moment, like the party's national executive committee, they are awaiting international developments.

The national executive committee recently decided that developments inside the Soviet Union make it impossible to draft a hard and fast policy in international affairs at this time. The arrest of Lavrenti P. Beria Soviet police chief, which came afer the committee's decision has reinforced the determination of Labor's leadership to wait and see.

However, the rank-and-file groups can be expected to press home their demands. While endorsing proposed four-power talks to explore chances of an East West understanding, they regard such a conference as merely a first step on the way to a general world settlement.

Hope Grows Of Finding Missing Yacht

HALIFAX (CP)—Hope of finding the missing pleasure yacht Gwenman rose today. Clearing weather allowed the use of aircraft in the search for the first time since the 42-foot yacht, fresh from the building yard, disappeared Monday on a trip across Cabot strait from St. Pierre to Sydney.

Aboard the yacht, now six days overdue, were Mrs. Gwendolyn Cameron, 30, the skipper; her sister, Mrs. Gladys Brown, 36, and 14-year-old Knobby Rushton, all of Springhill, N. S., and veteran sea captain Mann Trenholm, 73, of Pugwash, N. S., who was navigator.

Shortly after dawn an RCAF Lancaster from Greenwood, N. S., and a United States Canso from Argentia, Nfld., began systematic sweeps over the 100-mile-wide strait.

Meanwhile, the Lockeport, N. S., fishing boat Dynamite was towed into port by the RCMP cutter Slideout after being picked up when the fog cleared Friday night. She had been missing since Wednesday when her engine broke down.

Marine Forces Beat Off Reds

SEOUL (AP)—United States Marines defending three hill positions beat off 3,500 attacking Chinese today northeast of Panmunjom, where Allied and Red negotiators were putting the finishing touches on a Korean armistice.

A Chinese regiment hit three western front outposts in furious assaults that quickly carried into marine trenches, the U. S. 8th Army said.

One outpost—Esther—was lost in a bitter hand-to-hand fight, but was recaptured by counter - attacking marines.

The Chinese kept it up, however, and were putting on pressure hours after the battle started, the army said.

U.S. 5th Air Force planes flew more than 300 missions through the stormy weather, dumping bomb loads with electronic and radar sights. The air force said 10 Allied planes went down in Communist territory during the week ended Friday. Two were Sabre jets lost in air combat with Red fighters. Seven planes were downed by ground fire, and one Sabre was lost to unexplained causes.

UN Assembly To Meet 2-Weeks After Truce

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (Reuters)—L. B. Pearson, president of the United Nations general assembly, said Friday a Korean armistice may be signed within a few days. He added that a meeting of the general assembly would be held two or three weeks after the signing.

"We have reason to hope that there will be an armistice signed very shortly," the Canadian external affairs minister told reporters after a luncheon meeting with top UN delegates and Dag Hammarskjold, UN secretary-general.

He said that within 24 hours of the signing of an armistice he would move to call the general assembly into session. Aug. 12 has been mentioned as a probable date.

The assembly is expected to decide which countries will represent the UN at the political conference with the Communists to be held 90 days after an armistice.

Alaska's Volcanoes May Provide 'Awning' to Make Our Summer Cooler-

VIOLENT ERUPTIONS from Mt. Trident (left) and two other Alaskan Mountains, Mt. Magiek and Mt. Spurr, covered an area 500 miles square with volcanic debris, that caused "snowstorms" of ash which blacked out Anchorage, 80 miles from the nearest volcano. This car is shown covered with the ash. Anchorage residents wore dust masks for protection.

Clouds of volcanic ash and smoke from the recent eruptions of Mounts Trident, Magiek and Spurr in Alaska may produce cooler weather in eastern U.S. This theory is advanced by Dr. Harry Wexler, chief of the Science Services Division of the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington. The volcanic clouds blanketed an area 500 miles square. The ash, carried thousands of miles, acts as an insulating "awning" between the sun and the earth. Newsmap below shows how theoretical "awning" could drift over Canada and eastern U.S.

Cold Surgery Performed For First Time

TORONTO (CP)—The first "low body temperature" surgery in Canada was performed Thursday on a Vancouver woman who was suffering from a rheumatic heart disease.

Dr. W. G. Bigelow of Toronto told of the operation on Mrs. Doris Sleeman at the Toronto General Hospital and said it ended six years of research and experiment.

Dr. Bigelow said Mrs. Sleeman's heart was in a state of "failure" and was not supplying enough blood to carry oxygen to all parts of the body.

In the new technique, the body temperature is lowered by wrapping special cooling blankets around the patient. The chilling process, by slowing down the basic metabolic rate, slows down the rate at which the body requires oxygen.

UNDER DIRECT VISION

This permits surgery on the heart under direct vision. In Mrs. Sleeman's case her temperature was dropped from 98.4 to 86 degrees. Normal body temperature is 98.4 degrees.

In the actual operation, Dr. Bigelow opened the mitral valve of the woman's heart and cleared an obstruction that had hampered the free flow of blood.

Hospital authorities said Friday Mrs. Sleeman's condition is "satisfactory."

Expect Truce

at their respective headquarters later.

No reason was given for the reported change in plans, but Korean sources said Friday Kim might not travel to Panmunjom, which would account for the change.

There was no official word as to when the truce would be signed, but Washington officials said Friday there would be 24 hours advance notice.

Allied and Communist liaison officers met again Friday. These officers normally arrange meetings of the full truce delegations, which would approve the date for signing ceremonies.

Authoritative sources both in Korea and in Washington agreed the signing would be Sunday or Monday—barring a last-minute switch by the unpredictable Reds or some new disruptive move by South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

State Secretary Dulles was noncommittal when asked about prospects of an early truce.

He told reporters as he left a White House conference that he was "neither optimistic nor pessimistic." And when they asked if he could enlighten them on the prospects of a truce signing over the week-end, he replied:

"I'd like a little enlightenment myself."

President Rhee, who warned bluntly Friday that some Allied agreements with the Communists "cannot be allowed to happen" voiced no further threats as the signing deadline approached.

Dulles sent Rhee a new message Saturday replying to one which Rhee sent Dulles Friday. The message was delivered by U.S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs, who would say only that it "concerns the recent negotiations we have been having the past few days."

NOTICE CHANGE

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea (AP) The faint beginnings of a cautious live and let live attitude could be detected along this war-devastated sector of Korean battle line today.

It combined extra vigilance with reluctance to stir up the Communists more than necessary.

Shooting dropped off here, although the Reds continued to attack in the west. But even as the fighting dwindled, tension mounted—tension fed on the realization that UN soldiers face one last ordeal, regardless of when the truce agreement is announced.

That ordeal will be the final hours of the war after the agreement at Panmunjom is signed and the actual cease-fire goes into effect 12 hours later.

For more than a month the 8th army has had standby orders in the hands of frontline commanders—specifying just what the troops will do during that final 12-hour period.

A single word will put those orders into full effect. The details are classified, but in general they will probably call off all offensive action by the Allies unless the Communists attack or obviously prepare to attack.

COMMANDERS WORRIED

Some U. S. commanders are worried, however, about what may happen if the intervals between the Panmunjom agreement and the formal signing is long delayed—say as much as 24 hours or two days or so.

That would leave front units in the position of having the war ended for all intents and purposes—yet with no formal cease-fire to stop the killing or to guarantee against a last-minute Red assault.

It would put many commanders in the awful position of sending out patrols at the risk of death or injury to their men—or risking an even more ruinous surprise attack by some die-hard Communist storm troops grasping fanatically for one last victory.

No More Posters

HALIFAX (CP)—Campaign posters on lamp posts have been a familiar sight in this port city but the board of trade has got rid of the practice so far as the Aug. 10 federal election is concerned. The three major parties have accepted a board request not to use the posters.

Defence Administration Comes Under Fire From PCs

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent says that if the Progressive Conservatives have a "secret weapon" to demolish the dollar-pound trade barrier, they are "betraying" Canada if they don't disclose what it is. The "secret weapon" topic was injected into the federal election campaign by the prime minister Friday at Bridgewater as he closed out a two-day tour of Nova Scotia. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, still campaigning in Quebec, flayed the government for what he said is spreading maladministration in the defence department. At Dauphin, Man., CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said a CCF government would nationalize the farm machinery industry "to provide farmers with modern, efficient and low-cost agricultural implements."

Mr. St. Laurent referred to the Progressive-Conservative promise to expand world markets for Canadian products by breaking the dollar-pound barrier, which prevents sterling-currency countries buying from Canada.

He termed this a "secret weapon" because, he said, the Progressive Conservatives had been talking about it since 1949 without saying what it was.

BETRAYING INTERESTS

"If they have some method of putting our overseas customers in funds which they have been keeping secret since 1949, then surely the Conservatvie party has been betraying the interests of the Canadian people to get a party advantage."

If Mr. Drew or any other Progressive Conservative knew of any "magic formula" to enable Commonwealth and other countries to get more dollars to buy Canadian goods, it was their duty to have given the formula to Parliament.

"I am afraid, though, the truth is that this is just another example of Conservative wishful thinking," he added.

At Shawinigan Falls, Que., Mr. Drew referred to the recent arrests of three army officers and said these were further symptoms of the "disease" of waste and inefficiency diagnosed in the Currie report on the army works services.

Obviously, he said, supervision of Canadian Army camps was no better than before. The same loose administration was still prevalent.

NOT BEEN CURED

"When you see further arrests, you can see this disease has not been cured and is still spreading." The voters would be the doctors Aug. 10 and "you're going to have a chance to cut very deep and cure this disease."

Mr. Drew quoted Mr. St. Laurent as saying in a Halifax speech the previous night that tax cuts promised by the Progressive Conservatives would mean reduction in expenditures and would make some recipients of these expenditures wonder whether the reductions would affect them.

"He is trying to create fear in the minds of those who are receiving government payments," Mr. Drew said. His party had made it clear it would not reduce family allowances or other social security payments but that taxes would be cut by $500,000,000-a-year by eliminating overtaxation, waste, extravagance and inefficiency.

INADEQUATE POLICY

Mr. Coldwell blamed the "critical condition" of agriculture—the gap between farm prices and farm costs—on the government's "inadequate and short-sighted" policies. The prices support program had been a "dismal failure." It was the packinghouses and large processing interests, not the farmer, which had benefitted largely from the program.

The CCF leader said the Liberals' farm policy had failed in at least three important ways: The government had permitted excessively wide price spreads to develop; it had failed to maintain anything near parity prices; it had permitted prices of farm implements to rise out of all proportion to farmers' returns.

At Toronto, J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative financial critic, said his party, in asking voters to elect Mr. Drew as prime minister, is not asking them "to buy a pig in a poke." Electors had only to look at Mr. Drew's record as Ontario's premier.

At Lancaster, N.B., Defence Minister Claxton said the Progressive Conservative pledge to lop $200,000,000 off defence expenditures alone is "just fantastic."

At Wallaceburg, Ont., Health Minister Martin said the real election issue is whether the government has shown by its record that it is capable of leading the country in domestic and international affairs. The government has done just that, he said.

Mr. St. Laurent rests this weekend at his summer home at St. Patrick, Que., before the final two weeks of the campaign. Mr. Drew will speak at St. Jerome and St. Eustache, Que., today before returning to Ottawa Sunday. Mr. Coldwell will be at Teulon, Man., tonight and resumes his campaign Monday at Winnipeg.

Prime Minister Tells Story Of Horses, Stolen Sidings

BRIDGEWATER, N.S. — For the first time during the present election campaign, Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday offered a defense against Progressive Conservative charges of maladministration in the army works branch at Petawawa and elsewhere in the Defense Department.

He dealt with the now celebrated story of the horses on the payroll at Petawawa, the theft of a railway siding and its replacement with another, and the alleged disappearance of the whole Farnham military camp.

Addressing nearly 2,000 persons at the Middleton rural school auditorium in the apple-growing Annapolis Valley, Mr. St. Laurent repeated the denial he gave last session in the Commons that there had ever been horses on the payroll at Petawawa.

What had happened was that the Treasury Board had been hesitant to increase the wages of civilian laborers at Petawawa, so an army sergeant had sought to get around the difficulty by hiring men who would not work for the Treasury Board rates by classifying them as teamsters, who customarily get a higher rate of pay.

IRREGULARITY APPROVED

This irregularity had been approved by the commanding officer, said Mr. St. Laurent, and both he and the sergeant had subsequently been penalized for it.

Mr. St. Laurent's large audience jammed the auditorium and overflowed outdoors to listen over loudspeakers.

It was an enthusiastic crowd, but the fact that a great laugh went up at the mere mention of horses was another indication that the politicians in Ottawa were wrong last session when they, one and all, agreed that the incident was a dead issue, politically. Opposition Leader Drew has witnessed similar hilarity among his audiences every time he mentioned the horses.

According to the Prime Minister a CPR siding was stolen. Then those who stole it realized they might be liable to some reprimand as Mr. St. Laurent put it. So they had taken rails from an old unused CNR spur nearby and used them to replace the CPR line.

Similarly, Mr. Drew has made much of the Farnham military camp, which, according to him disappeared almost completely. Mr. St. Laurent asserted that at the end of the Second World War it had been decided there would be no further use for this camp and the government-owned War Assets Corporation had sold what it could of the buildings and equipment.

But for some property there had been no bidders, Mr. St. Laurent said, and this worthless material had been left on the site. The unsaleable things had disappeared and that, said the Prime Minister, was the Conservative story of the disappearing camp.

Mr. St. Laurent was speaking in the constituency of Digby Annapolis-Kings represented in the last parliament by George Nowlan, president of the National Progressive Conservative Association.

STANDING ROOM ONLY—Every seat was taken this week when Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew spoke at Thetford Mines, Quebec, where the largest crowd on record gave Mr. Drew a thunderous ovation as he reiterated his pledge that the Progressive Conservatives could reduce federal taxes by at least $500,000,000, without reducing the level of social security payments.

Women Going To Elect PC's Walker Declares

TORONTO—Women, with their more practical approach, are going to help put the Progressive Conservative Party in power, David J. Walker, Progressive Conservative candidate in Rosedale, said at a riding meeting Friday night.

"They have felt more than anyone else the impact of grossly high taxes and the high cost of living which make it impossble even in these days of full employment to set aside very much for a rainy day."

Women, he said, kept a closer eye on expenditures than men. Men were not always so conscious of high taxation "because so much of their tax dollar is taken from them by the method of painless extraction in indirect taxes."

Mr. Walker suggested that price tags on such items as television sets imported from the United States show the cost of the set, the tax and the final price.

Tax Reductions Very Inaccurate

LANCASTER, N.B. (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton said Friday night tax reductions promised by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew were "1,200-per-cent inaccurate."

Mr. Claxton told a theatre audience of about 200 it should be possible to reduce defence expenditures if the Korean war ends, but Mr. Drew's promise to lop $200,000,000 off these expenditures was "just fantastic."

"I don't say for a second that taxes cannot and will not be reduced," Mr. Claxton added. "We have passed the peak in our construction and tuning-up program for defence, so that I hope other savings will be made."

Macdonnell Lauds Drew's Record

TORONTO (CP)—J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Toronto Greenwood in the federal election, said Friday night that, in asking the voters to elect George Drew as prime minister, his party is "not asking them to buy a pig in a poke."

He said in a campaign speech the voters have only to look at Mr. Drew's record as premier of Ontario.

"The people of Ontario have five years' experience of George Drew as prime minister, from 1943 to 1948, and every man, woman and child in the province has reason to be grateful for what his government did to encourage and stimulate development."

Expanding Economy Surprises Gov't—Howe

KITCHENER (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Friday night government surpluses have developed because the economists would not believe the Canadian economy would expand as fast as it actually did.

Addressing about 100 persons at a Kitchener city hall assembly-room meeting in support of Norman Schneider, seeking re-election in Waterloo North, he said expanding production brought more tax revenue than was anticipated. The government used the resulting surpluses to reduce the national debt.

Murphy Lashes Back At Howe Statements

SARNIA (CP)—J. W. Murphy, seeking re-election to a third term as representative of Lambton West lashed back Friday night at Trade Minister Howe, who urged Lambton Liberals Thursday night to "get this man Murphy off my back and out of the House of Commons."

Speaking at a Progressive Conservative rally at Sarnia Township hall, Mr. Murphy vowed he would "stay on Mr. Howe's back until I ride him right out of Parliament."

For a man so autocratic and contemptuous of democratic government as Mr. Howe, there was no recourse but to "get on his back and ride him out," Mr. Murphy asserted.

Liberal Record Good—Martin

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Health Minister Martin said Friday night the real issue in the federal election is whether the government has shown by its record that it is capable of leading the country in domestic and international matters.

The government has done so, he said in an address in support of Hugh MacKenzie, who is seeking re-election in Lambton-Kent. Under the leadership of Prime Minister St. Laurent, it had maintained outstanding co-operation among all provinces.

Abbott Urges Careful Study

GALT (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott urged Canadians Friday to think carefully before pressing their representatives to embark on new and expensive spending programs.

"A nation's tax structure can be driven to the point where it kills the human incentive to productivity," Mr. Abbott, on a federal election campaign tour, said at a Kiwanis Club meeting.

PM's Itinerary

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent will campaign in Ontario next week, taking time out for a look at the Shakespearian Festival at Stratford Tuesday night.

His itinerary:

July 27—London; July 28—Tillsonburg, St. Thomas, St. Mary's, Stratford; July 29—Dunnville, Welland, St. Catharines; July 30—Caledonia, Jarvis, Simcoe, Brantford; July 31—Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville, Kingston, Brockville, Cornwall.

Notices Movement

HARRISTON (CP) — Gordon Graydon, MP for Peel, told an election rally Friday night that all across Canada a movement among Liberals toward the Progressive Conservative party is significant. Mr. Graydon was speaking on behalf of Marvin Howe, PC candidate for the newly-formed Wellington-Huron riding.

CCF Helped Get Social Measures

BRANTFORD (CP) — Old age pensions and other social measures enjoyed by the Canadian people today are on the statute books because there have been a few CCF members at Ottawa, Stanley Knowles, MP in the last house of Commons for Winnipeg North-Centre, told an open-air meeting here Friday night in the interests of Jack Gillies, CCF candidate in Brantford.

Mr. Knowles said the benefits to the people of Canada would increase, in keeping with any increase in CCF membership in the House of Commons.

17 Die In Blaze Set By Arsonists

CEBU, Philippines (Reuters)—Seventeen persons have died and three are missing in a $1,500,000 blaze set by aronsists Friday night.

Police today rounded up for questioning 12 Filipinos and Chinese suspected of starting the fire.

The fire, described by police as "the most disastrous in Cebu's history," was the second in two days to raze a business district of the city. The first, on Thursday, caused $250,000 damage.

Striling Rinks Bowl At Belleville

STIRLING —(ENS)—Three rinks of Stirling bowlers attended the Cavalier men's triples tournament in Belleville last week.

A rink composed of F. Jeffrey Earl Fox and H. R. Tompkins won the prize for highest score among 2-game winners. Others attending were Ray Mallory, A. Livingstone, F. R. Mallory, Don Rodgers, R. Cooke and A. Fraser.

Stirling ladies weer represented at the ladies triples tournament in Belleville on Tuesday by Mesdames G. Finkle, R. D. Paterson, E. Green, A. Bastedo, R. Cooke, A. Frazer, H. West, J. Hough and R. Burgess.

Ex-Cabinet Minister Dies From Wounds

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Mohammed Abbud, former cabinet minister who was shot four times in the stomach as he left the presidential palace Thursday, died today from an internal haemmorhage.

The man alleged to have fired the shots, Mohammed Aly Sheik, and a political opponent, Suleiman Alalay, have been arrested.

Abbud and Alalay were candidates—from feuding clans—for Akkar constituency in north Lebanon in an election planed for Sunday.

Contracts Awarded

STIRLING (ENS)—The Centre Hastings High School Area board has awarded the contract for a new boiler house at Stirling High School to W. Spencer and Sons of Campbellford and the contract for a new roof to Roy Eggleton of Stirling.

Senate "Old Folk Home" For Politicians—Coldwell

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP)—CCF leader Coldwell Friday night attacked two election opponents and took a passing crack at the Senate—"that old folks' home for retired politicians." Speaking to an audience of 200 persons, mainly farmers, he denied Social Credit leader Solon Low's claim that Social Credit was the first group to campaign for family allowances. Labor urged the allowances before Social Credit was heard of, said Mr. Coldwell.

Mr. Low didn't mind what he said "so long as he can get something over. And if he can wrap it up in a text from the Bible so much the better."

Mr. Coldwell attacked Progressive Conservative leader Drew for his claim that his promised tax cut of $500,000,000 would mean $175 to every family.

DON'T BELIEVE IT

"Don't believe it," said Mr. Coldwell. "It will go to his rich friends. The little fellow will get just what he got out of Mr. Abbott's last budget."

Under Finance Minister Abbott's budget, said Mr. Coldwell, a man who received $9,760 a year in dividends for investment in Canadian companies would pay no income tax but a man who earned the same amount would pay $1,653.60.

Turning to farming, Mr. Coldwell said the wide gap between prices and costs has undermined the security of the producer. For every dollar the farmer gained in price rises during the last seven years, he lost more than $2 in increased costs.

EXCESSIVE SPREADS

The government had allowed excessive price spreads which helped "only the big interests that act as middlemen," and its prices support program had been "a dismal failure."

The CCF would ensure fair and stable prices by guaranteed forward prices based on one parity. The implement industries whose profits were "too high" would be brought under public control. So would the large packing houses and processing interests. The party would promote co-operative marketing.

Calls Red Government "Bankrupt Regime"

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—President Eisenhower today called the Red government of East Germany a "bankrupt regime" and predicted eventual "liquidation of the present Communist dictatorship and the Soviet occupation."

The president, here for conferences of defence leaders, made public a message he has sent to Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany calling anew for free elections in Germany and "the formation of a free all-German government, leading to unification" of the country.

Warehouse Fire

PARIS (Reuters)—Fire caused about 100,000 francs ($285,700) damage in the main warehouse of the Gare de Lyons, Paris railroad terminal. A neighboring warehouse, threatened by the flames, contained hundreds of casks of ammonia. The blaze was under control in two hours.

PC Candidate Unhurt In Car Collision

KITCHENER (CP) — Elizabeth Janzen, Progressive Conservative candidate for Waterloo North in the Aug. 10 federal election, escaped injury Friday night when her car collided with another vehicle.

Driver of the other car, Mrs. Constance Simmons of Elmira, suffered a broken collarbone, a fractured shoulder and broken ribs.

Question:

Mr. Swanston, the Conservative booklet "Pocket Politics" charges heavy expenses for national publicity. What about that?

Answer:

Yes, the complaints are against the Film Board and the CBC, principally. Certainly they cost money, but they make Canada known to the ends of the earth. It is bad economy for a country to hide its light under a bushel. And everybody in this district knows the fine job the Film Board does in Peterborough Riding, and particularly in the rural districts.

Toll Of Politics Sends Many Faces Out Of Commons

By JOHN LeBLANC

OTTAWA (CP)—The inexorable toll of politics is sending many familiar faces out of the Commons.

Apart from what casualties the electors inflict Aug. 10, at least 30 members of the House at dissolution will not be around when the Commons meets for the next session.

Some have gone to the Senate or taken other government appointments. Others have retired, voluntarily or because their ridings went out of existence in the last redistribution of membership. A few were not renominated.

Two cabinet ministers are among those who will not be back. Works Minister Alphonse Fournier recently became a justice of the Exchequer Court of Canada. State Secretary F. Gordon Bradley went to the Senate.

RUNNING IN P.E.I.

Prince Edward Island, with only four members, is the single province where the exodus has not already begun. All its members of the last House are running again.

By provinces, here are the number of members indicated as not running again:

Newfoundland, two; Nova Scotia, four; New Brunswick, two; Quebec three; Ontario, seven; Manitoba, four; Saskatchewan, three; Alberta one; British Columbia, one.

In addition, there are three ridings where, because of redistribution, two members of the last Commons are opposing each other. One or another of these will not return.

In Newfoundland, Mr. Bradley has given up his Bonavista-Twillingate seat, while Liberal W. R. Kent has resigned the Humber-St. George's seat to become a district judge.

NOVA SCOTIA CHANGES

Nova Scotia has had three withdrawals and one member redistributed out of a seat. Percy Black, a three-term Progressive Conservative, retired in Cumberland. Liberal W. F. Carroll of Inverness-Richmond, who has had a long career as a Commons member, Nova Scotia justice and member again, retired. So did Frank Stanfield (PC—Colchester-Hants). Dr. Donald Smith (L—Queens - Shelburne) lost his riding in the redistribution.

In New Brunswick, A. D. Leger, Kent Liberal, went to the Senate. E. W. George, Liberal, was not renominated in Westmorland.

In addition to Works Minister Fournier in Hull, the two Quebec members definitely leaving are Liberals Leonard Tremblay of Dorchester and Sarto Fournier of Maisonneuve-Rosemount, both appointed to the Senate.

FOUR LIBERALS RETIRE

Four Ontario Liberals retired. They are R. M. Warren, Renfrew North; Hughes Cleaver, Halton; Walter Little, Timiskaming, and A. H. Jeffery, London. House Speaker Ross Macdonald of Brantford and Joseph Bradette of Cochrane, former Liberal deputy speaker, were named to the Senate. Earl Catherwood, Progressive Conservative, was left without a constituency when Haldimand was redistributed.

In Manitoba, Leslie Mutch of Winnipeg South, parliamentary assistant for veterans' affairs, became deputy chairman of the Canadian Pensions Commission. Arthur Ross (PC—Souris) lost his riding in a merger and went into the Manitoba Legislature. Howard Winkler (L—Lisgar) resigned. W.J. Ward (L—Dauphin) was not renominated.

Another Manitoban—Liberal J.S. Sinnott of Springfield—also failed of renomination but has not been written off, as he is running again as an independent Liberal.

In Saskatchewan, F. H. Helme retired from Prince Albert; H. B. Whiteside's Swift Current seat was involved in a redistribution merger, and A. C. Stewart, in Yorkton, retired. All are Liberals.

Alberta's single casualty is H. H. W. Beyerstein, Social Credit. His Camrose riding was merged.

British Columbia has lost an Independent. John L. Gibson of Comox-Alberni returned to private business.

REDISTRIBUTION FACTOR

Elections where one member or another of the last House is sure to be defeated are in Melville, Sask., and the new Ontario ridings of Huron and Glengarry-Prescott.

In Melville, Agriculture Minister James Gardiner is being opposed by Percy Wright, CCF, who lost his own Melfort constituency under redistribution.

Two Liberals are running in Glengarry-Prescott: Raymond Bruneau, who sat for Prescott, and W. J. Major, member for Glengarry.

In Huron, the opponents are A.Y. McLean (L—Huron-Perth) and L. E. Cardiff (PC—Huron North).

Beyond what new faces the Commons resignations will bring in, there will be three additional members of the House—whose membership goes to 265 from 262 as the result of redistribution.

FILL VACANCIES

Also, five seats vacant at dissolution will be filled in the general election. These are:

Nova Scotia: Cape Breton North-Victoria, whose Liberal member, Matthew MacLean, died this year.

Ontario: Toronto Danforth whose Progressive Conservative member, Joseph Harris, died.

Saskatchewan: Qu'Appelle, from which Liberal Austin Dewar resigned.

British Columbia: Victoria, whose member, Fisheries Minister Robert Mayhew, became ambassador to Japan; and Vancouver South where Arthur Laing quit to become provincial leader of the Liberals.

CANADA'S MINISTER for External Affairs, left, was photographed with the Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac, when he spoke in Bancroft on behalf of Mr. Foster.

Corroboration Of Peterborough's Growth

Everybody knows that this town has grown; even strangers can see the evidence in new buildings. People who live here or are otherwise familiar with the place know that the boundaries have been extended, the population has grown and industry and commerce have spread. The evidence is before the eyes. The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has put together some figures which corroborate the physical evidence, figures relating to the industries which have ten or more employees.

* * *

In 1945, at the war's end, Peterborough industry employed 8,625 persons, paid $14,254,180 in salaries and wages, and the value of their products was $69,960,755. By 1949 these figures had all risen substantially: 9,591 employees, pay rolls totalling $23,586,512, and products valued at $100,033,462. The statistical evidence of expansion continues. Last week there were 10,495 persons on Peterborough industrial pay rolls, earning approximately $33,830,000 all told in a year. The gross value of Peterborough products manufactured by these industries last year was $129,788,493.

* * *

The latest figures show by comparison with 1945, that in dollar value Peterborough production has doubled, pay rolls have more than doubled (they are actually 237 per cent. above the 1945 payrolls) and the number of people employed has increased by 1,870. We wish to emphasize that this increase was not a war-time boom (there was a war-time boom, of course) but it is a post-war expansion. The population statistics reflect this expansion. In 1945 Peterborough had 32,379 persons; this week the population is estimated to be close to 41,000. This is a remarkable thing about the expansion, and it is a point too little observed, perhaps because it is so obvious and so much a part of the general post-war boom in Canada: the expansion, to repeat, is post-war.

* * *

The usual process following a major war is a recession from war-time peaks; or at least a settling-down to a static situation. So it was in Peterborough following the Great War of 1914-18. In the seven years from the 1919 peace the population of Peterborough rose from 21,230 (1919) to 21,519 (1926), an increase of only 289 persons in the eight post-war years. This was not even keeping the normal increase due to excess of births over deaths. Contrast this with the eight post-war years ending now, an increase in Peterborough population of more than 9,000. Peterborough, of course, cannot in isolation take credit for the post-war prosperity and expansion; these reflect and have been caused by the general prosperity and advance of Canada as a whole.

* * *

One interesting side-light to the Chamber of Commerce's figures is this: they are for fifty plants in Peterborough employing ten or more persons. In view of the predominance of three or four major industries, it is somewhat surprising that there are as many as fifty manufacturies of one kind or another in the city.

559 Million Dollars Vis-a-Vis Latin America

It has been exceedingly hot in Mexico; there has been snow in the Argentine. We mention these divergencies of weather to indicate that what is called Latin America is a pretty big place; in fact Latin-American Mexico is in another hemisphere from Latin-American Argentina and they even have their winters six months apart. This big area populated mainly by people of the so-called Latin races is a tempting region for Canadian trade exploration and exploitation.

If Canada is fearful of having all her foreign commercial eggs in one basket—as she is—and if trade with Britain is dwindling—as it is—what more lucrative area is possible for new and expanded trade than Latin America? Unlike have-not countries of Europe and underdeveloped countries of Africa, Latin American countries have the markets and means to buy Canadian goods.

Canadian businessmen and official trade offices have been busy cultivating the Latin American people. The proof is in the figures. Since 1939 Canada's trade with Latin America has increased eighteen times in value. Last year it amounted to $559 millions. The area purchased in 1939 only two per cent. of Canada's exports and supplied about two per cent. of our imports. Last year it took about six per cent. of our exports and Canada bought there about seven per cent. of her imports.

Close and strong commercial relations with Latin America are not new. Few Canadians seem to realize that one of the largest firms in South America, Brazilian Traction, is Canadian. The fact is that Canada has invested, all told, about a thousand million dollars in Latin America, chiefly in public utilities, mining, banks, insurance and industry.

Trade is said to follow the flag. In Latin American countries (with which Canada has never been at war) the flag has often followed trade—the diplomatic flag. The first Canadian diplomatic mission to be opened in the region was a legation in Brazil, only in 1941. Previously there had been representatives of the Department of Trade and Commerce here and there. Diplomatic offices multiplied during and particularly after the war. Now nearly every country from Mexico to Chile has a Canadian ambassador, minister or consular officer. For instance, there is a Canadian Trade Commissioner at Guatemala City, whose territory includes Costa Rica, the Canal Zone, Nicaragua and Panama.

Which brings us back to summer heat; they say that that particular territory is desperately hot a good part of the year, too hot for further discussion here at this hot time of our year. Before we leave the subject we might remark that trade with the Argentine (where snow fell earlier this month) has declined, from $22.8 millions in 1951 to $12.6 millions last year. This does not distress us, for the Peron regime in the Argentine is not one with which most Canadians prefer to have intimate relations. However, the trade between Canada and the Argentine has not decreased because of Canadian moral and political scruples. The Argentine is one of the few countries of the area whose economy is not complementary to the Canadian. For instance, Argentine and Canadian wheat and beef compete with each other on the world market, as we painfully realize when Britain buys from the Argentine and not from Canada.

Why Higher Gasoline Prices?

When the price of bread or milk rises there is public agitation, because bread and milk are considered staples, essential to everybody. Therefore the price is a matter of public weal. One does not eat or drink gasoline, nevertheless in this country gasoline has become almost as essential to domestic life and public welfare as bread or milk. Therefore any change in the price of gasoline is of public concern.

The largest producer and seller of gasoline in Canada has increased its wholesale price of gasoline by 1.4 cents a gallon. Peterborough retailers have consequently raised their prices by a cent and a half. The company has not, in our opinion, given an adequate explanation of the necessity for the abrupt increase, other than to say that world oil prices have risen and that the American dollar has a higher exchange value. What of our vaunted Canadian oil? Was not one of the great blessings which the development of Canadian oil fields would bring, a new independence of foreign oil and foreign oil prices?

Incidental to the increase in gasoline prices has been a rise of half a cent in the price of fuel oil, a fact which many householders will have to face in the Fall.

The cheaper price of gasoline in the United States—cheaper even when allowance is made for the smaller American gallon—is often remarked by Canadians. The assumption that this is due to higher taxes on gasoline in Canada is not the full explanation. The difference in taxes is not as great as the difference in retail prices. The higher Canadian price points to two things, first, that Canadian production and distribution of gasoline is less efficient in Canada, and secondly, that gasoline retailers get a higher mark-up, or profit, on each gallon that they sell.

The Use Of Churchill

Since the war the power potential of the St. Lawrence seaway has been its chief stressed advantage, yet the original intention—its navigational use—remains important, really the more important value of the development. In the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes system this continent has a truly momentous possibility: a seaway to its very heart, four thousand miles inland from the ocean. The commercial, social and military value of this unique seaway is incalculable.

Canada already has a seaport far inland, at Churchill, Manitoba, on the western shore of Hudson Bay. How little use this port is in comparison with the use to which Great Lakes seaports could be put—when the St. Lawrence seaway is ready—may be realized from this fact: the port of Churchill was opened officially for this year's navigation only this week. The Great Lakes were open for navigation three months ago. Churchill will have to close again early in the Fall. The Great Lakes will be open until November. Shippers of wheat and other produce find Churchill a useful inland port. How much more useful will Great Lakes ports be, farther inland as they are, nearer the continent's great centres of population and production, and open twice as long.

Shadow Plays Of Old China

By O. M. GREEN

AMONG many signs of the Chinese Government's interest in the drama as a means of political education, a recent account of their revival of the ancient shadow theatre is particularly interesting.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THIS the shadows of marionettes, manipulated by an unseen operator, are cast from behind on a screen by a bright lantern, while the story and songs (these are an essential part of all Chinese drama) are chanted by a colleague. The skill of the performance and the charm of the plays performed — mostly fairy stories and ancient folk lore — constitute an art which, even if it must be tinctured with heavy and humourless Marxist maxims, should not be allowed to die.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOBODY knows how or when these shadow theatres began. The orthodox drama was well established in the sixth century A.D. (the 'Augustan Age" of the T'Ang dynasty) and attained its greatest literary development in the Mongol dynasty, roughly the thirteenth century, in which all the greatest classical plays were written.

✧ ✧ ✧

BETWEEN these two, in the Sung dynasty (eleventh to twelfth century A.D.), the shadow theatre was already flourishing in South China. It seems to have come rather later in the north. The style of the southern shadow theatre was generally softer, one might say more sentimental, in character; the northern was livelier, specialising in martial heroes and vigorous acrobatics.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE FIGURES were cut out of parchment made from donkey-skin and brilliantly coloured; being transparent, their colours showed up well on the screen. Appropriate scenery was added. The figures were controlled by thin slips of bamboo held in the operator's hands, the movement of legs and arms being manipulated by strings.

✧ ✧

THE WHOLE performance is — or was in its heyday — amazingly clever and realistic.. The figures danced, strutted and postured like real actors. Fairy princesses flew through the air on clouds, there were grand transformation scenes and breath-taking acrobatics. (The speed, daring and perfect timing of these in the real theatre must be seen to be believed.)

✧ ✧ ✧

THE SUCCESS and popularity of the shadow theatre were due to the ease with which it could move from place to place. There was no large company of actors (no actresses; all female roles in the Chinese theatre are played by men) and no heavy boxes of costumes and props to be transported. All the paraphernalia could be packed in one box, and a temporary theatre was easily erected. All Chinese, from peasant to potentate, love a good play.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE the Revolution in 1911, however, the shadow theatre has sadly dwindled away. First, the widespread disorders in the wars of the Tuchuns (war lords), then the Japanese invasion, then the Communist upheaval, have been fatal to such pleasant pursuits. And since the defeat of Japan, other amusements have tended to displace the shadow theatre — the cinema, in which a very flourishing Chinese school had come into existence even before the war, and radio, even in country towns.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT MANY years ago there were over thirty shadow theatres in Peking; when it fell to the Communists there remained only one.

This one, however, (the report from Peking tells us) is run by a veteran, highly skilled operator, named Lu Ching-Ta. Under him new operators are being trained and shadow theatres sent out to the North China villages.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT NEED, perhaps, scarcely be said that the old repertoire of the shadow theatre, abounding in princesses and fairies, demons and dragons (the dragon, by the way, in China, is always a beneficent beast) has been enriched with "modern themes."

The nature of these themes may be gathered from another report from Peking of several dramatic and musical troupes, including some of the best actors, which have been sent out on a six-months' tour of factories, mines, river conservancy works, and so on.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEIR programme, we are told, includes such items as "Dawn Over Moscow," a Russian play by a Stalin prize-winner, "describing a struggle between conservative and progressive ideas in a textile mill"; and "Forty Years' Dream Comes True," describing the construction of the Chungking-Chengtu railway.

But the workers are also to see some of the best Peking operas, which combine singing, dancing and acrobatics. So it may be that the peasant audiences in the shadow theatres will still be allowed a few fairy princesses and dragons.

Out Of The Red?

(Brantford Expositor)

In the United States, where folk tend to go all out for or against a thing, "red" seems to have beome a dirty word. Remarking on this, Saturday Night, Toronto, observes that "red" is scorned as a noun, an adjective and a color. Thus Cincinnati's baseball club is no longer the Cincinnati Reds but the Redlegs. A publishing house put out a book with a red dust-jacket, then switched to a delicate blue for the next edition. With the rise of the movement to make "red" unprintable, our contemporary wonders what will happen to red garments, red cosmetics and, for that matter, red roses. Will it become libellous to describe a person as red-faced? Will there be a national switch to yellow tomatoes?

Further questions come to mind. In financial circles it never was popular to get "in the red." Can such misfortune be averted by the new fashion in language?) Is a book called "The Red House," by A. A. Milne, to be banned on the ground that the title is suggestive of Communism?

Here in Canada some sections of the populace, including a number of politicians, have quaintly restrictive ideas of what substances should be coloured yellow? Will the anti-red cult become a companion piece of idiocy? If so, it will be unforgivable to describe the Senate as the Red Chamber and some crackpot will suggest sooner or later that the Mounted Police discard their scarlet tunics.

On reflection, however, we incline to agree with Saturday Night which thinks the phobia will run to seed in the U.S. when, sooner or later, it reaches that indispensable term, "red-blooded American."

THEY HAVE NOTHING IF NOT VARIETY

The Rise Of The Sherpos

By RAWLE KNOX

THROUGH the feats of Tensing Norkey, who climbed to the top of Mount Everest with the New Zealander, Edmund Hillary, the Sherpas—men of that wild and woolly tribe who live in Solo Kuhmbu, at heights well over ten thousand feet in Northern Nepal—have become the heroes of India. Though not one Indian in a thousand has ever seen a Sherpa, and those who have were wont to dismiss him more often than not as a barbarian coolie, the conquest of Everest has clothed him in a snowy glamour.

Foreign mountaineers have indeed for long been the only persons to recognize the great-heartedness of these smiling, exceptionally unwashed "men from the east." (Originally they came from Tibet: hence the meaning of the name given to them.) Dr. Kellas, in 1902, was the first Himalayan climber to use them as porters, and since then they have been organized into an elite corps under the patronage of the Himalayan Club, and the title "Tiger" was given to those who have carried loads to 25,600 feet. Twenty-three of them have lost their lives on various Himalayan expeditions.

Sherpas can in no possible way be compared to Swiss guides in the Alps. They are porters pure and simple, though remarkably stout-hearted ones. As a member of Colonel Sir John Hunt's expedition commented: "I'd no more expect to see the sky cave in than see a Swiss guide fall during a climb. But it's nothing exceptional to find oneself hauling a Sherpa out of a crevasse, upside down, still smiling, and his load still intact."

Though their daily wage on the recent Everest expedition was only three-and-a-half Nepali rupees a day (about 3s.6d.), those who could carry to the higher slopes earned good bonuses. These bonuses indeed are the main goal of a Sherpa joinging a Himalayan expedition.

While Sir John's party were on Mount Everest one Indian newspaper correspondent stationed himself at Namche Bazaar, that semi-circle of huts perched on a hillside which is the main village of the Sherpa community, in order to get news of the expedition's progress from returning porters. The only thing he could ever find out was how much any particular Sherpa had earned in bonuses.

Finally, when he heard the news of the climbing of Everest on his radio, and went out to spread it among the villagers, he found none of them in the least interested. (The world might be shouting the triumph, but after all only one Sherpa, Angnima, had carried a load up to Camp Nine, and none beyond). The journalist gained serious attention only when he suggested that the Sherpas, by assisting in the conquest of Everest, had at last done themselves out of a good annual job.

Young Angnima was an extreme example of the Sherpa's mixed pride and avarice. Below twenty thousand feet he was so idle that Major Wylie, who was in charge of the porters, would have sent him home but for Tensing's insistence that the youth had a good record at higher altitudes. And after twenty thousand feet, he would carry anything at any time, with the greatest contempt for fellow Sherpas who were not as tough as himself.

The Sherpa's pride (like his demand for higher wages) has developed through fifty years of foreign Himalayan expeditions. Though he has for centuries traded over the nineteen-thousand-foot Nangpa La pass into Tibet, he never before thought of climbing as anything but a necessary evil. Now there are men like Dawa Tondu, at forty-nine the oldest Sherpa with Sir John's party, who was the only porter to carry more than once from the Advance Base Camp to the South Col (twenty thousand feet), and who cheerfully volunteered to repeat his heavy task.

Dondu, the cook, wearing a trilby hat and smart Swiss breeches at over twenty thousand feet, and boiling soup that never really got warm because of the high altitude, was the saviour at one time or another of every member of the party. Because he knew his importance full well he had a personal train of six porters, who were said to be carrying kitchen stores, but their loads were strongly believed to contain mostly Dondu's wardrobe.

Whether they live in Namche Bazaar or have settled in Darjeeling (starting point for so many expeditions), like Tensing and his main rival, Ang Tharkey, Sherpas allow themselves to be greatly dominated by their wives. So forceful was the wifely reception to the returning Everest party at Namche Bazaar, that the train of porters dwindled within a few days from over three hundred to less than sixty, though many of the men would dearly have liked to carry on till Katmandu, where they intended to celebrate heavily on rakshi, their rice spirit, and chang, which tastes like a wet, slightly alocoholic bran mash. But pay day came at Namche Bazaar, and the wives were waiting. (OFNS-Copyright).

TV Expansion In U.K.

(U.K. Information Office)

Within a month of what has been described as "T.V.'s finest hour"—the televising by the B.B.C. of the whole of the Coronation—comes the news that by the end of next year TV will be made available to 90 per cent of the population of the U.K. New T.V. stations will be set up at Aberdeen, Belfast, the Isle of Wight, Plymouth and Pontop Pike in Durham. Stations will also be built to serve the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man. This news will give an even greater impetus to T.V. equipment production in Britain.

Gift To Coventry

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and leaders, and scribes, and Annas the high priest, and Caiphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem . . .,

Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, if we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole; be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole. (Acts 4:5,6,8-10.)

Letter To The Editor

LAKEFIELD'S WELCOME

Sir: On July the 21st the village of Lakefield was honoured by a visit from the Right Hon. Lester Pearson, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Whatever may be one's political opinions one has to admit that Mr. Pearson is one of Canada's leading men, a man who has not only an important position in the Cabinet, but one who has made his mark in the eyes of the world as a prominent member of the United Nations.

It seems, therefore, somewhat discourteous, if not downright boorish, that certain members of the village of Lakefield should receive Mr. Pearson with a supposedly humorous parade of horses in fancy dress, purported to aim reflections upon government mismanagement at Petawawa.

Mr. Pearson is a very busy man, and a servant of his country. That no better reception could be afforded a man of his standing on his visit to a small place such as Lakefield would seem to argue a smallness of mind commensurate with the locality.

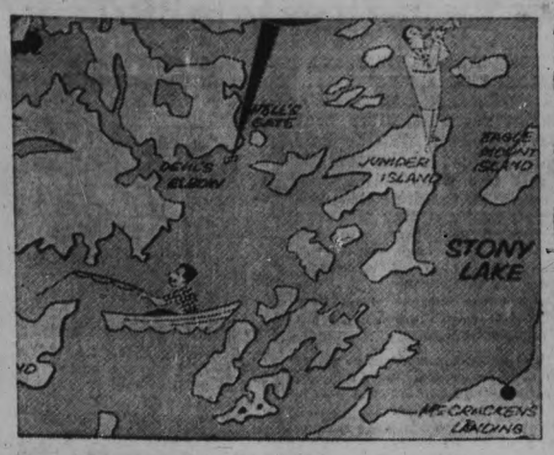
Yours truly,
A CONSERVATIVE.

Lobster Lament

(Ottawa Evening Citizen)

While some electors fret at being left off the voters' list and other are critical of an election date set smack in the middle of their annual vacation, Maritime lobsters have grounds for even more serious complaint.

The federal government has announced that in order to allow lobstermen the opportunity of voting, the opening of the lobster fishing season in Northumberland Strait between Prince Edward Island and the mainland will be advanced to August 7 from the usual August 10. Lobstermen will be able to set their traps and return to their homes to cast ballots on election day.



Much as this may mollify lobstermen, it provides precious little comfort for the long-tailed "Homaris Vulgaris." Lobsters may lose weight or turn purple at the thought of an additional three days of hazards.

One atom of consolation for them: this is the first August federal election called since Confederation and prospects for another in the foreseeable future are probably remote.

"There's several reasons why you can't finish your game tonight—one because you're not Drobny and he's not Patty, and another because you're clearing out and I'm locking up."

ISLAND CHURCH FOR KAWARTHA VACATIONERS

St. Peter's-On-The-Rock Stony Lake Sunday Idyll

By NICK NICKELS

In 1913 a group of Church of England cottagers erected a small frame church on a small island where Lower Stony, the Burleigh Channel and Clear Lake converge.

These pioneer churchmen must have had their tongues in their cheeks in choosing this particular spot for their edifice. The sulphurous, hard-working lumberjacks of the last century named the tortuous main channel "Hell's Gate". An adjoining crooked waterway they called the "Devil's Elbow" and the Anglicans, in carrying the Truth to the very threshold of the Pit, called their church "St. Peter's on the Rock."

INSTITUTION FOR 40 YEARS

It has been an institution in the Kawarthas for the past 40 years and, following a recent Sunday morning visit to a service, your reporter can state that the institution is stronger than ever and will likely continue to grow in strength in ratio to the increasing popularity of that particular section of the Kawartha playground.

More than 175 Protestant parishioners crowded St. Peter's that day. They started to arrive at 10:30 a.m. by outboards and canoes —in equal numbers—and sailing dinghys and by 11:03 were still pouring into the plain pine pews.

Ladies in colorful summer dresses and hats—though a few of the younger ones did not wear head coverings. Men in blazers, flannels and open sport shirts and a sprinkling of male tourists in shorts and plain jerseys with camera cases slung from their shoulders. There were children of all ages. Most of the toddlers were encased in small orange life preservers. Two dozen or so late arrivals joined the service from the cement walk outside the open doorway. It is clearly a case of "standing room only" at St. Peter's.

The old familiar hymns starting with "When Morning Guilds The Skies," the appropriate Lesson telling of Simon-Peter the fisherman, the responses of the congregation and the short friendly sermon came clearly through the open windows. During quiet moments of the service there were sounds of waves lapping on the rocks and light breezes soughing through pines. The atmosphere was delightful.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT COTTAGE

Before the sermon the small children went out of the church to the rector's cottage where Sunday School was held and the standees were then able to find seats. Following the service there was a brief period of visiting at the front steps and on the two wharves, and in a very few minutes the church and docks were deserted as parishioners roared off to their Sunday dinners. The white building with its handsome red cedar tree and beaver-chewed poplar stump at the front door was silent for another week.

Services for the month of July are being conducted by the Rev. A. G. Channen of All Saints' Church, Whitby, and in August will be taken by Canon C. J. Frank of Holy Trinity Church, Toronto. More than 50 clergymen have conducted services at St. Peter's since its founding in 1913.

SERVICES AND BUILDING

Before that time the original founders held church services on cottage verandahs and in summer pavilions. Dr. A. W. Mackenzie, headmaster of the Grove School, Lakefield, and his brother, Professor M. A. Mackenzie, of Toronto, were the prime movers. L. F. Lillicrap of Lakefield donated the island property for the church and rectory cottage. The original subscription fund was $499.15 and the building was finally erected in 1913 and dedicated in 1921 by the Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeney, Bishop of Toronto.

George M. Douglas of Lakefield recalls that auspicious occasion when My Lord Bishop was entertained at the cottage of Mrs. Lawrence Graham following the service. On his arrival at the Graham wharf the hostess waited in a long flowing black silk dress to meet him. Making a deep bow of welcome to the Prelate she lost her balance and fell backward into the water with a great splash. The solemnity of the Bishop's arrival melted immediately.

Dedications of the simple church furnishings are as follows:

1923—A prayer desk given by Mrs. Graham and daughter Miss B. Graham in memory of Mrs. W. Graham of Lakefield. Dedicated by Canon C. W. Hedley.

1932—An altar presented by the Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Brewin in memory of their son, John H. Brewin. Dedicated by the Ven. Archdeacon Warren.

1934—The lectern presented by T .H. G. Denne in memory of his daughter, Alexandrina, and dedicated by Archdeacon F. J. Sawers.

1937—Altar rails presented by Archdeacon and Mrs. Sawers and dedicated by the Rev. R. J. Shires.

1940—The chancel chair dedicated in memory of the Rev. A. W. Mackenzie by the Rev. J. L. Hughes.

1941—The prayer desk dedicated in memory of the Rev. Charles Hedley by Archdeacon Sawers.

1951—The paten and chalice dedicated in memory of Mrs. F. H. Brewin by Archdeacon Sawers.

There are few, if any, backsliders at St. Peter's services but at the time of your reporter's visit there was one, young Master Mulholland of Montreal. He didn't want to attend Sunday School. But after his father confined him to the family boat to sit in penance in the hot sun, he repented loudly, but with no avail. It is very doubtful, however, whether his father's stern threats to keep him from swimming for the rest of the day were ever put into effect. The family left for their cottage in a very happy frame of mind.

A FLEET OF PLEASURE CRAFT brings parishioners to St. Peter's.

Cricket Before The Duke

By C. H. IRESON

Cricket has a long and honorable record in Peterborough's sports history.

Peterborough was incorporated as a town in June, 1850. Its first inhabitants were immigrants brought over from Ireland in 1825 by Peter Robinson, and in 1827 it received its name for that reason and rapidly grew in size and importance and no doubt some of the newcomers brought Cricket with them.

There is no definite record of the actual formation of a club but there is no doubt that one was formed and flourished as in our Peterborough newspaper of 1855 it is recorded that the club erected a shelter for ladies who attended the matches. The game was so successful that in 1870 a professional was engaged as playing coach—at that time there were some thirty towns and villages playing the game.

There was a match between East and West Peterborough on May 26, 1863, and there were clubs in Millbrook and Westwood and the chief opponents of the local club were Port Hope, Lindsay, Cobourg, Lakefield and Whitby.

DUKE PRESENT

One of the most interesting matches of those early days was one between a combined Peterborough-Cobourg team and Toronto, played in that city in 1861. To quote a contemporary account: "The weather was delightful and the attendance numerous and fashionable—the visit of H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh adding especial eclat to the scene." On September 14, 1884, a "grand match" was played between Peterborough and the Duke of York's Rangers for the benefit of Norley, the local "pro." In this match we first see recorded the name of Sam Ray, afterwards so closely associated with Peterborough cricket, and he made his presence felt by scoring 101 and 53.

In those days there were test matches between Canada and the United States and Sam Ray played for Canada in 1879, 1880, 1881 and 1883. There were regular contests between the two countries in those days and of 31 matches played, U.S.A. won 16, Canada 8, drawn 7.

But turning to more modern times the game prospered here in Canada. The Peterborough club fielded a team reguarly until the First World War when cricket was not played here, but after the war was ended the game was again played and prospered.

To show that native-born Canadians appreciated the games great interest was taken in an annual game between teams of Canadian-born and British-born players. One of these matches was played on May 24, 1875. The score sheet was patriotically headed "God Save the Queen" and the Old Country men won by 29 runs.

TWO CLUBS

Coming to more modern times, the games prospered in Peterborough, and while during the First Great War there was no cricket here, during the Second World War it was carried on. The G. Whitaker club had been formed in 1934. During the war the two clubs pooled their resources and shared the few matches available but they kept the game going and finally there was a definite amalgamation and the present name of Peterborough-Whitaker Club adopted.

Turning to the course of events after the First World War the old Peterborough Club was reorganized in 1924 and played reguarly under that name until the union with Whitaker's during the Second World War.

The first meeting of the Old Club was held in April, 1925, with R. N. Stuart, president; C. Thorpe, captain; P. Manning as secretary. In 1926 F. Dyer was appointed captain and began a very long term of office. He was re-elected in 1931 and then served until 1949 —18 years of continuous service. During that time he took more than a thousand wickets for the club. Even after he resigned his captaincy he was still bowling, though 56 years old. He rendered the club invaluable services and in recognition was made an honorary life member.

COTTAGER CLERGYMAN, the Rev. A. G. Channen, of Whitby, and rector's warden Jim McClellan, of Toronto. —(Examiner Staff Photos).

In 1948 the team was strengthened by the arrival in Peterborough of a few young enthusiastic cricketers from the British Isles. Since then the club has done well enough, though, of course, there were disappointments. They played in the County Championship for the Matthews Trophy in 1948.

GOV.-GEN. WATCHED

The first game was against Carlton County in Ottawa, at Rideau Hall. The Governor-General Viscount Alexander watched the game and lunched with the teams. Peterborough won an exciting game. In the finals they won the Trophy by beating Wentworth County.

In 1949 Carlton County defeated Peterborough in the opening round and eventually won the Trophy.

In 1950 the locals came back and defeated the holders in the first round but were beaten by Halton County in the semi-finals.

For many years the cricket season in Peterborough has always opened with home and home games with Grove School, Lakefield, and Trinity College, Port Hope. Both these schools have turned out some excellent cricketers.

In 1949 the Peterborough-Whitaker Club joined the Toronto and District Council. In that season they easily headed the third division and were promoted to the second division in 1950, and gained second place.

In 1949 Frank Booth of Peterborough played for Ontario in the Dominion Cricket Championship in Calgary and Edmonton. Frank is a delightful batsman being in his element in a crisis.

In 1950 Alfred Pope (former cricket professional with Derbyshire County) played for Ontario in the Dominion Championship games in Winnipeg. Alf won a prize for the best bowling performance of the series. He played regularly with the Peterborough team in 1949 and 1950 and was a grand "all round" cricketer.

The All Bermuda team visited Peterborough in 1950 and soundly defeated the local eleven. Mayor Swanston delivered the opening ball. The city entertained both teams to dinner at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. Lakefield Preparatory School kindly provided overnight accommodation for the Bermudians which culminated a very enjoyable visit for all concerned.

Your Garden:

August Is Best Time To Start Pruning

BY HENRY FREE (NEA)

Every garden enthusiast has at some season attempted to propagate cuttings from a favorite rose, flower, tree or shrub. Some have met with failure and some with a surprising measure of success.

However, since experience has taught that the majority of cuttings root best when taken during August, I suggest waiting until then.

Magnolias possess a nobility which few flowering trees can equal. There is not one that is not worthy of planting in the small yard or garden. One of the most useful is commencing to bloom now, and in my opinion, is the best of them all.

Magnolia virginiana, Sweet Bay, has bright green leaves with glaucus underparts. The camelia-like, fragrant snow-white flowers, two to three inches across, are produced from midsummer until autumn. This magnolia begins flowering while quite small. A dandy small tree for a semishady location — but plant in spring near the house so you can enjoy its real beauty.

It is the practice at the New York Botanical Garden to begin pruning its climbing roses sometime in August. With the exception of such rampant types as Dr. W. Van Fleet, there is usually enough new wood at this time to warrant cutting out all of last year's wood.

Five or six new canes are selected and strongly tied with string to the poles or supports. As many as eight or 10 bands often are used. No loose ends of branches are left to switch in the winds during the winter. With such a method of pruning they have no trouble in keeping down mildew and blackspot.

Care of peonies is important to next year's bloom. Cut off dried blooms and feed with complete, balanced plant food such as 4-12-4 fertilizer. During the summer peonies form their growing eyes for next year, and this requires effort which can be supported only by the right kind of plant food. Dahlias, roses, asters, chrysanthemums and other autumn bloomers will appreciate feeding at this time.

We must remember the necessity for mulching the earth around rhododendrons in summer as well as in winter. Rhododendron roots grow very closely to the surface. They are easily destroyed by cultivation, and they suffer from the hot rays of the sun.

The proper way in which to keep these plants in good health is to maintain permanent mulch the year-round. The best mulch consists of forest leaves, but if leaves cannot be obtained, peat moss is a valuable substitute.

Rhododendrons which have flowered should have the old blossom heads removed. This work should be done with care so that none of the new growth is broken off.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

In talking to more than one district visitor this week I noticed that their opening remarks were,

"You people around here don't know how lucky you are."

They were referring to more than the hot weather, I think.

Where can people have more fun than in the Kawarthas when summer is in full swing?

With our major industries closed for annual holidays thousands of industrial workers have swelled the population of our vacationland playground.

Swimming, boating, fishing, water skiing, loafing, picking blueberries and raspberries, attending summer dance pavilions and weiner roasts and family picnics, golfing, lawn bowling, sailing, competing at summer regattas,—the list is endless.

Diehard fishermen have been braving the hot days on the water and those that stuck with it were well rewarded. Fred Young of the "Point" tells me that a party of his guests from Beaver Falls, Pa., and Norfolk, Va., took their limits in bass and pickerel on their first day's try.

"Don't ever let anyone say that the Kawarthas are fished out," warns Fred.

Yes, summer is a wonderful time in these parts. And an ad on the financial page of a Toronto newspaper on Friday reminds us that it is all too short. It read:

'CHRISTMAS TREE BUYERS, 100,000 Scotch pine, 45,000 red pines, marketable this year.'

HOT PROSPECT IN GALWAY

Uncle Frank, a sprightly gentleman of 91, paid us a visit recently. Besides the renewal of family associations he had something on his mind that had been there for more than 65 years.

At that time, he told me, while visiting his father's timber limits about 80 miles from Peterborough, he and a companion had found some interesting mineralized country rock. They had sampled same and the assay had showed a mere trace of gold but he was convinced that the rock contained other minerals of greater value.

Would I go with him to locate the deposit again?

Now, one just does not turn down an elderly relative's whim of this nature—especially if there was a chance of uncovering another Noranda—and we organized a junket. It turned out to be the hottest day of this summer.

We arrived by car in the general vicinity to find that a new highway had obliterated the old buggy road that Uncle knew so well. The old landmarks had disappeared.

What to do?

A visit to the township clerk was fruitless because he was away at his cottage. We were directed to the home of the reeve who no sooner heard our story than he went off on a tangent about the wonderful county forest nearby. We simply MUST see it. He would conduct a guided tour.

The two elderly gentlemen, both hard of hearing, sat in the back seat and roared questions and answers at one another. By then it was too hot to listen to the cicadas humming in the trees. We viewed the county forest with wilted admiration and turned eastward from it hoping that our guide would halt the car in the vicinity of the mineral outcrop. Instead, he regaled us with stories of bygone council meetings as we spun along the simmering road. We let the reeve off at his gate—he had to get on with his hayin', he said,—and we could not help wondering if we had driven across a fortune during the past hour. We will never know.

We asked one another, Now what?

I told Uncle of a man who lived down the M— road who had a mineral outcrop on his farm. Let's go.

The thermometer on the verandah of the sun-baked granite village had moved the mercury to the top of the tube as we wheeled east into the blistering hills. Our man, age 84, lived on a backwoods farm deep in the stuffy bush where it was so hot that the cicadas had stopped trilling altogether.

Mr. H. was just finishing his dinner of fried pork and boiled potatoes as we drove to his door. He came out to greet us wiping his mouth on the back of his hand. In a high-pitched voice—he was a mite deef—he informed us that he was a bit crippled up that day; (he had been a whitewater lumberjack for 30 years and had worked up to his waist in icy water, you understand). Reckoned he had the rheumatiz, or something.

How about his mining property, we asked.

"Now-w-w-w!", he exclaimed, cupping an ear in a trembling hand, "so you want to see my mine . . ."

It was located three-quarters of a mile down the pasture and a whoop and a holler into the hardwoods. Mr. H. thought it might be a slow walk in the heat. Uncle was raring to go and I, the gaffer, was all set to let myself down the stone well for a spell. I was beat. And so was the stripling of a taxi driver.

But away we went once more, bounding over the rough pasture land. Got out of the car and waded to the rock dumps and test pits and filled two bags with samples. Whatever the mineral was it weighed heavier than ordinary rock. The two old timers 'llowed that the trip was well worthwhile.

We dropped Mr. H. at his house and left for home with his hopes that we had sampled a bonanza ringing in our ears.

There may not have been gold in them thar hills but there were mosquitoes, deer flies, acres of brambles with searching thorns, poison ivy and heat, heat, heat.

Four City Hockey Players May Play This Year For Hamilton Junior Clubs

Four Peterborough boys, Jack Kane, Bob Gardner, Harold (Bud) McDougall and Lawrence (Larry) Ball, may be playing their hockey in Hamilton this year. During the Easter holidays the boys attended a Detroit Red Wings' hockey school in Detroit and this week they received letters telling them to report to the new Hamilton junior "A" club's training school early in September.

The boys are veteran members of the Peterborough Minor Hockey League, rising through the bantam, midget and juvenile ranks. Through Red Creighton, well-known hockey and lacrosse player, the boys were given the opportunity to attend the Wings' school in April.

This was the largest group of Peterborough boys to ever be invited to a hockey school, operated by one of the NHL clubs. They were among the 84 youths, mostly from Ontario, who attended the three-day camp. There they were put through their paces before Jack Adams, Detroit Hockey Club manager, John Mitchell, chief scout, and coach Jim Skinner of the Windsor junior "A" team.

TRANSFER APPROVED

In his letter to the boys Jack Adams pointed out htat the OHA has approved transfer of the club's Windsor junior club to Hamilton and that "we are looking forward to having a good year in junior hockey in our new home."

"The Hamilton arena is being practically re-built and I'm sure you will enjoy playing in it," he said.

Mr. Adams also pointed out that the organization is making arrangements for the boys who wish to go to school and that it will have positions for any of the boys who wish to work.

The Hamilton training school will be open in Hamilton about September 15. The boys planning to go back to school are expected in Hamilton about September 1.

PLAYED JUVENILE

Oldest of the quartet is Larry Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ball, 287 Prince St.; he is 17. Starting his hockey with the Marines' bantams, he also played midget with the Marines and then juvenile.

Attempting to make the large step from the midget ranks into junior "A" will be Jack Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kane, 70 Park St. S. He played first with the Optimist bantams and then with Martin-Hewitt midgets.

The youngest of the Hamilton junior tryouts is Bud McDougall, son of Mrs. Harold McDougall and the late Shrimp McDougall, 261 Romaine St. McDougall started with the Marines' bantams, jumping up later with the St. Peter's midgets and then a season with Loyola College seniors in Montreal. During the past winter when only 15 he played with the IOOF juniors.

The fourth boy is Bob (Smoky) Gardner, 16-year-old star for the IOOF juniors during the past winter season. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gardner, 260 McDonnel St., Gardner played bantam with the Northend Kids and then the Optimist, later playing midget with the Martin-Hewitt team.

OFF TO HAMILTON—Four Peterborough minor and junior hockey players may be playing their hockey this season for Hamilton's new junior "A" team in the OHA. Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Hockey Club (Detroit Red Wings) advised Bob Gardner, Bud McDougall, Jack Kane and Larry Ball (left to right, above) to report in September to the Hamilton club which was directed out of Windsor last season. The boys were midget, juvenile and junior players last winter and after scouting by Red Creighton were invited to a Detroit training school during the Easter holidays.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Whitby Wins 6-2 Over Liflocs In Lakeshore Tilt

Second-place Whitby climbed a step up the Lakeshore baseball standing Friday night when they outhit Peterborough Liflocs six hits to four to win 6-20. Due to holidays the Liflocs switched their lineup in a number of places with the result players unaccustomed to their positions came up with four errors.

Again Gary Kearns sparked the Liflocs as they pushed across a run in their half of the first inning. He rapped out a double. He advanced on Don Bigford's sacrifice and later scored on a putout.

But with two out Whitby suddenly helped by two straight bases on balls after a single by MacDonald pushed two runs across when Hanna doubled. They pushed another run across in the second, helped by an error which started the inning off.

The Liflocs tightened their pitching and fielding in the fourth, allowing only four batters up, one getting a single. But in the fourth Whitby opened with a homer by Copeland and then sent two more runs across thanks to a walk, an error and a double by MacDonald.

Douglas connected for a triple in the fourth for the Liflocs and later he skipped home for the Liflocs second run. They didn't threaten again until the sixth inning when with one out Murray Byrne hit a triple, only to die on third.

The Liflocs will be at home Monday night for a game with the intermediate Colborne club at Riverside park beginning at 630 p.m.

Out At The Kawartha

Because of the hot weather and the fact that so many folks are on holidays, we had expected that most of these folks would be located in distant parts. However we note that a goodly number of the Kawartha members and their friends are enjoying one of the best vacations of all, as far as golfers are concerned, that is, right on the Kawartha golf links.

Now, we have said very little, if anything, so far about one of the most interesting competitions of the golf calendar year. The one we are referring to at the moment is the mixed 2-ball of course, and the following will get us up to date on it.

The matches to be played before the winner may move into the fourth round are:

Mrs. Audrey Collins and Alec McGregor vs. Mrs. Leah Griffin and Rod Reed.

Mrs. Doreen McCDougall and Dunc. Bath vs. Mrs. Marjorie Durant and Howard McLean.

Mrs. Anne Reed and Jack Condon vs. Mrs. Claire Woodcox and Al. Menzies.

Miss Barbara Siddall and Archie Weir vs Miss Audrey Oliver and Bob Lawes.

In the third round and waiting for the other couple to move up are: Roma Brindle and Stan Whiddon. Also Ruth McKee and Bob Seabrook.

PRESIDENT'S CUP

Al. Menzies won over Bull Durant to move into the third round and Ian MacGillvray downed Herb. Correll to gain himself a place in the same round.

Kawartha Cup—Jack Corbett def. Dick Howarth, Tony Giardina def. Gord Lee.

McGregor Cup—Only one match was played in this competition during the week and this was between J. Lake and R. Welch with J. Lake coming out on the winning side.

Junior Cup—J. Corbett won over T. Collins to put himself one step nearer the finals.

OTHER CLUB NEWS

We were pleased to see Mike Cassidy of St. George's Club Toronto, down this week just sort of looking things over before the big tournament next weekend. Well Mike actually got out on the course and promptly scored a birdie on No. 4.

We have read, in one of Canada's weekly newspapers, this week, that the 9th. hole at the Kawartha Golf Club in Peterborough is not only unique but one of the most beautiful in all Canada. Now isn't that something for us to think about. Also and etc. we rather liked one remark we overheard this past week, made by one of our good friends from south of the border. He said, in regard to our course: "You ain't got any rough here". Well, we heartily agree, it is a smooth course!

LADIES' SECTION

Mrs. J. Gatfield was low net winner in the 18 hole section Thursday afternoon and Mrs. C. Shaw was second low net winner and received a ball. Mrs. E. Riley was low gross winner on the front 9 and won a spoon.

Mrs. D. Meredith was first low gross winner in the 9-hole group and Mrs. N. Williamson was second. Each received a point. Mrs. Jack Bolton won the silver spoon and Mrs. Charles Touchburn won a ball.

BUSINESS GIRLS

Many of the B.G.'s are on vacation now so there were few around at 5:30 Thursday evening. The day's competition was for low net and was won by Joan Rahmel who received a silver spoon. The score on number 8 hole was tied by a few, and in the draw, Ann Morris won the spoon with Barbara Siddall being given a point.

"Kawartha News" will be heard at the same time this Saturday and it should be very interesting.

FAVORITES DOWNED

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Scotch Victor and Direct Rhythm each captured a $10,000 race Friday night as favorites went down to defeat in the two main events of the Grand Circuit program at Saratoga Raceway.

Scotch Victor, a 13-to-1 shot from the S.A. Camp Farms, Shafter, Calif., scored by a length and a half over Pronto Don 'n the Arden free-for-all trot, doing the mile in 2:04 1-5.

Direct Rhythm, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., took the $10,000 Springwood free-for-all pace by a short lead over Prince Jay.

Favor St. Kitts To Win Henley Regatta

By CRAIG SWAYZE

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — St. Catharines Rowing Club, leading a field of 15 international aggregations after three days of racing at the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, today was favored to win its first regatta championship in three years.

The host cerise and blue went into today's 15 senior finals events with 118 points, far ahead of Buffalo West Sides, winners of the Maple Leaf Trophy for the regatta title the last two years. The New York State club has only 45 points.

Buffalo could show well in today's big eight races though, notably the senior eights which it has won for the last six years. The West Siders square off against Hamilton Leanders, St. Catharines, Detroit Boat Club and Philadelphia Vespers.

BIGGEST THREAT

The biggest threat to their grip on the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy for senior eights are St. Kitts and Vespers. Greg Murphy is stroking the St. Catharines crew while Jack Kelly, Jr., will sit in the stroke seat of the Vesper outfit.

Kelly will also stroke Vesper's entry in the senior doubles and represent them in the championship singles which he last won here in 1950. The former Diamond Sculls champion will face Joe Angyal of New York AC, Bob Williams of Hamilton, Bob Platt of Toronto Dons and Walt Hoover of Detroit BC in the tight for the Canadian sculling crown.

Hamilton Leanders jumped into second place in the point aggregate Friday with a win and two thirds tacked on Thursday's pair of victories. Toronto Argos hold third with Detroit Boat Club next in line.

Walter Hoover of Detroit led the Boat Club on their climb with a victory in the association singles, qualifying him for today's championship event. The other DBC win came in the senior coxswain fours with Buffalo and St. Catharines trailing.

Toronto Athletes Dominate

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Trophy hunters in search of the Canadian Track and Field Championship silverware won't have far to look. The lion's share will be perched in Toronto clubhouses.

Toronto athletes dominated the floodlit opening of the Canadian Track and Field Championships last night, winning 13 of 18 finals at East York Stadium before a disappointing crowd of 200. Still, it was left to Selwyn Jones, an out-of-towner from Hamilton, to steal the spotlight.

Jones took the limelight with a double-barrelled distance victory, first in the three-mile run and 30 minutes later in the mile.

Today, with the six-mile run, javelin and discus scheduled in the morning and the remaining events on tap in the afternoon, Toronto again seems favored to top the list of winners, this because only about one-third of the original 164 entries are from outside. This was pared somewhat last night but officials had no accurate figure of those who withdrew.

Jones' twin victory was matched by Eleanor Miller of the Toronto Track and Field Club in number. Miss Miller took the 60 and 100-yard women's open sprints after winning heats in both.

Jones covered the three-mile course in 15:0.6 to beat Henry Kennedy, formerly of Glasgow, Scotland and now of Toronto, by 60 yards. Kennedy was the only runer who kept anywhere near Jones and he faded in the last four laps to make Jones an easy victor.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Clang! Clang! There goes the bell! Up with your dukes! It's boxing today.

TV cameras which through the fall, winter and spring focus on fights each Wednesday and Friday night (now only on Wednesday nights) may be reviving the old art of manly defence in this district.

During the past six months more and more interest has been created in boxing, mostly due to TV fights. Not only are more people watching the fights but they're taking an active part; they're buying equipment.

At Christmas yours truly had an occasion to purchase a set of boxing gloves for an under-the-tree gift. Boy, that was a chore. As fast as the stores brought in the gloves, they were sold.

Jack Dane (I hope you're feeling better, old friend), former Peterborough recreation director and now in Forest Hill (Toronto), prompted by his great interest in boxing, started a boxing club here. It went along well for a while but shortly after he left the club folded.

LINDSAY CLUB MAKING PROGRESS

Since then there's been no boxing in the city.

Meanwhile up Lindsay way the Lindsay Boxing Club has been roling along under Lloyd Burrows, who started the club five years ago. High cost of operating forced him to ease off last year, but this spring the boys raised such a fuss that Lloyd returned to the boxing game.

Early in March the boxers grouped together and accepted an offer by the Kiwanis Club of Lindsay as club sponsor. Lawson Blakely, Kiwanis club boys' and girls' committee chairman, helped reorganize and another Kiwanian, Harry Peirce, became assistant coach.

The lads trained for several months, fighting only private bouts between club members. This work can go only so long before the boys begin to tire due to lack of competition.

Outdoor bouts every two weeks at the baseball grounds were arranged. There instead of fighting in a hot, sticky building, the lads rap each other in the warmish sun and cool breezes. Its also much better from the fans' point of view.

On a rainy day which saw the ring make three trips back and forth to the ball park the club held its first fight night in June. They managed to squeeze in eight bouts of a 10-bout card before rain forced cancellation.

Since then they've been boxing every two weeks on Thursday nights, featuring Lindsay boys and out-of-town lads such as George Greening of Oshawa, Jim Mark and Pete Lyons of Little Britain.

The Lindsay boxers have helped put life in a few Peterborough boys.

At about the same time as Lindsay reorganized, Eric Cross of Fowler's Corners interested a few city lads. Lindsay boxers visited Cross and his Peterborough boxers several times for workouts.

VISITS CREATED INTEREST IN CLUB

These visits created interest, and also helped Lindsay with the problem of out-of-town boxers. Bill Burgomaster, Lloyd Morran, Glen McIntyre, Dutch Crawford, all middleweights, and John Martin, Ron Dowson, 85-pounders, took part in Lindsay bouts recently, representing Cross' club.

Coach Burrows' club has grown now to the point where it has 41 boxers, in age from five years to 24 years and in weight from 31 pounds to 170 pounds. He places special emphasis on the 75, 80, 85 and 95-pound classes.

Some of the lads working out are: John Angiers, Carl Saville and Bob Whitney, 155-pounders; Ken Lamb, 140-pounder; Fred Bardo, 135-pounder; Bill Lyle, 120-pounder; Baz Ferguson, 112-pounder; other lighter chaps such as Jack Spratt, Clifford Smith, Don Tracey, Tom Quibel, Alex Pearson, John and Paul Henley, John Lawson, Don Blakley, John Whitney, and Larry Burns.

Perhaps some of these boxers will go as far as a former Burrows'-coached lad, Mike Herlihey. A 160-pounder Mike had 24 fights under Burrows' guiding and while attending the University of Western Ontario became champion for that weight. This spring he won the Canadian college 160-pound championship.

Attending the summer school at the University of Chicago this summer, Herlihey has become champion there and has also appeared on several TV fights, boxing his 64th fight last week.

Ties Hill Climb

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (CP) — Dean N. Gooderman of Toronto Friday tied with William Burkez of Hamburg, Pa., at one minute, 14.8 seconds in the class C division of the third annual Giant's Despair hill climb competition for sport cars.

Gooderman drove an MG TD special; Burkez a Jaguar XKM.

Aussies Walk Away With Tennis Honors

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—George Worthington, 24-year-old Australian on the comeback trail after a 14-month siege of polio, will have the chance today to show if he is of Davis Cup calibre.

The blonde Aussie, who says he hasn't a chance of being chosen as a cup player because of "personal differences" with an Australian official, is billed to meet fellow-Australian Rex Hartwig in the men's singles semi-final this afternoon. Hartwig is a Davis Cup netman and ranked No. 2 in this tournament.

Worthington, who suffered what he describes as a mild form of polio on the left side of his face in 1951, was put out of the game for 14 months. He figures today's match with the No. 2 foreign seeded player in the tournament is a "toss-up."

RUNNING AWAY

Worthington is one of four down-under players who have been practically running away with this week-long championship. This is their first appearance in the tournament and they are favored to return home with at least one title.

They have gone past Canadian, Mexican and Japanese Davis Cup players, as well as Americans in their clean sweep to date over a starting line-up of more than 200 from five countries.

Only four Canadians are left in the closing rounds—Paul Willey of Vancouver in the final of the mixed doubles with Mrs. Hannah Sladek of Montreal; Mrs. Hilde Doleschell of Toronto with Beau Summers, also of Toronto, in the mixed semi-final. The Toronto matron also is in the ladies doubles semi-finals with Mrs. Laura Lou Kunnan of St. Petersburg, Fla.

BELONGS TO AUSSIES

The whole show belongs to the Australians. Here's how they stand so far:

Mrs. Thelma Long, No. 1 netter in her own country meets Melita Ramirez of Mexico in the women's singles early this afternoon and then teams up with the Mexican girl, 1952 Canadian titleholder, in the final of the doubles. Mrs. Long, a smooth-stroking backhand artist, clinched a spot in the singles final by defeating Mrs. Doleschell 6-2, 6-3 in a semi-final on Friday.

Mervyn Rose, top ranking player of the tournament, and Hartwig, No. 2 seeded combination in the world, stroked their way through two matches Friday. They disposed of Jacques Guigerre and Val Harit of Montreal 6-0, 6-2 in the quarter-finals and followed with a 4-6, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., and Robin Willner of Los Angeles in the semi-finals.

Today Rose tangles with Moylan in a semi-final of the singles and the winner of this match meets the winner of the Worthington-Hartwig set Sunday afternoon.

Worthington also is in the doubles semi-finals. Friday he paired with Tony Vincent of New York to eliminate Masanobu Kimura of Japan and Garry Tyrell of Toronto 6-1, 6-1 in the third round and followed it with a 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Lorne Main of Toronto and Willey in the quarter-finals.

Main and Willey, the top seeded Canadian pair in the event, are 1953 Davis Cup players.

Boat's Skipper Thrown Against Wall

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Speed boat races held in connection with the Rotary Club's street carnival attracted large crowds on Friday night, when boats from Campbellford, Oshawa and Toronto competed for prizes.

The last race of the evening, the open class, was called after the first heat because of darkness. The race was held up when an accident occurred at the end of the first heat. Bill Harnden of Oshawa had just finished in third place when the motor became dislodged from his boat "Willie", and the craft went out of control.

The speedboat careened toward the bank of the canal and Harnden was thrown violently against the cement retaining wall. He was taken from the water and given medical attention at the scene, but was later taken to Campbellford Hospital where several stitches were need to close his wounds. He suffered injuries to his chest, and hand as well as body bruises and shock. The crash helmet he was wearing was credited with saving Harnden from a possible fractured skull.

The following are the results of the races:

Class A
John Webster, Toronto 1 2
Wm. Harnden, Oshawa 2 1
Class B
J. Ralston, Toronto 1 1
Ozzie Nelson, Campbellford .. 2 2
J. Webster, Toronto 3 3
Wm. Harnden, Oshawa 4 4
Class B-1
J. Ralston, Toronto 1 1
N. Seward, Campbellford .. 2 out
Bruce Moas, Oshawa .... out 2
Ozzie Nelson, Campbellford . 3 4
Wm. Harnden, Oshawa 4 3
Open Class
Gordon Burleigh, Oshawa .. 1
John Ralston, Toronto 2
Bruce Moas, Oshawa 3
Wm. Harnden, Oshawa 4
N. Seward, Campbellford ... out

Harnden was in third place when his boat went out of control and he was thrown against the cement wall of the canal, placing him fourth.

LONG CANOE RACE

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—Top-notch American and Canadian canoers will take part in North America's longest canoe race here Aug. 15-16, it was announced Friday by the Shawinigan Falls Boating Club.

The race, the annual International Canoe Classic, will be run over 100 miles of the fast-flowing St. Maurice river.

First Place In OLA Group Shared By Petes, Athletics As Trailermen Win 18-2

Bob Thorpe's Trailermen and Doug Cove's St. Catharines Athletics remain tied for first place in the senior Ontario lacrosse standing today, both with 20 wins. The Trailermen Friday night at Miller Bowl smothered a desperately short-handed Mimico Mountie sextet 18-2 while at the same time in St. Catharines the Athletics pounded the third-place Orillia West Yorks 19-7. The Athletics, who have played two more games than Peterborough, have the opportunity to pull one game ahead tonight when they play the return game with the Yorks in Orillia.

The desperate lacrosse situation in Mimico, several years ago one of the strongest centres in Ontario, was again emphasized before game-time. The Mounties arrived with only six players, three of whom, Fred Sandford, Jim McNeil and Stan Kapasky, were regulars.

A cry for extra players from Peterborough went up from the small Mimico group. This was answered by former junior, Steve Morrissey and junior Jerry O'Reilly. Later in the second quarter Mimico were strengthened by four Dundas juniors who arrived a day early for their Saturday night junior OLA game with Peterborough Pats.

Surprisingly enough the nine-man Mimico "team" put up unexpected opposition in the first quarter. Coupled with this was the fact that the Trailermen just couldn't find the range. When they did, Bob (Porky) Russell, goalie with the Mimico Minto Cup team of several years back, came through with brilliant saves.

Jim McNeill with two lone rushes caught the Trailermen napping and both times he succeeded in beating Joe Hickson, subbing for Lloyd (Moon) Wootton. Those goals gave the Mounties a 2-1 edge in the first quarter.

But that was all for Mimico. The Trailermen for the remaining three quarters swarmed in with wave after wave. Poor Russell didn't stand a ghost of a chance with the result the Trailermen went ahead 5-2 at the half, 12-2 at the three-quarter mark and rammed in six unanswered goals in the fourth.

Again the play of juniors, Bob Allan, Bob Curtis and Willie Logan, along with subbing Joe Hickson caught the eye of the some 1,000 fans. These boys filled gaps left by factory holidays and proved they could keep pace with the seniors.

As far as the regular seniors such as Russ Slater, Roger Smith, Ross Powless, Nip O'Hearn, Bob Thorpe, Jerry Fitzgerald and the others were concerned, they simply out-classed the intermediate-calibre Mounties. Often throughout the game the senior players attempted a little trick lacrosse to add a little color to a rather uninteresting contest.

Lineups.

Peterborough: Goal, Hickson; defence, Fitzgerald; centre, Slater; wings, Smith, Logan; rover, Powless; alts., O'Hearn, Thorpe, Vitarelli, Ashbee, Hildebrand, Allan, Curtis, Magee, Batley.

Mimico: Goal, Russell; defence, Powlowski; centre, Stan Kapasky; wings, Sandford, McNeil; alts., O'Reilly, Morrissey, Bonnar, Blanchard, Amsden, Clark and Walker.

St. Catharines Swamps Orillia 19-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athletics maintained their first-place position in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Friday night with a 19-7 victory over third-place Orillia Terriers.

Hamilton Tigers' 13-10 win over Fergus Thistles moved them within a game of fourth playoff spot.

In the St. Catharines game the As led 3-2 at the end of the first quarter, 9-3 at the half and 12-4 at the third.

Goals scored for St. Kitts were by Al Frick, Max Woolley, and Doug Smith with three each, Jim Bradshaw, Ted Howe, and Bill Nelson, two each, and singles by Bill Bradshaw, Bob Melville, John Dewar and Don Frick.

For Orillia Leo Teatro and Ken Croft netted two each, while Merv McKenzie, Bruce Wester and Tony Daamico got one apiece.

TIE IT UP

At Fergus, Thistles led 5-1 at the first quarter but Hamilton tied it up 6-6 at the half. At the end of the third quarter the score was still knotted, 8-8. But in the final quarter the Tigers netted five to the Fergus two.

Leading Hamilton scorers was Jack Dorney with four followed by Jack Sibbald with three. Cubby Bron got two and Bill Rankin, Butch Guthro, Tony Capula, Jack Bionda netted singles.

For Fergus, J. J. Hill got three, Bill Allum two, and Harry Kazarian, Don Campbell, Bob Dobbie, one apiece.

U.S. Wins 2nd Round Against West Indies

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—The United States won the second-round Davis Cup tie against the British West Indies Friday.

Capt. Gardnar Mulloy and Bob Perry clinched the best-of-five series by winning the doubles in straight sets.

The scores were 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 over Ian MacDonald and Edward Aris.

Two singles matches remain today but are just a formality, since the U.S. now has won three matches.

In singles Friday Mulloy beat MacDonald 6-1, 6-3, 6-0 and Bernard Bartzen of the U.S. defeated Ron Cooper 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Boston Red Sox Burn Up Circuit, Sweep Twin Bill

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If Ted Williams can find the fountain of youth, Boston Red Sox may yet have to be considered as pennant contenders in the American League. Certainly the Williams-less Sox are burning up the circuit and, with New York Yankees continuing to slip, they've moved into third place, 7½ games behind the stumbling New Yorkers. Williams comes out of the U.S. Marines Aug. 1 and he will be back with his old club shortly after that. In his absence a bunch of youngsters, many of whom were still in grade school when the slugger first donned a Red Sox uniform in 1939, have caught fire.

Friday night they took a pair from the hapless St. Louis Browns 8-0 and 6-0 for their 14th and 15th victories in their last 18 games.

The league-leading Yankees couldn't do a thing against Lefty Billy Hoeft in Detroit Friday night as they lost their fourth straight 5-1.

BLOW CHANCE

For the second time this week second-place Chicago White Sox blew a chance to gain ground on the Yankees. Philadelphia caught the Chicagoans in the ninth inning and went on to beat them 4-2 in 12 frames when Cass Michaels hit a two-run homer.

Cleveland dropped from third to fourth, eight games behind New York, by losing to Washington 6-4.

In the National League Milwaukee Braves slapped down first-place Brooklyn Dodgers 11-6, cutting the Dodgers' lead to 4½ games. Philadelphia edged St. Louis 2-1 on two homers by Gran Hamner. New York defeated Cincinnati 3-1 and Chicago thumped Pittsburgh 7-1.

Billy Henry and Maury McDermott handcuffed the Browns for Boston in the twi-night affair at St. Louis. Henry gave up seven hits in winning his second game since being recalled from the minors. Tom Umphlett slammed a three-run homer in the first game one of only three hit in the five American League games last night.

The other two circuit blows were the big one by Michaels that broke up the marathon in Chicago and a three-run blast by big Walt Dropo that gave the Tigers a lead they never relinquished against New York.

NEVER CAUGHT UP

Art Houtteman gave up a two-run triple to Mickey Vernon in the first inning and the Indians never caught up to Washington, altnough they did close the gap to one run with a two-run rally in the eighth.

Milwaukee poured it on the Dodgers, running the score to 11-1 before the league-leaders made a four-run stand in the eighth. Eddie Mathews hit his 30th home run with one on in the fifth and Walker Cooper homered with two on in the same inning when the Braves scored seven runs—the most any club has scored in an inning against Brooklyn this year.

The Cards-Phillies contest was a real battle with Harvey Haddix of the Cards making the mistake of giving Hamner two good pitches. Granny parked one in the second inning and again in the last of the ninth. The Phils now trail Brooklyn by 6½ games.

Ruben Gomez won his eighth game for the New Yorkers with a three-hitter over Cincinnati.

Ralph Kiner led a nine-hit Chicago attack against his old Pittsburgh teammates with three singles. Six of the Cubs' seven runs came in the third inning on only two hits. They were aided by an error, four walks, a wild pitch, a passed ball and two sacrifices.

Royals Dispose Of Toronto In 4-1 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International Baseball race is getting tighter as the schedule nears the two-thirds mark. Only two games separate the first four clubs.

Buffalo holds the choice spot, with Montreal a game behind. Rochester is a half-game back of the Royals and Baltimore holds down fourth spot.

The league leadership might change during the week-end, as all four clubs, except Buffalo, have a heavy week-end scheduled ahead of them.

The Bisons have only one game on tap—at Buffalo against Ottawa Sunday. Montreal will play a four-game series at Toronto. The rest of the teams in the loop will see action three times.

Friday night's play saw the pitchers and home-run hitters steal the spotlight.

DOWN LEAFS

Ed Roebuck allowed only four hits as the Royals disposed of Toronto 4-1. It was Roebuck's eighth victory against nine defeats.

Rocky Nelson and Sandy Amoros gave the pitcher the assistance he needed, accounting for all Montreal runs. Rocky hit his 19th and 20th homers of the season, while Amoros belted his 17th.

Bob Boyd's circuit clout accounted for Toronto's only run.

Jocko Thompson of Baltimore hurled a masterful three-hitter for a 3-0 shutout victory over Syracuse Chiefs. Only one man got as far as third base on Thompson, who walked two and fanned five. Arch Wilson bolstered his victory, hitting four for four.

RED WINGS CLICK

Righthanders George Condrick and Ellis Deal hurled Rochester Red Wings to 6-4 and 7-1 triumphs over tail-end Springfield Cubs. Condrick gained his sixth victory against three losses in the opener, while Deal won his eighth in the nightcap.

Don Richmond and Charley Kress rapped homers for the Red Wings in the first game. Rookie outfielder Tom Burgess whacked two in the second contest.

Aussies Lead Over England

LEEDS, England (CP)—Australia took a 99-run, first-innings lead over England in the fourth test cricket match Friday but it was England's fast medium bowler, Alec Bedser, who stole the second-day show.

Bedser took no less than six Australian wickets to set a record for the number of wickets taken in test play. They brought his previous mark set by Clarrie Grimmett, Australian leg break and googly bowler.

England, with an overnight total of 142, was dismissed for a 16 Friday and Australia had scored 266 all out by the close of play, thus gaining a first-inning lead of 99 runs.

Three more days of play remain in this fourth test. The previous three matches in the five-match series for the mythical Ashes have all been drawn.

Miss Chipso Wins Thorncliffe Race

Miss Chipson, owned by Manson Cathcart, Peterborough and driven by R. Dowson won the fourth event at Thorncliffe Raceway, Toronto, on Friday, and paid off at the juicy odds of $74.30 for a $2 ticket.

The Blewett-owned mare covered the mile in 2:11 flat, second best time of the afternoon, only a fifth of a second slower than the best time.

On the same card Elgin Silk, owned by Charlie Fife and Edwin Johnston placed second, losing a close decision. Jimmy McIntyre handled the reins in this event and the payoff price was $7.20 for a place ticket.

Quite a number of local harness horse followers were on hand at Thorncliffe Friday and most of them did very well on the local horses.

Cheese Jobber Tries To Air Views In Court

OTTAWA (CP)—A cheese jobber who tried to air his views on Canada's pure food laws was stopped short in magistrate's court Friday with the advice to tell his troubles to the newspapers.

William Martin was fined $60 when he pleaded guilty to selling cheese made from unpasteurized milk without complying with the requirement that it be stored for 60 days. The storage period is designed as a protection against disease.

Martin attempted to read Magistrate Glenn Strike a prepared statement justifying the sale of new cheese but was stopped by the magistrate.

NOT HIS JOB

"All I can do is find out whether you broke the regulations," the magistrate said.

"I did," Martin answered, "and I want to air the whole question here and find out why the government makes fish of some people and flesh of others in the cheese question."

"Talk to the newspapermen," replied the magistrate. "We can't air issues in a court of law."

33rd Fatality

TORONTO (CP) — Dominic Simonetta, 61, hit by a truck while crossing a street July 7, died Friday. His death brought the number of Toronto's 1953 traffic fatalities to 33, compared with 26 by this time last year.

Canada Ready Start Seaway

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier reiterated Friday night that despite delays by the United States, Canada is ready to go ahead with the $750,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway project on her own.

"There are still difficulties," he told an election meeting. "An appeal has been launched in the U.S. but never before has the position of the project been as favorable as today."

Mr. Chevrier said Canada is prepared to build the seaway on the Canadian side of the border but that "the door is still open to the U.S."

Grow In Grace, Knowledge Of Lord And Saviour Christ

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD.

The Apostle Peter in the closing of his Second Epistle (II Peter 3:18) admonished his fellow-Christians to "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

With regard to the great essentials of the Gospel of Christ in its proclamation of the power and saving grace of God, and in the application and manifestation of the Gospel in personal character and conduct, there was no division among the great founders of Christianity, regardless of how much they might differ on minor matters.

So, Peter in his call for growth "in grace" is only expressing what Paul emphasized in many ways throughout his Epistles. In Paul's Epistles the word "grace" occurs twice as often as in all the rest of the New Testament. A commentator has pointed out that it is the first word of greeting and the last word of farewell, in Paul's letters.

In Luke 4:22 the reference is to "the gracious words" of Jesus as He spoke in the synagogue of Nazareth. And in Colossians 4:6 Paul advises the disciples there to "let (their) speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt." A good counsel for our own time, especially as it was a way of knowing "how to answer every man."

But grace, for Paul, in greeting, farewell, conversation, or manners, always had its meaning in the grace of God manifest in Jesus Christ. Here, as it was the source and power of salvation, was the source of power for Christian living.

It was not something static attained once for all and never changing or growing. It was dynamic, a force ever present and ever active. For Paul himself it was a pressing toward the mark of a goal he had not yet attained (Philippians 3:14).

This growth in grace was in a love abounding in knowledge and in all judgment (Philippians 1:10) and if there were any limits to knowledge of love of Christ passed all knowledge (Ephesians 3:19).

The poet Tennyson expressed the spirit of this in his famous lines in "In Memoriam":

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before,
But vaster."

There is always a "vaster" for the Christian soul. The riches of Christ are as inexhaustible as they are unsearchable.

Ruins Of St. Bride's Church Reveal Three Earlier Ones

By SIDNEY TAYLOR

LONDON (Reuters)—In a quiet corner of Fleet street, archeologists working in the ruins of St. Bride's church are unfolding a story that had its beginnings in the first century of the Christian era.

Long and patient excavating has revealed more than 1,000 years of history among thousands of human bones discovered beneath the church on the site of one of the early outposts of Roman civilization in Britain.

Six hundred coffins have been found and more than 1,000 skulls have been sent to Cambridge University for research into the changing characteristics of the Briton.

Research will be directed by one of the greatest authorities on archaic anatomy and pathology, Prof. Frederic Wood Jones of the Royal College of Surgeons.

KNEE-DEEP WITH BONES

In the catacombs, bones lie everywhere, knee - deep, waist-deep, sometimes in loose mounds, sometimes in tidy squares of skulls and thigh bones, arranged alternately in chess-board pattern.

The excavations would never have started but for the war. On the night of Dec. 29, 1940, the German air force destroyed the church of St. Bride's, built by Sir Christopher Wren (1632-1723), the architect of St. Paul's cathedral, to replace the 15th-century church lost in the great fire of London in 1666.

All that survived the raid were four walls and the superb tiered spire which is part of the classical silhouette, Wren's silhouette, of London.

Sixteen months ago the Roman and Mediaeval London Excavation Council began work under the direction of W. F. Grimes, head of the London museum.

FOUND ANCIENT PLAN

Helped by a plan left by an 18th-century curate, Rev. John Pridden, they discovered several charnel houses nd an arched medieval crypt also filled with bones.

The centuries came off in layers as they dug—17th, 16th, 15th, 14th, through Stuart times to Tudor and Plantaganet, back to the Dark Ages between the Roman occupation and the return of civilization with St. Augustine.

By the time the diggers had reached the level of natural undisturbed earth they had uncovered the remains of three earlier churches.

The earliest of these is a Saxon apse, the arched semi - circular recess where the altar stood.

The fact that the original St. Bride's stood outside the city walls of those days indicates it was built on the site of a Roman cemetery and thus had been used continuously as a burial place since the first century.

OLDEST KNOWN CHURCH

The archeologists are convinced that they have found London's oldest known church.

The disordered state in which many of the bones have been found recalls the angry words of Samuel Pepys (1633-1703) in his diary. Three years before the great fire, Pepys wanted to bury his brother there. He was disgusted when the verger, explaining that they were already overcrowded, offered for sixpence to "jostle" the other bones together to make room.

There will be no more burials at St. Bride's once all the bones removed to Cambridge have been sent back. St. Bride's will be rebuilt as a new church for printers and journalists.

Godfrey Allen, surveyor of St. Paul's cathedral, and an authority on Wren, is the architect. His task is to restore St. Bride's in such a way that the remains of all four churches are preserved.

The Stuart vault will become a clumbarium, the mediaeval crypt a sacristy, the Wren vault, the charnel houses and the 18th-century crypt will be turned into one of the most interesting museums in London.

BAHA'I WORLD FAITH

"When our thoughts are filled with the bitterness of this world, let us turn our eyes to the sweetness of God's compassion and He will send us heavenly calm! If we are imprisoned in the material world, our spirit can soar into the Heavens and we shall be free indeed!"

Main Street Topics

CAMPBELLFORD PRINCIPAL
William Rothwell, principal of Madoc Public School for a number of years, has been appointed principal of Campbellford Public School. He is being replaced by Don Runnells of Tweed.

INJURES BACK
Mrs. Helen Swanston, wife of Max Swanston, Liberal candidate in Peterborough, fell on Thursday outside her home on Armour Road and injured her back. Mrs. Swanston was taken to Civic Hospital where she is undergoing treatment.

LIBERAL MEETING
The Otonabee Liberal Association will sponsor a meeting in the township hall at Keene on Tuesday, August 4, at 8:30 p.m. Speakers will include the Liberal candidate, Max Swanston, and G. A. Gillespie and T. J. Carley, QC. Chairman will be Percy Davidson.

DOUSE GRASS FIRE
Children with matches are blamed for starting a grass fire Friday afternoon behind the Civic Arena on Park St. A booster tank was used to put out the blaze. A rubbish fire at the rear of the home of Wallace Ccombes, 771 Brown St., was also put out by firemen because no previous permission had been given for lighting it.

WATER SKI MEET
The Ontario water ski championships will definitely be held in Peterborough August 8 and 9. The Jaycees and the Peterborough Water Ski Association still hope to hold it at Little Lake, providing cold weather makes the water healthy enough for swimming and boating. If the lake is still polluted, the meet will be changed to the Otonabee river at Inverlea.

EXPENSIVE BLUEBERRIES
A short season for blueberries is predicted in the "blueberry hills of Kaladar". Caterpillars damaged bushes in some areas but mostly the fruit is good and rapidly ripening. The season is expected to be a short one. Prices quoted are high so far: $2.50 for a six-quart basket, and 45 cents a quart in stores.

SENT TO GOLD STRIKE
Five members from No. 8 District of the Ontario Provincial Police, with headquarters in Peterborough, have been despatched to the gold strike at Timmins where violence has been reported. The five sent to maintain order are Cpl. Fred Rawlings of Peterborough, Constable Tom Fitzpatrick of Lindsay, Constable Nelson Rhode of Brighton, Constable John Gray of Peterborough, and Constable A. J. Hardy of Minden. Canadian Press reports that OPP reinforcements have also been drawn from Sudbury and Haileybury.

CHRISTMAS CARD ROMANCE
Norman Roffey, 22-year-old Toronto CGE employee, has been working in Tweed this week. Though he is a skilled field technician doing highly technical work for defence communications that isn't what make him interesting to the villagers. They want to know the details about his fiance who is Betty Gibson, last Saturday crowned "Miss Toronto". He said that it was a Christmas card that started off their romance and they hope to be married next year. Earlier this week, to dodge the curious, Miss Toronto stayed at a summer cottage near Campbellford.

TWO PEOPLE WERE SENT TO HOSPITAL early today in a quick succession of accidents just outside the new city limits on the Chemong Road. Those hurt were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Martin, RR 4, Omemee; their condition today is satisfactory. They were passengers in a car driven by Carl Reinvaldt, Aylmer St., which struck a parked car, driven by Alex McColl, 629 George St. The McColl car just before had collided with a third car, driven by Bob Anderson, Gilchrist St. The Reinvaldt car (top photo) plunged into a tree in the west ditch while the McColl car (lower photo) dipped into the east ditch. Later while police investigated the first and second accidents, two other cars collided in the traffic jam. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Night Low Of 44 Chilly End To Days Of Heat

The bottom dropped out of the thermometer in the last two days as the mercury fell fast from the high 80s of Wednesday and Thurday to a low of 44 Friday night.

It was a drop of 42 degrees in little more than 36 hours and sent people scampering to their cedar chests to find woollen blankets.

Relief from the nine-day heat wave began Thursday when a brisk wind brought temperatures down to 80. From Thursday to Friday it was another step down for the mercury as it slid to a high of 67.

Highest the mercury reached during the week was on Wednesday, when the temperature soared to 86. Official temperatures recorded at the filtration plant were somewhat lower than these recorded on downtown thermometers, which registered temperatures in the high 90s.

Top temperature for last week came Friday when the mercury went up to 88 officially and farther in the hot downtown area.

PARTY BOUND—Adlai Stevenson, defeated Democratic Presidential candidate enters a formal party at Buckingham Palace. The party was given by Queen Elizabeth. Princess Margaret and Prince Philip were also there. Stevenson joked with the Prince about the hardships of public life be it royalty or politics.

Algae Re-appears In Lakes With Approach Of August

Algae is re-appearing in district lakes. At Young's Point it is said to be discoloring the water earlier than last year. As August approaches algae increases, stimulated by the warmth of the water and fertilized by the run-off from the surrounding land. Seepage from outdoor lavatories and the outflow from sewage plants also provide fertilizer for the growth of algae.

Algae is a type of plant plankton consisting mainly of one-celled microscopic plants and animals able to swim or drift in the lake waters individually; the cells are not necessarily attached to any other marine substance. When the light strikes the water algae looks like a bluish-green powder.

It does not poison humans, but if the pollution is great enough it can kill animals. Every year a number of cattle who have drunk scummy water in a becalmed bay or inlet die of poisoning. There have been no reports this summer of any cattle being affected.

CONSIDERED MENACE

Because it is not only toxic to animals but also unsightly it is considered a menace by tourist resort operators. The operators say that it drives summer visitors from the Kawarthas.

To combat this organism the Ontario Departments of Health and Lands and Forests are working on a joint project, the objective being to find an antidote. As yet they have made no report.

At present Dr. Duncan A. McClarty of London, Ont., an expert biologist, and two assistants, David Quon and Phil Rhynas, have a laboratory near the Lindsay filtration. There they analyze the water and try to find a solution of the algae problem.

From time to time the experts visit bays and inlets in the Kawarthas to check on algae growths. Last week they investigated a bay in Pigeon Lake where algae was reported. There have been other reports of it in Sturgeon, Stony and Clear Lakes.

Charles Weir, of Omemee, biologist of the Department of Lands and Forests, said he understood the situation was pretty much the same as last year. He had heard there was algae in Sturgeon and Clear Lakes and there was one complaint two weeks ago from Rice Lake.

ALGAE INCREASING

Jack Paris, of Young's Point, who constantly travels Clear and Stony Lakes, confirmed that the algae is increasing.

"It comes and then disappears—even when there is an onshore breeze," said Mr. Paris. "But the water is gradually coloring and getting worse, pretty fast."

Mr. Paris has not yet seen algae so concentrated that it forms clots or scum.

"What there is of the algae is earlier than last year," he said.

"I'm sure it comes from Clear Lake," he said. I've never seen any algae in the Burleigh Falls end of Stony Lake and I've never seen any in Lovesick Lake or in Deer Bay."

Worst effects of the pollution, as usual, are expected in the middle of August.

Few Revisions Necessary On Voters' Lists

Revising officers will sit for the last time tonight to make corrections or additions to the official voting list.

The officers, who have been sitting this Thursday and Friday report few mistakes and few additions to the list.

In the North Ward there were few changes, but there were more than 100 corrections and revisions made in the South Ward. These were mostly due to mistakes on the part of the printers in the numbering of the streets.

Wilfred Huycke, QC, revising officer for the West Ward reports that revisions and additions in his ward have been comparatively light. There have been 54 applications to have names corrected or put on the voting list, and none were taken off.

In the North Ward Sheriff John Harstone will preside at Judge John de N. Kennedy's chambers in the Court House tonight to make any final corrections or additions.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, who is in charge of the South Ward will preside at the exhibition grounds and Mr. Huycke is presiding at 395 Water St.

BIG LARGE-MOUTH BASS weighing six and three-quarter pounds was taken at "Steamboat Bay," Young's Point, on Friday morning, still-fishing with worm. The beaming angler is Jack Butler, of Waterdown, Ont., first-time visitor to the Kawarthas. "This place is tops," he said. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

More Holidayers

The number of district workers and families on holidays swelled by more than 700 this weekend as employees of the Canadian Arsenals at Lindsay halted work for a week's vacation. That brought the total to well over 5,000 for the district, since most of the city's workers left last weekend for two weeks' holiday.

Resorts Filled, Fishing Good Owners Report

Kawartha resort operators are happy over the present summer situation.

From Rice Lake north to Stony Lake and west to Bobcaygeon, most report good fishing, well-filled resorts and satisfied tourists.

Several resort owners reported spotty fishing during the past spell of hot, humid weather. But at the same time they found encouragement in the return of the cool weather on Thursday. Since temperatures dropped, fishing picked up and some excellent catches have been recorded.

On Rice Lake, fishing has been "wonderful". Muskies ranging from 12 to 15 pounds have been taken, along with plenty of pickerel and a fair number of largemouth bass. Smallmouths haven't been biting.

Cottages and lodges are all pretty well filled, operators report. Majority of summer visitors on the lake are Americans, with the traditional Ohio-New York-Pennsylvania majority.

GOOD AT STONY

On Stony Lake, lodge owners report good business and pretty good fishing. Muskies caught are mostly undersize, but a few keepers are being boated. Outlook, say the operators, is bright for August.

One lodge is booked until well past Labor Day, and most others are filled for the remainder of the regular season.

Clear Lake fishing has been spotty, with lodges reporting fishing fair to poor. Cottages and lodges are fairly well filled, with brighter prospects for August. Algae became noticeable after the hot weather, but is not as bad as previous years.

Lovesick Lake resorts gave average to good accounts of fishing, but said there was nothing extraordinary about either bookings or fishing.

Pickerel, bass and a few muskies in both Lovesick and Buckhorn lakes were being taken.

At Burleigh Falls, fishing was picking up and resorts were beginning to fill. Pickerel still had the edge in quantity of fish being taken.

West of there in Pigeon Lake, resort men said fishing had been excellent, even during the hot spell. Largest muskie reported was 18½ pounds, with a number of 15-pounders being taken.

ALGAE FORMS

Pickerel and bass were hitting well, but smallmouth bass were few. Hot weather, the owners suspected, accounted for the bronzebacks' reluctance to strike. Camps are filled now and prospects were good for August.

Some algae that formed during hot weather disappeared with strong winds Thursday and Friday.

Top fish in the round-up was reported from Bobcaygeon, where a 21-pounder was taken early in the week. The information booth in that Kawartha resort village reported a great influx of Americans, 75 per cent of them from Ohio.

Lindsay Businessman Dies After Golf Game

LINDSAY (ENS). — A prominent local businessman passed away at the Lindsay Golf Club Friday night after playing 18 holes of golf.

He was Charles B. Perkins, proprietor of the Little Book Shop. He is survived by his wife, the former Lu Balfour, and one son, Flt. Lt. Balfour Perkins of the RCAF.

Charles Bernard Perkins was born in Penetang. He received his early education in Lindsay. He entered the newspaper field as an operator for the late George Lytle of the Watchman-Warder in Lindsay and later in North Bay and Haileybury. He was also employed by the Regina Leader-Post and the Toronto Star.

In the First World War he enlisted with the 96th Highlanders. He went overseas and saw action with the 5th Trench Mortars. He was gassed twice and returned to Canada at the close of the war. He returned to the Toronto Star and then moved to Detroit and later to the Border Cities Star in Windsor.

He was a loyal member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, and for many years a member of the choir. He was a good ball player and curler in his earlier days.

Multiple Accident Sends Omemee Couple To Hospital With Injuries

Quick Succession of Collisions Involves Five Cars; Injured Couple Reported To Be In Satisfactory Condition

A quick succession of accidents on the Chemong Rd. early this morning sent two to hospital and resulted in property damage estimated at close to $700. Five cars in all were involved. In satisfactory condition today at St. Joseph's are Wilbert Martin of RR 4, Omemee, and Mrs. Martin. Both suffered head injuries and lacerations.

Alex McColl, 27, of 629 George Street, said he was driving north on the highway, a short distance out of the city, when he passed in the line of traffic. Oncoming cars forced him back into the line, and his vehicle struck another northbound car, driven by Bob Anderson, 22, of 540 Gilchrist Street, from behind.

McColl stopped, and walked up to where the Anderson vehicle was stopped, some 250 feet up the road. In the interval a third northbound car driven by Carl Reinvaldt, 32, of 96 Aylmer Street North, struck McColl's vehicle from behind, with McColl's car going into the east ditch, and Reinvaldt's smashing into shrubbery in the west ditch.

It was with Reinvaldt that Mr. and Mrs. Martin were riding. They were rushed to St. Joseph's by ambulance.

While traffic slowed and stopped for the accident, a car driven south on the highway by Ambrose Clancy, 26, of 325 Mark Street, seeing the lined up cars, slammed on brakes and swerved into the opposite lane to avoid them.

He ended up by crashing head-on into a northbound car driven by Murray Wight, 23, of 539 Spruce Street, swinging the Clancy car around to further block traffic.

Damage was estimated at $45 to the Wight and Clancy cars, $400 to the Reinvaldt vehicle, $250 to McColl's car, and $40 to Anderson's.

OPP Constables Thomas Armitage and Wallace Mohns investigated the crashes.

FOOD FOR GERMANS — Although Russia and the East German Communist government spurned the U.S. offer of free food for hungry East Germany, the first shipment was sent anyway. Here crewmen manoeuvre a cargo sling into a hold of the freighter American Inventor. It's part of a cargo of 2,400 tons of flour, beans, lard and dried milk to be expedited, under MSA supervision, to the border of the Soviet Zone "in case" the Communists change their minds.

Cobourg Boy, 4, Hit By Auto; Condition Poor

COBOURG (ENS)—Four-year-old Stephen Petroff was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children on Friday afternoon after he was struck by a car on Albert St. here.

The youngster is in an oxygen tent, suffering from loss of blood and a fractured skull. Surgeons are unable to operate yet and the boy's condition is reported to be Stephen Petroff "very critical."

Driver of the car that hit the boy, police said, was Mrs. Agnes Foley, of Hamilton township. She and her husband were travelling east on Albert St., she told police, when the boy darted out from behind a parked car.

The wheels of the Foley car did not pass over the child; he was flung to the street by the fender.

Police Chief H. Pearse investigated.

Six Unhurt As Cars Collide Near Apsley

Two cars that were in sideswipe collision late Friday night near Apsley received damage estimated at $750. None of the six occupants was injured.

The accident occurred on a straight stretch of Highway 28, six and a half miles north of Apsley, at 10.45 p.m. Frank H. Johnston, 52, of McDonnel St., was driving south on the highway when he came into sidewise collision with the northbound car of Wilbert Clayton, 50, of Roehampton Ave., Toronto.

Clayton's car received $500 damage and Johnston's $250. The three passengers and Clayton were unhurt; so were Mr. and Mrs. Johnston in the other vehicle.

OPP Constable Jack McKendry of Apsley investigated.

THIRTY-SIXTH REPUBLIC OF KOREA ARMY HOSPITAL, KOREA — Sick and wounded South Korean soldiers who were repatriated during operation Little Switch in April still are being kept in isolation, it has been learned.

None has been permitted to return home and none is permitted to receive visitors—even close relatives. They seem to have the strange status of "liberated prisoner patients."

During operation Little Switch, when the United Nations command and the Communists exchanged seriously ill and wounded prisoners of war, 471 South Koreans were delivered by the Reds.

Col. Kim Dong Ik, commanding officer of the 36th RoK Army Hospital, said this week that this number was turned over to him for processing and treatment. Since that time, four of them have died of tuberculosis and three have been transferred to a leper sanatorium.

The balance—464—have been segregated from all other RoK Army patients and are housed and treated in a separate annex to the hospital in a building which formerly housed a Seoul primary school.

said that "280 have been cured."

Of the 464 patients, Col. Kim He added: "We have done all we can for them in our hospital."

ORDERED TO STAY

He said that although he is ready to give them medical discharges from the hospital, "the Republic of Korea counter-intelligence corps has ordered them to stay here."

Col. Kim said that among those who are not ready for discharge from the hospital are some 80 tuberculosis patients and another 28 amputees and many others with serious wounds, diseases or complications.

He said that the general health of the returning prisoners has been improved and they have all gained weight since their release from Red prison camps.

Apparently the bureaucratic slowness of the RoK government is holding up the release of the 280 patients, as they actually are not treated as prisoners or victims of Communist indoctrination.

Originally the Republic of Korea had announced that returning sick and wounded prisoners would be given six months' treatment and rehabilitation and this was interpreted at that time as a lengthy "brain-washing" procedure.

SCREENED PATIENTS

Col. Kim, who is a former professor of internal medicine and dean of the medical college of the National University at Seoul, said that the RoK C.I.C., finished screening the patients six weeks after their return and has not been active around them since.

He said the hospital's own staff has given the prisoners some lectures on "how they must change their minds from Communism and do their duty as RoK citizens."

He said these talks were given over the hospital annex loudspeaker system.

Col. Kim, one of Korea's best-known physicians before he entered the RoK army soon after the Korean war began three years ago, said that the RoK C.I.C. has made no arrests of returning PoWs patients and has removed none fro mthe hospital to prison.

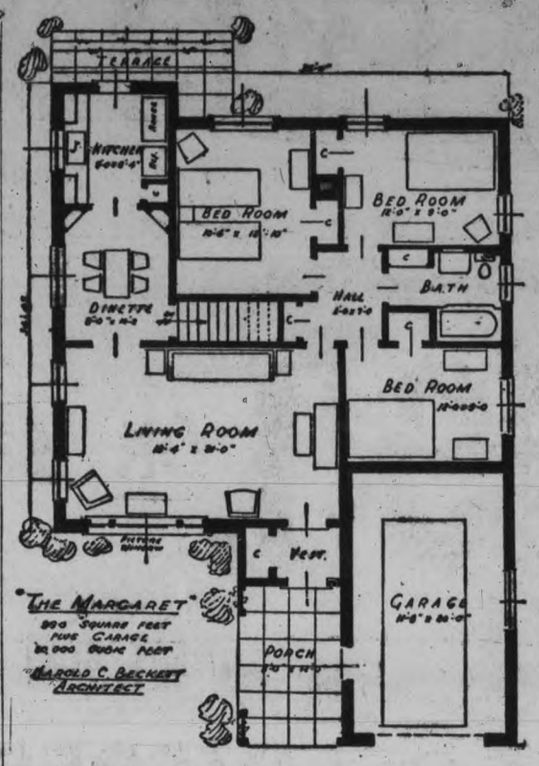
We visited the hospital annex, where the repatriated RoK prisoners were kept. There was one RoK military policeman at the gate and two inside the compound, one stationed at each of the two main doors to the hospital building. It was the absolute minimum number of guards for any RoK or American military establishment where passes of personnel and trip tickets for vehicles must be inspected.

There was no prison atmosphere and no fear of the guards. An agile 10-year-old boy could have scaled the compound wall if he had wanted to get out.

STAGE TALENT SHOW

Inside the courtyard, prisoners in hospital bathrobes squatted on the sandy ground to listen to an orchestra and vocalists of the Seoul Electric Company, who had come there to entertain them. In a sort of talent show, the patients and hospital corpsmen alike took turns before the microphone, singing ballads and popular songs. Since our visit was unscheduled, the afternoon musical show could be interpreted as normal activity.

The patients themselves said that they were well fed and given medical treatment far superior to that which they had received in North Korea. They offered no complaint about their isolation, believing that they were not yet ready for medical discharges.



The patients were happy, handclapping a lot during the performance—a lot different from the silent inhibited men who stepped down from Communist ambulances three months ago.

"They want to go north to fight Communism when they get well," Maj. Ahn Soo Buyk, commanding officer of the annex, said.

"Maybe they would like to get out of the hospital and see their families," this writer ventured.

Col. Kim laughed and said, "Yes, that's only natural, too."

THE MARGARET—This plan solves the difficult problem of a three-bedroom house with attached garage suitable for a 50' lot. Rooms are quite spacious. The garage walls are block faced with brick and the house is of brick veneer construction. Exterior design is modern colonial. Gable is in stained, textured weather-proofed plywood. Roof lines are kept low and a full basement is provided. This is another in the series on practical home planning by Harold C. Beckett, MRAIC, Architect, 52 Chatham St. West, Windsor, Ontario.

Exhaust Fans Save Damage To Furnishings

By MR. FIX

More and more new and remodelled homes are planned to have built-in wall or ceiling exhaust fans in kitchens, bathrooms, laundry, utility and recreation rooms. And for good reasons.

These kitchen-type fans expel excess cooking heat, making the kitchen a more pleasant place to work, and get rid of odors, steam, smoke and grease. The savings in cleaning bills resulting from the control of grease-laden air are recommendation enough for the fans.

Controlling the moisture given off by shower baths, which research has found amounts to about a half-pound of water vapor per average bath, is also important from the standpoint of protecting the house and furnishings from moisture damage, particularly during the summer, when the humidity in the home is high.

Installation of these fans is relatively simple, especially when the home is being built or remodeled. But there is nothing to prevent the home handyman from installing them at any time.

Kitchen fans are available in three different types, one of which will suit the needs of nearly any kitchen layout. The window model is generally least expensive and is very simple to install. It should not be used, however, if there is only one window in the kitchen, since it would not be wise to block that source of illumination.

The wall-model fan is advantageous in that it can be placed close to the kitchen range, and the ceiling model is particularly efficient in a kitchen with an unusual layout, because it will reach all corners of the room.

Since bathrooms generally have inadequate window area, a small exhaust fan installed in the wall or ceiling and vented to the outside or the attic can help keep the air fresh and clean.

Properly locating an exhaust fan in the kitchen or bathroom is essential to good ventilation performance. Most bathrooms being quite small, location of the fan is not too great a problem. What's important is to place the fan so that the air entering sweeps from the door across the length of the room. In this way all parts of the room are reached.

In installing kitchen fans, a number of factors should be considered to obtain satisfactory performance. Most important, the fan should be located as near the rang as is practical. This is necessary because the range is the major source of disagreeable odors, moisture, heat and grease.

Wherever food is cooked, grease becomes a part of the odors that pass off in vapor form. When these vapors come in contact with a cooler object, they condense, leaving a film of grease. In that way grease causes damage and discoloration to furnishings, walls, curtains and clothing.

It is also important to locate the kitchen fan so that air entering the kitchen travels over the range before being exhausted by the fan. The fan shouldn't be kept too close to any door or window which permits air to enter the room. It is best to keep such windows and doors closed while the fan is operating, with the air supply coming from the other rooms of the house.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—What can be used to fill small cracks and large pores in concrete structural work?

A—Use a soupy mixture of cement and water called grout. Dampen the concrete before applying grout.

Exhaust fans in kitchens and bathrooms carry off grease, steam and odors that might otherwise damage home and furnishings.

Dredging Model

VANCOUVER (CP) — A large-scale model of Vancouver harbor will be constructed at the University of British Columbia to study effects of dredging of the first narrows, tidal fluctuations and navigational conditions. Present plans call for removal of 8,560,000 cubic yards of silt from the bottom of the first narrows.

New Lightweight Concrete Reduces Load 40 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—New lightweight building materials of shale and clay, embedded in concrete, are expected to prove a boon to Canada's construction industry.

Technically known as coated lightweight concrete aggregate, the material when mixed with concrete takes away little from its strength while greatly lessening weight.

The industrial minerals division of the mines department, which has tested thousands of shale and clay samples from areas spread across Canada, predicts "excellent" results for the product. Deposits are located near most larger cities where construction possibilities are greatest.

Division spokesmen said that the greatest single advantage is a 30- to 40-per-cent decrease in load weight for structural concretes, and up to 80 per cent in load weight for insulating concretes. The aggregate costs more than the sand and gravel type of mix, but would be justified by savings in other ways.

After four years of research, a plant at Edmonton is making lightweight concrete aggregate; another is due to start at Ottawa while plans have been drawn up for still another plant to be located in the southern Prairie area.

COST DECREASED

Use in multi-storeyed buildings would be particularly suitable. The division said a decrease in dead weight carried by structural steel framework would mean valuable savings in the amount of reinforcing and structural steel needed. In addition, the structure would have improved heat and sound insulation properties.

By using lightweight aggregate concrete, additional storeys have been added to already existing structures where this would not have been possible with conventional heavy concrete.

For smaller structures, like homes, not using structural steel, lightweight aggregate concrete can be used as prefabricated roofs, floors and wall slabs. Because of relatively light weight the slabs would be easy to transport and handle, and would cut time required for home erection with resulting decreases in labor costs.

Aggregates are made by firing clays or shales in kilns. Individual pieces bloat under heat and fuse on surfaces; hence the term "coated." Inside each piece are numerous porous cells which make them so light they float on water.

J. M. Thomson Hastings Boy Dies At Age 68

John McMillan Thomson, 68, prominent businessman in Owen Sound for 23 years, died recently after only a few days in hospital. A native of Hastings, Mr. Thomson was the son of the late Rev. Dr. D. A. Thomson and Mrs. Thomson. Dr. Thomson was for more than 50 years Presbyterian minister at Hastings.

John M. Thomson attended school in Hastings and Norwood and as a young man entered the banking business. He served with the Union Bank of Canada for 24 years. In 1918 he married Isabelle Robb, of Norwood.

In May of this year, Mr. Thomson attended the convention of Rotary International in Paris, France, and later travelled on the continent. He was taken ill on board ship during his return journey to Canada.

SETTLED IN OWEN SOUND

In 1930 Mr. Thomson came to Owen Sound and established a retail furniture business. Mr. Thomson retired from active participation in the business early this year.

His wife survives along with one daughter, Ruth, Mrs. Ted Scarrow, and three sons, James, Ian and Paul, all of Owen Sound. Also surviving are two brothers, the Rev. E. A. Thomson, DD, of Toronto, general secretary of the Presbyterian Church in Canada; and Walter C. Thomson, QC, of Pickering, former leader of the Liberal party in Ontario and former MP in the House of Commons for Ontario riding. He was predeceased by one brother, Dr. James Thomson, and one sister, Belle, Mrs. W. R. Learmouth.

Mr. Thomson took a keen interest in municipal affairs and served two years as a member of Owen Sound city council. In politics he was a Liberal and was active in this field.

PAST ROTARY GOVERNOR

For many years Mr. Thomson was a Rotarian, and his great capacity for work and his interest in the endeavour of this service organization resulted in his election to high offices in Rotary. Mr. Thomson was a past district governor of Rotary International, and he was chairman of the Canadian Advisory Board of this organization. He served in various capacities in the Rotary Club of Owen Sound, including the office of president. He was a past president of Grey County TB and Health Association.

Mr. Thomson was also an active worker in the Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Session of St. Andrew's Church in Owen Sound, and for six years he was chairman of the Board of Administration of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Youth Attacks Man With Cane

LINDSAY (ENS) Garfield Pogue, an OPS township farmer, preferred a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm in Magistrate E. A. Gee's court Friday against a 15-year-old boy from the Bowmanville Training School. It was not disclosed until court opened that the boy told Mr. Pogue that he was 17 years old and that he was using an alias.

Mr. Pogue said in court that the boy had a terrific temper, that he stole a gun and 45 bullets and that "he attacked me with a cane and threatened my life. I am lucky to be alive, he might have struck me in a vital spot."

The gun and bullets were found hidden in a grain field. It developed that the lad was AWL since last March, being parolled to Carleton Place. Leaving the town he made his way to Lindsay and was employed with farmers in vicinity. Rather than commit the lad to the Ontario Reformatory the Magistrate sent him back to the training school at Bowmanville. The lad displayed his temper in court when Mr. Pogue was talking by slamming the desk with a tremendous whack.

Duke Of Edinburgh Has No Insurance

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh admitted to a group of insurance men Friday night that he has never carried any life insurance, and that he did not own anything worth insuring.

At a dinner of the Chartered Insurance Institute, the Duke—an old sailor—added, however, that the Royal racing yacht is insured "and you can put that down perhaps to my better knowledge of marine risks—especially when I happen to be sailing them."

Abandons Charter

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian Airways Ltd., of Montreal, which once operated the largest air service in Canada has applied for leave to surrender its charter, it was announced Friday in the Canada Gazette. The company, whose assets were bought in 1941 by Canadian Pacific Airlines, is expected to pass out of existence.

The company operated 55 planes during the 1930s. It was to a large extent the creation of James A. Richardson of Winnipeg and Kingston, who died in 1939. A pioneer in Canadian aviation development, he held interests in a wide variety of companies and was at one time Chancellor of Queen's University, Kingston.

Paratroopers Stage Big Exhibition

CAIRO (Reuters)—President Mohammed Naguib, government officials and thousands of Egyptians flocked to nearby Heliopolis today to watch a mass drop by Egyptian paratroopers.

The exhibition was part of Egypt's "liberation celebrations," marking the anniversary of Naguib's military coup last year, in which he ousted King Farouk.

Special attention was drawn today to the fact that the parachutes used were made in Egypt, following the emphasis throughout the celebrations on the building up of Egypt's armed forces and arms production.

Highlight of this campaign has been an article in the newspaper Al Ahram by War Minister Wing Cmdr. Abdul Latif Boghdady.

Boghdady claimed that Egypt's arms factories are building up steam and in three years Egypt will be able to export modern jet planes, "not only to Middle East countries but anywhere in the world where warplanes may be needed." He said production will be 1,440 planes a year.

CAN BE EXPORTER

In two years, he claimed, "Egypt will be in a position to export arms and ammunition." One factory alone will produce "hundreds of millions of cartridges, sufficient for the Egyptian Army and the whole of the Middle East."

Other factories now in production are making explosives and ammunition for small arms and heavy guns, and various weapons for the army, navy and air force, and training planes, Boghdady said.

The same line was taken Friday night by Maj. Salah Salem, minister of national guidance, who said: "We will not beg for liberation weapons from any foreign power. Weapons now are being made by your Egyptian brothers."

Salem said it is obvious the British "imperialists" cannot stay in Egypt, "now that we are relying on ourselves in arming the 22,000,000 people of Egypt."

He said the government is going ahead with its plans to arm civilian volunteers and that the army has opened its weapon stores to the public to let them arm in organized groups.

REVOLUTION SKIMS THE WAVES—This photograph may symbolize a revolution in aviation—the rebirth of the all-but-forgotten seaplane, whose clumsy, slow bulk has been eclipsed by sleek, speedy land planes. First photo released by the Navy, it shows Convair's superhush Sea Dart, the world's first jet-propelled seaplane, on trial flight in San Diego Bay, Calif. It has a swordfish-nosed, slim, streamlined shape. Using the lower part of the wing for buoyancy, it is said to be practically unsinkable. It is really a plane that floats instead of a boat that flies. Sheets of spray that shot out sideways when the old PBY-type seaplanes took off are eliminated by "fenders" running full length on each side. They deflect onrushing water under the hull, boosting it up. For taking off and setting down in the heaviest seas, the Sea Dart has retractable "hydro-skis" like a beach sportsman's water skis. A delta-wing jet plane is the fastest design known to aviation and the success of the Sea Dart opens up vistas of water-based bombers and huge seaplane airliners "that will match the speed, climb, distance and load of any land plane," according to Convair designer Ernest G. Stout.

8,000 Partisans Active In Poland

BERLIN (AP)—Eight thousand anti-Communist partisans are active in Poland and their chief attacks are against Soviet military trains hauling troops and East German reparations, intelligence experts said Friday night.

Soviet and Polish divisions are on manoeuvres at present in Silesia and sounds of artillery fire gave rise to rumors from the Neisse river frontier this week that open battles with partisans are in progress, these sources said. They dismissed the rumors as baseless.

By their account of Polish developments: Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky staged his big army and air force review last Wednesday in Stalinogrod, Silesian steel centre, to intimidate discontented workers.

Silesia is "full of undercover unrest against the regime, but very little overt resistance."

The Polish partisans are inadequately armed, although they occasionally obtain additional weapons when Soviet troop trains are derailed or military freight hijacked.

Their capabilities are limited to sudden hit-and-run raids on Soviet communications and they could not expect to survive any sort of head-on battle.

Brakes Fail On Train 5 Passengers Killed

BARCELONA, Spain (Reuters)—At least five persons were killed today when the brakes failed on a cog-wheel funicular train climbing from the nearby town of Monistrol to the famed Montserrat monastery.

More than 50 persons were injured, 16 of them seriously.

The train was nearing the top of the winding five-mile track up the mountain when the brakes failed. It plunged backwards, crashing into a second train which in turn collided with a third.

Daring Mau Mau Raid Sets Fire To Plane

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—A gang of Africans attacked an airstrip near here today and set fire to a plane used by the police as a spotter in actions against the Mau Mau.

It was the most daring Mau Mau raid in several months, and represented the cultists' first attempt to fight back against the aerial tactics being used against them.

The plane was wrecked.

Marines Use Chinese Guns

By JOHN STACKHOUSE

IN KOREA (Reuters)—U. S. marines said today they seized light automatic weapons from dead Chinese soldiers in Friday night's battle on the western front because their own M.1 rifles are too cumbersome.

Some marines said they had even swiped the light and efficient Owen automatic from Australian troops holding down the adjoining sector and used them in preference to their own rifles.

"We had to do something," one marine said. "The Aussies wouldn't sell any to us."

He said "many lives" would have been saved if the marine corps had maintained the quick-firing automatic carbine, still used as the basic weapon by American army forces in Korea.

A marine corps spokesman said light carbines had been replaced because they jammed in Korean mud and froze in the Korean winter.

Hungry People Flock For Food

BERLIN (AP)—Hungry, jobless persons from the Soviet sector flocked today to a new West Berlin food give-away. It was organized by Mayor Willy Kressmann to prove Soviet High Commissioner Vladimir Semyenov was wrong in claiming "unemployment does not exist in East Berlin."

The Kreuzberg borough mayor personally supervised distribution of food gifts valued at five marks ($1.09) each to Eastern applicants who showed their unemployment or charity cards.

When Kressmann closed shop late today, he had given away 1,374 packages of food—974 to unemployed persons and 400 to old age pensioners.

Each package contained sugar, rice, margarine, tinned meat, raisins, marmalade, soap and coffee, with peaches for children.

Hamilton Man Killed In Truck Accident

NORTH BAY (CP) — Claire Crowe, 26, of Hamilton, was fatally injured early today when a light panel truck went out of control and rolled over near here. Two other persons were hurt.

Police said Crowe was vacationing with his wife in the North Bay district and was a passenger in the truck. Mrs. Crowe was not in the truck.

The other two occupants of the truck were Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Bedard, both 28, of North Bay. Mrs. Bedard suffered undetermined leg and neck injuries. Her husband received a broken left wrist and lacerated left hand.

Mrs. T. A. Burrows Dies In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for Mrs. Theodore A. Burrows, 81, widow of a former lieutenant-governor of Manitoba and sister-in-law of the late Lady Sifton. She died Friday night.

Mrs. Burrows was chatelaine of Government House from 1926 until Jan. 18, 1929, when her husband died. He was the first lieutenant-governor of the province to die in office.

Mrs. Burrows was born in Owen Sound, Ont. She is survived by one daughter, a daughter-in-law and two grandchildren. A son died in 1946.

Omemee Society Pays Visit To Midhurst

OMEMEE (ENS) The Omemee and District Horticultural Society visited the government nurseries and Spring Water Park at Midhurst for their annual summer outing.

The park covers some 600 acres of land is well decorated with flowers, containing the largest bed of annuals and perennials in Ontario. Lunch was served at the south end of the park where captive animals and birds could be observed in their natural habitat.

Other bus stops on the trip were at Holland Marsh, Holland Landing, Sharon and Port Perry.

The temple of the Children of Peace was the point of interest at Sharon. It contains the old types of implements of agriculture and home industry of pioneer days, as well as musical instruments and various antiques.

The building contains 2,952 panes of glass, 12 pillars named after the apostles, and four central pillars for faith, hope, charity, and love, which surrounded a semblance of the ark of the convant.

The ark took 365 days to complete wooden pins were used so, just as in building Solomon's temple, the sound of the hammer was not heard.

The supper stop was in Port Perry park, near Lake Scugog.

Try To Curb Food Seekers

BERLIN (Reuters)—East Berlin police today strung up another 1¾ miles of barbed-wire fence along the border between the Soviet and French sectors in an effort to hamper West Berlin's operation "hand-out."

Starting Monday, West Germany will try to distribute thousands of tons of food to hungry East Germans.

The distribution points are inside West Berlin.

The Communists have been busy meanwhile, putting up miles of barbed-wire fences so the East Germans will be able to cross the border at fewer points and thus be easier to check and control.

10 Allied Planes Lost Over North Korea

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. 5th air force reported today that 10 Allied planes were lost over North Korea last week—slightly more than the weekly average of seven.

Two of the planes were Sabre jet fighters shot down by Red fliers in air battles deep in North Korea.

A UN official count showed 13 Communist MiGs were destroyed, two probably knocked down and three damaged during the same period.

Two other Sabres, the air force said, were downed by Red ground fire, as were three Thunderjets and two marine Panther jets. A fifth Sabre was lost to unexplained causes.

DENIES CHARGES—Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam testifying before the House un-American Activities Committee in Washington, charges that the committee is using methods that play "into Communist hands." Oxnam demanded that it "publicly announce the mistakes" it has made in linking him to Communist front groups.

Sidney Juniors Top Scorers At Field Meet

STIRLING (ENS) — Hastings County Junior Farmers held their annual field day Wednesday.

Sidney Township Junior Farmers and Junior Institute were the winners with 65 points. The Madoc Juniors were the runners-up with 28 points.

The Sidney Junior Institute won the girls' softball, defeating the Madoc club and winning the final game with Thurlow.

Thurlow won the tug-of-war, pulling the Sidney entry in two out of three falls and Madoc in two straight in the finals.

Frank Harry of the Sidney club was winner of the boys' hundred-yard dash, Ted Aikens of Sidney was second and Lynn Cole, Tyendinega, third.

The Mador Junior Institute won the girls' softball throw when Bernadette Thompson, Donna Rollins and Molly Franks won first, second and third respectively.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

The field day concluded with a dance and presentation at night. The Lee Grills trophy for the outstanding girl athlete was won jointly by Jean Frost, of Sidney, and Bernadette Thompson, Madoc. The presentation was made by Lee Grills.

Warden John Kincaid presented Frank Harry of Sidney with the trophy for the outstanding boy athlete.

Miss Kathleen Homan, president of Thurlow Junior Institute, was chosen "Miss Hastings" and presented with the Madoc Junior Farmers trophy by the president of the Madoc Club, Don McKinnon. This award went to the outstanding girl in Junior work in Hastings county.

Pleads Guilty Impaired Charge

Fred Binnington, 26, of Reid Street, Lakefield, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving today in magistrate's court, and was fined $75, and $2.50 costs. The charge came up as a result of an accident on Water Street late Friday night.

Binnington was driving south on Water Street when his car struck a second vehicle parked north of Brock Street, owned by John Lee of 181 Charlotte Street.

Damage was estimated at $125 to the Binnington car and $45 to Lee's vehicle. PC Ted Stephen investigated.

HIT-AND-RUN CRASH

In a hit-and-run crash at Townsend and Rubidge Streets Friday, damage was estimated at $125 to a car driven by Archie Walden, 28, of 657 Cameron Street.

Walden was just pulling away from the northwest corner of the intersection when a passing car struck the left front side. The second car failed to stop.

PC William A. Scott investigated.

WestonIncreases Stock Holdings

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says today that W. Garfield Weston, Canadian-born British industrialist, has increased his stock holdings in two of North America's biggest food chain stores in a $6,500,000 deal.

The financial page story says Mr. Weston recently increased his interests in Loblaw Groceterias Company, a Canadian firm, and Loblaw Incorporated, of Buffalo.

The story says Mr. Weston "apparently completed a $3,900,000 deal to increase his control in Loblaw groceterias to some 62 per cent of the voting stock."

It adds:

"The second deal is said to give Mr. Weston control of 49 per cent of the common stock of Loblaw Incorporated, a United States chain of some 133 stores. In this transaction he is reported to have acquired some 86,000 shares held by the late F. K. Morrow to boost his interest to about 175,000 of the 351,422 shares outstanding."

Fasts 80 Days Man Loses 79 Pounds

ESSEN, Germany (Reuters)—Showman Willi Schmitz, 52, emerged from a glass box Friday night after a fast lasting 80 days and one hour.

Schmitz, who was placed in the box on May 5, had lost 79 pounds but claimed he had set a world record.

He came out weighing 98 pounds. He had smoked about 3,500 cigarets and consumed 30 bottles of mineral water.

Intimidation Charge Laid

HAMILTON (CP)—A sixth Hamilton man, Nick Cdrilak, was charged with intimidation by provincial police Friday, as sporadic outbreaks of violence continued in the truck drivers strike. His case, as were those of five others charged Wednesday night, was laid over till July 28 when he appeared in court in Dundas.

The charge against Cdrilak arose out of an alleged attack on Ronald Fellows, 41, of Woodstock, a driver for Lowe's Transport, on No. 53 highway, just east of Brantford.

Fellows told police he was driving towards Niagara Falls to pick up the loaded trailer of his transport, when five men in a car attempted to cut him off. He said they pursued him for about two miles, and finally slowed down in front of his cab.

Fearing an attack, Fellows said he rammed the car.

Fellows also claimed that his shirt was ripped off—a charge denied by union officials—and his wrist watch broken.

Cdrilak was released from jail on $200 bail.

Rain Halts Test Match

LEEDS, England (CP)— Rain stopped play in the fourth Australia-England test cricket match shortly before lunch today after England had scored 62 runs for one wicket in second inning play.

It was uncertain when play might be resumed.

The first wicket fell with 57 on board when England's captain, Len Hutton, was caught by Gil Langley off Ron Archer.

Australia held a 99-run lead over England at the end of the first innings, replying with 266 to England's 167 in the first and second days of play.

This fourth match in the five-match series for the mythical Ashes will last five days. The first three matches were drawn.

Dies While Swimming

PAYSANDU, Uruguay (AP)—Leopoldino Simeone, 71-year-old Uruguayan resident of Concordia, Argentina, died of a heart attack today while swimming across the two-mile-wide Uruguay river to collect his old-age pension. He had done so several times in recent months after legal travel between Uruguay and Argentina was virtually halted by the Argentine government.

Alexander Says Friction Overstressed

SAFFRON WALDEN, England (Reuters)—Defence Minister Earl Alexander today criticized what he described as a "regrettable tendency" on the part of some people to exaggerate differences of opinion between Britain and the United States.

"Those who seek to blow up and magnify every difference with America are serving neither the cause of their country nor the cause of peace," the former Canadian governor-general told a political meeting.

"It would be a great mistake to take too seriously the frank exchanges which take place from time to time. Surely the point is this: the subjects on which we do agree with the United States are of far bigger and greater importance than those on which we don't agree."

On world affairs, Alexander said: "We are willing to meet the Russians half-way and to welcome any genuine helpful action they are prepared to make.

"But—and I would like to lay all the emphasis at my command on this—no agreement with the Russians can be reached unless we can retain our existing friendship with our allies and unless the free world maintains its strength."

New Strain Of Wheat Tops Average Yield

CHATHAM (CP)—A new strain of soft wheat harvested near here this week topped the average yield of other strains grown in Kent county by 15 per cent, agricultural officials said here today. The crop yielded 63 bushels to the acre.

Developed in New York state, the new strain, called "genesee", was harvested on the farm of Wilfred Bellanger of Paincourt, near Chatham.

This is the first time that the new strain has been grown commercially in Canada, having been licensed for use last year, following extensive tests at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Casey Jones' Whistle Echoes Across Mississippi

VAUGHAN, Miss (AP)—Casey Jones' beloved whip-poor-will whistle echoed once again across Mississippi while a monument was unveiled in this village where the famed train engineer died in the blinding crash of the "old 382."

Casey's 83-year-old widow and Simon Webb, the Negro fireman to whom he yelled "Jump, Sim, jump!" just before the crash 53 years ago, attended the unveiling Friday in this whistlestop on the Illinois Central Line.

Casey's spry little widow now lives in Jackson, Tenn., and reared two of Casey's sons to follow in their father's footsteps on the railroads.

The years rolled back for Sim Webb as he gazed on a model of "old 382" with Casey in the cab, his hand on the throttle. Casey's whistle was donated for the celebration by a Missouri man.

Sim can almost recite minute by minute the account of the "Cannonball's" last run in 1900. From the time they left Memphis, Tenn., an hour and 35 minutes late, to the time they got to the S-curve at Vaughan where they were only two minutes off schedule, Sim can retrace the historic run mile by mile.

Indian Guards Not Wanted In South Korea

By HOMER BIGART
(Special to The Examiner)

WASHINGTON. — The United Nations command plans to report Korean prisoners of war to the proposed demilitarized zone between its forces and the Communist Armies after hastily constructing an airfield there so that two or three thousand Indian guards can be flown in without touching South Korean territory, it has been learned.

The big airlift may be necessary in view of President Syngman Rhee's continued opposition to the passage of Indian troops across South Korean territory.

The plan, of course, is conditioned on Communist acceptance of the Korean truce and on India's consent to the airlift operation. In some quarters it was feared that India's Premier Jawaharlal Nehru might resent the indignity implied in hoisting Indian guards into the neutralized zone so they wouldn't touch the soil of Dr. Rhee's Republic. But others said Dr. Nehru would quickly assent if it were put up to him that refusal might wreck the peace talks.

NOT YET ADVISED

India has never been advised officially by the UN command that the proposed Indian guard contingent would not be allowed to land in South Korea. Initially India balked at invitations to join the PoW custodial commission unless assurances were given that the Indians "wouldn't have to fight their way into Korea."

This raised a delicate question. For although the proposed demilitarized zone runs from the Yellow Seas to the Sea of Japan, there are no port facilities at either end. Neither are there any existing airstrips in the zone. However, American engineers could whip one into shape in a matter of a few weeks. Because of the rugged terrain, it probably would have to be built on the West-Central or Western parts of the zone.

Only those PoWs who balk at repatriation would be sent to the demilitarized zone and turned over to the five-nation repatriation commission composed of Indian, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechosolovakia. (India alone is supplying the guards.) According to latest available figures there are about 20,000 balky prisoners in the UN compounds, of whom about 14,200 are Chinese.

LIFE-LONG LIBERAL John Wesley Fairman, of Hastings, who celebrates his 90th birthday today, expects to cast his ballot for the Northumberland Liberal candidate, Dr. F. G. Robertson, on August 10. Asked to what he attributed his good health, he said: "I always worked."—(Bill Reid Photo).

Looks Forward To Election Marks 90th Birthday Today

HASTINGS (ENS) The oldest voter to cast his ballot for Dr. F. G. Robertson, Liberal candidate for Northumberland in the general election August 10, will be John Wesley Fairman, who celebrates his 90th birthday at his home on Bay St. today.

Born in Haldimand township on July 25, 1863, son of the late Peter Fairman and his wife Martha, he was the eldest of seven children. Until 25 years ago he farmed the family homestead at Campbellford which his eldest son Ernest now works.

In his younger days, Mr. Fairman worked for the railway and sometimes a lumber camp in Algonquin Park during the winter months when he was free from summer duties on the farm.

He is a life-long Liberal and a member of Trinity United Church. Although he is a staunch teetotaller, he enjoys tobacco.

He is hale and hearty and eats three good meals a day, but failing sight and hearing have cut down his activities somewhat. However, he still goes down to the local barber shop with his son Howard each Saturday morning for a shave.

Mr. Fairman showed the Examiner a portrait of himself taken when he was 21, and admitted he was a "good-looking fellow." He said all the girls used to chase him, but they are losing interest now, and he doesn't get out much.

Asked to what he attributed his good health, he stated very simply: "I always worked."

He was married August 31, 1898 to Jennie Stevenson by the Rev. Francis Johnston of Percy Township Methodist Church. Mr. Fairman still remembers his wedding trip to Niagara Falls. His wife predeceased him in 1949.

FIVE SONS

His family consists of five sons: Ernest, on the homestead; Howard, a businessman in Hastings, with whom Mr. Fairman resides; Everett, of Belleville, and Earl, of Whitby, who are twins, and Gordon, of Whitby. Everett, a school teacher, was a major in the Second World War.

Earl teaches at Belleville and Gordon who served with the RCAF, is a civil servant with the customs department. There are 15 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

One grandson, Jack, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Fairman, of Hastings, was reported missing in action in Korea on October 12 1952.

Weslock, Ball Share Lead In Golf Tourney

SUDBURY (CP)—Windsor's Nick Weslock and Gordon Ball of Kitchener both fired par-72 scores to share the lead in the 17th annual Seagram Trophy invitation tournament at the Idylwylde Golf and Country Club here. A record field of 162 teed off in Friday's qualifying round.

Weslock had 36s both trips around Idylwylde's nine-hole layout.

One stroke behind the leaders was Ron Silver of Idylwylde with a 73.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener wound up fourth with 74 after running into trouble on the 16th and 17th holes for bogey fives.

Sault Ste. Marie's Bruce Hutchison reported in with a 75 for fifth place, followed by Kitchener's Tony Matlock and North Bay's Dave Morland with 76s. Matlock won the Seagram Trophy in 1950.

Tied with 77s were Pat O'Gorman, a junior player at Idylwylde; W.G. Anderson, Tillsonburg; Frank Quinn, Toronto, and Hamilton's Bernie Johnson. Billy Morland, former Northern Ontario champion from North Bay, came in with a 78.

Completing the championship flight qualifiers with 79s were Roy Herne, Sudbury Club; Merv Stoughton, North Bay; Ken Jacobs, Toronto; Moe Norman, Kitchener, and Stew Watson, Idylwylde.

He left by plane for the International League job Friday night.

WEDDING BELLS AGAIN—Although legally wed more than 1½ years ago at a Korean registry office, Cpl. Gilles Grenier, of Montreal, is to be married again July 31 in Korea, this time with army permission so he can bring his Korean wife back to Canada. Grenier returned to Canada and then went back to Korea for the ceremony with his 23-year-old wife, Hee Baik-Wha, a graduate nurse. With them is their young son, whom they plan to christen Georges.

Army Wants To Hear Church Bells Ring

Montreal Corporal Returns To Korea For Second Tour; To Get Married Second Time

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Wed legally more than 1½ years and with an infant son, Corporal Gilles Grenier of Montreal has to get married all over again.

The Army says it wants to hear the church bells ring.

So Grenier has come all the way back to Korea on a second 12-month tour of duty to say "I do" to the Army's satisfaction so that he can take his Korean wife back home with him to Canada.

The 26-year-old corporal, who survived three engagements with Canadian girls, lost his heart finally to winsome, 23-year-old Hee Baik-Wha of Seoul, a graduate nurse.

PAPER BARRICADE

Now in charge of the medical inspection room for the 56th Canadian General Transport Company, RCASC, he has worked his way through the almost insurmountable paper barricade of formalities that confront soldiers who marry abroad. He now has the Army's permission to marry his wife.

The date is set tentatively for Friday, July 31, and the couple hopes to have Maj. J. J. Vallely, the 1st Commonwealth Division's senior Roman Catholic chaplain, officiate.

The Greniers met near Uijongbu, 17 miles north of Seoul, in 1951 when the corporal was given charge of the medical inspection room at the brigade's then newly-established NCO's school.

So many Korean civilians took ailment and injury to the sympathetic Canadian that he finally had to seek help from the Korean chief of the I corps mobile civilian hospital at Uijongbu.

Miss Hee, graduate in nursing for the Severance Teaching Hospital in Seoul, a Canadian missionary hospital, was assigned. Together they treated an average of 250 patients a month.

LANGUAGE NO BARRIER

The nurse spoke no English. The French-speaking Canadian knew only what English he had picked up since joining the Army the year before. But they got along fine.

In time they were married at the Seoul registry office, and then Grenier was rotated. He told his wife he would send for her.

In Canada the paper barricade materialized. Finally Grenier applied for return to Korea. His present commanding officer, Maj. E.G. Hession of London, Ont., proved sympathetic and helpful.

But in Seoul, the corporal discovered in April his wife had despaired of seeing him again and gone to live with a friend at Chunchon.

He found her through a radio station announcement. Three days later she was in Seoul with Chee-So, their son, whom Grenier saw for the first time. Since then they have spent week-ends together.

HOPES FOR TRANSFER

But it's tough raising a family here and complying with Army regulations.

Soldiers may draw only $25 a month and there are no facilities for rations when away from their units.

After the wedding, however, Mrs. Grenier will qualify for Army dependents' allowances, which wil reduce their worries. But Grenier hopes for a transfer to Kure, Japan, before his year is out that his wife may learn English and study Canadian ways at classes sponsored there by the Canadian Red Cross for Japanese war brides.

"July 31 is going to be a great day for all the Greniers," Grenier says.

"Father and mother are going to be married and the baby is going to be christened. We're going to call him George."

Port Hope Nine Defeats Lindsay 9-3

LINDSAY (ENS)—Port Hope Ontarios came out of the cellar position to adminster a 9-3 defeat to the Lindsay Merchants in a long six-inning game.

Little Joe Lowery, of Peterborough, twirling for the losers, had an uncomfortable time in the first inning. After the first Port Hope batter reached first on an error, the Lindsay hurler walked six men before he was relieved by Edger.

Edger retired the side with a strike-out and a double play in which he figured. Edger mastered the situation for the balance of the game and had eight strike-outs.

The visitors got another brace of runs on an outfield error. Lindsay came through with three runs in the fifth. The box score in the initial innings showed seven runs off four hits and two errors on the part of the Merchants.

Batteries: Port Hope—Holman and Mann; Lindsay—Lowery and Menzies and Edger and Widdiss.

Umpires—Scotty Cameron, of Port Hope, and B. Henry of Lindsay.

George Walter Kent

The funeral of George Walter Kent, 65, of 127½ Sophia St., who died Wednesday in hospital, was held Friday at the Belleghem funeral home.

The Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican Church officiated. The pallbearers were: Thomas O'Brien, Thomas Dalton, Romeo and James Mongraw, John Vincent and Authur Thompson.

Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Cigarette Hoax

MILAN (Reuters)—Police looked into several packages marked with a Red Cross and labelled: "Most fragile. Contains medicines. Handle with care for the good of the sick." Inside were 7,500 smuggled U. S. cigarets.

Arrest Shoplifter

COBOURG (ENS) Police picked up a Colborne woman Friday afternoon here after a complaint had been received by a merchant. She was taken to the police station where some groceries and wearing apparel, unwrapped, were found in her possession. Police said she would be charged with shoplifting.

NORTH KOREAN LABORERS swarm over framework of "Armistice Hall" in this radiophoto from Korea of new truce building.

Shells Fall Within Blocks Of Truce Negotiators' Meet

By FRED SPARKS

PANMUNJOM (NEA)—No wise man here is buying a Korean truce until it is signed, sealed, and shells are no longer delivered.

Business up at truce negotiation headquarters seems complete except for the real estate transaction—real estate paid for in the lives of young men.

Bits of it—hills and valleys—are being traded back and forth like cotton in a Cairo bazaar to reach agreement on an armistice line.

Perhaps at no place else in our times has the confusion of humanity been better spotlighted than at Panmunjom, where men of alleged sincerity try to stop a war that is raging not ten city blocks away.

• • •

In the shabby wooden shack where the daily real estate exchange goes on. I looked in at negotiators huddled around a huge map.

Blocking my entrance was a towering American MP in varnished helmet and paratrooper boots polished like a spanking new Cadillac. Near him stood a sleepy North Korean sentry in a gray sack uniform as neat as a slept-in bed.

A short stroll away outside the neutral zone known by GIs as "Holy Land," I could hear the crump, crump, crump of mortars as our soldiers exchanged lethal compliments with the Communists.

• • •

Until 12 hours after the truce is notarized, some men will talk peace while other men talk the leaden words of war. Then the guns will be muffled.

Nearby the truce shack, a huge Oriental-style building is shaping up as hundreds of North Korean laborers under Communist army direction crawl over the framework like an ancient print of slaves building pyramids.

Their efforts will result in "Armistice Hall," a structure to house the official truce signing.

Their love of us was illustrated to me personally as I closed in with my camera and got a shovel full of dirt in my face.

• • •

Panmunjom right now is like a theatre before opening night. If and when there is truce, through this place will pass thousands of prisoners of war, released by both sides, on their way home.

Supervising our share is husky, dark-haired MP Captain Charles White, of Albuquerque, N.M., who also has to keep the place as dry as a WCTU convention. His men are drawn from combat outfits after he has been convinced they can forget yesterday and not try to strangle the Chinese and North Koreans strutting around the truce site.

This town, which recently catapulted into history with its muddy roads and primitive sanitary conditions, is a far cry from other peace palaces, like the elegant Hall of Mirrors at Versailles which housed diplomats who ended World War I.

It's a cruel, bleak town in which to end a cruel, bleak war.

OBITUARIES

MISS ISABELLA L. HAMILTON

LAKEFIELD Miss Isabella Lunham Hamilton, 83, Block Road Lakefield, died Friday at her home after an illness of about eight years. During her illness she was confined most of the time to her bed or to her wheelchair.

Miss Hamilton was a lifelong resident of Lakefield. She was the daughter of the late William Hamilton and Jeanett Finnie and she kept house at the family home for her brothers.

She was a member of Lakefield United Church.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at her home with the Rev. J. A. Steed of Lakefield United Church officiating. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

Food Poisoning

LONDON (Reuters) — Hospitals treated 131 schoolchildren, six teachers and a cook taken ill with food poisoning after an end-of-term meal at a school canteen. Casualties poured into three hospitals for six hours as children collapsed in school playgrounds, classrooms in the streets, on their way home from school and in their own homes.

Junior U.S. Golfers Score 8-3 Win Over Ontario Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — Junior golfers from the U. S. capital scored an 8-3 victory over an all-star team from Ontario, in the third annual Simpson Cup matches Friday at Columbia Country Club.

The District of Columbia team swept the morning scotch foursomes for a 4-0 lead and went on to win four of the eight afternoon singles matches. The Canadians won three singles matches and one was halved. The point was not counted in the halved match.

The D.C. boys' victory margin was the same as it was in 1951. Canada was a 7-5 winner last year in Toronto.

The feature singles match went to Jack Lowrey of St. Catharines, who scored a 3 and 2 victory over Deane Beman, newly crowned Middle Atlantic junior champion. Lowrey was four up after nine holes and won easily with three-over-par golf over the rugged par-70, 6,380-yard course.

Bill Bell, of Aurora, captain of the Canadians and the Ontario junior champion, was three over par as was Hugh Patterson of Toronto in their singles victories over the top-ranking members of the host team. They beat Jerry McFerren and John Dunn, respectively.

TIED BY SPELLMAN

George Shorer of Hamilton was two up and four to play, but was tied by Larry Spellman, captain of the winners, who finished with four straight pars.

Phil Brownlee, 12-year-old of Toronto, lost his singles match to Keith Bowie, 5 and 4. Brownlee spotted his rival almost 18 inches in height and about three years, but still made a match of it.

He was singled out by Vice-Nixon in the wind-up ceremonies.

Brownlee's short game in the morning almost gave him and Garry Cowan a point for the Canadians in the scotch foursome play. They finally lost one down. The other scotch foursome matches were not close.

Three of the Canadian youngsters Lowrey, Shorer and Patterson, leave tonight for Tulsa, Okla., where the U.S. Golf Association junior championship begins next Wednesday. They qualified in the district qualifying rounds last Monday.

HANDLE SERVICE VOTE—Officers of the Canadian armed forces and civilian appointees meet in Kure, Japan, to complete arrangements for handling votes of Canadian servicemen in the Far East in the August 10 federal election. J. H. Hollies, Ottawa, liaison officer between the chief electoral officer and defence department, and Capt. James Davidson, Pictou, Ont., deputy returning officer for Tokyo.

Air Cadets Graduate

MOOSE JAW (CP)—A 23-year-old French cadet, who as a boy aided RCAF airmen to escape from German-occupied France, graduated from the No. 2 Flying Training School here Friday with top honors.

Albert Andrieux of Finnisterre, France, now a staff sergeant in the French Air Force, headed a class of 25 student pilots to win the Sir John Siddely Trophy.

Canadian graduates were PO Don McCombs of Port Robinson, Ont., and PO Joseph Lalonde of Coniston, Ont.

Switchmen Strike

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Switchmen of the Minnesota, Dakota and Western Railway in International Falls called a strike Friday which halted freight movements to the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company. The move threatened to shut down company plants in both International Falls and Fort Frances.

$5,000 Gown On Statue

NEW YORK—A $5,000 gown of egg-shell satin made by a Bronx seamstress in appreciation of her recovery from cancer to adorn a madonna statue in her home town has been sent to a church in Greci, Italy.

The hand-made gown was fashioned by Miss Maria De Sesa, 52. It will take the place of an old and tattered gown the church madonna now wears which the townspeople of Greci have been unable to replace.

It has been blessed by Francis Cardinal Spellman and will be blessed again by the Pope before going to Greci.

Miss De Sesa said she decided to make the gown if she recovered from her illness when she first heard of the ragged dress the madonna now wears. She did recover, and made the gown.

RED TERROR—The eyes of six-year-old Eva Kapus reflect the terror of the story being told by her father, Dr. Geza Kapus, after his escape from Communist Hungary to Vienna. A lawyer, he had been deported to a small village. Then secret police held him responsible for all minor violations happening there. Determined to escape, he and his family fled across the barb-wired Austro-Hungarian border. He and his daughter made it, but his wife was critically injured by a border guard's hand grenade.

Ola Turcotte Weds Edmond J. Dionne

The marriage took place in St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday, July 18, of Ola Alvada, daughter of John and the late Mrs. Turcotte to Edmond John Dionne, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dionne. The Rev. G. J. Weiss officiated.

Floral setting in the church was of varied colored gladioli. Mrs. Amon provided the music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She was dressed in a white ballerina length nylon over taffeta gown with a shoulder length veil caught up by a pearl tiara, and carried a bouquet of red roses. The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. L. Dupuis, who was frocked in an ice-blue nylon net over taffeta ballerina gown, and a blue tiara. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The best man was Harold Turcotte and the ushers were Patrick Turcotte and Daniel Barclay.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Hooper's Palm Room where the bride's sister, Mrs. D. Clarke, received guests. She wore a navy blue nylon dress with white accessories. The groom's aunt, Mrs. D. Barclay, also received, dressed in a beige outfit with matching accessories and a bouquet of red roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Montreal and Ottawa. For travelling the bride wore a pale pink dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

On their return the couple will reside at 199 Dublin Street.

Ingenue Actress Has ARCT Degree

Getting her first professional stage exeprience at the Peterborough Summer Theatre this season is Miss Charlotte Schrager, of Toronto.

As the ingenue of the company, Miss Schrager is taking minor female parts almost every week. Even though she may have very few lines, she considers it wonderful experience to be with a group of this calibre. "They are 'right up' all the time, and you soon feel the rough edges being rubbed off from working with them," she says.

Miss Schrager has her ARCT in speech, arts and drama, and this fall will enter her third year at University College, Toronto. Her career plans are to go to France to teach English, and then to go to England to teach French, which will give her opportunity to go on the stage.

Her hobby is riding, and she has taken some lessons in jumping, and loves this thrilling side of the sport. In leisure time she does a lot of reading, some sketching, and writes poetry, some of which has been published in the school magazine.

Her amateur acting, as well as this spell of professional work, has been under direction of Robert Gill at Hart House, and she hopes to be in more plays there this coming term.

An older sister and she received their Conservatory degrees at the same time, but her sister has done only amateur acting and a bit of radio work since. Another older sister obtained her MA in psychology. Miss Schrager also has a young brother. Her family are all living in Toronto.

Treasure Hunt Ends YWCA Camp

Three weeks of fine weather and fun ended with the closing of the YWCA Pirates' Chest Day Camp. A plea to the weatherman that no rain must fall on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays was answered. The last day consisted of finishing up scrap books, swimming, picnic lunch, singing and a masquerade followed by a treasure hunt.

There were 44 campers in all—few casualties and much laughing and singing. Bea Pelsis and Marion Foster directed the Day Camp.

Prize-kinners for the masquerade were: Dentist, Katherine Howard; Barefoot Boy, Pat Howard; Fattest of Fat Ladies, Skippy Wood and Joan Whitfield; Old-Fashioned Lady, Lyn Ross; Bridal Couple, Patricia Ann Ferguson and Linda Greenside; Princess, Margaret Whitfield.

BEWARE OF AUGUST—August is the year's worst traffic month, according to the National Safety Council, and it will pay both pedestrian and driver to be extra careful. This photo was taken in West Bend, Wis., after a truck ran over a child riding a bicycle. Insert chart shows highway deaths by months for 1952, which reached their peak in August with 2,980 deaths. This was 28 per cent higher than th eaverage 1952 month. And for every traffic death there were 35 injuries. Main reason for the increase is that more cars than usual travel the highways during August, but another factor is what the National Safety Council calls the "vacation attitude."

Foot beauty and comfort are easy to achieve in summer when a girl can walk around barefoot in sand or grass, like our girl above (centre). She reaches for the sky, stretching as tall as possible, and walks about on her toes. This strengthens her arches. Arches were considered, too, when she chose a summer shoe wardrobe in varying heel heights. To go from flats to 3 or 4-inch heels can cause an unbearable strain. Thus she includes a moderate heel height of about 2 inches (right, on ground) among her shoes. All of her summer shoes are soft leather because the feet can "breathe" through leather, it absorbs perspiration and, if of good quality, conforms to the shape and movement of the wearer's foot. At left, our girl enjoys a pedicure outdoors, a lazy but profitable occupation for a hot summer afternoon. Does this remind you that your feet, too, need pampering?

Arches Can't Adjust To Sudden Shoe Changes

One beauty gain that's yours after a beach vacation is a pair of pretty feet. But not unless you're a girl who loves to walk along the edge of the surf for hours.

Just sit on the dry sand and you won't get the benefit of the smoothing action of this natural pumice stone—damp sand. Nor the tonic effect of cold salt water. Girls who spend summer at the beach find, at season's end, that their feet never felt so good nor looked so pretty.

Few of us are so lucky that we can take many walks through damp sand and lapping surf. We've got to get back to our jobs—whether of homemaking or careering. But we want and must have well-groomed, comfortable feet, just the same.

To help rid yourself of corns and callouses in a less pleasant but still effective way, soak the feet in hot sudsy water for half an hour. Then gently rub the caloused spots with pumice stone. Cool your feet off under the cold water tap. Dry thoroughly. Apply some camphor cream to the dry, rough spots. Use dusting powder before pulling on your stockings. Repeat this treatment as often as needed.

Callouses and corns are less apt to form if your feet get proper care. This should include a daily scrubbing with a well-lathered brush, pumice stone as needed, thorough drying (often neglected), and foot powder. Don't fail to push back the cuticle each time.

When you pedicure, file straight across, never rounding the corners. If you cut or file into the corners, you're likely to develop ingrowing toenails which can be very painful. Keep the nails long enough to insure the natural protection to your toe tips. Lemon juice worked under the nail and around the cuticle with a cotton-tipped orangewood stick will help remove ugly darkness.

To smooth the surface of the nail, buff with powdered pumice. Girls of taste feel that the feet look slightly undressed if the nails are left unpolished when open-toed shoes are worn.

When you select shoes for summer, be sure to have your foot measured each time you shop. Never simply ask for a size. Stand up while your foot is measured. Thousands of girls have learned, much to the benefit of their feet, that spike heels aren't worth the "glamor" they give. Now that pretty dress-up shoes are available without foolishly high heels, they have to a great extent, given up that nonsense.

You have play shoes, of course. But don't wear them, especially if they're rubber-soled, for any but casual play occasions. Your feet must have support, best rendered by flexible, good-quality, all-leather shoes, with a certain amount of heel and a built-in arch, for sports or a lot of walking. They shouldn't be sling pumps if your feet must "take it" for a long period.

To exercise your feet, and it's very necessary, get up on your toes often. Walk about that way. Clutch the carpet, or the grass, with your down-curled toes. And do the opposite—turn them up as far as you can while the foot remains flat on the floor.

DOROTHY DIX:

Not Prepared To Accept New Driver

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past few months my husband and I have had some quarrels over my driving. He doesn't want me to drive, even though I have had my license for seven months and had to drive in the city to get it. I think I have as much right to drive as a man. I saved and did without things to get the car, and it should be as much mine as his. My husband is a wonderful man, and we get along fine, except for this one difference.

M. T.

SAMPLE OF MALE EGO

ANSWER: Ever hear of a man's ego? Well, one of the things upon which it is most set is the fairy tale that only men make good drivers. How a man hates to admit that a woman can handle a car as well as he can! Perhaps your driving just turned out better than your husband's. There's absolutely no question about your right to drive the car. Since you helped pay for it, and are a licensed driver, it should be at your disposal on a reasonable basis.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years ago I was swept off my feet by John, then a widower, and married him, jilting the man I really loved. Soon after our honeymoon, I discovered that I was just a housekeeper to take the place of his late wife. My thought keep turning to my old sweetheart, whom I haven't seen since my marriage.

MRS. L. K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: And if you had married the first sweetheart you would have yearned for John who had so much more security to offer! You don't seem ill-treated in any way except that you can't have a husband AND the man of your dreams, too. Well, girl, you've grown up and must face the fact that romantic yearnings just don't fit into the responsibilities of everyday life. Making a home for John is a full-time job, and will be a satisfying one, too, if you'll only settle down to it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I will be 18 soon, and my boy friend is 21. We have been going steady for [illegible] years and once in that time [illegible] went with another girl for three months. We're back together again, but he never tells me he loves me, or mentions marriage.

LONELY MARY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: An awful lot of unhappy young marriages are caused by lassies like you, Mary, who insist on pushing a boy into a declaration of love, followed by a quick trip to the altar, before the lad has acquired the sense of responsibility needed. Give him time to make up his own mind, and in the meantime, if you continue nagging him about love and marriage, he'll get so annoyed you'll never catch him. Try a little tact and diplomacy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a junior in a high school, connected with a college that is attended by several South American boys. One of them asked me for a date, and I didn't know whether to accept or not. I don't know the boys from South America too well, and don't know what to talk about with them. They are nice, friendly boys, and I know they are lonesome, since they only get home once a year.

PEGGY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You say your mother is also puzzled over the situation, so why not have one or two of these boys come to your house for tea or supper on Sunday evening, if that conforms with the custom in your town?. They would be delighted to meet an American fami-

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Half Holiday Fun Is Anticipating Its Joys

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Oh dear, I could do with a splendid holiday
In a complete vacuum."
—From Christopher Fry's
"The Lady's Not For Burning"

Vacation plans are in the minds of everyone! Half the fun of a holiday lies in anticipating its joys. Son is talking about camp or working on a farm. Daughter is looking forward to a trip or to her best chum visiting with her at the family cottage. Dad is overhauling his best fishing tackle—but what about mother?

The hours of the average homemaker are much longer than of those of women in any other occupation. There is nothing new about this—but there is an increased tempo in modern living and greater demands on a mother's reserve energy.

MOST TAXING DAYS

To far too many homemakers, the summer months are the most taxing ones of the whole year. Shopping for additions to the summer outfits for all the family, re-modelling last year's clothes, figuring out costs of vacation plans, plus extra outlay for entertainment of guests, trying out new menus to tempt flagging appetites in the torrid weather,—who would choose to fill a mother's role during July and August?

In the many vacation areas, part-time or full time domestic assistance suddenly disappears in the direction of the summer resorts. During their brief prosperous season, the motels and tourist centres just must have abundant help in the kitchen, dining room and bedroom work. The operators of these vacation resorts are in a financial position to offer fantastically high wages. No ordinary household can compete with their scale of pay.

What can be done about this situation? Just accepting an unsatisfactory summer for mother, in so far as any real change from her regular household duties, is decidedly unfair. Mother needs a vacation as much as anyone. Feeling sorry for herself is exhausting for her emotional health. All summer the constant heavy demands on her physical reserves frequently leave her with very little optimism or energy for the Autumn work. Surely mother and father together can discover some partial solution to mother's vacation problem! "Where there's a will, there's a way" still makes good sense.

FATHER'S HELP

Every household has its own peculiar set-up and so contrasting solutions appeal to different homemakers. But the very fact that her partner in marriage is tackling this knotty point with her will put new heart into mother.

In one home, Monday Wash Day during the summer months without the usual outside help paid by the hour invariably ended up with mother laid low with a sick headache brought on by fatigue A decision was reached to send out the washing to a commercial laundry and this proved to be an excellent investment in mother's health. One husband bought a much needed new combination washing and drying machine as a summer surprise for his wife. Still another family, with school age children at home, were organized by Dad to give Mother more help with the housework, especially on Wash Day.

A family trip still leaves mother with the major responsibility for supervising the children and keeping them from distracting dad's attention when he is driving. A carefree vacation for mother and dad, without their children, is strongly advocated by many marriage counsellors. This is an excellent cement for a happy partnership. Mother and father have a chance to talk without interruption from the "small fry." They can recall their honeymoon days and discover in a new way what good company the other person is.

PRE-SCHOOL AGE CHILDREN

This plan is difficult to carry out when the children are pre-school age, unless there is a willing granny, aunt or housekeeper whom the youngsters know and love who will "double" for mother. Little folk are usually best looked after by a mother-substitute in their own home, following their usual routine.

But once boys and girls are of school age, a camp holiday for son and daughter [illegible] parents free to [illegible]

In some families a "barter" arrangement has worked out. Ellen Johnston, looked after the Brown's children for a week while their parents got away in July. Then in August, June Brown took on Ellen's twins, and for the first time in ten years, mother and father Johnston went holidaying alone together.

"Where there is a will there is a way!" has proved to be a sensible saying. Mother needs a vacation. Father and the children, if they are determined to give her a bit of a holiday, can surely manage it!

QUESTION: I am planning a bridal shower for approximately 15 the end of this month and would appreciate any suggestions and recipes you could give me for lunch. The general lunch at showers I have attended has been a "prepared-ahead-of-time" salad, fruit bread, dessert and beverage, and I had something similar in mind, but if you have any other original sugestions, so much the better . . . Mrs. D. S.

ANSWER: I would suggest you make Individual Cheese-Frosted Sandwich loaves and place them on each plate in the kitchen and garnish with celery hearts, carrot curls, potato chips, ripe and green olives and radishes and parsley. These are very attractive . . . You may want to provide ice cream and cake too but I think that is too much. I think small strips of good fruit cake and some tasty little petit fours or cocoanut macaroons and coffee would be ample.

INDIVIDUAL CHEESE-FROSTED SANDWICH LOAVES

These are ideal for shower or bridge or evening refreshments.

To serve 14 or 16 have a large sandwich loaf cut into 6 lengthwise slices (this does not include, of course, the two long outside crusts).

Without cutting edge crusts from slices spread them with butter, but leave 2 unspread.

Make the fillings.

1 lb. lean cooked chicken and to it add 2-3 cup mayonnaise and ¼ cup very finely chopped celery. Some chopped olives may be added if desired. Add salt to taste. Mix until of spreading consistency. Spread this on two of the buttered slices. Ham: Grind 1 lb. lean cooked ham and to it add 2-3 cup mayonnaise and ½ cup finely chopped sweet pickles and 2 teaspoons French mustard. Spread this on another two slices. Place the ham-spread slices on top of the chicken-spread slices and top these with the unspread slices. Thus you have two shallow loaves with fillings in them. Cut off the outer edge crusts. Cut each shallow loaf into 7 or 8 individual loaves crosswise. Each one of these is now "iced" with a cheese frosting made by softening 4 3-oz. packages of white cream cheese by mashing it with cream until of soft spreading consistency. Spread this on tops and sides of each individual loaf as you would ice a cake. If you are handy with the icing tube you may want to flute an edge around the top of each. Garnish centre with sprig of parsley, or decorate with little "flower" made of match-stick thin slices of dill pickle.

QUESTION: Your recipes are proving most helpful. In making plain black currant jam, just fruit and sugar, how much sugar should be used for every cup of fruit? In making jam what causes a surplus of juice? What can be done with this? I've tried using it for drinks, adding water, but juice does I made rhubarb and pineapple jam and had about 24 fluid ounces of juice after boiling jam 40 minutes. Lots of rain so rhubarb juicy. Should I have continued boiling until jam quite thick? Had I done so fruit would have been mush. When the lemon flavor, preferring the fresh fruit flavor. My recipe for Rhubarb-Pineapple Jam is: 3 cups rhubarb, 1¼ cups (1 can) crushed pineapple, drained, 2 oranges, 2 lemons juice only, 6 cups sugar. Put all ingredients in kkettle, let stand 2 hours. Stir well. Heat slowly and bring to boil. Boil on medium heat 40 minutes. When thick and clear pour into glasses and seal when cool. Your advice would be appreciated.

ANSWER: Black currants contain so much pectin they require added water.

BLACK CURRANT JAM

Wash and remove tiny blossom end from black currants and measure 6 cups. To them add five cups water and bring to boil uncovered and boil 15 minutes. Add 6½ cups sugar and bring to boil stirring, then boil for 8 minutes—and test for jam stage on cold saucer. Be satisfied with a soft jell test as black currants jell firmer on second day. Pour into sterile jam jars and seal at once with hot new paraffin, adding second coating when cold. It is true the jam in the bottom of the jars is more like jelly but most people like that feature. Watch for cont'd. answer next week.

6—In Memoriam

OAKLEY—In loving memory of our dear little boy, Bruce Oakley, who passed away July 26, 1949.
God knew that he was suffering,
The hills were hard to climb,
So He closed his weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair.
Sometime, someday we know not when
We will meet our little boy there.
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten, Mummy and Daddy.

ly, since they are undoubtedly studying in this country for the chief purpose of learning our way of life. You and your family will also benefit from the international exchange, by becoming acquainted with young men from an entirely different culture. Don't regard them as "strange" or "foreign," but as interesting people from whom we can learn a great deal and who are also eager to learn from us.

ABOVE: ROK troops take a short break on a roadside after heavy fighting on Sniper Ridge.

LEFT: Exhausted fighters of the ROK Capitol Division sprawl on a truck laden with their gear as they move to the rear after being overrun by biggest enemy offensive in two years.

RIGHT: Faces and attitudes of these Capitol Division troops show the strain they've been under in seesaw battle.

Their Faces Tell The Toll War Takes

These are some of the Republic of Korea troops who bore the brunt of the Chinese Communists' smashing "human-sea" attack on the central front. They fought valiantly against overwhelming odds until forced to retreat. But they came back and retook some of the bloodied ground they had given up. Out of the fighting for the moment, they show the strain of the critical battle. Dirty, sweat-soaked, numb with fatigue, they collapse like suddenly emptied sacks wherever they happen to be when "time out" is called.

Modern Dairy Cows Live Assembly Line Existence

WASHINGTON-The life of a cow once lived in pastoral association with daisies and dairymaids, has become a factory existence.

Modern cows have cafeterias. They have efficiency ratings, on which the marks, as far as they are concerned, read from Grade A to Abattoir. Moveable electric fencing confines them to shrewdly calculated daily bits of meadow.

ASSSEMBLY LINE FOOD

Cow cafeterias deliver breakfast of cut green grass. Overhead feeding devices, for all the world like automat restaurants, dole out scientifically measured rations of hay and grain.

When they are allowed to eat out, cows are chaperoned by disageeably bua not dangedously chaged wires. Dairy operators using the modern system of "accordion pastures" divide their meadows into plots that are varied in size to suit the growing season. Each day, fence and herd are moved.

Favorable reports on the system have come in from such widely separated states as California and New Hampshire. Proponents say it provides as much as a third more feed, which means less supplementary grain feeding. Also, they add, it makes cows eat a varied diet, for a cow is a great one to wander around a large pasture, eating only one variety of its grasses. In a small space, she eats everything rather than go hungry.

HOT SHOWERS

Like factory workers coming off a shift, cows have hot shower baths. Dairy farm loafing barns and stainless steel milking sheds with electric milking machines are nothing more than industrial processing plants.

Assembly line living for dairy cows reaches the acme of modernity in the Los Angeles milkshed, where a farmer speaks of a cow as he would of a machine. There the herds never see rolling meadows, but live in corrals. They get "shotgun feedings" of orange and beet pulp, copra meal, molasses and grains—all of it calculated to be transformed into milk as quickly and efficiently as possible.

As to those efficiency reports, as long as a production line cow turns out about four gallons of milk a day, she is kept on the payroll, but few can stand the pace for more than two years. In modern dairying, there can be no sentiment for a burned-out Bossie, so as soon as she fails to meet her quota, she goes to the abattoir to be turned into beefsteak and hamburger.

Swedish Oil Painter Art Club Instructor

WARKWORTH (ENS)—A number of district ladies met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. Grant Allen to form an art club.

The instructor will be Mr. Paana Airola, a native of Sweden who has been in this country a little more than a year. For the past two months, his oil paintings have been on exhibition at Hart House, University of Toronto.

Those wishing to join the club should contact Mrs. Allen.

Music Teacher Takes Fred Waring Course

STIRLING (ENS)—Mrs. Muriel S. Baker, music supervisor and vocal teacher, is among a select group of 110 professional musicians attending the Fred Waring choral workshop at Delaware Water Gap, Pa., this week.

A special feature of this year's course is the class in television orientation by Bob Banner, director of the Waring television show for the General Electric Co.

Former Chief Passes

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Norman M. Harris, former chief of the laboratory of hygiene in the federal health department, died here Friday. He was 83. While Dr. Harris was chief of the laboratory of hygiene in the health department he made the first laboratory diagnosis of a case of malignant fever in Canada. He was considered a world authority in his specialized field. Funeral services will be held here Monday. Burial will be in Whitby.

Truck Falls In River

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Seven of 11 persons in a truck were killed when it fell from a bridge into the river Drava near Varazdin in Croatia.

OFF MEAT DIET

CLEVELAND (AP)—Early Wynn Cleveland's burly pitcher, disclosed Friday he is shooting for his third 20-win season without meat, which he dearly loves.

Wynn said doctors—while hunting the cause for pains in his shoulders, had found he has a metabolic disorder. He had "been eating meat three times a day, seven days a week."

The doctors ordered him early in June to stop eating meat and fish.

"I felt weak at first, but gradually I began to feel better," Wynn said. "My shoulder feels fine."

Counting the win Thursday over New York, Wynn has won 10 and lost seven so far and has a 3.76-earned-run average.

Thieves Enter Matthews Home

Thieves entered the home of Gordon Matthews, 686 Hopkins Ave., sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning. It is not yet determined just what is missing.

Police say, however, that some articles have been recovered and await identification by the home owner on his return to the city on Monday.

The break-in was reported to police by a son of Mr. Matthews. Entrance was gained through a window.

Inspector of detectives Bud Clarek is investigating.

Eisenhower's Brother Calls McCarthy Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's older brother, Arthur, confirmed Friday that he had described Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) as "the most dangerous menace to America."

After Eisenhower, a Kansas City banker, was quoted on McCarthy Thursday in the Las Vegas, Nev., Sun, the Wisconsin senator called on him to confirm or deny the newspaper story.

A reporter for the Phoenix, Ariz., Gazette caught up with Eisenhower at Phoenix airport, where he got confirmation of the Sun's quotes.

DEPLORABLE ATTACKS

"It's too bad we have such a man in public life," Eisenhower said in a brief interview between flights. He added that McCarthy makes "deplorable attacks on people and gives people no chance to answer charges."

Informed of Eisenhower's latest remarks, McCarthy shrugged them off.

"I have no concern at all in this fellow's blasting at me, and I certainly can't hold President Eisenhower responsible for what his relatives say," the senator said.

The White House had no comment.

Two Businesses Sold At Warkworth

WARKWORTH (ENS) — Two places of business here are changing hands.

J. H. Butars has sold his grocery store, meat market and locker service to Bruce Birney and Arthur McKee, former employees. Mr. Buttars conducted the business for 12 years. The change-over took place the beginning of the week.

Lloyd Seward has sold his blacksmith shop and equipment to Floyd Grills, who has been employed in welding and general repair work with Alan Jones of Campbellford.

Childless Couple Provide Camp For Members Children's Home

By MARY KAY FLYNN

BETHEL, Kans. (NEA) — Putting the cart before the horse—or, more specifically, the horse before the camp—has paid off for Jack Eskridge, Kansas City, Kans. motorcycle patrolman.

After he was given a saddle horse, the 45-year-old officer decided he needed a camp to go with it.

He wanted a place where "my kids"— a couple of dozen of them—could ride and romp in the outdoors.

Now the youngsters have the camp plus two horses and some ponies to ride. "Big Jack" Eskridge opened his kiddie haven this summer with a western barbecue for "his" boys and girls of the Children's Home of Kansas City, Kans., and other juvenile guests.

✧ ✧ ✧

The camp is on an eight-acre tract adjoining rustic, expansive Wyandotte County Lake near here. The site was leased to Eskridge by a contractor for $1 for the first 10 years, the lease being renewable in the lifetime of the patrolman as long as it is used for child recreation.

All materials and equipment for the camp were donted by contractors who also put in a road and cleared the cabin site. A cement block cabin 16 by 24 feet, was erected and painted by building workers who volunteered their services while idled by a strike.

A commercial artist made the "architect's" drawing for the cabin, and Boy Scouts helped clear the land.

Eskridge, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 235 pounds, had never operated a bulldozer until he borrowed one to clear off the brush and trees for playgrounds in the wooded and hilly area surrounding the cabin.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Eskridge, who shares her husband's enthusiasm for the camp project, has helped stretch a fence around the camp area, cut weeds, decorate and furnish the cabin interior and cook for the youthful visitors.

The couple has no children of their own. But they perennially "adopt" the 19 or so boys and girls of the Children's Home. For the past 10 years, Eskridge has escorted the homeless children six times daily to and from the orphanage and a school several blocks away.

The children share their troubles and joys with their "Big Jack." They show him a skinned arm or a new pair of shoes, swarm around his motorcycle and periodically are his guests at the circus, rodeos, dinners and such.

"Big Jack" is a fatherly Santa all year round to his little "traffic charges." On one occasion they turned the tables, though, and presented him with a television set purchased by a business man who asked them to name the gift.

Camp facilities will be open to Boy Scouts and other youth groups as well as those from the children's home. At the lake, they will fish, hike, boat and picnic.

"Prince," the horse that started it all, seems as pleased with the camp surroundings and his hilltop pasture as do the youngsters. "Cindy Lou," Mrs Eskridge's horse, is on the scene, too.

In giving Prince to Eskridge, the former owner told the patrolman: "I know a man as good to kids as you are will be good to my horse."

That's the way it is. Big Jack is a stern law enforcement officer but a pushover for his kids and their pets.

Low Sales Make Tedious Stock Market For Week

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Activity at the stock markets this week could be expressed by a simple equation: lowest volumes of the year plus narrowly mixed prices equal tedious performance.

Characteristic of a summer lull, the keynote in Toronto was selectivity. This week industrials were a favored group.

One popular stock was Kelvinator, a company manufacturing home appliances, which went on a 3¾-point spree following the announcement of increased and extra dividends. The shares closed at $21 each after touching a high of $23.

Aluminium, Ltd., was also in the special situations category. The stock dropped three points after the United States government opened court proceedings to cancel a 1,200,000,000-pound Aluminum contract to be filled over the next six years for the Aluminum Company of America. The action was taken on the grounds that the contract violated a 1951 anti-trust ruling.

PARTIAL RECOVERY

A quarter-cent-a-pound increase in the price of Canadian aluminum on Thursday was given credit for Aluminium's partial recovery at week's end.

The only group on the Toronto market to show more than a minor index change were western oils. They dropped almost two points, running their downswing to four weeks—and this despite a 26-cent a barrel increase in crude prices announced this week by the major oil companies.

Traders list several reasons for this puzzling state of affairs: some doubt that the price increases will be sustained in view of the present state of world petroleum supplies.

Added to this is the fact that outlet facilities for Prairie oil are still somewhat limited. Completion of the pipeline to the west coast this August, observers say, will bring more enthusiasm to the oil market.

Another opinion voiced by market technicians is that the Toronto exchange took into account a Canadian price boost when several leading U.S. companies announced price increases about a month ago. (In the week following the U.S. announcement, western oils added more than six index points).

PRICES DROP SLOWLY

On the New York scene, prices receded slowly until a steadier trend took over in mid-week. Thursday witnessed a modest advance and the market ended the week on a steady note.

In Montreal markets, prices firmed and eased on alternate days to produce a thoroughly mixed pattern for the week. Volumes were the lowest in months.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto stock exchange's indexes showed industrials down .10 at 308.47, golds down .32 at 76.65, base metals down .13 at 154.25 and western oils down 1.92 at 104.54.

Montreal averages had banks up .07 at 34.09, utilities down .9 at 93.5, industrials up .3 at 188.8, combined down .1 at 157.1, papers down 1.36 at 698.61 and golds up .26 at 57.73.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents to $107.50.

FINE WEATHER KEPT FARMERS AT HOME in great numbers from their annual Peterborough Federation of Agriculture picnic on Friday at Nicholls Oval. Harvest Cuts Attendance At CFA's Annual Picnic

The present surge of farm work at the peak of the harvest cut deeply into the expected attendance at the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture's picnic at Nicholls Oval Friday afternoon. Some of the active farmers managed to take time off for the dinner and program, but as president Henry Sharpe remarked, the prolonged haying season upset the reckoning of the picnic committee.

It was expected that a span of a week or more between crops would accommodate farmers in picnic mood, but the weather altered that timing but relented with sunny weather and a pleasant afternoon.

Past presidents attending were M. H. Johnston, Lorne Reynolds and W. W. Dawson. Mr. Sharpe presided at the after-lunch program at which V. S. Milburn, of Toronto, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation, was the speaker. He conveyed the regrets of John Broderick, of St. Catharines, immediate past president of the provincial federation, in being unable to keep his Peterborough engagement. He had to arrange for a meeting in Montreal Monday.

Attendance prizes, three pieces of silver, Lazy Susans, were won by Wellington Sutton, Shirley Sharpe and James Seymour. The draw was made by Frank C. Paterson and Mayor Hugh Waddell. His Worship, accompanied by Mrs. Waddell, thanked the federation for their invitation, and said the city was always glad to see its farm neighbors sharing in the enjoyment of its parks.

GLAD TO BE HOME

In an address that was somewhat abbreviated to the spirit and occasion of a picnic, Mr. Milburn expressed his pleasure in being home again with the members of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture. They had given him the opportunity and privilege of association years ago with commodity groups and other local farm affairs that led into the federation and eventually into its provincial organization.

"Whatever I have been able to do in our associations I owe to you," Mr. Milburn said. "I am glad to see here men who have been active in our federation and forums and community for many years."

He congratulated them on their loyalty to the cause of agriculture, their sustained interest and effort, and he recalled with gratitude the support they had given him from the outset down to the present day.

"I am glad to see so many of our boys and girls at this picnic, and I wish to compliment them especially because they are the best behaved young people I have seen at any picnic. It is my conviction that we are to a large extent just what we gain and have gained from our associations with others. We may not realize it as we go along. It is part of our experience in life, and it becomes that part of us which we have to contribute to others.

"This is a little philosophy I have acquired, and I believe it is far more important than we may think."

In such associations there is an element of good citizenship, Mr. Milburn said. The great need of society today was not material success, but an understanding of good neighborliness and what it means in our communities.

"If we can forget our own little prejudice, and maybe we have been a bit difficult to get along with, that disposition makes it easier for us to recognize the good in the other fellow, and in turn he will recognize the good in us. The more we can all cultivate that spirit, the more likely will the world some day be free of war."

In a casual refrence to the elections, Mr. Milburn said that the general policy of farmers had not changed. It had evolved from their experience, and any political party knew what farmers have been asking for. It may be modified to meet the changing times, and it sought not only satisfaction for the farmers in their work of production and in their lives, but also the satisfaction of the other people of the country. Farmers had never been blindly selfish, Mr. Milburn said, thinking only of themselves and their problems.

Farmers today need to know their business thoroughly, the commodities which they can sell, the quantity an dvolume of those products, and over all the quality that attracts consumers.

"We should try to know what the demand is and endeavour to meet it. Our Canadian farmers have demonstrated that they can do it. They havet he land, and they have the best know-how of agricultural countries in the world. Our individual farmer can produce more food than any other anywhere. We need export markets, and they depend on exchange and currency. Farmers need the help of the industrial and financial people, of statesmen and others."

FARMERS' PROBLEM

One of the continuing problems facing farmers was to endeavour to ascertain and know their potential markets, the production needed for those markets, regulated so as not to destroy their price structure.

Mr. Milburn contended that there was a margin of safety corresponding in industry and labor to the desire of agriculture. Those groups endeavour to protect their margins, "and we need and are just as entitled to have our our margins. To that end there should be constructive planning, and I don't mean regimentation."

Mr. Milburn reviewed the experience of the Ontario hog producers with the marketing agency which they had set up at the beginning of this year. At the same time the government's support price was reduced from 25c to 23c. As an effect of the new marketing scheme, the price had never once dropped below the support since January. It moved up and down, but for the most part it ranged between 30c and 36c a pound.

From that satisfactory result, the in-and-outers were being attracted again, and Mr. Milburn said he was worried that they would get back into production, and "kill the goose that laid the golden eggs." He mentioned that possibility as an illustration of the necessity of avoiding over-producing for our markets. It was something farmers should endeavour to prevent because there did not appear to be any expansion of export markets in the near future, irrespective of the government elected.

Witnesses Claim Many Converts In Africa Work

NEW YORK (AP)—Missionaries of the Jehovah's Witnesses say they are winning thousands of converts in Africa despite the dangers of the jungle and opposition from other religions.

Sixteen missionaries for the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, official name of the Witnesses' organization, reported on Africa Friday at the eight-day world assembly of the group at Yankee Stadium.

The missionaries gave no definite count of converts.

They said they almost invariably encountered difficulties with "orthodox" religious bodies when first entering a new territory.

DOOR-TO-DOOR DRIVE

A missionary from Egypt said a clergyman representing one of the major faiths was forced to resort to a "door-to-door" campaign in opposing the work of local Witnesses.

Society pioneers entering new missionary territory, they said, often were jailed and had to fight rumors they were "another group of false prophets."

Attendance figures at Friday's meetings: 68,448 persons in the stadium; an overflow crowd of 12,448 in tents set up in adjacent lots; and 39,629 persons listening—via direct telephone wire and loudspeaker system—at the society's trailer city at Piscataway Township, N.J.

The eight-day world assembly ends Sunday.

Pravda Assails Dulles Speech

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today assailed rccent statements by U. S. State Secretary Dulles and denied there is any truth in American assertions that the Soviet Union threatens Western Europe.

The Communist party newspaper referred to a recent television address by Dulles in which he declared European unity is necessary for itself alone irrespective of threats from the outside.

Pravda said Dulles' declaration was "remarkable because it contains the forced recognition of the fact that in affirmations of American propaganda on the 'so-called threat to Western Europe from the East' there has never been and is not one grain of truth."

The newspaper said strengthened U. S. pressure is being placed on Western European nations to push through the Eruopean army plan.

Dulles in his address said: "Some seem to think this European defence community has no purpose except to meet the threat from the Soviet Union . . . the basic purpose for European unity is that disunity, for 150 years, has been a source of wars which have disastrously weakened the Western European countries themselves and have involved others in grievous trouble. The U. S. is among the sufferers.

Cut In Price

BERLIN (Reuters)—The East German government today announced cuts in the price in a number of consumer goods, including a 50 per cent cut for tea. East Berlin radio reported. Vitalade, ersatz chocolate, is to be sold at 10 per cent less, soap at 15 per cent less, silk stockings at 20 per cent less.

William B. Reid

The fuperal of William Burley Reid 373 Rogers St., took place Friday afternoon, 2.00 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. Reid died in hospital Wednesday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife, the former Etta May Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. Betty Ann Moorly of Peterborough and Mrs. Edna Jean Howden of Cmemee.

Officiating clergman was Dr. N. D. Patterson.

Pallbearers were: Arnold Hewitt, Charles Hamilton, Orville McConkey, Jack Whalen, Cecil Thompson and Edward Bickell.

Timbuktu Not So Far Away As Civilixation Crowds In WASHINGTON— Civilization is catching up with fabled Timbuktu for generations the epitome of faraway places.

A weekly commercial flight across French West Africa from Bamako to Gao now stops at Goundam, just 70 miles from Timbuktu. From Goundam it is only two days by camel to the sun-baked village on the Sahara's southern edge. By motor across the desert's trackless sands, it is a mere overnight hop.

"PORT" OF THE SAHARA

But though it may have lost its mythical title as the "farthest corner of the earth," Timbuktu's new accessibility has brought little change into its old way of life. Lying 800 miles from the nearest coast it remains a vital trade crossroads for the vast West African hump—a meeting place of Sahara camels and canoes of the Niger River.

Twice a year, in spring and fall, camel caravans arrive with salt from the Taudeni mines, 425 miles north, and merchandise from Moroccan cities. Up river from the fertile southland come cereals, grain, rice, cacao and ivory to be exchanged.

Timbuktu has no paved streets, autos, electricity, sewage or water system, movies, restaurants, or hotels. For eight months of the year the temperature hovers between 100 and 110 degrees in the shade by day and falls only to around 90 at night. Brief but torrential rains bring some relief in late summer, but each downpour spells grief to many inhabitants. Their two-storied mud-brick houses are apt to melt away.

Moors and Tuaregs of Arabic and Berber stock from the north mingle with native Sudanese and Bellah in Timbuktu's narrow streets of ankle-deep sand. Rice, cooked out of doors in public ovens, is the chief food of the city's 7,000 people. Water, scooped from a muddy arm of the Niger, is dispensed from vendors' shoulder-borne goat skins.

CULTURAL CENTRE

In the 15th and 16th centuries Timbuktu was a centre of Moslem culture. Learned men came to the "Uuiversity of Sankore." A fine collection of Arabic classic manuscrips was assembled in the town. Moslem writers left accounts of its great wealth in gold and ostrich plumes of camel caravans 10,000 strong that gathered to trade in gold ivory and slaves.

The Paris Geographic Society offered a prize of 10,000 franks for the first European to penetrate the mysteries of Timbuktu and bring back an account of his findings. Africa then was a giant question mark. On maps nearly the whole interior of the continent was marked "unexplored regions."

Many adventurers sacrificed their lives in attempts to gain the prize, but it was not until 1828 that a Frenchman, Rene Caillie, succeeded in visiting Timbuktu and returning safely. He spent two weeks in the city disguised as a Moor.

Timbuktu, as Caillie found it, was no longer a centre of culture and boasted none of the fabulous golden treasures ascribed to it by legend. Plundered by invaders from Morocco in 1591, it was further ravaged by nomadic Tuareg bands.

In 1893 the French took over the city, and today it is officially known as Tombouctou.

ATTENDS FESTIVAL — Governor-General Vincent Massey chats backstage with two of the leading actors of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival. At left is Alec Guinness, British stage and film actor, who stars in the festival. Amelia Hall, of Ottawa, is at right. They are in their costumes for "Richard III," which is played on alternate nights with "All's Well That Ends Well." Mr. Massey stayed over in Stratford to attend both plays.

Painter Found Guilty Of Religious Contempt

FLORENCE (Reuters) — The court here has found an Italian painter guilty of contempt of religion for painting a crucified frog and displaying it in a gallery.

It sentenced him to three months imprisonment but the term will be suspended unless he commits a similar offence.

Counsel for Massimo Duranti said the painting was meant only to symbolize the sufferings of the world of animals.

Million Dollar Fire

MANILA (AP)—Fire destroyed an estimated $1,000,000 of business property in Cebu City, second largest in the Philippines, and killed 11 persons. Four others are missing, police said.

Makes Maiden Flight

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Yugoslavia's first home-constructed jet fighter, the "452M," made its maiden flight in cloudless summer weather over Batajnica military airfield. Test pilot Tugomir Tredeg said after the 15-minute flight he is extremely satisfied with the plane's take-off and landing abilities.

To Increase Trade

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India and Yugoslavia signed an agreement to increase the volume of trade between them. Increased Indian exports to Yugoslavia will include jute and coconut fibre, products, cotton, tea and sewing machines. Yugoslavia will send India more explosives, chemicals, lamp black and tea chests.

Multi-Million-Dollar Construction Project

7,000 Hydro Workers Bring Untold Prosperity To City Of Niagara Falls

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Drop a multi-million dollar construction project in the middle of a community of 43,000 people and you have prosperity—and headaches with it.

That's what is happening in Niagara Falls and adjacent Stamford township where the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is pushing a $304,000,000 development with an army of 7,000 workers.

Feeding, housing, clothing and entertaining a worker army of that size is big business. The Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce estimates it has put an extra $25,000,000 in circulation annually—one-quarter of all the business in the area.

CO-OPERATION PAYS

But when you set out to build two monster tunnels 5½ miles long beneath a city, and carry away millions of tons of rock in trucks, you can expect difficulties. Hydro and local officials did, and decided to do something about it.

Before the first sod was broken in April, 1951, both groups got together to iron out some common problems.

Hydro agreed to pay part of the cost of police, fire and health services and repair damages to roads. Hydro also built 25 miles of new roads to ease the pressure on local routes.

Municipal officials are happy about the co-operation. A. C. Bridge, 88-year-old Reeve of Stamford Township, said: "I cannot speek too highly of the maner in which this project has been carried on."

Among individuals there has been some resentment. A taxi driver said: "We get good business from the boys because their rides are usually worth a dollar. But our local people are a bit put out because we have to ignore them sometimes."

ENTERTAINMENT BOOM

Theatres, hotels, restaurants and stores welcomed the crowds of new wage-earners. To one theatre manager the workekrs were the answer to television. Movie houses in other cities showed loss of busines but he could point to a full theatre and line-ups sometimes blocks long.

One hotel—the Metropole—is so popular with the workers that it has earned the nickname "The Hydro Pole." Other hotels also drew their share of business.

The Liquor Control Board opened a second store in the city this month.

What will happen to the area's business when the project is finished and the wage-earners leave?

The Chamber of Commerce is counting on new industries to take up the slack. Already a live-wire promotion campaign has attracted industries that will eventually provide about one-quarter of the $25,000,000 brought in by Hydro.

START IN 1954

Although Hydro expects to start producing power from the new plant early next year, it will be some time in 1956 before the complete 1,200,000 horsepower will be available. Then another two units may be added to the plant.

Even the schools faced problems. Men on the job come from a score of different countries and city schools were faced with a "bumper crop" of 1,056 night students eager to learn English. About half of them came from the hydro project.

The high school ran out of teachers and had to call in public-school principals and township school teachers.

Stamford Township authorities say that houses were scarce before the workers came. With the "invasion," boarding houses filled up and new construction spread quickly along suburban country roads.

Hydro built three "construction cities"—camps that hold about 1,600 men—complete with cafeterias and recreation halls. Some 300 key men were put up in a hydro-built dormitory and 70 homes were built or acquired for key married men. Another 160 families live in a hydro-operated trailer camp.

Local authorities built a number of houses under a federal-provincial housing scheme.

SALVATION ARMY AID

Unemployed men keep drifting into the city, looking for work. In one week the Salvation Army handled 200 requests for help—food, a place to sleep and sometimes clothes.

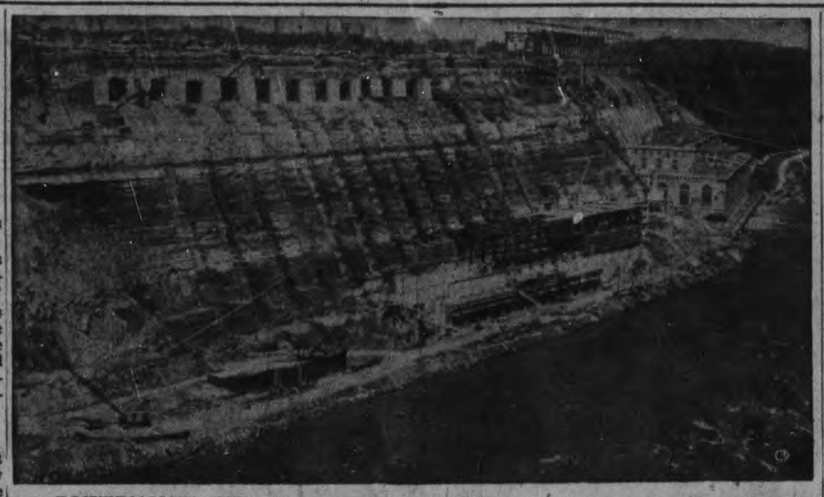
Those who live in Hydro camps seem to like them. Archie Yuill, a native of Lanark County now chief cook in camp No. 3, told of a number of men who moved out to find more home-like atmosphere in local boarding houses.

Before long they were back in camp. "A woman can't serve meat three times a day if she is going to make a profit," said Archie.

The three camp cafeterias dish up 14,000 pounds of meat and fish a week. Thursday is traditionally "steak night" at the camps. Butchers start early Wednesday to cut up the 2,600 steaks served at that one meal.

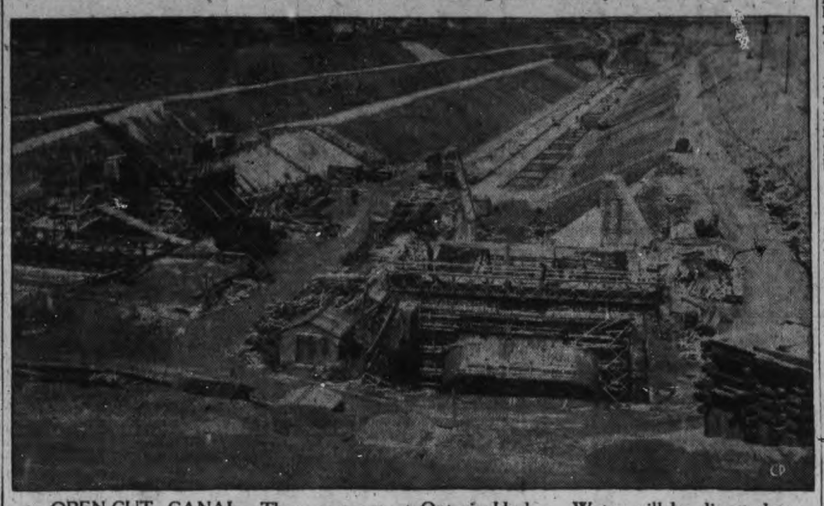
Some 2,000 gallons of tea are gallons of coffee. Tea is an old served each week but only 500 construction habit, says Ed Krupp of Pembroke, Ont., general camp manager. "They'll drink coffee for breakfast but after that they want tea."

BOUGHT BY TENDER



Raw material for the cafeterias is bought by tender, usually from Niagara-area suppliers. Hydro runs a bakery that turns out 6,000 loaves and 3,600 pies a week. A spotless central butcher shop and grocery warehouse send out food to the three camps.

The grey rows of army-type huts that comprise the camps don't look home-like, but they have advantages. Workmen live two in a room, each with a single bed, and foremen have rooms to themselves.



The recreation building at camp No. 2 offers a choice of movies, television, bowling, billiards, snacks and religious services. Frontier College provides instructors for classes every night. Several times a year the men pool their talents for an amateur show.

Sick or injured workers go to the 30-bed Hydro hospital staffed with two doctors — Dr. Donald Grant of Saskatoon and Dr. J. Dales Black of Toronto—five nurses and six orderlies.

Accidents on the job have killed 17 men in two years of operation. Construction men have a rule of thumb about accidents—one man killed for every $1,000,000 spent. On this basis the Hydro record is good: The project so far has cost $180,000,000.

POWERHOUSE SITE—This is a striking view of the powerhouse site on the lower Niagara gorge showing the work proceeding on penstocks, draft tubes and powerhouse substructure of the Sir Adam Beck No. 2 development. Some 7,000 workers are busy on the 1,200,000 horsepower project expected to be finished some time in 1956. First power from the plant will be generated early in 1954.

OPEN-CUT CANAL—These are outlets where the twin tunnels beneath the city of Niagara Falls come to the surface in a 2¼-mile open-cut canal which will join the tunnels to the head works in the $304,000,000 power project under construction by Ontario Hydro. Water will be diverted to a point two miles above the falls into the twin 5½-mile tunnels. Average width of the canals is 200 feet, with a depth of 70 feet, cut through solid rock and earth. The canal will handle 40,000 cubic feet per second from the two tunnels.

Too Much Rain Even For Duck, Eggs Floating

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

WINNIPEG (CP)—City folk in Western Canada have had plenty of chances this summer to grumble "nice weather for ducks." Rain has fallen just about every day at many points.

Ducks Unlimited comes up with the information that there has been too much rain even for ducks in some areas.

In its periodic report, "The Duck-ological," the organization says says there has been too much water in southern Alberta.

"Many eggs have been seen floating in potholes and lakes," says western manager R. M. Hartley in his report. "I have seen abandoned nests due to floods."

However, the report in general paints a rosy picture for duck hunters. Most districts in all provinces have more ducks breeding than last year.

In the three Prairie provinces, 137 of the 249 districts reporting said there are more ducks breeding in the respective areas than in 1952. A total of 179 districts reported good prospects for the breeding season.

SKY TAXIS

With the fishing season in full swing around Kenora, Ont., Rex Kitaly and Barney Lamm, who operate a plane service, report the tourist trade is really booming.

Rex says: "You can tell that from the American accents on the plane dock. . . passengers are the big summer business."

The American sportsmen are flown to camps within a 50-mile radius of Kenora, and as more camps are opening all the time, the fliers report passenger trade is rising steadily.

FISHING MECCA

A northern Saskatchewan frontier post has recently gained a continent-wide reputation as a sports fishing centre.

The bustling community of Lac la Ronge, Sask., 145 miles north of Prince Albert, opened to the fur trade by explorer Peter Pond in 1780, last year attracted about 6,000 tourists.

Just a few years ago, Lac la Ronge was a northern settlement, virtually unheard of, on the verge of the pre-cambrian shield and accessible only by air or canoe through a maze of lakes and streams.

Since a highway from Prince Albert has reached the village, however, it has developed into a thriving fishing mecca.

The road completion sparked a mammoth building boom. La Ronge's main street, which winds for two miles along one of the lake's many bays, is dotted with groups of new cabins. Facilities for fishermen have doubled each year since the road was built.

It is estimated that 70 per cent of the anglers who visited Lac la Ronge is 1952 were Americans. The tourists took between 270,000 and 290,000 pounds of fish from the lake, mostly lake trout, pike and pickerel.

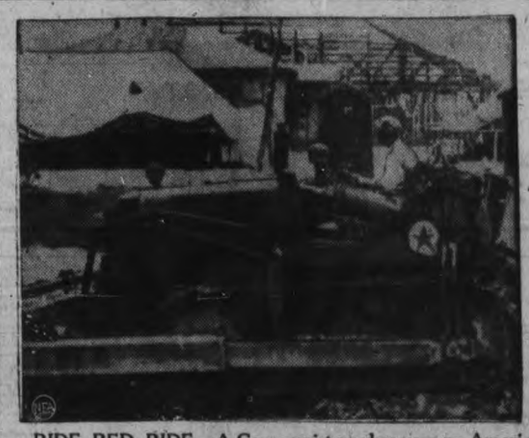
Foreign Officials Tour Army Bases



OTTAWA (CP)—A group of military attaches of foreign governments and service advisers to Commonwealth high commissioners will tour Ontario army establishments and industrial plants Aug. 4-14, the Army announced Friday.

At Kingston, the group will visit the Royal Canadian School of Signals, the Canadian Army Staff College, the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineering School and the Aluminum Company of Canada.

The group will also tour the hydro-electric plant at Niagara Falls.

Russian representatives weren't invited on the tour, the Army said. This policy was established several years ago because Canadian embassy officials in Moscow were not being invited to tour Russian military and industrial installations.

Norway and Newfoundland are the main exporters of cod-liver oil.

RIDE, RED, RIDE—A Communist worker uses an American-built bulldozer to clear a roadway leading to buildings under construction for a formal truce signing at Panmunjom, Korea. The machine bucked, chugged, spewed gasoline and smoke and finally caught fire. Built in Erie, Pa., the 'dozer was either captured or brought to the truce site by the Reds.

Planes Bring Biak Island Back Into Spotlight

WASHINGTON — For the second time in the last 10 years, tiny Biak Island in Netherlands New Guinea has been "saved" by modern aviation.

Wrested from the Japanese by Allied forces in World War II for use as a springboard for the attack on the Philippines, Biak threatened to become a no man's land at war's end. Barracks, roads and airstrips built by American airmen were soon swallowed up by the creeping jungle, and the isalnd's population dwindled.

Then, in November, 1950, new life came to Biak. The Royal Dutch Airlines inaugurated flights from Sydney, Australia, to Amsterdam, Holland, with an overnight stop at Biak.

Today the island's 6,900-foot Mokmer airfield is being enlarged and improved. New terminal and radio buildings are going up. A post office, hospital, and half-a-hundred homes for airport staff and government officials are being constructed.

UNIQUE HOTEL

Soon to be opened is Biak's greatest pride—a modern 46-room hotel, the largest structure ever built on the island. It can probably boast of being the world's first 100 per cent termite-proof hotel. Prefabricated by an Amsterdam firm, all materials were specially areated to withstand attack by voracious white ants which plague Biak.

Biak was first thrust into the international spotlight in 1942 when the Japanese seized the strategic island in their rapid push southward toward Australia. It remained in Nipponese hands until May 27, 1944, when American troops invaded the stronghold after weeks of heavy bombing.

Later, Biak became an airplane graveyard. Almost 1,000 four-engine bombers, their backs broken by bulldozers to prevent illegal use, were left behind by homeward-bound Yanks.

The Dutch government bought the abandoned base and its 4,000 tons of surplus supplies. Quantities of machine tools, jeeps, tractors, roadmaking machinery, and radio parts were salvaged and shipped to Java.

TRAITORS IN EXILE

In 1948 the Dutch operated a prison farm on Biak for the rehabilitation of Netherlanders convicted of Nazi collaboration during the war. Some 100 prisoners were permitted to wipe out their sentences by serving two years on Biak on the reclamation project.

Guarding the entrance of huge Geelvink Bay at the "neck" of bird-shaped New Guinea, Biak covers about 1,000 square miles. Its eastern half is generally low and sheathed with heavy jungle growth and tall trees. Toward the west the island rises to hills and mountains that reach a height of nearly 2,500 feet. Next door Soepiori Island, another in the Schouten group, is more mountainous, with a peak rising to 3,400 feet.

Quebec Soldier Decorated For Courage

OTTAWA (CP)—A Quebec soldier serving in Korea has been decorated for an act of courage on the home front, the Army announced Friday.

L.Cpl. Gaston Joncas of Shawinigan Falls, Que., member of the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, was awarded a special commendation by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Chief of the General Staff, for the part he played in fighting a fire in Three Rivers, Que., last March.

The citation to the award said Joncas entered the burning office building several times to save important documents despite the danger of explosions.

Indians "Attack" Barrie As Stunt

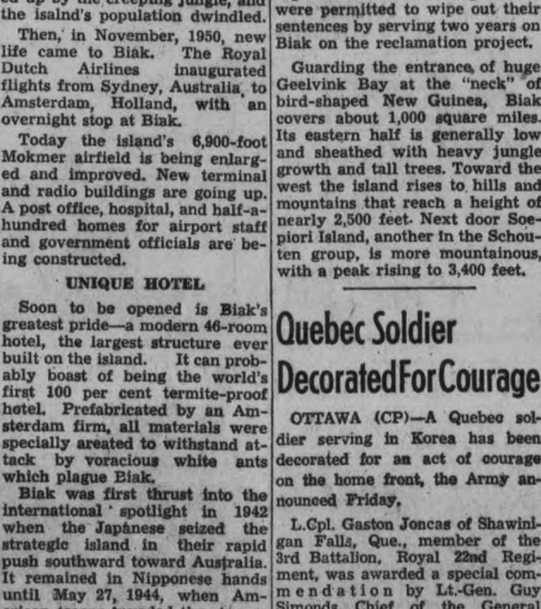
BARRIE (CP)—Just a week before the start of Old Home Week celebrations, Barrie was "attacked" Thursday night by Indians.

In a stunt arranged to draw attention to the homecoming celebrations, several boatloads of Indians rowed across Kempenfeldt Bay, captured Mayor James W. Hart and J. A. (Sandy) Coutts, Chamber of Commerce president, and pretended to be making preparations to burn them at the stake.

Citizens chased away the Indians in the nick of time.

Princess Margaret Attends Horse Show

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret went to the International Horse Show Friday night escorted by two ladies-in-waiting.



The Duke of Beaufort, president of the horse show, welcomed her, and then she sat down to dinner in the Royal box.

The Royal Family, meanwhile, is making plans for its annual August visit to Scotland.

The August visit is always a big thing for Margaret. First of all, it is the month of her birthday and secondly, it was in Scotland—at Glamis Castle—that she was born. She will be 23 Aug. 26.

SIGN TRUCE IN KOREA

Canada Feels Satisfaction About Truce

St. Laurent Lauds Canadian Forces For Job They've Done

OTTAWA —(CP)— Canada has received news of the Korean armistice "with deep satisfaction," Prime Minister St. Laurent said Sunday night.

In these words, the prime minister paid tribute to the some 28,500 Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen who helped carry the load for the free nations in three years of bloody fighting:

"All Canadians are proud of the courage and discipline of our servicemen during these three years of hostilities. Never in history have our soldiers, sailors and airmen fought so far from their homeland in defence of that homeland and of the highest ideals of peace. We will not forget the sacrifices which they have made, nor will we forget their losses which are the losses of the whole nation."

COST 296 LIVES

(The Korean fighting cost at least 296 Canadian lives and possibly another 26, the total of missing men The army's 25th Brigade suffered 1,499 casualties—291 dead, 1,069 wounded, 26 missing, 95 injured in action and 18 prisoners of war. The navy has reported three dead, three wounded in action and two sailors lost overboard. The RCAF lists one officer missing in action.)

The prime minister added, in a statement issued from his office here: "We will not forget these sacrifices and losses were part of the cost of a great collective effort shared by many peoples, especially those of the Republic of Korea and the United States, to the end that peace shall prevail. We pay tribute to all the forcesallied in this effort. . . ."

Mr. St. Laurent said the sole objective of the United Nations intervention in Korea, to resist unprovoked aggression, has been achieved and an honorable armistice signed.

Deny Strikers Damaged Trucks

HAMILTON (CP)—An official of the General Truckdrivers' Union (AFL-TLC) said today striking drivers are not responsible for the thousands of dollars damage done to property of non-union trucking concerns in southwestern Ontario during the last week.

Pat Delaney, union business agent, said "everybody blames the strikers." Damage since the strike of more than 1,500 drivers began a week ago includes explosives thrown in truck cabs, a truck and contents burned and transports damaged on highways

"There has been no proof that they (strikers) did any damage at all," Mr. Delaney said. "We believe it just isn't true."

Meanwhile eight persons in the Hamilton area have been arrested and charged with intimidation, five in connection with a coupling pin being pulled from a loaded transport and the other three after police said a non-striking truck driver had been pulled from his cab and beaten on a highway near Brantford. The eight will appear in court here Tuesday.

German Admits Spying On Canadian Troops

DUESSELDORF, (Reuters) — A 29-year-old German has admitted spying on Canadian Army forces in the Hannover area of Germany.

Eberhard Donczik, one of five Germans accused of espionage for Russia, admitted in a signed statement that the Soviets had given him the job of spying on the Canadian 27th brigade stationed at Hannover

Just what information he gave the Soviets was not disclosed.

Donczik and three others were remanded today for trial before a British high court in Germany. The fifth previously was remanded for trial.

In their signed statements, the Germans said they agreed to be spies for fear of reprisals against their relatives in Soviet-occupied East Germany.

Drew Discusses Problems Of U.S. Markets

MONTREAL (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Drew, a week-long election campaign tour of Quebec behind him, now launches his final campaign in Ontario.

First comes the official nomination meeting in Carleton constituency, the riding represented by Mr. Drew in the last House, where there will be a debate, traditional in the riding, between all candidates.

Then comes an evening meeting by Mr. Drew in the riding before the final Ontario campaign gets under way.

The Progressive Conservative leader had a busy day Saturday, making five speeches to crowds ranging from 100 at Laprairie to more than 1,000 in Montreal in the evening.

CRITICIZES TRADE

At Ormstown, he criticized recent developments in United States Canadian trade, claiming Canada holds plenty of "blue chips" in international trade and should not have to "beg" for a better break in U.S. markets.

The United States had barred Canadian dairy products despite international trade agreements and had "dumped" surplus textiles on the Canadian market, leaving "thousands" of Canadian textile workers unemployed or working short time.

"It's time for Canada to talk frankly to the government of the United States. We must tell them we're going to enforce our anti-dumping laws and tell them there must be fair trade between us."

Canada produced many things the United States needed and the government should "talk in a frank and manly way" — the kind of approach that was appreciated by the present U.S. government.

Report Canadian Troops Relieved, Not Excited About Signing Of Truce

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—The expectation of an armistice in Korea was too long in the air for Canadian troops to get very excited about the announcement that the truce was to be signed in Panmunjom. Rather than jubilation, the general attitude among the Canadians here seemed one of a relieved "well, that's that—at last."

The period of precarious peace about to be initiated after three years of warfare brings to an end the most difficult type of soldiering encountered by troops anywhere: continued patrol assignments by soldiers unconvinced that the risk of being killed while an armistice was under discussion was worth it.

For more than two years, it has been hard on officers who have had to issue orders in the soldiers' best interests, and on troops who were not always convinced of that.

NO SPECIAL ORDER

Commenting on the truce news, Brig. Jean Allard, commander of the Canadian 25th infantry brigade, said: "I have no special order of the day.

"We've had the ceasefire order ready for a month now, and we'll send it on to the troops as soon as we get it officially.

"As far as we are concerned, this is still only a pause in the fighting."

News of the impending truce ending the three-year war at least temporarily reached the Canadian forces while Robert Mayhew, Canadian ambassador to Japan, was visiting brigade headquarters.

Mr. Mayhew said he would continue his tour instead of going on to the Panmunjom truce talks.

Sunday he visited the 25th Canadian field dressing station and the 23rd infantry workshop, and Commonwealth division headquarters.

Market Loss Blamed On Gov't

GIMLI, Man. — Fluctuating prices, insecure and unpredictable markets and haphazard marketing procedures have been harassing the livestock industry, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell declared Saturday night.

Mr. Coldwell said that the failure of the government to control farm prices and secure long-term markets had produced a crisis in every branch of the agriculture industry.

Support prices have been "unrealistically low," he said, and "the packing houses have exploited both producers and consumers."

CCF proposals for a national livestock marketing board would solve the problems, he said.

"It would fix and maintain a just and adequate floor price," he said. "Fair price spreads would be effected. This board would have the important function of establishing minimum floor prices reasonably far enough into the future to enable the livestock producer to plan his industry."

Reveal Dulles' Pledge To Rhee

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States will walk out of the post-armistice Korean political conference if it thinks the Communists are negotiating in bad faith and are trying to undermine the South Korean Republic by subversion.

This pledge to join South Korea in abandoning the political talks if necessary has been given by State Secretary John Foster Dulles in a personal letter to Syngman Rhee, South Korea's president, whose position is that his co-operation in the truce agreement will end 90 days after the political conference begins.

Details of Dulles' message to Rhee were revealed by an unimpeachable source in Washington today.

Churchill, Eden Map Future Leadership

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today began mapping the future leadership of the government.

Britain's big two met for the first time since illnesses separated them nearly eight weeks ago. They lunched together in seclusion at Chequers the prime minister's official country residence, near London.

Expect Some Acclamations As Nominations Close

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When nominations for the Aug. 10 federal election close today, there may be acclamations for the first time since 1930—when there were two.

Although there was a possibility of last-minute starters, in four Quebec seats and one in Ontario, only one candidate was in prospect as the deadline for nominations neared.

Up to today, only Liberals had been reported nominated in the Quebec ridings of Argenteuil-Deux Montagnes, Dorchester, St. Hyacinthe-Bagot and St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville. In Ontario, a Progressive Conservative was the only nominee in Prince Edward-Lenox.

On the eve of the close of nominations, an unofficial compilation by The Canadian Press showed 865 candidates in the running for the 265 seats. Queens constituency in Prince Edward Island and Halifax riding each elect two members.

Office-seekers have until 2 p.m., local standard time, to file their official nomination papers and pay their $200 deposit in 242 of the 263 constituencies. In the other 21 ridings, all large and scattered, nominations closed two weeks ago.

The total of 865 is 17 higher than the final figure of 848 candidates in 1949, when there were 262 seats, but 89 under the record number of 954 who contested the 245 seats at stake in 1945.

The Liberals, trying for their fifth term in office, nominated 264 candidates one in every constituency except Prince Edward-Lenox. They backed a Liberal-Labor candidate in Kenora-Rainy River. Two candidates were in the running as Liberals in Ontario's Glengarry-Prescott, one having represented Glengarry and the other Prescott in the last House before the two areas were linked into one constituency by redistribution.

The unofficial nomination list showed Progressive Conservatives with 249 men in the field, the CCF 163, Social Credit 70 and the Communist Labor-Progressive party 99. There were 20 others, mostly independents.

All Shooting Halted At 9 o'Clock

Red Artillery Barrage Takes Heavy Toll In Dying Minutes

SEOUL —(AP)— Shooting stopped along the Korean battlefront at 10 p.m. tonight (9 a.m. Monday EDT), bringing to an abrupt halt 37 months of death and destruction.

While ground fighting was all but nil in the final hours, mounting Communist artillery fire took its toll of Allied soldiers up to the last minute.

At 10 p.m., a hush fell over the front.

The last man to die may never be named. Nor, perhaps will the last hero

The front, usually aflame at this hour of night, just grew dark. Men heaved sighs of relief, but with great caution. As the clock ticked off the seconds, they grew more brave.

SILENCE FALLS

Silence came after a smashing artillery duel between Allied and Red guns that began in mid-afternoon and built up a deafening crescendo shortly before 10 p. m.

Associated Press correspondent Randolph said all firing stopped at 9:43 p. m.

A few seconds after 10 p. m. wild yells broke out from U. S. troops.

All day and into the night the Reds sent artillery and mortar barrages screaming into Allied lines east of Kumhwa on the central front.

BARRAGES MORE FURIOUS

The barrages mounted in fury as the hours went by. Sometimes shells ripped front and rear line positions at the rate of four a minute.

Allied artillery boomed back trying to silence the guns.

Even as the shooting ended, litter jeeps and ambulances wound down dusty hill trails from outpost ridges, bringing moaning, broken men to rear hospitals.

Randolph reported that between 6 a. m. and 9 p. m., a U. S. division east of Kumwha had been hit by 3,000 rounds of Chinese artillery.

Elsewhere on the 150-mile front, an anxious silence, shattered only by sporadic shelling or machine gun bursts, fell over the bunkers and trenches, where troops awaited the cease-fire.

TO PULL BACK

Both armies are to pull back 1¼ miles, within 72 hours, forming a 2½-mile buffer zone.

The diplomats then take over in an attempt to bring lasting peace to this war-torn land.

While United Nations troops waited for darkness—the usual time for Red attacks, the air war continued. U. S. 5th air force said 400 air force, marine, and carrier-based planes unloaded bombs on Red troops and supply concentrations in the Kumsong bulge sector. It was at this east-central front strip that the Communists two weeks ago hurled their greatest attack in two years.

They will get to keep the few miles won at a staggering cost in human life. A map released by the UN command after the armistice

Missing Yacht Makes Harbor

LISCOMB, N.S. (CP)—The missing Nova Scotia yacht Gwenman sailed into Liscomb harbor early today with four tired and hungry persons aboard, ending a week-long sea and air search.

The two women, a 14-year-old and a veteran captain who made up her crew had been three days without food or water. They had drifted helplessly since last Thursday not knowing where they were. Despite the hardships all were in good condition. A United States vessel finally put them on course.

Gwenman's skipper, 30-year-old Mrs. Gwen Cameron of Springhill, N.S, said: "I never saw the waves so big nor the fog so thick."

The 42-foot yacht, on a maiden cruise in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and adjacent waters, disappeared after leaving Rose Blanche, Nfld., last Tuesday for Sydney.

Liscomb, about 100 miles northeast of Halifax and 200 miles southwest of Sydney, is far off her planned course and well south of the area where two planes and six ships, including the cruiser Quebec, searched for her.

Uneasy Warnings Sounded As Front Quiet; 2 Armies Will Move Back

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Generals of the United Nations command and the Red armies signed today a compromise armistice in the bitter, three-year Korean war. It means not peace but a nervous truce. They signed in 10 minutes a document that took two years and 17 days to write. A hush fell suddenly across the battlefield 12 hours after the truce was signed. But almost until the final minute Communist and Allied guns roared in thunderous barrages. The shooting halted officially at 10 p.m. (9 a.m. EDT).

Hardly had they completed the signing when these ominous, clashing warnings were sounded: The Chinese Red Peiping radio boasted that the Communists had won "a glorious victory" and cautioned Red soldiers to remain "highly vigilant and guard against any disruptive actions from the other side."

UN commander Gen. Mark Clark told his troops flatly there will be no "immediate or even early withdrawal" from Korea and declared that the UN is staying on—"a reminder to the enemy and his emissaries that our might and power stand behind the pledges of the United Nations to defend the Republic of Korea against any aggressor."

South Korean President Rhee declared again his conviction that the armistice "will prove to be the prelude to more war . . . more suffering and ruin . . . further Communist advances by war and subversion." He said South Korea will not disturb the truce for "a limited time" while a political conference tries to unify the country and work out plans for withdrawal of Chinese Communist forces from the north.

JUST SUSPENSION OF HOSTILITIES

The United States 8th Army commander, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, said the armistice was "just a suspension of hostilities, which may or may not be preparatory to permanent peace."

And in Washington, President Eisenhower welcomed the armistice with thanksgiving, but warned that "we may not now relax our guard nor cease our quest."

On the battleline, only an occasional machine gun burst or artillery broke the silence. Only in the air did the war really continue, but in a decreased intensity. Allied planes bombed Red troop concentrations and Sabre jets prowled the North Korean skies for MiGs, but found none to fight.

Within 72 hours from the official end of fighting, troops of each side must pull back 1¼ miles, leaving between them a buffer zone 2½ miles wide running the entire length of the 155-mile front.

The brief signing ceremony at Panmunjom ran smoothly in sharp contrast to the months of sharp words, counter-demands and walkouts that marked the long-drawn negotiations.

DON'T DO ANY TALKING

Without a word to each other, Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. signed for the Allies and Gen. Nam Il for the Communists in a bare, one-room, Oriental-type building hastily constructed by the Communists for the occasion.

The chief negotiators began penning their names one minute after the appointed hour of 10 a.m. and were through signing the 18 documents involved at 10:11.

Each looked at the other for a long moment after they were through, Nam Il arose from the table and walked out the north door. Harrison went out the south door.

Commanding officers of troops from 16 United Nations members in the war witnessed the ceremony.

Gen. Clark signed nine copies of the truce document at Allied advance headquarters in Munsan three hours later. About 400 guests and 100 reporters watched him sign in an army theatre building.

NINE OTHER COPIES TO BE SIGNED

The nine other copies were sent to North Korea for signing by the Communist commanders, North Korean Marshal Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

Tuesday morning the Reds will be handed the copies signed by Clark, and the UN command will receive the copies signed by Kim and Peng. Clark will sign the nine Communist-signed copies in Seoul Tuesday. There will be no ceremony.

After the signing each side will have three copies of the document in English, three in Chinese and three in Korean.

Present when Clark signed the armistice was Brig. Gen. Choi Duk Chin, South Korean truce delegate, who began boycotting the armistice talks late in May in protest against a cease-fire that leaves his country divided.

Choi said he attended as an observer on instructions from Rhee.

ATTENTION ON ARMISTICE COMMISSION

Attention swung immediately to the joint military armistice commission, which will supervise the truce and arbitrate any armistice violations.

A spokesman for the commission said the Allied members would meet with the Communist members for the first time at Panmunjom Tuesday.

The first big task ahead in the armistice is the exchange of prisoners. These include 14 Canadians, 922 British, 3,313 Americans and about 8,000 South Koreans and some 100 from other Allied nations held by the Reds, and 74,000 North Korean and Red Chinese held by the UN command.

The secret record of the negotiations, released after the signing, showed that the Reds hold 12,736 prisoners of war. The exchange of prisoners who want to return home is expected to begin in a week or less.

PoWs TURNED OVER TO COMMISSION

The UN said some 7,800 North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese captives have said they do not want to return home and will be turned over to a repatriation commission composed of Switzerland, Sweden, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India.

India's troops will guard them in the buffer zone while Communist agents confer with them.

The Communists said they will return 300 prisoners a day, including sick and wounded. The UN command told the Reds it will turn back prisoners at the rate of 2,400 able-bodied men daily, plus 360 sick and wounded.

List Major Provisions Of Truce Terms

MUNSAN (AP)—Here are the major provisions of the Korean armistice document:

1. All hostilities on land, sea and in the air cease within 12 hours.

2. All troops withdraw with their equipment within 72 hours from the demarcation line drawn along the battleline The Communist and United Nations armies both must pull back two kilometres (about 1¼ miles) from the line to form the buffer zone which will separate Allied troops from the North Korean and Communist Chinese forces.

3. Allies withdraw within five days from islands held off the North Korean coasts.

4. No blockade of Korea is allowed.

5. A freeze takes effect at once on reinforcement of troops or equipment in both North and South Korea. Each side may rotate up to 35,000 men a month on a man-for-man basis, but neither may raise the level of men or arms it had in Korea at the time of the armistice.

6. A military armistice commission takes control of supervising the truce and settling any violations. The commission is composed of five UN and five Communist officers.

7. Ten joint Allied-Communist observer teams are organized for the commission to police the buffer zone and the Han river estuary.

8. Five ports of entry are designated in North Korea and five in South Korea through which men and arms may enter and leave.

9. A neutral nations supervisory commission of four countries is created with officers from Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia. This commission has 20 inspection teams. One team will be stationed in each port of entry and 10 mobile teams held in reserve. These teams will oversee all troop and equipment movement through the designated ports.

10. All prisoners captured in the Korean war who desire to return home will be exchanged within 60 days after the armistice is signed.

11. A repatriation commission of five countries is formed to handle those prisoners who refuse repatriation. This commission is made up of one member each from India, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia. India will act as commission chairman and umpire. India will furnish the only troops used to guard the prisoners. These troops may carry only military police small arms.

12. The neutral commission will take control of these prisoners from the UN command within 60 days after the armistice is signed.

Armistice Commission Holds First Meeting

MUNSAN (AP) — The United Nations military armistice commission will hold its first official meeting with the Communists in Panmunjom at 11 a.m. Tuesday (10 p.m. EDT today).

The joint commission, made up of five Allied and five Communist officers, is charged with over-all supervision of the truce and will arbitrate truce violations.

Severe Storms Cause Blackouts In Ontario

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Severe electrical storms swept Western Ontario Sunday night, breaking the back of the heat wave but leaving a trail of power blackouts, fallen trees and flooded streets and highways

Cars had to be abandoned on the Kitchener-Preston highway after they stalled in a deep pool of water.

Power breaks were reported at Byron, Ilderton, a large area of London and Westminster townships and Grand Bend.

Pension Debt Growing Much Bigger

Climbs $5,411,000 During June To $115,598,000 Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—The debt, piling up in Canada's old-age pension fund, grows bigger by the month. It climbed by another $5,411,000 in June to a peak of $115,598,000, the finance department's treasury statement showed today. It likely will get a lot bigger before the year is out.

The reason is that the tax revenue the fund receives can't keep up with pension payments.

That likely will mean a new financing headache for the government when budget time rolls around again next spring.

The fund was set up in April last year when Parliament adopted the scheme of paying $40-a-month pensions to Canadians 70 years or over, whether rich or poor. This is known as the universal pension plan.

PREVIOUS LOW

Previously, those 70 and over could get a pension—but they first had to show examiners they had no real substantial means of support. That kind of pension now is available for those between 65 and 70.

Under the old system—the pension for those 70 and over with a means test—some 308,800 Canadians were getting a pension by the end of 1951. The federal government paid three-quarters of the cost; the provinces the other quarter.

Now under the new system—the pension for those 70 and over without a means test—some 700,000 Canadians are getting the monthly cheques. The money comes entirely from federal taxes.

And where federal costs under the old scheme totalled about $6,500,000 a month, the costs under the new scheme have risen to about $27,000,000 a month. In the last 15 months, the pension for all over 70 has cost $408,363,000.

Revenues have been increasing, but they haven't matched the pace of expenditures.

DIP INTO TREASURY

As a result the government has had to dip into its treasury and "loan" the fund a total of $115,598,000 in the last 15 months.

Now the problem is how to recoup the "loan" and make the fund self-supporting.

There may be a variety of ways. The government may decide to write off the loan as an unpayable debt. It might write off the whole loan at one time or during a period of years.

In any case, it would show up in the government's accounts as another expenditure—one that now is not included in the regular spending columns. That, of course, would cause an unforeseen change in the government's final budgetary balance.

Or the government might decide to let the "loan" continue on its books and increase the tax allocations to the fund to such an extent that it might build a small surplus out of which it could repay the treasury.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 15-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 99 3-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.78 15-16 against $2.79 5-16.

17 Fatalities Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seventeen persons were victims of accidental death in Eastern Canada during the week-end, all but one victims of traffic or boating mishaps.

Four persons were drowned in Ontario, two in Quebec and one in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Quebec headed the traffic toll with five deaths reported while Ontario had three.

Ontario drownings: Kathryn Readon, 21, of Buffalo, N. Y., when caught in an undertow while swimming in Lake Erie near Fort Erie; Wolfgang Banto, 6, in Castlet Lake, four miles south of Parry Sound; Edith Alice Gobert while swimming in Lake Erie near Ericau, and Keith Honsberger, 22, while attempting to rescue a girl who had fallen into Port Weller Harbor. Traffic fatalities: Edward Dupras, 3, run over by a truck in front of his home; Claire Crowe, 26, of Hamilton when the light truck in which he was riding went out of control and rolled over near North Bay, and Cindy Lou Pearson, 8, of Sarnia, when she was run over by her grandfather's car at Grand Valley. At Windsor, Russell Hill died shortly after a piece of metal struck him in the groin and severed an artery.

Prices Stay Mixed In Light Trading

TORONTO (CP)—Prices drifted mixed to lower in light early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials showed changes of $1 or more scattered through a mixed list. Golds and base metals eased while western oils touched their lowest index level in two years on a minor decline.

In industrials, Loblaw A and B shares came under pressure that pushed them down 1½ and two points respectively. Countering this weak spot were $1 gains for Kelvinator and Gatineau Preferred and a 1¾-point rise for Saguenay Power preferred. By sections, utilities and constructions firmed but banks and foods slipped.

In golds all three groups weakened. Leading the mild decline were Kerr-Addison, Campbell, Preston and Frobisher.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals showed losses Brilund, Conwest, Anacon and New Larder U eased as much as 35 cents. Gunnar firmed 10 cents.

Western oils moved at lower prices led by Gridoil, Great Pains, Peruvian and General Petroleum A.

In base metals Noranda, Smelters, Cobalt Lode and Hudson Bay were down. Quemont and Steep Rock firmed.

Dynamite Explosion Rips Up Tracks

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—A dynamite blast, heard miles away, ripped ties, heaved rails and tore plates on the Canadian Pacific Kettle Valley line 16 miles west of here, the railway reported Sunday night.

The blast was believed the work of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, who were blamed for setting fire to five homes last Wednesday after a calm of three weeks in the troubled Kootenays.

STEAL GASOLINE

Five gallons of gasoline were stolen late Sunday or early today from a ton truck that was parked in the driveway at the home of Stanley Douglas, R.R. 3, Peterborough. The tank was half emptied. Provincial police investigated.

Former Premier Plastiras Dies

ATHENS (AP)—Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, 69, three times premier of Greece and dictator for a day, died here Sunday of a heart ailment. He had retired because of illness in October and suffered a serious attack last week.

A white-haired soldier-hero, he had the reputation of being leftist and anti-royalist. His terms as premier were from Jan. 3 to April 9, 1945; from April 14 to Aug. 21, 1950, and from Oct. 27, 1951, to Oct. 7, 1952.

Plastiras was 28 when he entered upon the military career which brought him decorations and half a dozen wounds. He fought in the Balkan wars of 1912-13 and with the Allies in Macedonia in the First World War. In the winter of 1918-19 he commanded Greek Evzones—the crack kilted fighters—during an Allied expedition into the Ukraine.

He won the nickname, "The Black River," from the Turks during strife in Asia Minor in 1922.

In that same year, he landed with other officers on the island of Chios and proclaimed the revolution that launched him on his political career. As president of the revolutionary committee he forced King Constantine to abdicate, dissolved Parliament and staged a trial in which several ex-ministers and generals were sentenced to death. A year later he deposed Constantine's son, King George II, and sent him into exile for 12 years. The present king, Paul I, is George's brother.

Municipal Board Hearing Cancelled

CHATHAM (CP) — An Ontario municipal board hearing of protests on land purchases for the new Toronto-to-Windsor highway, scheduled to open here today, was cancelled this morning when private settlements were reached.

The board was scheduled to hear cases involving 12 Rochester township farmers.

Wilson McCoig, chairman of the Southwestern Ontario Highway Association, said settlement in the last two cases was reached during the last few days. He said farmers were "satisfied" with the agreements.

The settlement does not affect farmers in Essex county. Mr. McCoig said the Richmond township cases are not in the present contract. He said farmers in Essex are still seeking settlement and will not let work go ahead until they have reached a satisfactory agreement.

HOPE TRUCE OBSERVED

"It is the earnest hope of the Canadian government that this armistice in Korea will be observed scrupulously by all concerned and will lead to a political settlement in that ravaged peninsula, and eventually to a general settlement of outstanding issues in the whole of the Far East."

Both Mr. St. Laurent and L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister and president of the UN general assembly, were away from the capital when the truce was signed. Mr. St. Laurent was resting at his summer home at St. Patrick, Que., before resuming his election campaign today. Mr. Pearson is in New York.

Mr. Pearson issued a statement through his office here which said, in part:

"Our first thought at this moment is for those who have defended the principles of the UN with their lives, and in the hope that their devotion might save us from the destroying horror of another world war. . . .

"By resisting and ending aggression in Korea, the UN has reduced the chance of successful aggression elsewhere. . . .

FIRST STEP

"The armistice will end the fighting in Korea. As such it is the first step toward a peaceful settlement in that area. . . .

The signing of the armistice is the end of one chapter of bloodshed and fighting. But it is only the beginning of a new and difficult one, the making of peace. This new chapter cannot be completed successfully in Korea unless the armistice terms are faithfully and scrupulously observed by all concerned."

Of the 28,500 Canadians who served in the Korea war, 25,000 were soldiers, 3,000 sailors and 500 airmen. The army now has some 8,000 men in the field. Three destroyers are still in Korean waters and four others have seen service there. The RCAF has sent 21 fighter pilots into action with the U.S. Air Force and committed No. 426 Transport Squadron to move troops and supplies across the Pacific.

Constable Remanded

BRANTFORD (CP) — Constable G. Thomas Jordan, charged with manslaughter in the traffic death of fireman John E. Wilkes last week while both were off duty, was remanded today for preliminary hearing Aug. 10.

TRAILER HITS TRUCK

A swinging trailer hitched on the rear of a car driven by Frank Eldridge, 21, of Long Branch, Sunday night collided with the front left fender of a southbound pickup truck, driven by Stanley Johnson, 52, of Apsley. There were no injuries and only $50 damage. After the collision the Johnson truck ran into the east ditch. The accident was on Coe Hill Road, 3½ miles north of Apsley. OPP Constable Jack McKendry investigated.

His speeches reiterated the Conservative election promise to cut taxes by $500,000,000 a year and pledged increased support for Canada's aircraft industry.

CUT IN HALF

The dollar's buying power had been cut in half because of the Liberal government's "reckless extravagance and inflationary policies."

"We propose to put value into our dollars and put the kind of strength into them that they should have with all the resources of this country behind them."

The Conservative party believed defence expenditures could be cut by $250,000,000 without decreasing the effectiveness of the armed forces. It also believed in a stronger air force.

Pearson Calls Aug. 17 Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —L. B. Pearson of Canada, president of the UN General Assembly, said Sunday the assembly will meet Aug. 17 to consider plans for a Korean political conference.

Pearson disclosed this immediately after U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. had orally notified Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold that the armistice had had been signed at Panmunjom.

Lodge passed the information officially to Hammerskjold at 9:48 p.m., EDT, less than an hour after Hammerskjold and his aides had heard the broadcast of the signing.

Pearson said telegrams would be sent out during the night to the 60 UN members notifying them of the assembly meeting.

The assembly will have before it the problem of deciding on the composition of the conference provided for in the armistice agreement, and fixing the place and time of the meeting which must be within 90 days.

Order Workers Shoot At Pickets If Trouble

TIMMINS (CP) — Walter F. Brown, manager at the strike-bound Broulan Reef mine here, said today he has ordered workers at the mine to shoot at picketers if attacked.

The workers, who had joined a back - to - work movement were issued guns with orders to "shoot to maim" following a Friday fracas when 50 strikers jumped 30 of the miners. At least 40 men suffered cuts, bruises and broken teeth in the fight.

Mr. Brown warned employees to "be careful, shoot to maim only." He said he had informed Ontario Provincial Police Inspector Thomas Trimble of his orders and said his men would be armed despite the inspector's disapproval.

Insp. Trimble said he warned Mr. Brown there might be "serious consequences if there was any shooting on Broulan property."

signing showed the Reds were given almost all the Kumsong bulge, plus some other ridges and outposts whose names became famous because of bitter fighting for their control.

ALL GO TO REDS

Finger ridge . . . Heartbreak ridge, scene of some of the war's bitterest fighting . . . Old Baldy . . all went to the Communists.

The war has claimed more than 1,500,000 in dead, wounded and missing. Allied troops, as the shooting wore through its dying hours, were apprehensive. None wanted to be the last casualty.

Only a handful of patrol skirmishes, mostly between Chinese and South Koreans, were reported across the 150-mile front before dawn.

Frontline reports said American patrols went out only on defensive scouting missions, shooting only after the Reds fired first.

Sabre jets—their wartime MiG bag totalling a round 800 destroyed—prowled North Korea's skies for the Russian-made jets.

One 25-man Sabre flight roared north to the Yalu river and sighted 12 MiGs. But the Red jets fled to the safety of their Manchurian sanctuary, across which Allied planes have been forbidden to fly.

"GLORIOUS VICTORY"

While top Allied commanders warned their troops the armistice does not mean the end of the war, Communist Peiping radio boasted the Reds had won a "glorious victory."

The Peiping radio warned Red soldiers to remain "highly vigilant and guard against aggressive and disruptive actions from the other side."

The broadcast carried the text of an order from North Korean Marshal Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai. The Red generals told Communist forces to stop fighting at 10 p. m., pull back two kilometres (about 1¼ miles) and "not again cross even one step into the demilitarized zone."

Still, knowing the armistice was to be signed, the Reds sent two Chinese companies—300 to 400—men—against the slopes of a South Korean outpost south of Lookout mountain about midnight Sunday. The Reds were beaten off the eastern front hill position in an hour-long rifle and hand grenade skirmish. Earlier, another 150 to 200 Reds hit an outpost in the same area, but were hurled back.

DRIVEN OFF

At about the same time, three small Red forces of up to 80 men were driven away by U. S. Marines in the Outpost Berlin area and a hill 2,000 yards to the east.

It was at this western front sector last Friday night that the final big battle of the war was fought. The Reds—with usual reckless disregard for their troops—hurled wave after wave of Chinese up the slopes of marine-held positions in the Berlin complex.

Hundreds of marines were killed and wounded in smashing the savage onslaughts.

Register Editor Resigns Post

The Rev. Daniel A. Casey, pastor of Holy Name Church, Kingston, since 1924, has resigned because of failing health, and will become chaplain at St. Mary's Hospital in that city.

He was ordained in St. Peter's Cathedral, was appointed assistant at the Cathedral, and subsequently in Campbellford and Bracebridge. In 1916 Father Casey was appointed parish priest at Norwood. With the reorganization of the Canadian Freeman, published in Kingston, he was invited by the late Archbishop Spratt to become its editor, and was transferred from the diocese of Peterborough by the late Bishop M. J. O'Brien.

Dr. Casey conducted the editorial department of the Freeman almost singlehanded for the next 25 years, as reported in th Kingston Whig-Sandard, until the paper was merged with four other Catholic weeklies to form the Canadian Register. "He has been one of the editors of the Register since its inception, until the last two years when failing health prevented him from contributing his weekly editorial. His career in journalism made him known and respected in all parts of Ontario, and in fact throughout Canada."

Second case of polio in a week was reported by MOH Dr. J. P. Wells of a five-year-old girl, who was sent to hospital Friday. She is reported to be fully recovered today and will probably be going home in two or three days.

The first polio victim that was sent to isolation wing of the Civic Hospital last Tuesday, was discharged today with no paralysis and no complications.

OBITUARY

PERCY HANDLEY

MILLBROOK—(ENS) —Percy Handley of this village died of a heart attack early this morning. Handley's family are on a holiday trip to Detroit and have been notified.

Mr. Handley was a life-time resident of Millbrook, except for a short period during the war when he worked in Hamilton. He was 61 and had lived retired for several years.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Handley, also life-long residents of the village.

Surviving are his wife, the former May Armstrong and five children, Mrs. Zurak (Rene) of Hamilton, Mrs. Edward Wilson (Mary) of Kingston, Francis of Peterborough, Barbara of Millbrook and Bennet, an employee of the CGE, Peterborough.

Mr. Handley was a noted athlete in his youth, playing lacrosse, baseball and hockey for Millbrook. He was a member of St. Thomas' Curch.

Funeral arrangements are pending the arrival of Mrs. Handley.

Seagoing Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Capt. S. G. Dahlquist of the motorship Canada had some un-nautical headgear on the ship's maiden voyage. He wore a feather headdress after being inducted into the Capilano Indian tribe as Big-Chief-That-Stands-Out-In-The-Ocean.

Woman Driver Injured In Crash

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Jeanne Poulin, 32, of Port Arthur, Ont., was seriously injured Saturday when the car she was driving left the road and smashed into a guard rail on a Sherbrooke street.

She was admitted to St. Vincent de Paul hospital here with probable skull fractures and authorities said her condition was "critical."

SEEKS REST CENTRE

Meanwhile, it is an open secret here that Brig. Allard's time recently has been spent mainly in studying the Korea west coast for a suitable location for a rest centre for Canadian troops once the armistice is effected. He has tentatively settled on an island near Inchon.

On the island there could be established a leave camp, convalescent centre and even training schools.

The most likely prospect is that the Canadians will withdraw from their present positions 72 hours after 9 a.m. EDT Monday. Every move of that operation—creating a buffer zone in their sector—already is carefully planned and units know where every piece of equipment is to go.

Meanwhile in Tokyo, Lt.-Col. Don Dailley of the RCASC, from Ottawa and Kingston, the Canadian member of the armistice supervisory subcommission, is waiting with other commission members for the call to Korea, expected Friday.

Youths Save Boy

LINDSAY—(ENS)—Provincial police report that the quick action of two young men, Glen Vasey and Louis Hewitt, saved the life of an 11-year-old boy at Minden, Ken Suntherland, who lives with his mother in an apartment over the Hewitt garage. He got into difficulty while swimming at the bridge along the main street. His plight was noticed when he was going down for the third time. Glen and Louis both dived in fully clothed and brought the lad to shore.

Whole Village Arrested By U.S. Police

SHORT CREEK, Ariz. (AP)—A big task force of law officers swooped down on this historically polygamous community on the Arizona-Utah border before dawn Sunday and seized virtually every man, woman and child.

Carrying warrants for 36 men and 86 women, they moved in to put down what Arizona's Governor Howard Pyle proclaimed "an insurrection against the state" directed by "a hard core of greedy and licentious man."

Some patriarchs of the strange cult dwelling in unworldly isolation below the Vermillion cliffs have as many as six wives, the state charged.

They have spawned a total of 363 children, and, Governor Pyle said, in the last decade no girl has reached the age of 15 "without having been forced into a shameful mockery of marriage."

WAIT QUIETLY

The inhabitants were waiting quietly in the schoolyard, dressed in their Sunday best.

There was no resistance to the raiding party.

"We're tired of running," said one of the cult leaders.

The warrants charged these offences:

Conspiracy to commit adultery; statutory rape; bigamy; open and notorious cohabitation; contributing to the delinquency of a minor; marrying the spouse of another; income tax evasion; failure to comply with corporation laws; misappropriation of school funds; improper use of school facilities, and falsification of public records.

Fire Destroys Wheat In Norwood Field

NORWOOD (ENS) — Fire started by a match used to light a cigarette consumed 3½ acres of wheat ready for cutting about 3 p.m. Saturday.

The grain was part of a 12-acre field of wheat belonging to George Shoniker who lives about 2½ miles west of Norwood on Highway 7.

The fire was fought by neighboring farmers, passers-by and many from Norwood. Stanley Andrews and Clare Telford plowed a fire guard with their tractors. When the fire broke out, the men were repairing fences nearby.

Permission for the Norwood fire department to help could not be obtained.

If the wind had been in the west, it is thought the entire field would have been destroyed.

Coldwell Predicts PCs Won't Make Much Of Showing

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, today shift their election campaign attention to Ontario while CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low, Social Credit chieftain, stump the Prairies. Ontario has the largest number of seats in the Commons—85.

After a two-day rest at his summer home at St. Patrick, Que., Mr. St. Laurent embarks on his main Ontario campaign at London. Mr. Drew, after completing a long run in Quebec, will be at Ottawa in his home riding of Carleton. Mr. Coldwell speaks at Winnipeg.

Mr. Drew made five speeches Saturday. At Ormstown, he said Canada shouldn't have to "beg" for a better break in American markets.

The U.S. had barred Canadian dairy products despite international trade agreements and had "dumped" surplus textiles on the Canadian market, leaving thousands of Canadian textile workers unemployed or on short time.

MUST TALK FRANKLY

"It's time for Canada to talk frankly to the government of the United States. We must tell them we're going to enforce our anti-dumping laws and tell them there must be fair trade between us."

"Frank and manly" talk was the kind of approach appreciated by the present U.S. government, he said.

"In this game we hold quite a few of the blue chips. . . . We're not in a position where we have to beg for consideration."

At Gimli, Man., Mr. Coldwell said the Progressive Conservatives won't amount to "a row of beans" in the election.

He forecast that the Progressive Conservatives would lose their three Quebec and two Newfoundland seats and would have only a "corporal's guard" west of the Great Lakes.

CHARGES INDIFFERENCE

Mr. Coldwell accused Manitoba's Liberal government of indifference to the "gross exploitation" of Lake Winnipeg fishermen by the fishing industry. The price spread between what fishermen received for their catch and the market price was 79.7 per cent.

He suggested a federal government marketing board which would set minimum fish prices at least a season ahead.

"The people of Canada might not get fish much cheaper, but at least they would know that the men who caught it were getting a decent return."

At Erin, Ont., Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member of Peel for the last 18 years, criticized a statement he attributed to Trade Minister Howe that it would be folly to elect a Progressive Conservative government because that party had been out of office so long it had had no experience in governing.

PERPETUAL DICTATORSHIP

"If that argument is carried to its logical conclusion, we would have a perpetual dictatorship," he said.

At Fitzroy Harbor, Ont., Revenue Minister McCann said that before dissolution of the last Commons, Progressive Conservative members hoped Mr. Drew "might quit so that one of the other members might become party leader."

At St. Thomas, Ont., Finance Minister Abbott branded as "misleading half-truths" Progressive Conservative statements that a $200,000,000 treasury surplus so far this fiscal year means a big surplus at the end of the year. Such a situation was normal during the early months, when tax receipts were high, but there was no reason to expect the figure to be high at the end of the 12 months.

At Port Hope, Ont., Mr. Howe said Canada's foreign trade can be still further expanded. "It is our policy to expand trade with every country in the world," he said.

Remove Natives From Roof Tops Of Whites' Home

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Removal of natives from illegal "tenements in the sky"—rooftops and servants quarters in "white" apartment buildings—is the latest proposal of the Nationalist government of Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan for implementing its racial segregation policy.

The overcrowded "tenements" are one of the results of the enormous migration of rural Africans to Johannesburg during the last 20 years, a migration brought about by a continuing boom in industry.

SQUATTERS' CAMPS

Hostels and servants' rooms are jammed to overflowing and established African townships spill over continually into illegal and unhygienic squatters' camps.

Although the country's official policy is one of segregation, it is safe to say that the number of domestic servants, their families and lodgers almost equals the whites in all areas, even in the most exclusive white suburbs.

The total of illegal African "boarders" throughout the city's white areas is believed to be about 150,000.

Domestic servants take in "lodgers" who sleep on the floor and pay $2.80 a month. The racket is known to most householders, who keep quiet for fear of losing their servants.

POLICE RAIDS

At intervals the police raid the servants' quarters. The illegal lodgers are marched off to the police station, where they pay a fine, which mounts with each conviction. Then they return to the same illegal quarters and hope for the best. They have nowhere else to go.

Meanwhile little progress is made with grandiose plans for establishing new African suburbs separated from the white suburbs by a buffer zone. The wrangle continues as to who shall pay and the minister of native affairs, Hermanus Verwoerd, has announced he plans to clear the "black spots" with or without the city's co-operation.

Speakers Claim Liberals Have Dishonest Policy

TRENTON— At a Progressive Conservative Party picnic held near here Saturday afternoon, charges of dishonesty and incompetency were hurled against the Liberals by speaker urging the cause of Lee Grills, PC candidate in South Hastings.

George White, MP in the last House for North Hastings, declared: "The municipalities are being squeezed by the hogging attitude of Ottawa."

He continued by excoriating the federal government for "thefts and lootings in the armed forces." He alleged that the Department of National Defense is most inefficiently handled and he cited the Currie report to support his charge.

Strongly criticizing advertisements inserted by the Liberal Party in newspapers in Western Ontario urging voters to make sure that mothers allowances are continued by voting for the St. Laurent government, Ontario Welfare Minister Goodfellow said, "These advertisements are entirely dishonest and false. The federal government doesn't scontribute a five cent piece to mothers' allowance in the Province of Ontario. The legislation is administered by the Government of Ontario."

Lawn, Garden Entries Increase In Number

More entries than last year in the Horticultural Society's lawns and gardens competition are reported by W. C. Wilks, secretary of the Society.

"We had only one entry from Ashburnham," he remarked to the Examiner today. "That is a disappointment because there are many lawns and flower gardens in that section of the city that deserve to be in the competition. That comment applies also to the city as a whole. Many residents take pride in their home properties, but only a few appear to consider that they should be entries.

"We should have far more than those who do come in. The prizes are worth while, but they are only a secondary consideration. The main purpose is to help promote the beautification of Peterborough, by directing attention to the work at home. That encourages others to make their places attractive, and I think it all has some effect on values."

The entries were judged last week, and reports will be published when they are received by the secretary.

Not a Crime

MILAN (Reuters) — Judicial authorities here have ruled that counterfeiting British gold sovereigns is not a crime. An investigating magistrate dropped the case against five Italians, arrested Nov. 28, 1951, accused of coining and circulating sovereigns — obsolete coins worth one pound sterling ($2.80).

Asks For Wheat

AMMAN (AP) — Jordan has asked the United States to send wheat to alleviate a shortage. The shortage, caused by a poor harvest, is estimated at between 30,000 and 35,000 tons. Two years ago the United States sent Jordan 10,000 tons for a similar purpose.

LIBERAL CANDIDATES MEET—Trade Minister Howe (second from right) is greeted by Liberal candidates from Essex county in the August 10 federal election as he arrives in Windsor. Left to right: S. One Injured In Series Of Accidents

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A number of minor highway accidents kept district police busy Saturday evening. One passenger was injured.

At 9.15 p.m. on the main street of Warkworth, a car driven by 18-year-old John L. Sykes, of Warkworth, backed into a car driven by Francis Coleman, 24, of Trenton, doing minor damage to the front of the Coleman car. There were no injuries.

About two hours later, the OPP were again called to the Warkworth area when a car driven by 28-year-old Robert J. Winfield, of Madoc, went out of control on the Warkworth-Hastings road about a mile north of the village of Warkworth.

Winfield was going south and, in turning into a township road to the left, struck loose gravel and went into a skid. The car rolled completely over and came to rest in the east ditch on its roof. Damage to the top and left side of the car will amount to about $600.

A passenger in the car, Charles Generaux, of Actinolote, received minor lacerations to the left side of his head, requiring medical attention.

Shortly after, a car driven by Glen Varty, 22, of RR 1, Havelock, ended up on its side in the ditch on the Campbellford-Hastings road.

Varty was approaching a railway crossing about six miles west of Campbellford and did not notice the sign until he was almost upon it. He applied the brakes and skidded into the ditch, doing minor damage to the right side of his car. He was not injured.

Abbott Says Tax Removal On Municipalities Difficult

LONDON, Ont. — Finance Minister Abbott Saturday night branded as illogical and impractical Conservative Leader Drew's proposal to remove the federal sales tax from all purchases by municipal governments. Because it would be difficult to police such a provision, and prevent unauthorized individuals from taking advantage of such benefits. Mr. Abbott said he was unalterably opposed to the idea.

Instead, he said, he believes all buyers, government or otherwise, should pay equal taxes.

The finance minister referred to the tax exemption promise of Mr. Drew during a meeting in Ealing school here where he spoke in support of Frank McLachlin, Liberal candidate in Middlesex East. It was a good-sized crowd which nearly filled the school auditorium and which obviously liked Mr. Abbott's offhand manner of talking.

MUST MAKE CHOICE

The entire election problem for voters, Mr. Abbott said, was a choice between a record of achievement and a bundle of platform promises that were obviously impossible without increasing Canada's national debt sharply. If, he said, the taxpayers liked results, they should return the government.

Typical of Drew promises, which increased daily, was one that municipalities would be absolved of paying sales taxes on their purchases. Where, demanded Mr. Abbott, was there any logic in such a suggestion?

"Such a step would reduce the revenue from the tax by about $35,000,000," said Mr. Abbott. "The amount would have to be made up somewhere else. All municipal taxpayers are also federal taxpayers. So if you remove the tax from them in one form, they must provide an equal amount from it as taxpayers in another form.

"Why," he continued, "remove the tax from the purchases made by citizens as residents of municipalities and load it on all the citizens generally?"

ANOTHER ASPECT

But there is another aspect. Any tax must be fairly and evenly levied. I fear that it would be exceedingly difficult to police a tax imposed in such a way, to see that persons only entitled to benefit should benefit.

"We pay the sales tax on all federal government purchases such as defence purchases and so on. There is no reason why we shouldn't and it provides an exact indication of actual cost. Any change of this tax method would be taking with one hand and giving with the other.

"Actually, we aid municipalities which now have an unjust or unfair burden."

OBITUARIES

MRS. CHARLES J. BOYCE

WARKWORTH —(ENS)— The death occurred suddenly, early Sunday morning, of Mrs. Lillian Dunk Boyce, in her home at Warkworth. She was in her 79th year.

Widow of the late Charles J. Boyce, she was the mother of Mrs. R. Denham (Jennie) and sons Frank and Clarence. Another daughter, Nellie, died some years ago.

Mrs. Boyce was born in the district known as the English line, south of Campbellford, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunk. She was educated in Campbellford and later moved to Warkworth where she has lived for the past 50 years.

Her husband was the proprietor of a hardware and general store which is now managed by the two boys.

Mrs. Boyce was secretary of the Missionary Society for some years and an active member of the Free Methodist Church.

Funeral will be held from the residence, Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. G. W. Kemp will officiate. Burial will be in the Warkworth cemetery.

TIMOTHY C. WHITRED

Timothy C. Whitred died at the home of his son, William C. Whitred, RR 3, Hastings, on Saturday, after a lengthy illness. He was in his 86th year.

Born in Norfolk, England, son of George Whitred and Sarah Reed, he came to this country at the age of five and resided at Gore's Landing where he was educated.

With his wife, the late May Johnson, he resided in Hastings village for some 40 years where he was employed as an engineer and carpenter at Plant's Foundry. For the last three years he has been living with his son, William.

He is survived by his son William C., a brother, William, of Hastings, and a sister, Sarah, England and five grandchildren, Helen, Margaret, Barbara, Annie and Billy.

He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the Masonic Lodge.

His funeral will take place Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. from the son's residence with the Rev. T. E. Kennedy of St. Andrew's Church officiating. He will receive Masonic honors. Burial will be in the Trent aVlley cemetery.

Noseworthy Asks Guaranteed Price

HAMILTON —The decline in farm income could be arrested by adoption of guaranteed forward prices to the farmer based on parity, J. W. Noseworthy, CCF candidate in York South, said here Saturday night in an address to delegates representing 6,000 jobless farm implement workers.

Lowering of farm income meant reduced demand for farm implements, Mr. Noseworthy said. Half the world needed food and yet Canada's implement factories were idle and the implements to produce more food were not being produced.

"Canada should be showing the people of Asia and Africa that we undertand their needs and should be increasing instead of decreasing our supply of farm implements to these people," he said. "Even our home market for farm implements has begun to decline."

Appointment of a national livestock marketing board, and a more realistic attempt to recapture the lost British market, would go a long way toward rectifying the situation, Mr. Noseworthy said.

Man Disappears

ATLANTA (AP)—A man trapped on the steep side of Stone mountain disappeared in the darkness a few minutes after crying "I can't hold on much longer." A rescue party found no trace of him.

Howe Defends Trade Policy During Visit To Deloro, Bethlehem Mine, Marmora

MARMORA (ENS)—Between informal visits to the mine of Bethlehem S... Corporation and the plant of the Deloro Smelting and ... Company, Trade Minister C. D. Howe spoke in Marmora town hall Saturday afternoon in the interests of "Clute" Foster, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac. Madoc and District Band, under William Aylsworth, was in attendance. About 70 others, including a liberal sprinkling of ladies and visiting Liberals, listened to the addresses. Norman Gilroy, Coe Hill, president of the riding Liberal Association, was chairman. Reeve Ritchie Wills of Marmora welcomed those present.

Dr. T. W. Warner of Yarker said Frontenac Liberal Association had decided not to give George White an acclamation and thus the honor went to "Clute". So he would ask everyone to support the candidate. "Every Liberal should get out and get every vote", he urged. Canada has had good times for the past 18 years and its people don't want to go back to the Bennett regime.

"The Tories are hollering for a change," he said. "It is the same with them here as in the United States. A change was wanted there and they go it. Now Mr. Eisenhower says it can't be done."

CHANGE LEADERS

Dr. Warner spoke of the number of times the Conservatives had changed their leader as against the fewer changes of leader in the Liberal party and said Mr. St. Laurent was trying to unify Canada as it never was before.

Rork Ferguson, ex-MP, Norwood, said he was glad to witness the developments going on in Hastings county and predicted that in a few years the county would hold a commanding position in the mineral activities of the province.

The chairman said the Liberal candidate had showed his interest in the riding in bringing in two cabinet ministers for addresses and there is a possibility of a third being secured. He said that in the candidate, they had a man of influence and ability.

WAY TO VICTORY

"He is a man in sympathy with the government," he said. "The Liberal party is on its way to victory."

Clute Foster declared his pleasure in introducing the senior cabinet minister. He could not express the way he himself felt in being a candidate. He could not thank the riding officers too much for the support they were rendering him.

There were some problems that could not be laid at the feet of any government, federal or provincial. One was the decrease of population that had taken place in this large new riding. Its potentials were agriculture, forest and mineral wealth and the tourist trade.

"If enough thought and work were put into this riding, this decrease of population should not continue. The prosperity and future of Canada lies mainly with its people. The same is to be said of Hastings Frontenac."

"No man has made a greater contribution to the prosperity we are enjoying," he said, "than the man who honors us with his presence today."

PAYS TRIBUTE

Mr. Howe said he was glad to have the unexpected opportunity to be present since the program mapped out for his addresses kept him very busy.

He was glad to have come for several reasons. One was to see "Clute" whom he had known for some time and to whom he paid a tribute for his war work in Ottawa.

He was glad to have come for time because of his contact with its industry. The coming of Bethlehem Steel into the district had added further to his desire to come. This was a sample of what has been going on all over Canada since the Liberal party came into power in 1935.

He cited the developments in the various provinces from British Columbia to Newfoundland. He said that Canada under Liberalism encourages development in industry.

FORTUNATE CHOICE

He said the Liberals of Hastings-Frontenac were fortunate in their choice of candidate. "Clute" Foster did a splendid job for the government when at Ottawa. Though living in other places, he always maintained a home in his home constituency.

"As I cannot think of any better service than he has rendered I think I am warranted in asking you to vote for him.

"I need not apologize in asking you to vote for the Liberal party. All that I and the Liberal party could promise is that we will do our utmost to see that every year we improve the condition of the country. Before the war we were the 16th nation of the world for trade. Now we are the third."

The speaker said the opposition were complaining that the Liberal government were losing the export trade. Yet last year was the greatest export year Canada has known.

Referring to complaints that they were not trading with Great Britain in any great way, he said that country could not buy as our government would like them to.

NEW MARKETS

He went on to say that good markets had been opened with countries with whom there had been little Canadian trade before, namely those of South America, the Far East, Indonesia, Japan and the Philippines.

It was his particular job to find the markets of the world and he was able to say Canada had been able to market all surplus supplies. He looked for no recession.

There was a special incentive this time, he said, to see that Hastings-Frontenac will be a Liberal riding when the next House is called.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Officers of the riding association and other prominent Liberals with the reeves of the three local municipalities were entertained by the candidate at luncheon at the Royal Hotel.

Federal Government Goes Into Red

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government went into the red by $15,209,000 in June as expenditures outpaced an increased flow of revenues, the finance department reported today.

First monthly deficit in three months and the first June deficit in four years, it cut the surplus in the first quarter of the 1953-54 fiscal year to $185,000,000, down from $262,475,000 in the similar 1952-53 period.

Finance Minister Abbott said in a statement that the $185,000,000 surplus may melt into a deficit before the year is over. Even with big surpluses at the beginning of the last fiscal year, the government showed an over-all surplus of only $24,000,000 at final accounting.

"The surplus at the end of June canot be taken as giving any indication of the surplus for the fiscal year as a whole," he said.

HEAVIER EXPENDITURES

"While revenues are always large in the early months of the fiscal year, expenditures are always heavier in the latter part of the year and unless substantial surpluses are accumulated in the earlier months a deficit for the year as a whole is inevitable."

Revenues during June rose to $371,932,000, up $43,065,000 from $328,867,000 last year. But expenditures jumped to $387,141,000, a rise of $79,620,000 from $307,521,000.

Big jumps in spending were recorded for the air force and in federal payments to provinces under federal-provincial tax agreements.

Air force expenditures rose to $77,287,000 from $48,008,000 last year, more than double the $38,982,000 spent for the army and more than quadruple the $18,603,000 for the navy. Army spending was down slightly from $38,799,000 last year, while naval expenditures were slightly higher than last year's $17,298,000.

Payments to provinces tripled to $78,881,000 from $23,795,000. Higher payments and the entry of Ontario into the tax pacts caused the rise, an official said.

Other major expenditures showed family allowance payments rising to $28,759,000 from $27,470,000 last year and the interest on the public debt increase to $38,512,000 from $36,551,000.

Revenue from personal income taxes rose to $95,613,000 from $72,087,000. Corporation income tax yields increased to $109,047,000 from $105,815,000. In the indirect tax field, the yield from excise taxes yielded $81,435,000, up from $71,128,000.

Big Political Guns Boom In Last 2 Campaign Weeks

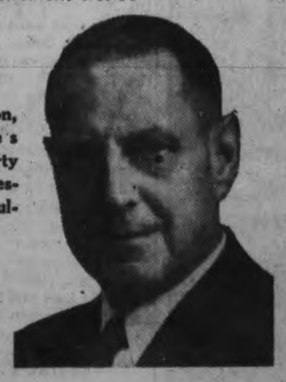
By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The big political guns will boom over Ontario and Quebec this week and next as Canada's two major political leaders match strength in the ridings that likely will decide the winner of the federal election Monday, Aug. 10.

Today marks the beginning of the home stretch in the exhausting coast-to-coast campaigning by Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. Both revisit Ontario ridings this week.

This is the crucial in-fighting of the six-week campaign, where every speech and every handshake will count. In the 1949 vote, the Liberals got 66 of Quebec's 73 seats; the Progressive Conservatives 2. In Ontario the Liberals captured 56 of 83 seats; the Progressive Conservatives 25.

This year Quebec will return 75 members and Ontario 85. Liberal party strategists believe Quebec will again back Mr. St. Laurent but some have doubts about Ontario.



Ontario, therefore, is the enigma of the 1953 campaign and may be the trump card.

While Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew try for her favors this week, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, will be wooing the West. Mr. Coldwell has already visited Ontario. Mr. Low is expected to scour the East later.

Mr. Swanston, where does your party stand with respect to Agriculture?

Answer:

Naturally, it knows that Agriculture is our most important industry, and must be kept prosperous. The Agriculture Prices Support Act was only one proof of that. And under the Liberal Government farmers have been more prosperous than at any other time in Canada's history. High prices and high production is the Liberal agricultural policy, and the party has made that policy work.

The War Is Stopped

The monotonous and sorry war in Korea has been stopped. The cease-fire is only that, an armistice; the war itself has not been concluded, for that depends upon a formal peace or, as in the Second World War (which did not have an armistice) on unconditional surrender. But generally an armistice is followed by something resembling peace, even if a peace treaty has not been signed. (Complete peace terms have not yet been made between all the belligerents in the last war.) What most engages the mind and conscience now, regarding Korea, is the character of the events there—the atmosphere—following the cease fire. How peaceful will Korea be? Certainly there is nothing now in the Korean air to promise a return home of U.S. and U.N. forces. U.N. forces will have to be maintained, and so will supplies, unless South Korea is to be deluged by the Communist tide which was the occasion for U.N. troops being sent to Korea in the first place, such a long, long time ago.

* * *

The armistice has been achieved among great difficulties and in the face of great problems. Credit for it must be given first to the chief powers' determination to stop the war. The Chinese Reds cannot share much of that credit, for we remember not only their apparent strong desire for a settlement in these last months, but also their balkiness during two entire years of negotiations. There could have been an armistice two years ago if the Reds had been as desirous of it then as they are now. The hard facts of loss and cost and the public anxiety to end this sorry war were influential in changing also the American high command's attitude from rigidity to a willingness to accept a compromise. External influences were also brought to bear; the Commonwealth and other U.N. countries made abundantly clear to Washington that strong-armed American negotiation in Korea did not have their support.

* * *

The Korean war grew static more than two years ago. Since then it has been a tedious history of shells landing on eroded hills, of thousands of men indecisively attacking what was left, of casualties, boredom, and waste. During the closing months, after an armistice seemed imminent and Syngman Rhee protested it, the pattern of fighting became more pronounced. We mentioned above that the pattern towards peace has now become important. The Chinese Reds have spent the last two months tracing their own design for it. They have fully demonstrated to U.N., and we think to Syngman Rhee, that they are capable of enforcing an armistice on the South Koreans, and that the South Koreans are incapable of upsetting it, except to their own disaster.

* * *

During the last month the Chinese attacked more furiously and more successfully than at any time since the war in Korea grew static. For instance, they used more mortar bombs and shells in June than in any other month of the war; nearly a million and a half of them. They threw two new corps into the front. All the attacks of any importance were made against positions held by South Korean troops, and they drove the South Koreans away. The Chinese made their point clearly. No ground of essential importance to the course of the war was lost, but in almost every attack the South Koreans took a beating. The point is—and this is vital in the months following the armistice—that the South Koreans by themselves cannot pursue an independent course and survive. They cannot successfully challenge or abrogate the armistice terms.

* * *

The big stick has been wielded against the South Korean government. It may be a pity, but it is a fact of political history throughout the ages, that the smaller and weaker must abide by the decisions of the larger and stronger. Korea became a battlefield in the first place because of the aims, desires and policies of big powers; it has ceased to be a battlefield for exactly the same reasons. Big powers started the fighting. The big powers have ended it. The South Koreans were caught in the arms of conflicting international policies.

* * *

Proof of the good intentions of the United States and China, and of the effectiveness of U.N. as a world agent for good, will be the steps taken not only to bring peace to Korea but also to succour the people and restore the country. It has been a rather dreadful war, and its closing months curiously terrible. The armistice concedes neither victory nor defeat, but its signing is a recognition that big powers can sustain a limited war indefinitely, with no results other than casualties, destruction and expense. It is also a recognition, by Red China, that aggression by force of arms cannot succeed against united opposition. The events following the armistice will determine whether Communist aggression can win its way more subtly. It is to these events that the West must be alert, and for them that U.N. troops be maintained in Korea.

How To Reduce Taxes

Taxes in Canada are high. The United States is often cited here as an example of lower taxes. This is an untrue comparison, for taxation in the United States, particularly on many categories of income, is higher than in Canada. However, if one wants to take the U.S. as an instance of lower taxes, one readily finds how the U.S. does it. The U.S. government spends more than it takes in; in other words, its taxes are not high enough to meet its bills. This is called deficit budgeting. Every year for the last twenty the U.S. government has had a deficit. The U.S. federal deficit for the fiscal year just ended was $9,389,000,000.

One way for a government to keep taxes down, or to reduce them, is to operate on a deficit budget. The Canadian Government, any Canadian government, can reduce taxes if it is willing to go into the red. It can even reduce taxes by as much as half a billion dollars, if it will operate at a deficit.

Which is better in prosperous times—to run the country at a deficit every year as the U.S. had done, or to run the country with a surplus, paying off the National Debt with the surpluses? This Canada has done every year since the war. By contrast, the U.S. has increased its national debt, and thus the burden of capital and interest payments in the future and upon their children.

The Conservatives have won our ears and interest with their election promises to "save" half a billion dollars a year on government spending. We believe that economies can be effected, and that the Liberal Government has not been sufficiently economy-minded. We do not believe that any sum remotely approaching half a billion can be "saved" without operating the country on a deficit. Deficit budgeting is contrary to the basic principles of Conservatism, and to good business practice.

A point to bear in mind is the interpretation of "saving" government spending. Mr. Drew and his party do not specifically say that they will, if elected, reduce taxes by half a billion dollars. They say they can and will "save". It is possible that whatever money they might save would be used for one of the many new expensive schemes proposed by Mr. Drew in his campaign speeches. There is, for instance, the spectre of a bridge across the St. Lawrence at Three Rivers, which Mr. Drew promised Three Rivers electors last week. Such a bridge would have to be as big and costly as the Quebec Bridge. It was not without political significance that this pledge was given at and for Three Rivers, Premier Duplessis' home riding. Mr. Duplessis' National Union party has obviously briefed Mr. Drew well on the art of wooing Quebec votes.

What's Wrong?

Attending one of the Summer Theatre performances, we had the satisfaction of noting a small inaccuracy in the detail of the production. It concerned the fact that the British Admiralty always send official correspondence in OHMS envelopes and never use postage stamps.

It is strange that this type of fault-finding affords such gratification to oneself, but if others indulge in it they are labelled as self-centred bores. It is of course very annoying to have to sit next to one of these pundits, and it can completely spoil the evening if one's attention is continually being distracted by comments and criticisms. Yet even after the play is over there is a tendency to feel exasperated at others pointing out slips. After all, what does it matter if an obscure member of the Roman rabble wore a wristwatch? Shakespeare himself made Cleopatra play billiards.

People enjoy spotting mistakes in plays because it bolsters up their own self-esteem which may be sagging somewhat, though they might be amongst the last to admit it. They dislike being made the recipients of these confidences because egotism in others repels them. The trouble is that we are all too self-centred and do not care to admit it.

T.V. Battle In Britain

By W. MACLANACHAN

WHEN the Government decided to allow commercial television in Britain it seemed quite a simple matter. Events have shown, however, that complications in the cultural, political, economic and technical fields are so great, that the Government has been forced to postpone its decision until the Autumn.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO GIVE the public alternative television programmes, preferably by an organisation or group competing with the British Broadcasting Company, seemed to many people an innovation likely to meet with general approval. It would, by competition, tone up the B.B.C. programmes, get better conditions for those whose livelihood depends on the B.B.C., and remove the smugness and arrogance that are concomitants of any such monopoly. It might also provide an antidote to "political bias," of which both Conservative and Labour politicians periodically accuse the B.B.C.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THIS superficial analysis, the Government neglected two important considerations, and one rather less important one, which are really fundamental. These are the national and international standing of the B.B.C. as a British institution; the objection of the average Briton to having an advertisement thrust upon him in the intimacy of his own home (in which wireless and television sets are now established as members of the family); and, somewhat less important, technical difficulties in expanding the B.B.C. and in accommodating additional broadcasting chains in the available wavebands.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GOVERNMENT failed to estimate the strength of public feeling on these two main aspects. And partly as a result of the magnificent way the B.B.C., in sound and television, broadcast the Coronation, the prestige of the Corporation has never stood higher. People throughout the world were able to experience the dignity and sincerity of the crowning ceremony in Westminster Abbey. And, in contrast to the B.B.C.'s handling of this great occasion, the inclusion of advertising during the broadcasts in the United States caused as great a shock to Americans as the news of it did among Europeans.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE 1922, the B.B.C.—as did its forerunner, the National Broadcasting Company—has on the whole maintained an integrity in the presentation of news and a decorum in the choice and production of programmes that have been the envy of most overseas publics. Study groups from almost every country in the world have looked to Britain for an example of how broadcasting should be conducted, in regard to education, cultural standards, entertainment and technical efficiency. Most countries have been quick to take advantage of the B.B.C.'s experience and have often adopted its methods. Many of them admit that it is almost impossible for them to maintain such high standards.

✧ ✧ ✧

"WHY then," they ask, "should the British Government want to break the monopoly and encourage competitors—particularly by means of commercial programmes?" The B.B.C. broadcasts to the occupied countries during the war gave the Corporation a reputation that no commercial company could hope to attain. The thousands of letters written to newspapers, the B.B.C. and even to individuals, show that the proposal to introduce any commercial broadcasting in Britain is a matter of concern to other Europeans. Members of Radio et Television Francaise, who have already cooperated twice in international television broadcasts with the B.B.C., say they will not do so with commercial companies. In Britain, at almost every type of meeting, from small local gatherings to large national congresses, resolutions condemning commercial television have been passed. Religious bodies, trades unions, educational associations, chambers of commerce and many clubs, both social and political, have taken up the chorus.

THIS WEIGHT of public opinion, backed by pronouncements by the Archbishop of Canterbury, several Bishops, Mr. Clement Attlee, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, by prominent newspaper directors, including Lord Rothermere, and by Lady Violet Bonham-Carter, who, in addition to being a prominent member of the Liberal Party, is chairman of the National Television Council, formed to combat sponsored T.V., has obviously caused the Government to reconsider their stand on this question.

Inside the Conservative Party itself, many back-benchers speak openly against commercial television and have formed a special committee to examine the whole question. Most people, however, consider Mr. Attlee's statement on the intention of the Labour Party to revoke any licences granted to private enterprise, should his party come to power again, to have been foolish and ill-timed. His threat has virtually turned the controversy into a party political issue, so that now only a revolt in the Conservative Party could prevent a victory for the Government.

NEVERTHELESS, because of the widespread opposition from public bodies, and from within their own party, the Government have postponed their decision. And fortunately for them, this has been relatively easy. At the end of 1952, a Television Advisory Committee was formed, consisting of representatives of Government departments and the B.B.C. with several outside members—the inclusion of some of whom caused disquiet both inside and outside Parliament. Later, it became obvious that, as such, the Committee could not very well advise on a point upon which the Government had already made a decision. A sub-committee was therefore formed to report on the technical aspect of the subject, on which Government ignorance was excusable.

THE SUB-COMMITTEE'S report was published at the beginning of July. It emphasised that, at present, there is only one waveband that can be used for additional services, and that the space available is not quite adequate for one complete system covering the whole country. It left the Government to decide whether to allot all the space to the B.B.C.; to commercial television; or whether to divide it between them. The difficulties raised here are great enough to allow the Governmnt to evade the main—that is the public—issue. And this they have done. The White Paper, expected to follow the report, is not to be published until the Autumn.

When this was announced, the Government spokesmen outlined the form of control that would be exercised over any future commercial television: there would be censorship on political and religious grounds, as well as on those of propriety, and there would be restriction of the number of stations and limitation of the areas served. Such conditions are, of course, hardly likely to appeal to those whose interests have impelled them to advocate commercial television. The Government have therefore forced on them the responsibility of accepting an emasculated project or of retiring honourably from the campaign.—(Copyright).

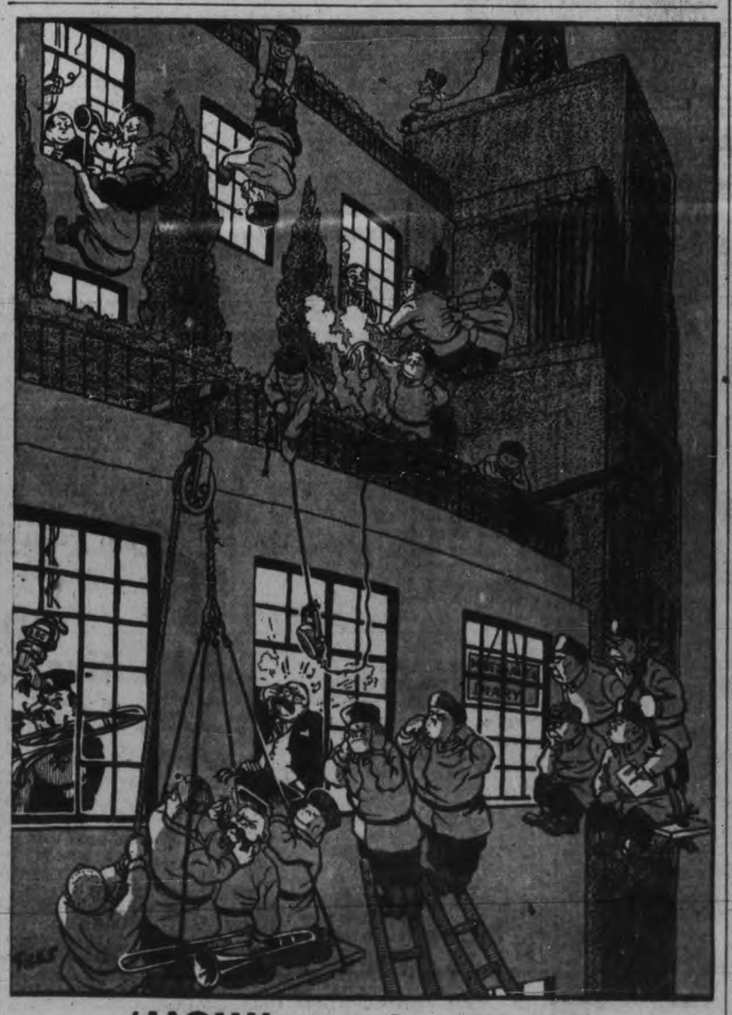
Going In The Moss

B.B.C. BULLETIN



ONE of the best means of heating is a peat fire. Peat, or turf, has a particularly haunting fragrance, strong and tangy; a hint of it can be found in the homespun tweeds from Ireland or the Scottish Highlands, and the natives of these parts think it is one of the best smells in the world. Turf is the main fuel in Ireland and turf-cutting an expert job. Murphy described the annual Spring turf-cutting that takes place in Antrim's famous glens, and the part he played in it last year. The job is called "going to the moss," and as he went up the glen to its head a thousand feet above he saw that the white-washed cottages and tidy fields were deserted for nearly all their inhabitants were already at work and their fires could be seen far above on the hillside. The first thing a man must do when he reaches his own turf is to light a fire with bits left over from last year and on this all the cooking is done. The second thing is to strip off the top layers of sods, which are of tough bent grass or heather, with the traditional tool called a "flacter" and this reveals the first "floor" or real turf, which is cut with a special turf spade. A flacter is similar to an ordinary spade, but the blade is fitted with a short wing, which makes a rectangular cut with each thrust and so speeds the work. The cutter slices off the turf in block, a second worker picks up a block and tosses it to a third person, who places it on a barrow. When this barrow is full it is wheeled to a level place, facing both sun and wind, and the turf spread out thinly to dry. Success depends on the weather too, for rain and frost can ruin the turf.

As many as seven floors can be dug in a bank of turf, which is usually measured to about thirty yards long and one yard wide, and a bank of this size, if sufficiently deep, can yield enough turf to last a family throughout the year. Whole families go up in the moss and most of them are barefooted, for the dark brown, squelchy juice of the turf is supposed to be good for hot, aching feet, and anyway, said Murphy, "it's good to get rid of your boots for a while." When all the cutting has been done and the turf is dry it is drawn home down the old turf roads and stacked near the house. It burns best in an open hearth, with a heat that makes it unnecessary to sit close to the fire, where the men and women sit on winter evenings recalling the traditions, stories and incidents of the days "in the moss."

Need For More Consumers

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Canada needs, not only productive capacity, but consuming capacity — the population to create vastly expanded markets within our own country. When we stop to think about it, a population of less than 15,000,000 in this country today is small by comparison with the productive capacity of Canada already in existence and comparatively negligible when potentialities are taken into consideration.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts: I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God . . . Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? yea, there is no God; I know not any. (Isa. 44:6, 8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing.

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise: be thankfud unto him, and bless his name. For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations. (Ps. 100: 1-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name. (Amos 4: 13.)

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures. (James 1: 17.18.)

Gold Is Where You Find It—But . . .

(Montreal Gazette)

The old story about the Cobalt silver strike is that Fred Larose, a blacksmith, threw a hammer at a fox. It hit a boulder and knocked a corner off it. The broken corner gleamed. It was silver. And thus, says the legend, began the silver boom which financed much of Canada's subsequent mineral exploration and development.

Prospectors will read with great satisfaction that the story is false. Fred Larose's brother Modeste, who is attending Cobalt's fiftieth anniversary celebrations this week, says the story about the hammer and the fox is pure fiction. When Fred Larose found silver at Cobalt, says Modeste, it was no accident. It was the result of careful prospecting.

There are similar stories about almost every major mineral discovery in Canada. Luck is credited with playing a major role in the discovery when the truth is that patient prospecting by experienced geologists really did the job.

It has long been said, for instance, that the then Harry Oakes found the fabulous Lakeshore because a brakeman kicked him off the T. & N. O. train as it was passing Kirkland Lake. The truth is that Oakes was a graduate geologist of Bowdoin College and that he prospected in the area for several years before staking his claims and working them to a point where they attracted investment enough to get the mine into operation.

Luck does play a part, of course, but only a small part. The old saying that "gold is where you find it" is only part of the truth. The complete proverb should read, "Gold is where you find it, but you've got to know where to look and you've got to know how to recognize it when and if you do find it."

What's In A Name?

(Montreal Star)

A bit of pother appears to be developing over the right name for Canada's own jet propelled fighter. Someone in an uninspired moment christened it the Canuck. That wasn't a success, for understandable reasons. It is slangy, and old-slangly at that, with a sort of derogatory touch such as "Yankee" carries.

But the suggested new name it is hard to consider much of an improvement. To how many Canadians does Jaeger mean anything? We are told that it is a bird with some of the built-in qualities as those of our prized interceptor, but all of us except the bird-watchers have to take that statement on faith. Some names, Spitfire for example, fire the imagination. To us, Jaegar, sure to be called "Jagger," doesn't.

There is a knack to picking appropriate names in such situations. Some have it, most don't. We have no alternative to offer, merely a suggestion. Let the Air Force get used to the plane; the men who handle it will come up with a good name sooner or later. It just might be fitting, imaginative and printable, in which case it could be generally adopted.

In the meantime, what's wrong with going on calling it the CF-100, which everyone is by now used to doing?

Deviation Of Five-Too-Many Newest Phenomenon In Exploiting China's Poor

By ROBERT FRANKLIN

HONG KONG.—The Chinese Communists, with appropriate fanfare, have now set out to eliminate a phenomenon they have intriguingly labelled the "deviation of five-too-many."

In announcing this new campaign, they have revealed that the long-suffering Chinese peasant, upon whose patient labour, in the last analysis, the success of China's industrialisation program will depend, is once again being exploited.

For the five excesses referred to have been indulged in by rural Party workers at the expense of the peasants. As listed in a recent "Peking People's Daily" editorial, they are: too many tasks, too many meetings, too many documents and forms, too many organizations and too many concurrent posts for Party cadres.

One result of all this, the editorial states, is that cadres "present the peasants with many improper demands and excessively interfere with the peasants . . . and accumulate public property excessively and too fast."

It is admitted that the cadres' attitude had slowed production in the country. Continuing, the editorial says: "The masses are very right when they say that the 'five-too-many' turn good things into bad things."

But apparently there is more to it than that. An article in the same newspaper, based upon an investigation of economic conditions in five Manchurian villages, reveals many cases of exploitation of the peasants by Party workers. "Of the fourteen Party members in Yuanhai village," the article says, "only two females were not guilty of exploitation. Five Party members had hired laborers, and another five had made loans at high interest rates."

In addition, Party workers are charged with making false reports to their superiors, oppressing the masses, siding with rich peasants against the poor, and violating Party policy generally.

It emerges from this study of five villages, incidentally, that despite glowing official reports about what land reform has accomplished, the number of poor peasants and hired laborers in this district has increased in the past year. In two of the villages studied almost forty per cent of the inhabitants still belonged to this category.

In conclusion, the report says that as a result of exploitation by Party workers "the mass ideology is confused, thus seriously affecting productive activity."

With similar reports coming from other areas of China it may be assumed that there is considerable discontent in the Chinese countryside, even though central control is so strong as to rule out the possibility of an uprising.

He is one of a group of Canadian and British students to have just completed the course. Following graduation he will proceed to Greenwood for advanced training in Maritime air navigation.

Declares Truckers' Strike Loses 10 Years Goodwill

HAMILTON (CP)—The truck drivers' strike in southwestern Ontario has lost the industry "10 years of goodwill with public and shippers" a union executive said Saturday.

Violence which has marked the strike of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) for higher wages had undone public relations work and "handed a small but tasty slice of pie to the railroad," he said.

Things remained quiet on the strike front Sunday but incidents Friday have some non-union transport companies in a quandary.

A report from Stratford said local non-union drivers were stoned while making deliveries to London, Ont., and were told by striker "don't come back Monday."

Graham Lowes, general manager of Lowes Transport, RR No. 1, Woodstock said the company would use armed guards to protect company property but would not have them on its trucks.

Union leaders said the men had instructions to maintain their picket lines but to use no violence.

The strike, now heading into its second week, involves truckers in the London-Hamilton-Windsor area. The union originally asked for a 52-cent-an-hour pay boost but has scaled its demands down to an immediate 15-cent-an-hour increase with an additional raise of seven cents to be added by Aug. 1.

Polio Deaths Fewer Than Whooping Cough

COBOURG — (ENS)—Death from polio occurs much less frequently among children than from whooping cough or from accidents, it was pointed out by Dr Charlotte M. Horner of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit.

Polio receives wide publicity but it is realized by few people that statistics show that over twice as many children die in Canada from whooping cough than polio and that the number of accidental deaths far exceeds the death rate for both these diseases.

It has been estimated that during a severe epidemic there is only one chance in 1,500 of developing polio; one in 7,500 of being paralyzed and one in 30,000 of dying from the disease.

Lakefield Grants City $250 For Fire Help

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Village council has decided to give Peterborough Fire Department a grant of $250 for their services in connection with the fire at the Lakefield Boat Company.

G. Erskine Douglas received permission from council to erect a garage on the rear of one of his lots.

The Streets Committee will repair the drain from the Post Office to Leanard's store and a suitable catch basin will be installed on the Post Office side.

Fire insurance premiums of $145.20 on the Memorial Centre and general accounts of $4,330.26 will be paid.

A request was issued that the township of Smith withhold approval of a law prohibiting the sale of night soil.

Business Sentiment Across U.S. Uneasy Now Truce Declared

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The uneasy truce just launched in Korea is matched by uneasy business sentiment in the United States.

True, almost all phases of U.S. business and industry are booming. And business men are becoming more confident that good times will continue if nothing upsets the applecart.

Both U.S. government and industry leaders are assuring the public that this cease-fire won't change defence or tax plans on the one hand, or business production and expansion plans on the other.

Uneasiness, however, comes from two sources: 1. Widely-held belief that the boom must be near or at its peak; 2. Fear that a psychological let-down after a cease-fire (coupled with jubilation over Russia's internal troubles) will slow down government spending as a support of prosperity and also make consumers and business men alike more cautious in their buying.

MIGHT START RECESSION

This could start the recession so many U.S. business men anticipate. And it could make the recession sharper and deeper than commonly expected.

Many business leaders, however, publicly pooh-pooh this.

General Motors president, H. H. Curtice, says a cease-fire in Korea will have little effect on the rate of military spending for the rest of this year. He notes that 20 per cent of U.S.-industrial output now goes for defence, and doubts if any cut-back would affect more than four per cent of over-all industrial output.

Other business estimates on the cut-back range from two to five per cent of total gross national product, the sum of all the goods and services produced.

PEACETIME ECONOMY

The U.S. National Association of Manufacturers' president, Charles R. Slight, emphasizes that the American economy is a peacetime economy, not one based on war. He thinks the truce will lead to gains in merchandizing and design and to reduction of production costs.

U.S. government economists echo the belief that the business outlook is good with the truce playing a minor part. They warn against "unjustified psychological reaction."

As the guns cool off in Korea, here is the U.S. business picture:

The cost of living has just hit an all-time peak.

Jobs are plentiful most places and wages, as a whole, have been climbing.

The total value of goods and services is running at an annual rate of $368,000,000,000, compared with $284,000,000,00 in 1950, the year the Korea fighting broke out.

Personal income — wages, salaries, dividends, rents—is running at an annual rate of around $285,000,000,000, compared with $226,000,000,000 in 1950.

BIG INCREASE

Out of this consumers now are spending at an annual rate of more than $226,00,000,000, compared to personal consumption expenditures of $194,00,000,000 in 1950.

Consumer spending, therefore, far overshadows the some $45,000,000,000 military spending rate, and is the real bulwark of business prosperity.

But U.S. business has some worries.

Commodity prices in general have tended to be weak for more than a year now. Surpluses have replaced shortages. Steel and a few other metals are about all that's hard to get these days.

Total business inventories are around $78,000,000,000, a record high. When the war started they were only $54,000,00,000. True, today's inventories are not out of line now with increased sales. The worry comes if sales should turn downward with the truce. Then, high inventories could quickly become a burden.

Extend Festival

TORONTO (CP)—The board of directors of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival foundation announced Saturday that due to heavy demand for tickets, the festival season will be extended one week from Aug. 15 to Aug. 22. Tickets for performances during the extended period will not be available until next week, the board said.

$2,800 Holdup

TORONTO (CP)—Police questioned and released several suspects during the week-end in their search for three masked men who held up an east end Toronto tavern Saturday and escaped with $2,800. The trio forced the tavern staff to open the office safe, took the cash and fled in a blue sedan.

25 Buried Alive

TOKYO (AP)—At least 25 persons were buried alive as tons of rock and mud thundered down a volcanic slope, scattering hundreds of Sunday picnickers in mountains 40 miles west of Tokyo. A second landslide roared down the same area after rescue workers had dug out two bodies and 16 injured persons; seven others were missing.

Case Awaits Vacation Driver Gets 7 Days

COBOURG (ENS) — Cecil Smith of Toronto, who had his drunk driving case adjourned to coincide with the start of his vacation, pleaded guilty to drunk driving before Magistrate W. R. Philp here and was sentenced to seven days in jail.

OPP Constable Vic Piper testified that Smith was on the wrong side of the road when he hit a transport near Welcome on July 7, and that he was drunk at the time.

Arnold Mieux of Montreal, pleaded guilty to theft of a suitcase of clothing from a railway work car at Colborne and was remanded pending a check on his record.

Officers Alerted

COBOURG (ENS)—OPP Constables W. Tremill, F. Clough, V. Piper and C. Meadows were notified on Friday to prepare immediately to leave for the troubled strike scene at Timmins, but within two hours of the notice, the orders were cancelled in view of the situation quieting down at the mine.

Heads Mink Breeders

VANCOUVER (CP)—J. C. Martin of St. Marys, Ont., was elected president of the Canadian Mink Breeders' Association at the first annual convention of the organization here Saturday. Norman W. Shields, Fort William, was named executive secretary.

Was In B.C. Cabinet

VANCOUVER (CP) — William Manson, 86, former provincial cabinet minister and one-time mayor of Nanaimo and Prince Rupert, died in hospital here Friday. He was provincial secretary in the McBride government from 1906 to 1907 and minister of agriculture in the Conservative government from 1915 to 1916.

Lightning Kills 5 Cows

BEAVERTON (CP) — Lightning Sunday killed five registered Holstein cows near this Lake Simcoe town. Harold D. Steedie, the owner, said the cows had been killed by the same bolt of lightning which struck a tree under which they had gathered.

Find Korea Healthiest Spot For Soldiers Overseas

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — Preventive medicine has made Korea one of the world's healthiest theatres for soldiers on foreign service.

Col. John S. McCannell of Victoria and Toronto, director of medical services for the 1st Commonwealth Division, told The Canadian Press:

"For all its mosquitoes, flies, fungi and breezes laden with bacteria from night-soil-treated rice paddies, Korea is far less a health hazard for Commonwealth troops than either the Middle East or the Far East.

"In some respects it is healthier, even, than Germany or Austria."

BIG REDUCTION

As an example of how Korea has been brought into line during the last year, he said haemorrhagic fever (the so-called "Manchurian" fever) has dropped sharply from 28 cases in the division during the first five months of 1952 to four for the same period this year.

Malaria has dropped from 47 cases during the same period last year to 23 while infectious hepatitis, caused by flies and other unhygienic factors, dropped from 66 to 34.

Dr. McCannell says the average daily rate of soldiers reporting sick in Korea is less than one per cent. "That's less than we expect in the ordinary training area at home," he said.

And since Oct. 1 the figure for diseases of the gastro-intestinal tract again is less than one per cent.

Using War Office statistics, McCannell says Korea's record is from twice to 10 times as healthy as other parts of the world where Commonwealth troops are serving.

Soldiers suffering from dysentry here number one-twentieth of those with the same complaint in the Suez Canal Zone and one-tenth of those in Malaya, Singapore and Hong Kong.

GOOD COMPARISON

The figures for diarrhoea equal those for the United Kingdom. They are one-fifth of those for the Middle East and one-half of the rest of the Far East's.

Skin troubles account for 19 per cent of the Commonwealth Division's patients. But they still are less than one-half of the Far East's, two-thirds of the Middle East's, fewer than among British troops in Austria and roughly equal to the figures for the United Kingdom and the Northern Army group in Germany.

"The secret is that everyone here is extremely health conscious, from the divisional commander down," says Dr. McCannell. "Canadian figures are better than the divisional averages because we begin the soldiers' immunization in Canada and have only to give them boosters periodically in the theatre.

"A truce, however, will complicate matters. It will bring the soldiers into closer touch with the civilian population, whose health is not good. But then, we will have lots more time for improving our health amenities."

Cricketers Continue To Win Take Parkdale "B" 73-58 For Ninth Straight Win

Peterborough "A" cricketers played Parkdale "B" in Toronto Saturday and won a keenly contested game by 73-58. The local team were without a match due to the default of Dovercourt who were supposed to play at Nicholls Oval. On May 30 the locals defeated Parkdale at the Oval by a wide margin but it was a different story on Saturday. The "A" club won but it was a hard-fought fight all the way.

The "A" team batted first and lost G. Smith, B. Roberts and F. Booth for 20. Holroyd then joined Bedford and they took the score to 42-4. Bedford continued to play well and scored 26 before he was out. T. Clarke showed good batting form for 12 and then Boardman, the last man in, scored six, making the total 73.

Parkdale going to bat made a good beginning. Bolland 13 and Scarle adding more made the start 25 for one. The total was to 51 for six but then dropped off abruptly to 58, due to sensational bowling by G. Smith who took five wickets for only nine runs.

E. Bedford and G. Smith were mainly responsible for the Peterborough club's close victory.

This season the Peterborough "A" team has played well in the Toronto and District Cricket Council schedule which calls for 14 matches. They have won nine matches and still haven't suffered a defeat. Their five remaining matches are all against clubs, St. Edmund's, St. Simon's, Grace Church "B", Peterborough "B" and Dovercourt "B", which have been defeated by the "A" club already this year.

SUMMARY

Peterborough "A", Batting—Rev. G. Smith 0, B. Roberts 5, E. Bedford 26, F. Booth 3, W. Holroyd 7, E. Cotton 2, W. Wright 0, F. Roberts 0, H. Dibben 3 (not out), T. Clarke 12, C. Boardman 6, Extras 7. Total 73.

Fall of Wickets— 1 for 2, 2 for 5, 3 for 20, 4 for 42, 5 for 46, 8 for 47, 7 for 50, 8 for 51, 9 for 65, 10 for 73.

Bowling—M. Bitten 5 for 25, K. Bowen 2 for 16, B. Smillie 3 for 11, N. Hutchison 0 for 11.

Parkdale "B", Batting— W. Bollard 13, E. Searle 12, A. Goodridge 0, M. Donkert 5, L. Black 8, J. Scott 10, E. Hutchinson 1, M. Bitten 1, K. Bowen 4, J. Smillie 2 (not out), J. Allister 0 (not out). Extras 2. Total 58.

Fall of wickets— 1 for 25, 2 for 25, 3 for 26, 4 for 37, 5 for 44, 6 for 51, 7 for 51, 8 for 56, 9 for 56, 10 for 58.

Bowling—C. Boardman 0 for 8, T. Clarke 2 for 12, F. Booth 3 for 27, G. Smith 5 for 9.

Next match for "A" team is against St. Edmund's "B" at the Oval on August 8 and the "B" team play Avro "B" in Toronto.

Royals Capture Three Games From Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons remained International League leaders following week-end games, but their hold on the choice spot is far from solid.

Rochester Red Wings and Montreal Royals are each a game back, with Rochester in second place by one percentage point.

The Wings swept three week-end games from Springfield Cubs while the Royals won three of their four contests with Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Bisons swept a Sunday twin bill from Ottawa Athletics, 7-3 and 9-2. They were not scheduled Saturday.

Eleven Bisons came to the plate in the seventh inning of the first game at Buffalo to crush Bob Trice's bid for his 15th triumph with a six run outburst. Frank Lary squelched the Athletics and scored his 10th victory in the nightcap. Harvey Zernia rammed a homer and two triples.

SET BACK LEAFS

At Toronto, lefthanders Tommy LaSorda and Ken Lehman pitched two and seven-hitters, respectively, Saturday to set back the Leafs 5-1 and 11-4.

Sunday, Montreal and Toronto split a twin bill, the Royals taking the nine-inning first game 9-7 and the Leafs the abbreviated second 6-2.

The Leafs had a 5-0 lead until the sixth of the opener, a marathon in which the clubs used 34 players. Stan Rojek was the big man in the Montreal attack with a double, a triple and three runs batted in.

Bobo Holloman, who threw a no-hitter for the American League St. Louis Browns and who was purchased by Toronto, pitched the first game and had a two-hitter going when taken out in the seventh. In the second game, Don Johnson went the distance to even his record at 8-8.

DROP THREE GAMES

Baltimore Orioles, who were only 2½ games back of the leaders before the week-end, dropped all three games to Syracuse Chiefs.

The Chiefs won the Saturday contest 6-5 behind Lynn Lovenguth's six-hitter. Although outhit in both games, Syracuse swept a Sunday double bill from the Orioles—going 10 innings for a 7-6 victory, then taking the abbreviated nightcap 6-3.

The Red Wings' victories at Rochester made it a sweep of a five-game series with the tail-end Cubs.

The Birds scored their third win of the series Saturday by defeating the tail-enders 11-6, with a six-run, seventh-inning rally.

The Wings swept a Sunday doubleheader, 8-7 and 3-1. The winners pounded 14 hits in the opener to give reliefer Jack Crimian his ninth win. Cuban righthander Octavio Hubert went the distance to win the nightcap.

ARGO END INJURED

TORONTO (CP)—Harold Newton defensive end and wing from Windsor, Ont., became the first hospital case of the season for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union.

At Saturday's scrimmage Newton tried to bring down Royal Copeland on an end sweep. He went down and suffered torn ligaments to his right knee and was taken to hospital. It is not known how long he will be out of action.

Lou's Pats Win Another Trounce Dundas 21-6 To Tighten Junior OLA Race

Like a train moving away from a railway station, Peterborough Pats, coached by Lou Vitarelli, were slow getting started Saturday night in their game with Dundas. But when the juniors started rolling along, they reached their destination in quick order and with considerable success to run up a 21-6 score and to take the four points that went with the win. The Pats' victory left the top four junior teams, Long Branch, Oakville, Brampton and the Pats, tightly grouped.

The Pats were so slow in getting started it appeared throughout the first quarter and part-way through the second that Dundas would upset the Pats. Vitarelli's lads were closely checked and their shooting and passing was off slightly with the result they led only 3-1 in the first and 4-3 at the half.

A few words that passed between Vitarelli and the Pats at half-time seemed to pull the Pats out of their scoring slump. They began to break quickly, pass and shoot more accurately. These improvements sent the score up to 10-3 at the three-quarter-mark and then allow the Pats to outscore Dundas 11-3 in the final 15 minutes.

Jerry Fitzgerald and Nip O'Hearn, the referees, kept the fairly clean game well under control. In fact there wasn't a penalty handed out until early in the third when both teams started slashing and roughing a bit. Apart from the slashing which went in spurts, there was little very rough action.

Just the same two accidents did happen, one resulting in stitches and the other a cast.

At the start of the fourth Ray Main of Dundas clipped Bud McDougall over the left eye in a close-checking duel. The stick opened a small cut above McDougall's eye and three stitches were required to close the gash.

Dundas' star, Jack Keenan, suffered a broken collar-bone later in the same quarter when heavily checked near the Pats' crease. It is believed he broke the bone when landing heavily on the ground.

Keenan was carried into the dressing room where his sweater, pads and other clothing had to be cut off. After preliminary treatment Keenan made the trip back to Dundas after the game.

Two minutes before the game ended Dundas centre, Don McKinnon suddenly reeled and fell to the ground while checking in front of the Dundas net. He was holding his head as he went down.

McKinnon came to after a minute and then was helped to the bench, but was forced to leave the game seconds later. It was believed he suffered from a concussion received in a game earlier in the week.

Once the Pats began to play the lacrosse they're capable of, they became stars. They were first led by Bob Curtis, then Bob Allan joined the lead, quickly followed up by Willie Logan, Frank Farley, Gary Smith and Ivan Thomas.

Pats' goalie, Ray Hill, mastered the few Dundas shots he was forced to handle. The few Dundas goals came mostly on close-in attacks on which Hill had very little chance to prevent a goal.

Lineups:—

Pats.—Goal, Hill; defence, O'Reilly, Brioux; centre, Logan; wings, Thomas, Farley; rover, Smith; alternates, Hobart, McDougall, Allan, Curtis, Bloom, Feltham.

Dundas—Goal, Plett; defence, Main, Hutchinson; centre, McKinnon; wings, Keenan, Blanchard; rover, Stout; alternates, Walker, Amsden, Labanowitch, Brasier, Williams, Fama, Clarke.

Weslock Wins Seagram Trophy

SUDBURY (CP)—A red-hot putter helped Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex score a 54-hole 211 here during the week-end and capture the 17th annual Seagram Trophy invitation tournament at the Idylwylde Golf and Country Club.

Weslock made the six trips around the nine-hole Idylwylde layout in five strokes under regulation figures in defeating a record field of 221 entries. It was the first time that any tournament winner had beaten par at the tough Nickel City club.

Friday, Weslock came in with a pair of 36s for even-par 72, then added rounds of 69 and 70 Saturday.

Seven strokes behind weslock was Kitchener's Gerry Kesselring with 218. His qualifying round was 74, and Saturday he carded 70 and 74. Gordon Ball, another Kitchener entry, finished third with 72-72-78 for a 222 total.

Other scores in the championship flight were Tony Matlock, Kitchener 76-79-76—231; Bill Morland, North Bay, 78-76-78—232; Dave Morland, North Bay, 76-80-79—235 and Moe Norman, Kitchener, 79-77-79—235

Wins Upset Victory In Canoe Trials

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Bedard of Island Canoe Club won an upset victory over Lloyd Rice of Toronto Canoe Club Saturday in the single-blade singles of the western division trials of the Canadian Canoe Association.

Both Bedard and Rice qualified for the CCA Dominion championships to be held at Ottawa Saturday.

Bedard, a husky, 21-year-old paddler, won over Rice, generally considered the best senior padler in the western division, for the first time this year.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

With so many of our lawn bowlers away on holidays, the bowling news is at low tide.

The attendance at our local tournaments during this week has been away below par.

The coming week we have just our regular schedule and it's all to be found in the schedule book.

I. Cipin, playing in the singles, and R. Hopkins and H. Freeman in the doubles these boys go to Oshaw tomorrow night in the next round of the provincial playdowns.

We don't like to admit this, but our 1953 lawn bowling season is just about half over.

The winning skips on Saturday night were: P. Moore, V. Hill and P. Barthey.

Athletics Take OLA Lead Down Orillia Terriers 12-8

Doug Cove's St. Catharines' Athletics took a one-game lead in the senior OLA race for top place Saturday night when they defeated the third-place Orillia Terriers 12-8 in Orillia. This was their second victory in two nights over the Terriers. That second victory placed the Athletics two points ahead of the idle Peterborough Trailermen.

This week could easily see the Bob Thorpe-coached Trailermen take the lead in the senior series. With three games more to play than the Athletics, the Trailermen will catch up on two, those in Mimico on Tuesday and in Hamilton on Wednesday.

Then later in the week both the Trailermen and the Athletics have games, the Athletics meeting Hamilton Friday in St. Catharines while the Trailermen play Fergus Saturday at Miller Bowl. The Trailermen follow up with a holiday game with the third-place Terriers in Orillia.

The Terriers fought hard before they went down to defeat Saturday night. In fact, Martin, of St. Catharines, and Facto, of the Terriers, received major penalties for fighting while Skip Teal, of the Atheltics, drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty.

The Athletics' Max Woolley led the scoring with five goals and two assists, while L. Frick and Martin each scored three, Norm Corcoran getting the remaining tally. Three players, Tony D'Amico, Stu Scott and Elmer Lee, sank two each for the Terriers. George Masters and Merv McKenzie divided the other two goals.

Record To 18 Wins

TORONTO (CP)—Dunc Campbell's superior pacer, Argyle Grattan, ran his record to 18 wins in 19 races Saturday, winning both heats of the $2,000 Canadian Cup preview at the Thorncliffe Raceway.

In the quinella race, a $244 payoff came when rank outsider Afton Prince, owned by Neil McLean of Port Elgin, won, with Bob's Margaret, owned by Stedman Craig of Kingston second.

Find Public Interest Lacking In Track, Field Championships

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian track and field championships here indicate there is no shortage of athletes. But the lack of public interest was glaringly evident.

The meet was staged in the heart of an area with more than a million population. More than 150 athletes, most of them from within the immediate vicinity, competed. Yet barely a 10th of the 3,500-seat East York Stadium was needed to accommodate the paying customers interested in such feats as the triple distance victory of Hamilton toolmaker Selwyn Jones.

Jones, a 26-year-old veteran runner, won the one- and three-mile titles Friday night before only 200 fans in the floodlit stadium. Saturday, with a cloudless sky and warm temperatures, few more turned up to see him win the six-mile.

Athletic ability was not lacking, though no record was as much as evened. Toronto policeman Stan Raike, a husky six-foot three-inch muscle man, gave evidence of ability with a double win in discus and 16-pound shot put.

Jo Brennan, a 22-year-old Hamilton secretary, also scored a double—the discus and javelin for women. Eleanor Miller, Toronto house wife, took the 60- and 100-yard sprints.

And Jackie MacDonald, a husky, shapely Toronto school teacher, who until three months ago concentrated her athletic ability on basketball, won the women's eight-pound shot and placed a close second to Miss Brennan in discus and javelin in her first major competition.

NATIONAL FLAVOR

Bruce Springbett of Vancouver, winner of the men's 220, and Negro Victor Cassis of the RCAF at St. John, Que., hop, step and jump champion, added a national flavor.

One outstanding performance of an out-of-towner was that of Lorne White of Guelph. White entered only the six-mile run and managed to keep astride Jones for 21 of the 24 laps. Then he faded and finished third to Lionel Nesbitt of Toronto.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Daryl Spencer, New York Giants, hammered two home runs, one with the bases loaded, to lead the Giants to a 10-6 first game triumph over Cincinnati. The Giants also won the second game, 5-1.

Pitching: Virgil Trucks, Chicago White Sox, hurled a four-hit 4-0 shutout over Philadelphia to give Chicago a split in the doubleheader after the Athletics won the opener 4-3.

Quebec Keeps Cricket Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Quebec Sunday retained the Atholstan tropny in the annual inter-provincial cricket match between Quebec and Ontario.

The competition, played at the Toronto Cricket Club during the week-end, resulted at the end of the second day in a most unsatisfactory draw.

Scores:

Ontario—265 for one wicket declared.

Quebec—163 and 197 for eight wickets.

Leslie Wight (128 not out) and Arnold Wight (110) gave fine exhibitions of batting on the first day and put on 217 runs for the first wicket which probably constitutes a Canadian record for first wicket scoring.

Rain Limits Cricket Play

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Rain limited play to one hour and 40 minutes Saturday, third day of the fourth cricket test match between England and Australia.

In that time, England scored 62 for one wicket in the second innings. That left them with nine wickets to fall and 37 runs behind Australia.

During the first innings, the Australians gained a lead of 99 by scoring 266 to England's 167.

When play began Saturday Len Hutton and Bill Edrich shared in a first-wicket stand of 57, england's best so far.

Ed. Feigner's prowess as a pitcher has made him the best known on the continent. His record is astounding! Over 19,000 strikeouts to date, 748 of these while blindfold. He has 19 different windups, 14 hand deliveries with 12 curve directions. Backed up by three of the best players in the game, Kenny White at 1st base; Meade Kinzer, catcher; Gord Mellicke at shortstop, with Jerry Jones as utility man.

White Sox Divide Doubleheader With Philadelphia

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago White Sox, despite a disappointing home stand, represented the chief threat to New York Yankees' bid for a fifth straight pennant today. And they owe it to one man—pitcher Virgil Trucks. Thanks to Trucks' four-hit 4-0 shutout over Philadelphia after the Athletics had taken a 4-3 opener Sunday, the White Sox were able to keep pace with the Yankees, who split a pair with Detroit. Were it not for Trucks' eight straight victories since he joined Chicago from St. Louis last June 13, the White Sox would be languishing in fourth place instead of doggedly hanging on to the runner-up spot, 5½ lengths behind the league-leading New Yorkers.

While all American League clubs were dividing doubleheaders, Brooklyn Dodgers opened up a huge 7½-game lead in the National, thrashing Milwaukee Braves twice 3-2 and 2-1 before 33,421 fans—the largest Ebbets Field gathering in almost two years.

CARDS WHIP PHILLIES

The bewildered Braves retained second place only because St. Louis Cardinals whipped Philadelphia's third-place Phillies 8-6 to leave the Phils eight games off the pace. New York's fourth-place Giants remained 9½ games behind despite their sweep of a doubleheader from Cincinnati, 10-6 and 5-1. The Cards are in fifth place 11 games from the top.

Boston Red Sox losing the second game to St. Louis 8-5 after copping the opener 7-5, remained in third place in the American, 7½ games behind New York and a half-game in front of Cleveland which came from behind to nip Washington 7-6 after the Senators had won the opener 4-3.

The doubleheader between Chicago and Pittsburgh also ended in a split, the Cubs winning the second 7-3 after the Pirates had eked out a 3-2 triumph.

Gus Zernial's bases-loaded single with two out in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and gave the A's their first game 4-3 victory over Chicago.

SCORES TWICE

Washington scored twice in the ninth to defeat the Indians in the opener and give Bob Porterfield the victory over relief pitcher Art Houtteman. Homers by Wally Westlake and Bob Avila gave the Indians the second-game victory after Washington had taken a 6-0 lead over Mike Garcia.

Jim Dyck's third home run of the day scored three runs for the Browns in the seventh inning and broke a 5-5 second-game tie. The Red Sox took advantage of four Brownie errors in the first game to overshadow Dyck's two home runs.

The Yankees exploded seven doubles and four home runs to crush the Tigers 14-4 in their second game before 49,717 fans at Briggs Stadium. Detroit won the opener 5-3 behind the sparkling relief pitching of rookie Bob Miller and Billy Hoeft.

A three-run eighth-inning rally against Johnny Antonelli in the first game and Carl Erskine's five-hit pitching in the second gave Brooklyn a sweep over Milwaukee. Erskine fanned 10 for the second straight time in registering his 10th victory.

BURDETTE BEATEN

Lew Burdette, winner of seven straight without a defeat in relief, was beaten in his first start for Milwaukee.

Larry Jansen pitched a six-hitter for the Giants after rookie Daryl Spencer had driven in five runs in the opener with a pair of homers, the second coming with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to snap a 5-5 tie.

Stan Musial's three-run homer in the sixth offset two home runs by Philadelphia's Del Ennis and enabled the Cardinals to salvage the finale of their three-game series with the Phillies. Curt Simmons lost his fourth game in five decisions since his recovery from a foot injury.

A four-run fifth gave the Cubs a split after Pittsburgh had tallied twice in the ninth to win the opener. Shortstop Roy Smalley's bobble of Eddie O'Brien's slow roller presented Pittsburgh with the winning run in the first game.

Stopped At Falls Hill Starts To Cry

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Police said that Major Lloyd Hill broke into tears Saturday when they stopped him from going over the Falls in a steel barrel, two years after his brother Red Hill, died in a similar attempt.

The barrel, with a parachute harness inside to hold Hill steady, was towed to Navy Island in the centre of the Niagara river Friday night. Persons who saw the launching tipped off the RCMP and Ontario provincial police.

14 Escape Burning Building

HULL, Que. (CP)—Fourteen persons escaped down firemen's ladders Sunday as an early-morning blaze gutted a three-storey brick veneer building containing a number of apartments and a tavern.

Damage was estimated at $35,000. One fireman was cut by flying glass in the two-alarm fire at Maisonneuve and St. Jean Baptiste streets on the south side of this city.

A 30-year-old nurse figured as the heroine. Lillian Lanctot, in a nearby house, caught sight of the flames from her window. Clad in pyjamas, she raced into the building to arouse one of the occupants who spread the alarm to the others in the structure.

Flames spread across the stairway, but the 14 persons waited patiently on third-storey balconies until firemen arrived, hoisting their ladders to the balconies.

Among those rescued was a young mother and her three-day-old baby

Drivers No Better

MONTREAL (CP) — Highways are better and cars are faster, police officials say, but drivers are no better than they were a decade or more ago and have not become adjusted to changed driving conditions. Police have arrested hundreds of speeders in their biggest crack-down in the history of the automobile.

VOL. CVI. No. 174 MONDAY, JULY 27, 1953

NUMBER ONE TOURIST ATTRACTION in Peterborough is the world's largest hydraulic lift lock. For the past 50 years it has seen thousands of holidayers boating their way through the Kawarthas for destinations in Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. This summer American and Canadian pleasure craft have been cruising up and down the river in increasing numbers, forcing the lock men to send two, three and sometimes even four boats through the locks at one time. Recently, four New York State cruisers went through the lock together, much to the thrill of several hundred tourists visiting the lock. The boats (top left) approach the lock and then minutes later are rising up the 75-foot lift (right top photo) in the eastern pontoon. At the same time, the western pontoon (at left in photo) descends . Filled to capacity, the pontoon (second from top, right) reaches the top with its load. While spectators look on (second photo from bottom, right) the pontoon gate lowers in the water, allowing the boats to move out. The Fishooker (bottom right photo) from Clayton moves up the canal and to Georgian Bay. —(Examiner Staff Photos).

Charge Stepfather Tried To Murder Girl With Poisoned Chocolates

Lethal Dose of Arsenic Inserted in Candies Sent To Bowmanville Girl; 'Good Neighbor, Kindly Quiet Man' Jailed

Stanley Cowling, a 38-year-old former high school teacher, was arrested Sunday at his Darlington township farm home and charged with the attempted murder of his pretty 19-year-old stepdaughter, Yvonne Saunders. Cowling, who is described by nearby residents as a kindly, quiet man and a good neighbor, is charged with sending his stepdaughter a box of poisoned chocolates last January. What appeared to be a thoughtful gift from an anonymous admirer turned out to be a carefully-thought-out murder attempt.

Eight of the chocolates—about three quarters of the box—had been carefully cut open and a lethal dose of arsenic inserted. Each of the eight segments of chocolate were then replaced and smoothed over so that it would appear they had not been tampered with.

Before the poisoning attempt was discovered four friends of Miss Saunders had theiped themselves to chocolate as they rode back to Tyrone from Bowmanville on a bus. But by a lucky chance none of the four picked candy with arsenic in it.

If they had eaten the poisoned chocolates all four would have died, Provincial Police say.

Both Miss Saunders and her 36-year-old mother, Barbara Cowling, are at a loss to know of any motive for the murder attempt. The OPP, however, are probing into a report that he resented his 19-year-old stepdaughter's boyfriends.

FORMER TYPIST

Miss Saunders, formerly a stenographer at the Bowmanville Hospital, was described as very popular. She is Mrs. Cowling's daughter, born during a previous marriage.

The OPP from Bowmanville who have been quietly working on the case since January arrested Cowling on Sunday at his 100-acre farm home which is three quarters of a mile south of the village of Tyrone and eight miles north of Bowmanville. He offered no resistance and was taken to Cobourg jail.

He will appear in Bowmanville police court 10 a.m. Tuesday but it is expected that the case will be adjourned to August 4.

In the Durham County farming community where the Cowlings and Miss Saunders have lived for the past two years the father was highly respected. Before moving to Darlington township he operated a store in Oshawa having previously given up high school teaching because of his nerves.

Confident that he was of sound character the local school board had hired him to teach this fall at Shaw's Public School, north of Bowmanville.

FRIENDS INCREDULOUS

Local residents were incredulous today when told of the charge against Cowling.

"We had no idea that anything had happened," said a local storekeeper. "He seemed like a quiet family man; otherwise he would never have been hired to teach school next fall."

Twp. Annexation Assessment Keeps Staff Busy

Details of the properties in section of Smith township which was annexed by the city are keeping the assessment staff busy, particularly in their exact definition, Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis said today.

This work is being carried on in addition to the department's routine valuations throughout the rest of the city. It entails many references to old deeds of former Smith land, and the securing of other information from the records at the registry office.

The report of the Warnock Company's reassessment of Peterborough's industrial properties is expected by Mr. Davis for inclusion in the assessments that are being prepared as the basis of the 1954 taxation.

This revaluation was authorized by the city council, and the Warnock Company was engaged for the advantage of their experience and special knowledge of industrial and also some of the larger commercial properties.

Last Cherries Arrive, Blueberries Finished

Last of the Montmorency cherries were received from Vineland Saturday by National Grocers.

E. E. McIlwain said today the crop was light, and the final picking is too ripe for distribution. Blueberries are coming from Sudbury, and local reports indicate that the crop in this district is "about done."

Leamington tomatoes are arriving in quantity, and it is expected that local growers will have a considerable quantity for the market by Wednesday. Prices are declining.

BERRIES SCARCE

Local grocers report that blueberries and raspberries are quite scarce and that few will be available for preserving purposes this year. Weekend prices were about 55c a quart for blueberries and 49c a quart for raspberries.

Truck Hits Pole Passengers Hurt

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Robert Bernard, RR 3, Havelock, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, Sunday, for examination of injuries suffered when he was a passenger in a truck driven by Frank Russell, of Warkworth.

It was reported by hospital authorities today that Bernard possibly had a fractured pelvis. Further X-rays would be taken to determine the extent of his injuries. He went home following the accident but was taken to hospital later.

Orville Ellis, 24, of Havelock, another passenger, suffered head injuries and a lacerated lower lip. Russell, the driver, was not injured. There was about $500 damage to the truck which went out of control and struck a telephone pole.

The three men were coming off the night shift at the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. plant when the accident occurred. Russell was driving east on Highway 7, about three miles east of Havelock, early Sunday morning, when the truck went into a skid on the slippery pavement.

Russell told police the road was particularly slippery following a rain and the truck skidded on the pavement. He applied the brakes, which put him into a worse skid, and the truck went out of control and headed for the ditch.

Russell straightened the truck out but it went into another skid and went 60 feet sideways down the highway, striking a telephone pole and breaking it off four feet above the base. The truck then bounded off the pole and wound up in the ditch.

OPP Constable Archie Eadie investigated.

SMOKE FILLS APARTMENT

A damp chimney caused smoke from a stove fire to reverse into the apartment of Albert Downing, 194 Rubidge St., Sunday afternoon. Some papers were set alight but the smoke would not go through the chimney. Firemen were called but no extinguisher was used.

LAKEHURST LIBERAL MEETING

A Liberal rally is being held at 8:30 p.m. today in the Buckhorn Community Hall, Lakehurst, in support of the Liberal candidate for Peterborough riding, Max Swanston. Besides Mr. Swanston, the speakers will be Senator J. J. Duffus, Thomas J. Carley, Q.C., and Gus Faux, Liberal candidate at the last provincial election for Toronto-Woodbine.

HUGE PINE BURNS

A lofty pine tree flourishing by the township road five miles north of Omemee toward Pigeon Lake was struck by lightning Sunday morning. The great tree, perhaps 50 years old, was broken off half way down and set on fire. As late as 2.30 in the afternoon tongues of flame were shooting from the break and also near the base of the split trunk. By evening branches had been lopped off to prevent the fire spreading to fences and nearby brush, and the fire was out. It was one of the biggest pines in Emily township.

Tourist Has More Bad Luck

Six days after his wife was badly burned by a coal oil stove explosion, Gerald Wylie, Lockport, N.Y, tourist, had some more bad luck Saturday night. His car was damaged to the extent of $200 when it was struck by an out-of-control vehicle on Water St.

The other car, driven by J. J. Gerou, 23, 16 Bruce St., had a blowout of the right front tire as it approached Wylie's parked car. It slammed into the New York man's vehicle and they both were carried onto the lawn of 663 Water St.

Although no one wa injured damage to the two cars totalled $600.

Wylie's wife is still in Civic Hospital recovering from burns.

OTHER CRASHES

Two other accidents were investigated Saturday by city police. In one crash, a parking car was in collision with a second car, just leaving its parking spot, on Park St. South. Mrs. Alma Hancock, 31, of 296 Wolfe St., was pulling into the curb when Frank Heron, 40, of 875 Ford St., moved forward to drive north on Park.

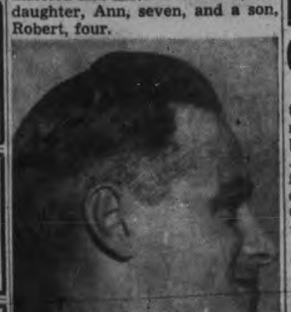
Damage to the two cars totalled $50.

Over $100 damage to two cars was estimated in a third crash involving Douglas Leach, 19, of 16 Stewart Place, and John Preston, 34, of 477 O'Connell Road.

Leach was driving west on Princess at Aylmer. Stopping at the intersection, he proceeded across and collided with Preston, southbound on Aylmer.

Both drivers' view of the intersection was hampered by parked cars.

City Man Re-Joins Navy With Lt.-Commander Rank



Stewart Gardiner, of 55 Maria St., a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War and for the past eight years manager of the north plant of Lillico Motors on Water St., has accepted a commission as a lieutenant-commander in the RCN.

Mr. Gardiner entered the navy in 1941 and was stationed on the west coast and for a year-and-a-half in Bermuda. He left the navy in 1945.

For the past five years Mr. Gardiner has been active in the Peterborough branch of the Sea Cadets and has been commanding officer of the unit since 1950.

Mr. Gardiner has been employed with Lillico Motors since 1936, with the exception of his four years in the navy. A member of the Peterborough Optimist Club, he was president of the club in 1951.

Mr. Gardiner was born and educated in Peterborough and graduated from PCVS. He is married and has two children, one daughter, Ann, seven, and a son, Robert, four.

STEWART GARDINER

Condition Of Boy, 4, Reported Improved

COBOURG (ENS) — Condition of Steven Petroff, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Petroff, R.R. 4, Cobourg, was reported improved over the weekend.

The youngster received a fractured skull Friday afternoon when he darted from behind a parked car and was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Agnes Foley, of Hamilton township.

He was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children. Due to loss of blood from internal bleeding, he had to be placed in an oxygen tent overnight. On Saturday, three operations were performed.

Less Than Half Queries Come From Americans

Less than 50 percent of the 259 tourists who applied for information at the Jaycee information booth over the weekend were Americans. A total of 117 parties from 18 cities made up the list of U.S. visitors registered, with Ohio supplying a third of this total.

There were 20 inquiries from Toronto alone. Although the total volume of tourists is high, the lack of Americans may account for any slump in the tourist trade.

Anglican Priest Dies

SIMCOE (CP)—Rev. Thomas B. Holland, 82, Anglican minister who served at St. John's Church, Woodhouse township, for 11 years, died here Sunday. Previously he served at Moosonee, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Carling, Princeton, Norwich and Chesley.

Plastic-Bodied Autos Getting Lots Of Attention

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)— Plastic-bodied autos are getting considerable engineering attention right now but years may pass before they become commonplace.

The sports car with the reinforced plastic body has made an attractive showpiece for automobile displays and a few have been made. A few thousand more have been promised.

Chevrolet has built some of its Corvettes; Kaiser Motors had demonstrator models of its DKF-161 and is planning assembly-line production of them this summer. Chevrolet has set up a special assembly line for Corvette production.

While Chevrolet and Kaiser have ambitious production plans for these cars they are not going to be easy of realization. Production processes for high volume output have yet to be developed and the basic materials are not available in unlimited quantities.

Nevertheless the engineers and the major car makers are pushing their research with plastic reinforced bodies. Weight saving, of course, is a major consideration. The designers say, too, that there is no corrosion problem with plastic such as there has been with steel.

The fact color can be blended with the plastic and the resultant product take a very high glossy finish also interests the engineers working with the plastic bodies.

Nobody connected with the plastic research has questioned the practicability of the plastic-bodied car once the means have been developed to put it into volume production. Neither has there been any question about the strength of the plastic material or the feasibility of repairs.

One thing the auto makers have learned about reinforced plastic is that the material is not cheap.

It should be noted, of course, that this has been the history of every new undertaking in automotive design and production. Eventually the cost of reinforced plastic materials will come down sharply.

AT STRIKE-BOUND MINE — Pickets and provincial police argue outside the strike-bound Broulan Reef mine property at Timmins, Ont. Provincial police from Haileybury, Sudbury and Peterborough districts are being brought in to assist those already on duty at the mine where violence has broken out between picketing members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and employees of the mine. Some workers said they were kidnapped and beaten up. Others who entered the mine with cots and food are being protected by police guards.

Red-Run Union Seeks Control Of G.E. Plant

By HERBERT A. PHILBRICK
(Special to the Examiner)

NEW YORK—Communist party members in control of the United Electrical Workers (UE) Independent, a union expelled from the CIO in 1949 because of Red domination, are winding up a long campaign to regain control of the huge Lynn and Everett General Electric plants in Massachusetts. A similar attempt was blocked last year by the anti-Communist International Union of Electrical Workers, CIO.

The General Electric Co. was designated by the Communist party during World War II as a "key industry," vital to the defence of the United States in case of war with Russia. A large proportion of its production consists of sensitive instruments and gauges of all kinds, turbines, jet airplane engines, atomic power accessories and vital electronic equipment. The company was further designated by the Moscow agents as a target for "colonization" by secret Communists for the purpose of sabotage and espionage.

6,000 SIGNED UP

Under the guise of a "Unity" campaign, the Communist-controlled union says that it now has the signatures of 6,000 Lynn and Everett GE workers requesting the National Labor Relations Board to have the UE designated as the bargaining agent with the company.

One of the chief agitators in the current drive for control is Donald Tormey, a UE organizer for many years. Tormey has attended closed Communist party meetings with this writer, and was noted by fellow Communists for his "militancy," a Communist term for fanaticism.

Nationally, the UE is run by Julius Empsak (alias Comrade Juniper), secretary - treasurer; James Matles, national organizer, and Russell A. Nixon, legislative representative in Washington. All three, together with Tormey, have refused to answer questions under oath concerning Communist affiliations on the grounds of self-incrimination. "Russ" Nixon further refused to answer questions concerning Communist associations when teaching at Harvard University in 1938 to 1940. Matles has been accused by the government of fraud in obtaining citizenship in 1934, and is facing deportation proceedings. Albert Fitzgerald is the president and front man for the UE.

Rep. Charles J. Kersten, R., Wis., stated earlier this year: "The Kremlin's threat, via the UE, is great and immediate. This union's fifth columnists are protected, by our own law, in their grip on vital plants in a supremely important defence industry. We must supply new laws to enable the electronics industry to expel Moscow's spies."

Opposing the Red union in its drive for power is the anti-Communist "IUE," which last year defeated the UE.

Top comrades in the Agit-Prop (agitation and propaganda) division of the Communist party were instructed at a meeting in New York last week to intensify their efforts to disseminate Communist ideology under the guise of "progressive religion." Specifically, some of the measures to be taken "immediately" by the comrades are: Increase efforts to enroll ministers behind Communist "peace" fronts such as the American Peace Crusade, by sending wires, letters, postcards or personal leaders in a "Hiss Is Innocent" campaign designed to discredit American justice and courts; direct a similar campaign toward ministers through the National Committee to Win Amnesty for Smith Act Victims; promote the wide sale and distribution of the latest book by the Right Rev. Hewlett Johnson (the Red Dean of Canterbury) entitled "China's New Creative Age"; seek to "neutralize" church thought concerning the Soviet Union and to prevent anti - Communist activity.

"We must establish," said the party boss, "that Soviet socialism gave the family a status of dignity and free development by guaranteeing economic security, protection for motherhod and childhood, woman's social equality, and the right to education and culture. The capitalist system makes a mockery of human values, human worth, and human dignity, and produces atomic warfare, evictions and bread lines, poverty, crime and prostitution."

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, free on bail pending an appeal from her conviction for conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the United States government, is scheduled to speak this evening at a meeting of the Labor Youth League (lineal descendent of the Young Communist League) at the Jefferson School, 575 Avenue of the Americas. The apperance is sponsored by "New Foundations". . . "The Worker" is currently conducting a fund-raising campaign for $100,000 . . . according to the Communist paper last week, $70,000 has been raised thus far . . . Communist agitators in New York have been ordered to step up the campaign of "political action" and recruiting of new members among families of Puerto Rican origin on the East Side of Manhattan. Poor housing, low pay, and disillusionment of the Puerto Ricans are counted on by the comrades to weigh heavily in their favor. — (Copyright, 1953, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.).

Plant Strike Now Settled

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Settlement has been reached in the 18-week strike of the National Pressure Cooker Company (Canada) Limited, where employees have been out since March 23.

Plant manager W. H. Seeley said Sunday settlement was made on terms originally offered by the company. Announcement of the settlement came Saturday night after a day-long session by management, union and a special committee of town council headed by mayor W. J. Collins.

T. McLean, assistant regional director of CIO, said the union was dissatisfied with type of collective bargaining on part of the firm's local management and that at no time was there any feeling of co-operation on part of management concerning settlement of the strike.

Big Scout Jamboree Winds Up Session

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—The big week in the lives of 2,500 scouts has come to an end and a city of canvas has folded.

With a period of prayer, the second Canadian National Scout Jamboree wound up here Sunday, after a week of training and general good-fellowship.

The scouts threw open their square mile of tented city Saturday, with some 3,000 visitors flocking to the grounds to be entertained and witness scouting accomplishments.

Vanished Tugboat Found

DETROIT (AP)—The mysterious disappearance of a 33-foot tugboat from its Windsor, Ont., moorings was partially solved Sunday when the craft was found tied up at a brewery dock on the American side of the Detroit river. Police lieutenant Alfred Carter of Windsor is wondering now whether the boat was stolen by persons making an illegal entry into the United States or by some thirsty lawbreaker who wanted to tie up at the brewery dock.

Expect Sharp Protests At Meeting In Geneva

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—In a scrappy mood, Canada has shipped one trade protest note after another to the United States, but the bickering is far from ended.

It likely will be taken up with renewed vigor when representatives of the two countries and 33 others meet in Geneva Sept. 17 to discuss the future of the world tariff pact, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Unless there are some sharp reverses in American trade policy, Canada likely will join with a large group of the other member countries of GATT to accuse the U.S. of breaking the spirit of the pact, built to smash trade barriers and boost the flow of goods among member countries.

The meeting, expected to last about a month, will try to reach agreement on formal extension of tariff concessions due to expire at the end of this year.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

But a big part of the meeting likely will be taken up with a general discussion of the future of the agreement and whether it can function if countries continue to break trade promises.

What has nettled Canada and some other exporting countries particularly are the steps taken by the U.S. to restrict imports of dairy products. Now there are proposals to place curbs against imports of Canadian oats and ground fish fillets.

Canada banks heavily on exports to maintain domestic prosperity and annually ships the U.S. about half her world exports. last year, for example, exports to the U.S. totalled about $2,300,000,000 more than half the $4,300,000,00 worth of goods Canada shipped to all countries.

When new U.S. dairy curbs went into effect July 1, the Canadian government, in a note of protest, made clear it did not consider the new restrictions any more in conformity with international trade pacts than the previous dairy curbs which had existed in the U.S. for the last two years.

NEW CURBS SEVERE

It said the new curbs were "severe" and were bound to raise "grave problems" not only for international trade but also for the whole structure of international co-operation.

On July 20 Canada lodged a new note with the American government, warning of possible "serious implications" if the U.S. imposes curbs against Canadian oats and ground fish fillets. This note was a little stiffer than the previous one but judging from the results of previous protests, the latest complaint may have little impact on American trade planning.

Of course, Canada and other countries affected could retaliate against the U.S. by imposing barriers against American goods. Canada has decided against this course. It might just lead to more American barriers and more international trade channel blocks, officials said.

But they're not ready to throw in the sponge, and some hefty verbal punching can be expected in Geneva.

Doctor 92 Delivers Own 11-Pound Son

CLINTON, Iowa (CP)—The wife of 92-year-old Dr. John D. Hullinger gave birth Sunday to an 11-pound boy at the family home here.

Dr. Hullinger announced that he had delivered the baby, born to his 32-year-old wife. He said the baby, the 3,178th he has delivered in his time, and the mother are doing nicely.

There was only a nurse in attendance. "I didn't need anyone else," Dr. Hullinger declared. "We were equal to the situation.

His young wife calls him "a perpital husband."

"I look upon my doctor as a young man—perhaps just one or two years older than I am," she says.

Police Maintain Grim Silence On Gaspe Case

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GASPE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police maintained a grim silence today as they intensified their efforts to solve the mystery of the wanton slaying of three Pennsylvania hunters in the bear-infested Gaspe wild lands.

They parried most questions with: "All information will be made public when the coroner's inquest is reopened"—sometime this week.

The deaths of the three men have been described officially as murder but beyond that point police have refused to go. The veil may be lifted when Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel of Montreal, medico-legal expert, testifies at the inquest.

Dr. Roussel last week identified one of the slain hunters as Eugene H. Lindsey, 45. During the weekend, he performed autopsies on two other skeletons found last Thursday in the Schickshock mountains, 65 miles west of here. He identified them as Richard Lindsey, 17, sone of Eugene, and Fred Claar, 20.

WON'T ELABORATE

Dr. Roussel himself would not elaborate. In Quebec, Solicitor-General Rivard was quoted as saying one of the hunters was shot.

He was apparently referring to a blood-stained sweater in which two holes—one in the front, the other in the back—indicated a bullet may have passed through the wearer's body.

The sweater, believed to be Richard Lindsey's, was found near one of the three bodies, all badly mauled by bears.

Another piece of evidence that may help explain the fate of the three hunters was a rifle identified as Eugene Lindsey's and found near his body. Blood stains and hair were found on the telescopic sight. But here again police had nothing to say.

Two rifles found near the youths' bodies were to be sent to Montreal for laboratory examination.

Meanwhile, relatives of the three hunters from Hollidaysburg, Pa., arrived here Sunday night for the inquest expected tonight or Tuesday.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD, the Jessie was brought out of retirement, powered by a five-horsepower outboard, decorated and piloted to Crowe's Landing Saturday to win the Crowe's Landing Regatta masquerade boat contest. The Jessie is shown, top, while a thrilling finish to the 10 years and under swim race is seen at bottom. G. Hartley looks enquiringly beside him to see just who did win it. He did, and L. Box, beside him, came in second.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Seaflea Overturns In Race At Crowe's Landing Regatta

A high-powered 'sea-flea' rounded the buoy on its last lap—swooped once—and slid under the surface of Stony Lake.

No one was hurt, but Bill Foote was just a little disappointed when his chances of placing in the race slipped from under him, just one of the many thrills that were afforded the spectators at this year's Crowe's Landing regatta.

A crowd of more than 400 people were on hand from noon until 6 p.m. witnessing every type of water sport in which competition is possible, and some of the competitors were true champions.

REGATTA CHAMPION

The regatta champion was a slim 12-year-old girl, Gail Wilkinson, who was faster in the water than any 16-year-old, boy or girl, present. She came up with four firsts and a second.

With a clear sky and twinkling waters the regatta was opened by three sailing events. First came the sail-tailored canoes, then dinghys and finally an open event. The sight of the winged vessels made up for any lack of wind. Outboard racing, swimming and canoeing followed and an entertainment break in the program was the introduction of the 'boat-masquerade'. A number of decorated 'floats' were displayed before the crowd—one motivated by nothing more than 'one lady-power,' at the end of a rope.

The masquerade was won by the crew of the 'Jessie.' This boat, owned by Monty Buck, is 80 years old and had been in dock for some 40 years. Its captain, Bunny Miles, and engineer, Andre Dorfman, together with a sizeable crew, made the old tub seaworthy, decorated it and won the contest. The silk hats and tails worn by the crew added to the clownish and novel effect. Another float, representing Peter Pan and company ran a close second.

WON SWIMMING

The last swimming event was a 200-yard stretch won by 'Ron Gillespie. The race was an open event, but only the boys were represented—and all were more than tired at the end. "It was the kick that won it Ron," said Bill Chapman, one of the judges and 12 year president of the Upper Stony Lake Association, which sponsored the regatta.

The day closed with a mile and a half canoe race won by Ken Reeves, who incidentally ran a close second for top honors, with four firsts.

In the evening prizes were presented by Bill Chapman at the old pavilion. Among the prizes given was a cup to Allen Parker, who although not in attendance at this year's regatta, had been champion for the previous six years.

Four radios were drawn for and the winners were: M. Ingleman, G. Parker, F. Ing and J. Conkle.

The day was ended with a dance at the Sunset pavilion.

Judges for the races were: G. Knox, B. Putman, V. Smith, A. McCormack, W. Mantell and W. Chapman.

Al Saunders was president of the committee.

Liberals Avoid Depression

NIPAWIN, Sask. (CP)—Justice minister Garson said Sunday night that because of its "bold" policy of lending impoverished overseas customers $1,500,000,000 with which to buy Canadian products, the Liberal government has avoided the "inevitable" depression the CCF had been talking about ever sinte the Second World War.

In an election campaign address here, Mr Garson said government policy from 1935 to the present had brought Canada from the depths of the great depression to a period of unprecedented prosperity and industrial expansion.

Fine Oshawa Men After Car Strikes Pole

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Patient detective work by Chief Charles Lockwood and PC Sam Baird resulted in apprehension of two men and clearing up a minor mystery on Saturday.

Early Saturday morning police received a call that a car had struck a pole at the corner of Garry and Richard Sts. about 6 a.m. When police arrived, no trace of the car could be found and details were meagre.

Late Saturday night, while inspecting cars parked at Edgewater Park dance pavilion, they discovered a car with the imprint of the pole plainly imbedded in the bumper and trunk. Damage to the car was estimated at about $50.

Police arrested the owner, Joseph Cullen of Oshawa. Cullen admitted ownership of beer found in the car and was charged with having beer in a place other than his residence. He was fined $12.50.

Police also discovered that a companion, Alexander Shields, 21, of Oshawa, was driving the car at the time it struck the pole.

Shields admitted striking the pole and was charged with leaving the scene of an accident. He paid a fine of $27.50, including costs.

Police then discovered that Shields was driving without a licence at the time, so he paid another $12.50.

The Public Utilities Commission will also have a claim. They had to replace the pole.

Campbellford Beauty Carnival Queen

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The local Rotary Club wound up its annual three-day carnival Saturday night with a draw for a television set and the crowning the "Queen of the Carnival."

Winner of the 21-inch television set was George Wallace, of Campbellford. Winner of the beauty contest was Sue Bradbury, of Campbellford. Barbara Bruce, last year's Miss Campbellford, came second in the contest, and Ruth McCann, of R.R. 1, Brighton, placed third.

President Bud Davidson presented the winners with their prizes and Miss Bradbury made the draw for the television set.

Winner of the soap box derby was David Lockwood, who scooted across the finish line ahead of several other youthful contestants. He was presented with a large trophy in recognition of his skill in making and driving his own soap box racer to win the derby.

The carnival was termed a great success. Just how much money was raised is not yet known. Proceeds will be used by Rotary for community service.

West-Lee Union Takes Place At Hastings

Hastings Presbyterian Church was scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon of Luella Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lee of R.R. 1, South Monaghan, to Archie West, son of Mr. and Mrs. William West of Hastings. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. E. Kennedy.

White gladiola and multi-colored sweet peas decorated the church. The wedding march was played by Miss Betty Dainard and during the signing of the register she played "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white georgette and nylon net and a three-quarter length veil of matching net caught to a tiara of tiny pearls. Her bouquet was of red sweetheart roses and white carnations. She was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Edith West, who was frocked in mauve taffeta and metallic lace and wore a wreath of mauve flowers and net in her hair. She carried a bouquet of yellow gladiolas.

The bride's brother, Mr. George Lee, was the groomsman and ushers were James West, brother of the groom, and Arnold Lee, uncle of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother received in a gown of grey nylon and wore a mauve straw hat and corsage of mauve 'mums. The groom's mother, was dressed in grey crepe and lace and wore a white straw hat and corsage of pink carnations.

For motoring east on their wedding trip the bride chose a navy dress and white accessories.

They will live in Hastings.

FIRST COUPLE MARRIED in the new St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church were Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. O'Brien. The bride is the former Miss Joan Walling of Peterborough and the groom is from Douro. —(Choate Studio Photo)

Joan Walling First Bride At St. John The Baptist

The first wedding to take place in the new St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church was that of Miss Joan Kathleen Walling to Mr. Francis Bernard O'Brien. The nuptial mass was said on Saturday morning at nine o'clock by the Rev. Dr. C. H. O'Donoghue, assistant to the rector, who also performed the double ring ceremony.

The music was played by Mr. Heribert Michel and he sang "Panis Angelicus", "On This Day" and "Ave Marria" during the service. Pink and white gladiolas were used in decorating the church.

A floor length gown with white nylon net skirt over satin and bodice and lily point sleeves of French lace trimmed with seed pearls was the bride's choice. Her lace-trimmed veil of tulle illusion caught to a pearl-studded tiara fell to floor length also and she carried a bouquet of red roses. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney N. Walling of Peterborough.

Given in Marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Carl Carveth, she was attended by her sister, Miss Lorraine Walling. A floor-length gown of yellow brocaded satin and net with matching bolero was worn by Miss Walling and her headdress was of yellow net and flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of lavender sweet peas and pink roses.

Mr. Martin O'Brien was his brother's groomsman and the ushers were David Martin, uncle of the bride, and Joseph O'Brien brother of the groom.

The reception was held at the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. O'Brien of Douro.

Mrs. Walling was receiving the guests, gowned in green figured silk and wearing a grey straw hat and corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. O'Brien, mother of the groom, was dressed in navy silk crepe and wore a hat of navy and pink lace and a corsage of pink roses.

When leaving afterward on the wedding trip to the Thousand Islands, the bride was wearing a deep rose linen dress with white accessories and pink and white roses were pinned on her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will live at 6 Bruce St. on return.

Fur-Trimmed Coats, Suits With Draped Fullness

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (Special to The Examiner)—Jacques Griffe shows deftness and dexterity in handling of cut in his new fall collection. The moyen age is his source of inspiration. An unbroken silhouette, flowing from neck line to hem, defines womanly curves.

Apart from daytime ensembles, there is emphasis on fur-trimmed coats and suits. Griffe picks mink, beaver, Persian lamb and other classics for town clothes, while less expensive pelts are shown for every day. Hemline interests make coat news. Coat collars show a special cut. Draped fullness will be seen in coats and dresses.

Griffe's favorite colors are St. Louis blue and stained-glass red, both used for day and evening. Wool brocade velvet tells his evening story. Many glamorous short evening dresses share honors with his classic chiffons.

Pierre Balmain plays up his "Jolie Madame," a long-legged lady with a champagne-glasis silhouette. Interest is concentrated on beauty of line. The designer's attention is focused on shoulders and bust line, with importance lent to sleeves through cut.

Without a hat, no costume for the coming winter is complete. Most inspiration has come from the Middle East, the Balkans, Turkey and Macedonia. Fez, Chechias and cone-shaped felts and velvets are young and flattering. Often they are worn tilted way back.

Simone Vernet shows a complete line of folding hats, with an eye on air travel. She takes us round the world, finding inspiration as she goes and expresses it in jersey. Disks, welts, head-hugging crowns and small brims tell the winter millinery story.

Simone Cange features two new lines in her winter hat collection. The first is the pillbox; the second, the turban. Head fittings are smaller, lending a youthful air. Interest is found in a variety of crowns, which are higher and often squared, in a pork-pie effect. There is front interest and a definite forward thrust to velvet caps. Spiky antenna, crab and lobster claws, seaweed effects in self-fabric or fruit trim in colors are her favorites.

Velvet is important. Brims are non-existent, but the edges of the hats are fluted or grooved to resemble a crown. Profile velvet toques show side welts. On some, leaves are laid one against the other, leaving the hair exposed between.

Turbans are felt, but a contrasting fabric is introduced for effect. Much black jersey is found in jaunty cloches, with importance found in the crown.

Besides cocktail interpretations, featuring classic crescents and profile hats, there are calots for theatre wear favoring cutout effects, arches, minoches and jester bells in velvet. Bias satin bands in white effectively show off the hair. French blue, red and peacock are evening shades. Armagnac, a cognac shade, and olive appear for daytime. Somber contrasts are garnet and bronze, or bronze and black. Floral motifs are seen in cut steel.

Cange continues her boutique pull-ons. Pyrenean wool is the new winter media. Jersey and kid are shown together. Flaps, buttoned sections and points are exploited. A two-pointed turban and pull-ons in fancy Rodier jersey provide a good selection for sports and travel for the budgeted woman. Prices in this department vary from about $3 to $7.

Bennett-Sweeting Wedding

At George St. United Church on Saturday afternoon, the marriage was solemnized by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, assistant minister, of Yvonne Margaret Hannah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer Sweeting, of Selwyn, to Robert James Arthur Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Britten Bennett, of Rockcroft.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was wearing a strapless gown of white satin with overskirt of nylon net, topped by a long lace coat which was finished with a high collar and lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was enhanced with a border of Chantilly lace and she was carrying a bouquet of red roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Darwin Kimble, sister of the groom, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Ivan Sweeting and Miss Donna Coons, with the bride's sister, Miss Sheila Sweeting, as flower girl.

The attendants' frocks were styled of nylon net with lace inserts, over taffeta, and they wore matching lace capes and lace gloves. The colors were mauve, green and yellow, and each wore a large picture hat of matching shade and carried a bouquet of gladiolas. The flower girl was dressed in pink net over taffeta and had a matching hat. She carried a nosegay of pink 'mums.

Groomsman was the bride's brother, Mr. Ivan Sweeting. The ushers were Darwin Kimble and Ellwood Sweeting, also a brother of the bride.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen, church organist, and Mrs. James Goldie was soloist. Before the bride entered she sang "O Perfect Love" and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years."

The reception following was in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room. The bride's mother received, wearing a dress of pale blue crepe trimmed with lace, a white straw hat and matching accessories, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother chose a navy crepe dress trimmed with white and she also wore a white straw hat and corsage of red roses.

Leaving later on a wedding trip to the United States, the bride wore a navy linen dress and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will live at 219 Lake St. on return.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Cookies Served With Bowls Of Raspberries, Blueberries

Wishing "we could breakfast on berries and dine on the fruit of the trees" comes closer to realization in the good old sumertime than at any other time of year.

But even when I serve big bowls of luscious raspberries or blueberries there is that ever-present nagging hunger "for a cookie with it Mum".

I suppose I'd moan if my family lost interest in eating (or my cooking)and I wouldn't work on new recipes for you and you wouldn't read this columnand I'd be fired and have to go to the poor house.

Goodness—where's the mixing bowl, where's the flour, where's the sifter. Light the oven. Get crackin' Mary.

Pan cookies are my dish because you can whomp them up so much faster, but I patiently made these drop cookies because they contain so many interesting ingredients.

FRUITY DROP COOKIES

Sift the flour, measure 2 cups, put it in the sifter and sift with 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt 3 times. Add ½ cup each cocoanut and chopped dates and ¼ cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans. Cream ½ cup shortening or mixed shortening and butter and gradually beat into it ½ cup sugar, and when they are light and creamy beat into them 1 egg, and ½ teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup thick orange marmalade. Beat in the sifted dry ingredients. Drop from a buttered teaspoon on buttered cookies sheets and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 18 minutes. These are rich and crisp and different, and they won't last long unless you are a better hider than I am.

Try finely chopped ginger instead of the nuts sometimes. Pete takes 6 in his lunch when thre's ginger in them.

MACAROON FAVORITES (egg whites)

Beat 2 eggs whites until very stiff, and gradually beat into them ½ cup each white and brown sugar. Sprinkle over them 1 tablespoon flour, 2 cups corn flakes, ½ cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup shredded cocoanut and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Fold these last ingredients in. Drop from a buttered teaspoon on to buttered cookie sheet. Bake 20 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. This is the easiest and pleasantest way to use up egg whites in households where a small baby is given only egg yolks and whites are always leftover. In place of 1 cup of corn flakes you can substitute ½ cup rolled oats, but this makes them rather chewy.

ICEBOX COOKIES

One cup finely chopped nuts, ½ cup butter or ¼ cup each butter and shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Cream the butter well, and gradually beat the sugar into it, then beat in the egg and vanilla. Sift the dry ingedients together, add the nuts to them and combine mixtures. Chill. Form into a 2-inch roll, and roll in waxed paper and chill for 3 or 4 hours. When hard, cut into slices ⅛ inch thick with a sharp knife. Bake on unbuttered cookie sheet about 10 or 12 minutes at 350 or 375 deg. Fahr. Watch these if you bake them at 375. If you let them cool on the cookie sheet they will be crisper. If desired you can substitute ½ cup chopped candied cherries for ½ cup of nuts.

ANSWER (to Marion B. cont'd. from Saturday): Pectin will help correct the fault you find with your jam—an excess of juice. Another thing that will reduce excess juice is to boil your jam for 5 minutes, then cover it and remove from heat and allow it to stand for 2 hours. This allows the juice to soak the fruit and oxygen in the fruit comes off in the foam. If you use pectin you add it after the soaking period and after you have boiled jam up again. I am sure you will not have excess juice to cope with if you try both of these suggestions. If you do not like the lemon flavor in your jams where it is called for leave it out. While it is not strictly for flavor if you use pectin crystals it will do no harm. To the 8 cups rhubarb and 1 can of crushed pineapple called for in your recipe use 1 box pectin crystals and 5 cups sugar, adding 1 of these cups of sugar to the raw rhubarb when it is cut up, and letting it stand for 15 minutes. I hope these suggestions help you correct your trouble with your jam. If not get in touch with me again.

STUDENT OF ROMANCE

Francisco Adolpho Coelho, a Portuguese philologist, is noted for his profound studies of the Romance languages.

DOROTHY DIX:

Took Her Marriage Lightly Thus Wed Wrong Man

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married four years ago at the age of 17 to a man eight years my senior. I knew I wasn't in love with him at the time, but I married to get away from a disagreeable home atmosphere. Although my husband is good in many ways, he pays very little attention to me. Ever since our marriage I've been falling in and out of love with other men, but now I know I have met the right one. Should I tell my husband?

HAZEL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Then what do you expect to do? Divorce your husband, marry the new crush (if he'll have you), and continue the merry-go-round? Rather a hopeless future, isn't it? Instead, why not settle down and act your age, which, while admittedly young, is old enough to insure some sense.

HER SENTIMENTAL SPREE

You married your husband to suit your own convenience; certainly you are morally bound to give him a happy home. That you are at last in love is a questionable assumption at best. Love comes and goes too easily for you; you have the word sadly confused with "infatuation" or "attraction". To you, falling in love is just one sentimental spree after another. Has it ever occurred ot you that a little loyalty, a little sacrifice are also involved?

What you need, young lady, is a return to the fundamentals of housewifery. You certainly can't be doing much of a job as a homemaker if you have so much time to fritter away on casual romances. You can scarcely expect your husband to give you much attention while your thoughts and affection are turned elsewhere.

You'll never get anywhere—except into trouble—via your present route so suppose you make up your mind to change it. Begin with a thorough housecleaning. Include your own soul in the general mopping up. Do a little sterilizing of your mind, too, tossing out all thoughts of the various men who have been cluttering it. Then begin to give your husband the attention and care he deserves and watch for the response.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a college student of 19 going with a very nice girl who likes me a lot. Unfortunately, I walk with a slight limp and consequently the girl's mother is dead set against me. She says I'm a cripple and will never be able to support her daughter. Also, she's afraid of what people will say if I go out with the girl. I think the mother is very narrow-minded, don't you?

MR. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your young lady's mother has a disability of the soul that's much worse than your slight physical handicap. Her mind goes back to medieval days when physical imperfections were considered disgraceful. Thank heaven we've come a long way since then. The lady should be reminded that a man, much more handicapped than you are, was elected President of the United States and remained in that office until his death, 12 years later. Delve a little into the history of our times yourself and see how many famous men and women have achieved success, though far from perfect physically.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem I know is shared by many young girls today. I'm 15, and my 18-year-old boy friend is in service. He'll be in for three years, and I want to know if I should wait for him, or is it all right to date other boys?

JOY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: At your age, you shouldn't be too serious over any one boy. Let your friend know that you like him, but that you think it's best to date other boys. Be frank about your dating; of course he has the same privilege, and time will tell whether he's the one for you or not.

Cool that HOT SUNBURN!

NOXZEMA gives fast, instant relief

Captain "Dutch" Hoffman, Wildwood Beach, N. J. says, "Noxzema quickly cools and soothes—even severe cases of sunburn."

● Don't fool around with unproved measures—get Noxzema—the only sunburn cream with these 3 big advantages. It cools—brings heavenly relief often in 3 seconds! It soothes—feels so wonderful on your hot parched skin. It's medicated—helps heal hot, dry sunburned skin. Get medicated Noxzema! 26¢, 65¢, 89¢, $1.69. At drug and cosmetic counters. Greaseless!

NEW! NOXZEMA in convenient tubes, only 65¢

HASTY ROAD WINS

CHICAGO (AP)—Unbeaten Hasty Road, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, streaked to a 2½-length victory Saturday in turfdom's richest race for two-year-olds, the $157,915 Arlington Futurity at Arlington Park. Trailing the dark bay colt son of Roman-Traffic Court was Greenacres Farm's Mr. Prosecutor. Third in the six-furlong race was Donnajack, owned by Mrs. S. L. Kopald of Memphis.

Buffalo Club Wins Third Henley Crown

By CRAIG SWAYZE

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—A 37-year-old veteran of 17 rowing campaigns led the Buffalo West Side Rowing Club to its third consecutive Royal Canadian Henley championship here Saturday.

Pint-sized Jimmy Hewson rowed three Buffalo fours to victory on the final afternoon of the four-day regatta in a surge which saw the West Siders cop six firsts, one second and two thirds for the Maple Leaf Trophy, emblematic of the Henley title.

Buffalo went into Saturday's 15 senior events deep in ninth place and came out on top with 229 points. The host St. Catharines Rowing Club, leaders Thursday and Friday, faded in the stretch to finish with 210 points for the runner-up spot. Hamilton Leanders were third with 130½. Hewson rowed in Buffalo's winning senior fours, senior 145-pound fours and senior 155-pound fours. His clubmates won victories in the senior 135-pound fours, senior 135-pound eights and senior 155-pound eights.

DROPPED FAVORITE

However, Buffalo dropped its favorite race, the senior heavy eights for the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy. A powerful Philadelphia Vesper Boat Club crew came through in that event, won by West Sides the previous seven years.

Jack Kelly, Jr., the former Diamond Sculls winner, stroked the big Vesper eight to a photo finish over St. Catharines and Leanders in that order.

Kelly also clicked in the championship singles with a seven-length edge on Bobby Williams of Hamilton Leanders. He appeared at ease in his win, but Williams led for more than half of the one-mile, 550-yard course.

Earlier, Kelly and Chuck McIlvane combined to win the senior doubles for Vespers in 6:58.4, knocking 14 seconds off the previous record, set in 1938 by Jack Sulger and Don Barrow of the New York AC. Eugene Loveless and Eddy Lynch of the NYAC finished second to Kelly and McIlvaine, pushing the Vesper entry all the way.

The veteran Joe Angyal of NYAC came up with victories in the senior 145-pound singles, the senior 145-pound quarter-mile dash and the senior 145-pound doubles. Terry Walsh sculled with him in the doubles.

Walsh and Angyal also broke a 1938 record in the double, knocking 10 seconds off the old Henley mark set by Ken Thornburn and Jack Flavelle of Toronto Argonauts.

Tom McCrees of the Philadelphia Penn AC took the open quarter-mile dash by less than a foot over McIlvaine with Angyal finishing third.

Detroit Rowing Club had an easy win in the senior 145-pound eights. They finished two lengths up on the Detroit Boat Club with St. Catharines fading in the stretch to allow Buffalo a third.

BOBET WINS CLASSIC

PARIS (CP)—Louis Bobet of France, 28-year-old former baker, won the 50th anniversary running of the classic Tour de France bicycle race Sunday. Jean Malliejac of France was second and Italy's Giancarlo Astrua third. Bobet covered the 2,795 miles in 129 hours, 23 minutes and 25 seconds.

POWERS CUT—Gen. Enver Hoxha, Red dictator of Albania, has reportedly been stripped of some of his powers. An official Albanian news broadcast disclosed that the move came at a joint session of the Balkan country's central party committees.

LESSON FROM MASTER — Ben Hogan had a whale of a time during exhibition at Fontainebleau, France, giving pointers to Sgt. Harry Tompkins of Royal Canadian Air Force and other servicemen.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

BC SWIMMERS TOPS

WINNIPEG (CP) — British Columbia swimmers, headed by the strong Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club, boasted 18 titles as the three-day 1953 annual Canadian swimming championships wound up Saturday night at Winnipeg's Sherbrook pool.

Only three records were broken during the meet, all on the last day, and none went to the VASC.

Montreal wound up with four swimming championships, Ontario three and Winnipeg two. The senior men's diving crown went to Bill Patrick of Calgary. Jacqueline LeBlanc of Toronto was the senior women's winner.

Sixteen-year-old Lenora Fisher of Ocean Falls, B. C., took the first heat of the 100-yard back stroke for senior women in one minute, 10 4-10 seconds—1 6-10 seconds better than her own previous record of one minute, 12 seconds, set in 1952. She lowered the mark to one minute 9 8-10 seconds in the final.

Montreal's Gladys Priestly set a record in the first heat of the junior women's 100-yard free style of one minute, 1 9-10 seconds. She also held the former record of one minute, 2 3-10 seconds in 1952. But in the final Miss Priestly bowed to Toronto's Virginia Grant in one minute two seconds, also better than the 1952 mark.

The Ontario senior women's relay team won the 200-yard free style event in one minute 57 5-10 seconds—3-10 of a second better than the mark set in 1936 by the Toronto Dolphinets. members of the squad were Joan Campbell of Fergus, Valerie Lewis of Toronto, Doreen Howatt of Fergus and Virginia Grant.

Miss Campbell won the second heat of the women's junior 100-yard free-style event in one minute, 7 7-10 seconds.

WEST INDIES BLANKED

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—The United States completed a sweep of its second round North American zone Davis Cup tennis play against the British West Indies Saturday when Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., and Bob Perry of Los Angeles won the final singles matches.

Bartzen defeated Ian MacDonald 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, and Perry downed Ron Cooper 6-2, 6-4.

Mexican Girl Picks Up 3 Women's Tennis Titles

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP) — Melita Ramirez, saucy-eyed Mexican girl who figured she didn't have a chance in the Canadian tennis championships, today went home loaded with booty.

The 22-year-old girl, undecided about entering until 48 hours before the competition started last Monday because she felt her game was "off," picked up three titles—women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles—just as she did in 1952.

Miss Ramirez led a four-man Mexican Davis Cup team to a sawoff with the Australians.

The nurses' school attendant retained her women's singles with an easy 6-1, 6-3 decision over 33-year-old Mrs. Thelma Long, Australia, and was a big factor in two other Mexican triumphs. She teamed with Mrs. Long to win the women's doubles 6-1, 6-2 over Mrs. Laura Lou Kunnan of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. Hilde Doleschell of Toronto, and then with fellow-countryman Francisco (Pancho) Contreras to win the mixed doubles 6-1, 6-2 over Mrs. Hannah Sladek, Montreal, and Paul Willey, Vancouver.

The Aussies, with southpaw Mervyn Rose of Davis Cup fame in the van, kept pace with victories in the men's singles and doubles.

Rose, sixth-ranking player in the world and No. 1 seeded here, lived up to advance notices with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 victory over second-seeded Rex Hartwig, also of Australia, and the Rose-Hartwig combination followed with a 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over George Worthington, Australia, and Tony Vincent, New York, in the doubles.

The large entry list of Canadians didn't have a chance and the Americans had to be content with championships in the veterans' singles and doubles open only to codgers of 45 or older. Phil Michlin of Rochester,, N.Y., won the singles title 7-5, 6-4 over Ben Freedhoff of Toronto and Jack Castle and Lou Schaffer, also of Rochester, took the doubles 6-1, 6-3 over Staff Beck Toronto, and Michlin.

Only one big upset came out of the proceedings, Lorne Main, formerly of Vancouver and now living in Toronto, went out in the third round of the men's singles by 7-5, 1-6, 6-3 scores to Mario Llamas of Mexico.

U.S. President Hails Truce With Prayer

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower hailed the Korean truce signing Sunday night with a prayer of thanksgiving but solemnly declared "we have won an armistice on a single battleground, not peace in the world."

"We may not relax our guard nor, cease our quest," he said in a United States country-wide television and radio address an hour after the truce was sealed at Panmunjom, ending the 37 months' war.

A few moments before he went on the air from the White House, the president with a happy smile on his face made a remark which undoubtedly was being echoed by hundreds of thousands of other parents all over the world.

"I'm glad this war is over," Eisenhower said quietly, "and I hope my son is coming home soon."

ON ACTION DUTY

His son, U.S. Army Maj. John Eisenhower, has been on active duty in Korea since last July. The only break in his service came when he travelled to Washington to attend his father's inauguration.

In his TV-radio address, the president started by saying:

"Tonight we greet, with prayers of thanksgiving, the official news that an armistice was signed almost an hour ago in Korea.

"And so at long last the carnage of war is to cease. . . ."

He went on to note that the political conference, the conference at which such delicate issues as unification of North and South Korea will come up, still is ahead.

Charge Stepfather

Late last January, a box of candy, wrapped in plain paper, arrived at the Bowmanville hospital for Miss Saunders. That night, as usual, she rode home to Tyrone in the school bus and while chatting with her fellow passengers she passed around the box of candy. Two middle-aged women and two young men—one of the latter a high school student—took a chocolate.

CHOSE SAFE CANDY

Luckily for them they chose the unpoisoned candy. Police said that eight of the chocolates "contained enough arsenic to kill any man."

At home, Miss Saunders told her mother of the anonymous gift and her mother noticed that some of the chocolates had been tampered with. She took them to Bowmanville provincial police and OPP Constable Don Erskine, now on the Peterborough police force, was put in charge of the investigation.

Anonymous letters were also received by Miss Saunders, the sender threatening "to get you." In one of the letters, an allusion was also made to the poisoned chocolates.

OPP Constable Erskine had the chocolates sent to the OPP crime detection laboratory in Toronto for analysis and later specimens of Cowling's handwriting were obtained unobtrusively.

Sunday he was arrested by OPP Constable A. S. Watson, of Bowmanville after six months of investigation.

Unveils Monument

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Juan Peron unveiled the model of a monument to his late wife, Eva It is designed to be one of the tallest structures of its kind in the world. The huge mausoleum, will rise 460 feet, taller than the pyramids or the statue of liberty in New York harbor.

CAMPAIGN GETS WARMER—Entering the final weeks of the federal election campaign, the campaigning and the weather both are getting warmer. Hon. George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, runs into hot 90-degree weather at Charlottetown, P.E.I. He removed his coat, his audience did likewise and the vote-getting went on.

Army Issues List Of 45 Names Reported Missing, War Prisoners

OTTAWA (CP)—The army today issued a list of 45 personnel it has reported missing or prisoner-of-war in Korea

In addition the air force has reported one missing.

Some hope, although slim in some cases, has been held that persons in the missing category might prove to have been captured. This dwindled today with reports from the Communists that they will return 14 Canadians they are holding as prisoners-of-war.

The army list, a roundup of names which have all been made public in previous casualty lists, included one officer and 26 men missing and one officer and 17 men prisoners-of-war.

Korean War Cost U.S. 22,000 Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—What did the Korean war cost the United States?

More than 22,000 dead on the battlefield, part of a 140,000 casualty total.

More than $15,000,000,000 to help pay for more than 1,125,000 tons of artillery ammunition; more than 1,800,000,000 bullets and grenades; 800 tanks and 40,000 trucks used up in battle; more than 2,000,000 shells for naval guns; hundreds of thousands of tons of bombs.

It triggered a general rearmament program for which the U.S. government has spent to date more than $11,000,000,000.

Agricultural Exposition

ROME (AP)—Italy opened a huge international agricultural exposition on the outskirts of Rome in buildings started by Benito Mussolini for a 1942 world's fair. The modern, marble buildings, covering hundreds of acres, were only recently finished.

Plan To Reclaim 70,000 Acres Of Arable Land

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — About 30 miles south of the Kirakud town of Sambalpur, on the fringe of a vast and rich forest reserve which abounds with tigers, elephants and other wild animals, officials and engineers of the Orissa state government now are doing the preliminary work for a great experiment in reclamation and rehabilitation.

It is planned ultimately to reclaim 70,000 acres of arable land on which to settle farm workers who will be displaced by the creation of a 25-square-mile reservoir at Harakud. To build the reservoir, 80 villages are to be submerged and 162 partially submerged.

The resettlement organization had as its objective the rehabilitation of every displaced family in agricultural occupation so that farm manpower may not be lost in this region where large-scale expansion of agriculture is an immediate prospect.

But since it is not possible for all the affected farmers to get suitable land in the irrigated areas, a reclamation organization has been set up to reclaim waste land and forest lands for cultivation.

Reclamation is being done on a planned basis. Blocks of about 1,000 acres are selected. Giant and tall trees are cut and removed. Undulating lands are levelled by bulldozers and plowed by tractors. Suitable irrigation facilities are provided by large inundated tanks which will trap rain waters and waters drained through streams from the surrounding hills. The lands are terraced and ridged.

So far 4,400 acres of ridged lands have thus been prepared. Irrigation sources have been completed which will command more than 5,000 acres. Ultimately it is expected that 60 per cent of the land reclaimed will be covered by suitable minor irrigation works.

May 28—More than 4,000 Chinese Reds hurled against South Koreans in central and eastern Korea.

May 23—South Korea boycotts truce talks.

May 31—South Korea vows it will fight on alone if terms leave country divided.

June 4—Red truce team at Panmunjom handed Allies reply to May 25 proposal. Allied sources said it virtually accepted May 25 plan for resolving last big issue on prisoners

June 5 — President Syngman Rhee, after talk with Gen. Clark, said South Korea had no other choice than to agree to new truce plan but foreign minister denounced it as dishonorable and cowardly.

June 8—Both sides signed an agreement guaranteeing voluntary repatriation for anti-Red prisoners.

June 15—Crushing attacks by up to 30,000 Reds rolled back South Koreans as much as two miles in east-central Korea.

June 18—President Rhee ordered release of anti-Red North Korean prisoners, total ultimately exceeding 27,000 began pouring out of stockades.

June 20—Reds angrily demanded return of the prisoners and threw truce talks into indefinite recess.

June 25—Rhee told 500,000 at rally on third anniversary of war that South Korea demands either changes in truce plan or freedom "to decide our own fate by our own hands."

June 26—Rhee opened conferences with Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's special truce envoy.

June 29—Gen. Clark sent Reds letter urging that truce parleys get going again and armistice be signed despite Rhee's opposition.

June 30—Sabres set air combat record by shooting down 15 MiGs without loss.

July 8—Reds replied to Clark that they were ready to talk again.

July 10—Truce delegates resumed secret parleys.

July 12—Robertson and Rhee announced a wide area of agreement. U.S. 7th division troops withdrew from Porkchop hill on western front after savage five-day battle.

July 13—up to 80,000 Chinese Reds opened an attack against South Koreans which ultimately drove South Koreans from 60 square miles in central Korea and flattened out the Allies' Kumsong river bulge.

July 16—Red truce delegates called parley recess for higher-up consultation after apparently getting word from General Clark either to sign an armistice soon or break off the talks.

July 19—Reds agree to begin preparations for signing of an armistice. South Koreans stopped retreating in Kumsong sector and began cautiously moving back.

July 22—Rhee said South Korea will feel free to act on its own if Chinese Red troops were not out of Korea six months after an armistice. His foreign minister, Pyun Yung Ta, said guarantees the UN command gave the Reds have "destroyed the basis for the Rhee-Robertson agreement."

July 23—North Korea's Pyongyang radio hinted that the armistice signing would go through soon despite Rhee's threats.

WHILE BILL FOOTE, of Toronto, took part in an outboard race at the Crowe's Landing regatta Saturday, his boat upset rounding the south buoy. Spectators and other racers hurried to his rescue to try to save the boat from a watery grave. Foote is seen above with just his head above water and the bow of the boat sticking out of the water. Rescue attempts succeeded and an hour later the boat was running again.

Korean War Brought Canada To National Preparedness

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—Korea's tragic war brought Canada a long way along the road to national preparedness by provoking an unmatched peacetime military program and by training thousands of men in battle and in operations. No international development short of general war since Confederation has equalled its impact on the Canadian military structure and concept and the national budget. But there will be nothing but relief in both military and civilian circles at a cease-fire which ends warfare which spilled more Canadian blood than the South African War.

There is no comparison between Canadian military strength and organized potential today and that of pre-Korea 1950. The armed forces, with 105,000 men, are more than 120 per cent larger but their hitting strength has increased in far-sharper ratio.

ARMY JUMPS

The army, for instance, jumped from six combat units to four times that number and now has roughly enough units to provide a big part of two divisions. Enough men for more than an 18,000-man division got frontline training in Korea.

The air force has increased its hitting power even more sharply. The navy has had all its eight commissioned destroyers in Korean waters at one time or another and has trained 3,500 men there, some in two or even three tours of duty.

Annual military spending has soared about four times. Military production lines have been tooled up in a wide variety of fields. Hundreds of millions of dollars worth of mobilization stores have been laid away.

BATTLE LOSSES

Over those developments loom the battle losses. Korea took at least 296 Canadian lives and possibly another 26, the total of missing men. The army's 25th brigade—actually a series of three brigades all using the same number 25 as they succeed one another—suffered by far the most Canadian casualties, 1,499.

This included 291 dead, 1,069 wounded, 26 missing, 95 injured in action and 18 prisoners of war. The navy suffered three dead and three injured in action plus two sailors lost overboard. The air force has one officer missing.

By comparison, the South African War between 1899 and 1902 took 224 Canadian lives through action or disease out of the 7,368 who went there. In the First World War, 60,000 Canadians were killed. In the Second World War, 42,000 were killed.

Canada's Korean casualties compared with 135,362 for the U. S. forces, of whom 21,631 were killed, and are part of a total of 270,413 casualties among United Nations powers other than the U. S. Total Communist casualties are estimated at 1,897,000.

MANPOWER CONTRIBUTION

Canada's manpower contribution in the Far East totalled more than 8,000 at any given time and probably more than three times that during the period of the war. Trygve Lie, former UN secretary-general, once called Canada's representation second, in ratio to population, to that of the U. S. among powers sending troops into Korea. Largest forces on the UN side, however, came from South Korea itself.

In the first six months three destroyers represented Canada. This was increased until, in addition to the three destroyers, there was the 25th brigade's roughly 7,000 men and immediate reinforcements, and RCAF transport squadron flying the trans-Pacific airlift and up to half-a-dozen fighter pilots flying with USAF squadrons in in which they shot down at least eight Communist planes.

The army sent 2nd, 1st and 3rd battalions, in that order, of its three permanent force infantry regiments to Korea and backed them with similarly-rotating units of artillery, tanks, engineers and other supporting arms. A fourth brigade now is in training at Wainwright, Alta., for the next round of rotation, if necessary.

NAVY'S DUTIES

The navy's eight destroyers steamed 600,000 nautical miles on behalf of the UN and fired 120,000 rounds of ammunition. The Crusader became the leading trainbuster in the UN fleet with a record of 4½ trains stopped. The Haida had three.

The Athabaskan, in three tours, put in 29 months in Korean waters.

The air force's No. 426 transport squadron did 493 round trips between North America and Japan without a serious accident. Its North Stars carried 11,266 passengers, 4,064,000 pounds of freight and 1,678,000 pounds of mail and logged 4,930,000 statute miles.

When cease-fire came, the men doing the flying were mostly post-1948 graduates of RCAF schools. The wartime fliers had finished their tours and gone on to other duties.

Diplomats Begin Battle For Korea, As Firing Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats took over the battle for Korea today, and with the lifting of the pressures of open war, a new set of problems and dangers arose to plague Allied and Communist governments alike.

Foremost among these on the Allied side is the threat of an eventual angry struggle between the United States and Britain over admission of Red China to the United Nations.

As for the Communists, there is speculation already about the impact of the armistice on relations among Russia, Red China and North Korea—a situation about which Western governments know little but hope for much.

It is too early to tell yet whether the uneasy truce that settled over Korea means the beginning of a new and more peaceful era in the world-wide conflict between the Communist and free nations. But officials here have no doubt that it poses many problems which were beyond action while the fighting raged.

The first arena of the diplomatic struggle over these problems is due to be the United Nations general assembly, at a special session in New York next month. The assembly's primary task will be to set the stage for a political conference on Korean issues. That conference, under the truce terms, must convene by late October.

In these sessions the major objective of the United States, and presumably of other friendly nations, will be to seek the Korean unification which both sides failed to win in the war.

The Western Allies conceive of this as unification under a non-Communist government. That means they want the Reds to give up North Korea, and it raises the critical question: If the Reds are willing to consider this at all, what price will they ask?

Authoritics here do not know the answer, but they have an idea that what the Reds may ask is a seat for Red China in the United Nations, displacing Nationalist China; an end to trade embargoes against Red China, and satisfaction of Red China's claims on Formosa.

This prospect effectively kills off any optimism in official quarters about the chances of early unification of Korea. For while British officials have seemed to favor a UN seat for Red China once the Korean fighting ended, there is such overwhelming opposition to it in the U.S. Congress that the Eisenhower administration appears to have no choice but to fight any deal along that line.

The issue of Formosa is an even more bitter one for the United States, which recognizes the Chinese Nationalist government established there and also considers that Formosa in hostile hands would be a threat to the U.S. defence system in the western Pacific.

The U.S., Britain and France agreed early this month that they would maintain their policies of barring Red China from the UN and embargoing strategic materials to that country, pending further consultations.

But since Britain recognizes Red China instead of the Nationalist government and since there have been pressures in Parliament for a Red China seat in the UN, it seems unlikely that British authorities can long delay a demand for consultation on the UN and trade issues, now that the truce is a fact.

France's position is dominated by the fact that French and native forces are battling in Indo-China Communist armies that have Red Chinese support. The French are weary of that long and costly war. Foreign Minister Goerges Bidault told State Secretary John Foster Dulles here two weeks ago that an armistice in Korea would intensify French public demand for peace in Indo-China.

In the strictly-limited Korean truce there is, of course, no hint whatever that peace will spread. The United States, Britain and France, in fact, have recognized two alternative dangers in the armistice:

One is that the Reds may build up new power in North Korea—especially forward airfields — resume the war, hoping that the United States and the 16 other United Nations with forces there will not make, a second time, the powerful military effort with which they responded to the first agression more than three years ago. Against this possibility the three Western Powers served notice that if the armistice is violated, they will go to war again.

The second danger foreseen when Dulles, Bidault and the British acting foreign minister, the Marquess of Salisbury, met here two weeks ago was that the Red Chinese, having secured their flank in Korea, would divert their major forces to Indo-China in a ruthless bid for control of Southeast Asia. The Reds were told this would be considered a violation of the spirit of the Korean truce.

Walks To Death

DETROIT (AP) — Fully-clothed and drinking a can of beer, Wisdom E. Phillips, 41, walked into nearby Edison lake, he disappeared, a companion said, still drinking from the can of beer. Sheriff's deputies found his body just beyond a drop off, 25 feet from shore.

Hysterectomy:
medical necessity or surgical racket?

Each year, more and more women, still in the prime of life are submitting to surgery that destroys their ability to bear children.

In August Reader's Digest, Lois Mattox Miller tells how, in too many cases, post-operative diagnosis proves this drastic feminine surgery to be unnecessary — tells why such surgical faddism exists — what can be done to stop it.

Fighting Fires From Air Demonstrated

BANCROFT (ENS). — Perfect weather favored the Bancroft Lions on the occasion of their annual regatta held on Baptiste Lake on Wednesday afternoon and several hundred lined the south shore of the lake to enjoy a lengthy and varied program.

A special event staged by the Department of Lands and Forests demonstrated the fighting of bush fires from the air. A burning float was attacked by fire-extinguishing bombs dropped from a plane and hoses, water containers and other equipment was parachuted down for the use of supposed firefighters on the ground.

The calm surface of the lake was ideal for power boat racing and nippy little sea fleas were able to work up a thrilling turn of speed on the rectangular course.

A race for inboard power boats of 225 class was won by "Miss Madoc" piloted by Ed. Pine.

Results in swimming races were as follows:

Boys under 12 years—1, Bill Warned; 2, Lorne Ray.

Boys under 15 years—1, Jack Watson; 2, Gordon Ray.

Boys' ½ mile open—1, Milton Tranter; 2, Jack Stackhouse.

Girls under 12 years—1, Marion Sankey; 2, Wendy Norse.

Girls under 15 years—1, Ginger Sankey; 2, Audrey Leedy.

Girls' ¼ mile open—1, Marlene LaBarge; 2, Ginger Sankey.

Local champion Harold Watson won the canoe race; his son Jack coming second, with John Hunter a close third.

Plane rides were a big attraction as usual and two machines were kept busy giving sightseers a view of the sorrounding country.

Bingo, pop, hot dogs and ice cream booths were well patronized, the latter particularly well since the temperature remained in the 80's the whole afternoon

A regatta dance held in Bancroft in the evening filled the community hall to capacity and at midnight a ticket drawn from a rotating drum on the stage decided the winner of a Lakefield boat and Johnson 7½ h.p. motor valued at $600. J. R. Campbell of 1207 River Road, Niagara Falls, was the winner. The regatta constitutes one of the major money-making projects of the Bancroft Lions and all proceeds go to local welfare work.

Ousted Agent Forms New Union

MONTREAL (CP) — Neil MacDonald, ousted business agent of the Montreal local, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC), announced Sunday formation of a new union and appealed to Quebec and Ontario transport drivers to free themselves from "American domination."

The appeal was made in a letter to all Quebec and Ontario locals of the Brotherhood, asking them to leave the international body and join the Quebec Transport Drivers Union.

Fire At Factory

KITCHENER (CP) — Lightning set fire to the Zettel Manufacturing Company machine shop Sunday night. Loss was estimated at $4,000. Firemen confined the fire to the office and an adjoining section of the plant.

MOWING 'EM DOWN—Keeping weeds and water plants down to a minimum in canal-dotted Holland is solved by this floating contraption. The boat has two knives, one on the keel and the other at the stern, both driven by a motor. As the boat moves along the weeds are mowed down.

Allows Strikers To See Books

KITCHENER (CP)—Roy Bauer, general manager of Canada Skate Manufacturing Company, Ltd., said Saturday he is willing to allow striking employees to go through his books to discover why their wage and other demands cannot be met.

His offer came after an unsuccessful attempt to settle the strike, now in its 10th week, as union and company officials met with a government conciliation officer.

Mr. Bauer said four or five "responsible employees" may select a chartered accountant to go through the books. But he imposed one condition.

"The findings must be disclosed in their entirety to the striking employees," he said.

The company employs 70 persons. They are members of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

New Soil Conditioners Proven Successful

LEAMINGTON (CP)—Members of the federal agricultural experimental substation at nearby Woodslea, who have been experimenting with krillium and similar new soil conditioners for the last two years, said during the week-end the compounds could be useful in Essex county if they could be produced cheaply.

After testing the compounds with brookstone clay soil which covers about 60 per cent of the county, they predicted cautiously that it "looks" as though "this really is something."

Bandit Gets $1,200 From Store Owner

WINDSOR (CP)—An armed bandit Saturday night held up Frank Farkas, proprietor of a supermarket in nearby Riverside, and escaped with $1,200 after threatening the man and his family.

Mr. Farkas told police the man appeared from a nearby shed as he, his wife and daughter entered their living quarters at the rear of the store.

The bandit warned the family not to call the police or he would "come back and shoot you all," Mr. Farkas added.

13 Non-Striking Miners Remain In Mine Shaft

TIMMINS (CP)—Thirteen of 25 non-striking miners who Thursday eluded angry strikers by fleeing down a mine shaft at the Broulan Reef gold mines near here remained in the shaft Saturday night.

Ten of the men were driven out by the invading strikers and two walked out Saturday under a heavy provincial police escort. No attempt was made to molest them. The union has invited the remaining non-strikers in the shaft to come out, saying that no reprisals will be made against them.

Meanwhile, two former non-strikers applied to the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) local for strike pay and picket duty.

Union officials also disclosed that a donation of $1,000 was sent here by the Steelworkers' local at Matheson, some 40 miles east of Timmins.

The Broulan strike began two weeks ago over a wage dispute.

Provincial police said they have gathered sufficient evidence to lay charges against 20 men in connection with the pitched battle at the Broulan Reef mine Friday morning.

FREE PARKING—This parking meter, in La Crosse, Wis., was a handy parking place for scores of winged nuisances from among the millions that invaded the town. Variously called May flies, June bugs, Canadian soldiers and barge flies, each summer they swarm into nearby cities from their river breeding grounds.

Union Congress Committed To Fight Bevan

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS
(Special to the Examiner)

LONDON—The Trades Union Congress, the policy - making executive of Great Britain's 8,000,000 organized workers, has committed itself to fight Aneurin Bevan and his ambition to succeed former prime minister Clement R. Attlee as leader of the Labor party.

The general council of the TUC unanimously adopted this week a go-slow attitude on the question of further nationalization of industry should the Labor party return to power, and thus irrevocably took a position contrary to that of Mr. Bevan, the opposition party's most outspoken critic of American policies.

Against the demand of the so-called "Marxist" Bevanites for sweeping Socialization of British production machinery, the TUC now has formally thrown its weight behind a cautious line of action. Its new policy calls for careful examination of all problems before state ownership and management are extended.

A struggle for party leadership is thus inevitable at the 52nd annual Labor Congress at Margate September 28. The conflict will array major trade unions, like the mineworkers, transport and general workers, and municipal employees, against Mr. Bevan and his control or constituency party organizations.

Request Action On Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.-Minn.) asked the Republican policy committee Saturday to make St. Lawrence Seaway project "must legislation" in this session of the U.S. Congress

Humphrey in a letter addressed to acting majority leader William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.), wrote:

"There can no longer be any doubt as to the administration's favorable views on this long-deferred yet long-needed project. Both the national security council and President Eisenhower's cabinet have expressed their unqualified support of the project as now presented to Congress. . ."

The Republican policy committee recently indicated that the seaway legislation, by which the U.S. would join Canada in building the giant navigational project to give deep-sea shipping access to the Great Lakes, would not be proceeded with at this session of Congress.

Advertising Managers Discuss Problems

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Two days of discussion on current newspaper trends and problems were completed at Jasper Park Lodge Saturday by members of the Western Daily Newspaper Advertising Managers' Association attending a 1953 annual convention.

John Toogood of the Vancouver Sun was elected president of the association for the coming year. He succeeds Leonard Roper of the Calgary Herald, who presided at this year's meeting.
